The Book of Enoch
revealed to Dr. John Dee.
by the Angels.

Liber Mysteriorum, Sextus

2.

This writing beginning (not at Ferny bakyncell) at Oxar parmos &c is the 2d Page of the first Leaf of the famous Book shewn in the stone; wch consisted of 49 Lines or Rows, & every Row of 49 words or Letters. The first 40 of this Page have a word in every little square, wch could not well be contained in the little Cells of a square made in this Book. Therefore they are writ thus at large as you see.

But the 9 last Rows of this Page had but one Letter a piece, & are accordingly set down at the end hereof. pag. 5.

All the other Leaves of that Book had but a single Letter in each little square. & So they are set down, as hereafter follows in this Book. Vide A.S. MS. pag. 142. 143. &c.

The first Page of that first Leaf is not (as ~~[illegible]~~ it ought to be) transcribed here before this 2d Page, save only the extant 49 Rows beginning (Ferny Vahired) But they may be seen (if thought fit) copied out thence in A.S. MS. p. 150. 151 &c.

13 + Of extraordynary experimentes, and howe they are prepared.

Orysons to be sayde, when you conjure.

Lord Jesus Christ the lyvynge Sonne of god, wch doth illuminate the hartes of all men in the worlde; lighten the darknes of my harte, and kyndle the fyre of thy most holy love wthin me, geve me true faythe, perfect charytye and vertue, wherby I may learne to feare and love the and kepe thy commaundementes in all thinges: that when the last daye shall come, the Angell of god may peaceably take me, and delyver me from the powre of the devill, that I may enjoy everlastinge rest amonge the company of the holy Sayntes, and syt one thy right hande. Graunte this thou sonne of the lyvinge god for thy holy names sake. Amen.

A Confession to be sayde before thou worke.

I confesse to the lord god the father of heaven and earthe, and to the good and most benynge Jhesu Christe, togyther wth the holy ghoste, before thy holy Angells, and before the true maiestye of thy trone, that I was conceyued in synne, and from my baptisme contynued therin, I confesse furthermore that I have synned in pryde, in anger, in glotonye, and in [illegible], mans fraylty, many synnes, I have synned; Therfore I pray you all the Sayntes, in whose syghte all these thinges I have confessed that you witnes wth me in the day of iudgemente, against the devyll, and so I beinge cleane and confessed of all my synnes, lett me appeare before the (o most hyghe) righteous, and graunt the grace by thy ineffable clemencye, that I may se and knowe all the thynges wch I woulde have, and accomplishe my wyll and desyre. Amen.

Lord god almighty father wch dydst make all thinges, wch knowest all thinges, for nothinge is hyd or impossible to thee, geve me grace to knowe and understande the vertue of all [illegible] wch are [illegible] by thy most holy mercy and pytye, by that thy ineffable, [illegible] and dreadfull name Hyach, by the wch all the worlde [illegible] and by whose feare, all creatures doe obeye, graunt me also that the secretts of these secretts of all the spyrites may be opened before me, gently obeyinge me, and my commaundementes, through thy most holy Adonay, whose kyngdome endureth for ever. Amen.

When these are done lett the [illegible] and putt before him [illegible] layde after the fashion of a crosse, [illegible] pentacle, and let one of his companions allwaies holde the [illegible] before them, and lett him loke into the ayre, unto the 4 partes of the worlde, [illegible] kneelynge uppon the [illegible], lett him saye as followeth.

O Lord my god, be thou to me a towre of defence, against the face of all euyll spyrites. Afterwarde lett him turne himself [illegible] first to the Easte, next unto the Southe, then unto the weaste and [illegible] in every parte saye; [illegible] and [illegible] of that [illegible] by whome you are [illegible] the most secrett of all others [illegible]

Straight way after [illegible] to [illegible] these [illegible] that doth [illegible] thou [illegible] they wyll appeare [illegible] and [illegible] that yf they weare bound in you, they wyll come, or sende a messynger &.

I Comure you such Sprittes naminge them, by the father, the son and the holy ghoste, and by hym wch shall come to iudge the worlde both the quicke and deade, by fyer; and by the natyuyty and baptisme by the deathe and rysinge agayne of Christe, by the cominge of the holy ghoste or comforter, by holy Mary, the mother of or Lord Jhesus Christe, by hir virgynitye, by the gyftes of the holy ghoste, by ye natiuyty of St John Baptiste; I Coniure you by the 20. you, by wonderfull Beel[illegible]

Almighty, I coniure you, and wth power commaunde you, by him wch spake it, and yt is holy, and by all his names, in the name Adonay, Eloe, Elion, Sabaoth, Saday, Also, I commaunde you by this booke and by all the powers therof, that you come to us, not deformed, but in a very faire shape; We coniure you wth power, by the name Yy, and Vy, wch Adam harde and spake; or by the name Hyn, wch Noe harde, and spoke wth theight family after the flodde: And by the name Y. et N. et E. wch Abraham harde, and knewe allmighty god: And by the name Joth, wch Jacob harde, of the Aungell speakinge wth him, and was delivered from the hande of his brother Esau; And by the name, Hely, Ane, Hexe, wch Moyses harde, in the hill of god, Horeb: and obteyned to speake wth god, and heard god him selfe speake in a flame of fyer: And by the name Elaye wch Moyses named, and all the dust of the earthe was striken, and knatts weare made amongst the men, the oxen, and cattell of the Egyptians; wch dyd destroy them and theire corne: And by the name Arphicerie wch Moyses named and strake all kynde of flyes into Egypt, to destroy theire fruyts. And in the name, Phaicon, wch Moyses named, and there was made darknes 3. daies and 3. nyghtes, in Egypt and all weare almost deade for feare: And by the name Arymon, and in the name Arymon, wch Moyses named at mydnight, and all the first borne in Aegipte dyed: And by the name Gemaron, and in the name Gemaron, wch Moyses named, and the redd sea was devyded, and he delivered the children of Israel, out of captyvity: And by the name Symagogion wch Elias named, and the heaven dyd give rayne, and the earthe brought forth fruite: And by the name Athanatos, wch Jeremias named before the captivity of Jerusalem: And by the name, [illegible], wch Danyel named, And by that destroyed Bel, and slewe the Dragon, And by the name Emanuel, wch the 3. children Sydrac, Mydrac, & Abednago, songe in the whott oven of fyer, and weare not hurte; By these names and by all other names of thalmighty, only, and true god, by whom you weare throwne downe, out of the hyghe throne into the place of banishmente; We coniure you, and commaund you, by him wch [illegible] done; to whome all creatures doe obaye, And by the [illegible] judgementes of heaven; And by the greate providence of almighty god; and by the seale of kynge Solomon wch he received of thalmightye; Come therfore presently before us, to fulfill our desier: I coniure you by that most holy name Joth: Hebay; wch was wrytten in Hebrewe letteres, and by the holy name, [illegible], wch Moyses named, and the bottome of hell swallowed up, Dathon, and Abyran; unles you doe all our commaundementes, we curse you by the vertue of that same name [illegible], into the bottome of hell, and we will send [illegible] you wyll rebell against us; and wthstand these our holy wordes. So be yt, So be yt, So be yt. Amen.

Yf as yet they doe not appeare, lett the coniurer make the signe of the ✠. uppon his forehed, and saye.

Agayne, I coniure you, you Spyrittes, in what place soever you bee, that you come to see these consecrated signes and names of the most mighty Tryumpher, and we charge you by his [illegible] to obaye us, And by him we wyll compell you, against your wyll, for all thinges be true, wch have proceaded out of this worlde: And there shall proceade fier, wch shall burne you continually; And they be the wordes, by the wch all the worlde doth tremble, Stones are rowled backe, the water doth not flowe, nor the fire burne.

Then yf they weare tyed wth chaynes of yron, they wyll streight waies come, or elles sende there messyngers; yf they doe not, then lett the mr crye strongly, and comfort his fellowes, and turninge him selfe into the 4. partes of the world, lett him beate the ayer, afterwarde lett him kneele towarde the Easte, and his fellowes wth him, and saye wth an humble voyce.

Where bee you Spyrittes wch were ones, Aungelles of the 9. orders, come and see the heavenly signes, and the ineffable names of the creator, and the names of the Aungelles, whose fellowes you weare once, we coniure you againe and againe, and commaund you by the triumphant mighty, and stronge name of god, HEL, wch is wonderfull, glorified, and vertuous, and terrible; We coniure you and commaund you, that wthout any delay, and wthout all deformity you come and appeare before us.

Yf yet they be disobedient and wyll not come, then lett the mr [illegible] wth the [illegible] all his circles, and make a crosse in the ayer wth the aforesayde knyfe, and makynge a blessinge in the 4. partes of the world, let him kneele towarde the [illegible] and say.

Agayne In the name of Adonay, Eloym, Sabaoth, Saday, wch [illegible] lord god, highe god, and allmighty kynge, we desier thee that [illegible] may bringe to passe our desyer, and that we may prosper in all the workes of our handes: And the lord in this power, and in all the rest, be in our mouthe, and our harte.

Afterwarde let him ariste, stretchinge his armes as though he would embrace the ayer, and say.

Agayne we coniure you, and [illegible] you, [illegible] expressed, by whose vertue and power [illegible] thinges are made in [illegible] their creator, and [illegible] Dexiton, Adryeon, [illegible], Gyarilon, [illegible]

Cheamagi, Rechnaya, Eabmegia, Aderyan, Malchia, Mana Gand, Roachia, Laba, Cosia, Boalja, Dorema, Canco, Galgala, Bache, Baya, Amamia, Cathia, Bachnaya, Geredia, Nyera, Renthohahia, Arathana, Redosta, Calchid, Semeforab, Anare, Necon, Joosar, by the vertue of theſe we exorciſe and coniure you, and by the moſt bleſſed god, and by the ſupreme, and everlaſtynge glorie; And by the holy name of the holy faythe, Adonay, Eloe, wch is to ſay, lord god of Sabaothe; ffurdermore, we coniure you and we bynde you, by the ſeale of the ſonn, the mone, and the ſtarres, and knowe that unleſſe you come withoute any decearninge you ſhall haue not reſt by day, nor by nyght, wheresoeuer you bee: And you ſhalbe condemned into the flame of fier, and of ſulphur; we wyll burne you and yor figures for euer and euer; Alſo that you departe not, tyll you ſhalbe lycenſed; ffurdermore, we coniure you, by this name Bel, and in this name Ja, Ja, Ja, wch is god; and in this name, Vau, Vau, Vau, wch is, J am that J am; ffynally, we coniure you, by all the dyuyne power of god, that you preſently come before vs in comely wyſe.

When this is done you ſhall ſee them come, and there lordes as greate men ar wonte, and when they ſhall ſee the mr, they wyll obay hym in all poyntes.

Afterwarde, when thou haſt done all thou wylte, commaund euery one to returne peaceably into his place, And ſaye: Peace bee betwene you and me. After this let the coniurer ſay St Johns Goſpell, and the 12. Artycles of the Crede, and go out of the cyrcle, and let them waſh there faces wth holy water.

Obſtinate there that no ſpyryt dare tarry away, And yf ſome chaunce to tarry, write there names in paper, and couer yt wth mudde, and kyndle a new fyer, and putt brymſtone uppon yt, and ſay as followethe. J coniure the fyer, by hym, of whome all the world is ſubiected, that thou burne theſe ſpyryttes, after that ſorte that they may fele yt effectually; Then caſte the paper into the fyer and ſaye: Curſed and blaſphemed be you for euer, becauſe there be not reſt to you any houre, any day, or any nyght, becauſe you haue not obayed the wordes, wch were ſpoken of the myghty maker of all thynges, wch names ar theſe: Ameteneton, Jo, Ahac, Pater, Semiphoras, Alleluia, Aleph, Beth, Gymel, Daleth, He, Zayn, Cheth, Teth, Jod, Caph, Lamed, Mem, Samech, Ain, Pe, Tsade, Coph, Resh, Tau, we curſe you and depriue you of all yor power, and ſtrength, by the vertue of theſe names, ſendinge you to be burned euerlaſtyngly in fyer and brymſtone worlde withoute ende. Wch done they wyll [illegible] againe and make a fumigacion over the [illegible] and aſke what thou wylte, & thou ſhalt [illegible] before is ſayde. Jn this [illegible]

Jn this office thou mayſt conſecrate a booke, or any other thynge that thou wylte.

Here followeth, howe and after what ſorte, Pentacles muſt be made; wherein all the ſcience of the kay of knowledge dependethe. Cap. 4.

This Pentacle muſt be made on the day of Mercury, and in his houre, the mone beynge in ayery ſygne, and in the increaſe of the mone. To make this thou muſt haue an howſe or chamber, where there dwelleth no boddy but thy ſelfe; this howſe or chamber thou ſhalt pfume, as ſhalbe appoynted in the chapitre of pfumes and odoures; And ſprinkle yt wth holy water as ſhalbe preſcrybed in that chapitre; loke alſo that the wether be faire, and the ayer cleare; and that thou haue ſufficient virgyn parchmente. This beynge in redynes begin to write thy pentacle in the aboue named houre, in a very faire colour beynge coniured as ſhalbe ſayde in the chapitre of penn and ynke; And wth that ſame penn beynge coniured make an ende of yor wrytinge the ſame houre; let the reſt bee fynniſhed when yt maye. Afterward take a fine clothe of ſylke, as ſhalbe ſhewed in there chapteres, wherin you ſhall fould the pentacles; you muſt haue alſo an earthen pann full of coles and frankynſence of the male kynde, mingled wth the wodd Olyues conſecrated as ſhalbe ſayd in the chapteres of pfumes: be thou alſo cleane as ſhalbe ſayde in that chapter. ffurdermore you muſt haue a knyfe ready in gootes blode, wch was made on the day of Mercury, in the increaſe of the mone; whervppon haue bene ſayde 3. maſſes wth there goſpelles, and ſmoked wth the aforeſayd pfumes; wch wth knyfe you muſt aſperge as appeareth in the chapter of yſope and water. All this beynge ready drawe a cyrcle wth this knyfe before the pott of coales, and ouer this pott and the cyrcle hold the pentacles, and pfume them, and ſay devoutly theis pſalmes followynge: Domine Deus meus in te ſperaui, Celi enarrant, Dominus illuminatio mea, Deus Deus meus reſpice in me, Beati quorum remiſſe ſunt iniquitates, Miſerere mei Deus, Afferte Domino, Deus iudicium tuum, Ecce nunc benedicite Dominum, Deus in nomine tuo. wch ſayde, ſay this praier followinge.

O moſt holy Adonay, and moſt myghty, wch art, α, et ω, wch madeſt all thynges wth greate wyſdome, wch dyddeſt cheaſe Abram, to be thy fyrſt faythfull ſeruaunte, and dyddeſt multyply his name aboue the ſterres of heauen; wch alſo dyddeſt appeare to Moyſes thy ſeruaunte lyke a flame of fier in the myddeſt of the buſh and dyddeſt reueale thy holy name Eheaſereyhe unto hym, wch madeſt the people goe ouer ſea dry foote, [illegible] to Salomon kynge Dauyds ſonn, wyſdome and knowledge aboue all other and dyddeſt vouchſafe to reueale theis [illegible] pentacles unto [illegible] [illegible] beseche the, that in thy vertue they may be consecrated and [illegible]ed as they ought to bee, let them obtayne the vertue, wch they ought to [illegible] by the most holy Adonay, whose kyngdom endureth world wthout ende, Amen. H Say this 3 daies contynuynge, After cause 3 masses to be sayde over the Pentacles, 2 whereof beinge of the holy ghoste, and the 3 of our ladie, wch done lay them upp in sylke, as before is sayde.

Here followeth the way to worke, wch is the cheyfest chapiter of all. ss.

Cap. 5e.

Before you begynn ye worke you must have a knyfe made as ys before sayde, wherewth the handle of the sprinkle must bee cutt; after this you must observe, that you have a daye and howre mete for your worke; Also the pentacles must be made as is aforesayde; and in the mydst of them, let there bee made the maiesty of god, wth his Angells, even as he shall in the last daye iudge the worlde; and about his maiesty write his wonderfull names, and the names of his Angells: Let the rest of the pentacles bee ordered, as ys appoynted in the former chapter: And whensoever thou intendest to worke, have these pentacles about the: In this chapter all this science dependeth. ffurdermore yf you will understand ye chapter that followeth, as concerninge the operacion of Images, in that thou shalt perceive, both the begynnynge and ende of this science; and by that, thou shalt brynge thy matter allwaies to good effecte. ss.

Here followeth howe experymentes for thinges that are stolne ought to be wroughte. Cap. 6 cytty Jerusalem, and by thy wonderfull name Tetragramaton, which is Euan, Joth, Vau, gyve me power, vertue and strength to bringe this experiment to pas; I beseche the allmyghty father and lord, which dydst create all thinges of naughte, wch gavist unto men theire names and to stones and herbes theire vertue and power: I beseche the (O holy father) for thy only sonnes sake, our lord Jhesus Christ, wch lyveth and raigneth world wthout ende, that thou wylt graunt me to knowe the vertue of this experiment. So be yt, Amen.

Afterwards perfume the place wyth such perfumes, as shalbe appoynted in that chapter; Sprinkle yt also wth water, and yf yt be necessary to make a cyrcle, let such an one be made as ys appoynted, as touchinge the same. If any other Ceremonyes be required in this experyment doe them. When all theis bee fynished, say thy coniuracion, wch thy Art doth teache the; and in the ende thereof saye. H Pater noster, Rerax, Terson, Syletin, I adiure you by this holy name Joth, he, Vau, wch is wrytten wth 12 letters that by this presente experyment we may see the truthe; Ia, Ia, Ia, ya, yah, cause these spyrittes to shewe us our desyre. I coniure you aforenamed spyrittes, by all that is aforesayde, and by hym to whome all creatures doe obay, that ymmediately you shewe us the thinge that we requyre; or else hym that toke yt awaye. H yf to doe this experyment, yt be requisite, to write letters and figures, they are to bee wrytten, as ys prescribed in the seconde booke; note that by whatsoever meanes, experyments for thefte are made or done, requisite yt ys, that there bee other experymentes besides this, as ys afore sayde.

Howe experyments to be invysible must bee preparedd, Cap. 7

Yf thou wylt have an experiment to bee invysible, yf yt [illegible] be required to write thy experiment, then write yt all in virgin parchemente, and wyth penn and ynke, as shalbe appoynted in the chapter of penn and ynke, yf furdermore a coniuracion be requyred, then before the coniuracion say prively as followeth.

Stabon, Asen, Gabellum, Saneney, Noty, Enobal, Labonerem, Balametem, Balnon, Tygumel, Millegal, Juneis, Hearma, Hamorache, Yesa, Seya, Senay, Henen, Barucatha, Acararas, Taracub, Bucaral, Caramy, by the mercy wch you beare towardes mankynde, make me to be invysible; afterward make ye invocations, and yf you must make a cyrcle, make such an one as is appoynted in the chapter of makyng a cyrcle: yf you must wryte any [illegible] letters, wryte such as are prescribed in the chapter [illegible] notes, or fygures, yf you must wryte [illegible] such, as is also [illegible] appoynted [illegible] yf you must use any coniuracion in ye ende of yt [illegible] as followeth.

O thou Venerason, the wch of invisibylyty wth thy ministers: Themos, Marath, Moragele, Bries, Cliomechis, Ligemeng, Abden, Prinbusit, Tengandén, Tebdyn, Berit, Ecbacu, Chrysiamux, Olithel, I coniure the Venerason, and thes thy mynysters, by hym throughe whome all thinges in the worlde doe tremble, and quake, by heauen and earthe, by Cherubyn, and Seraphyn, by hym that worked suche a myracle uppon the virgyn Mary, that this my experiment may bee brought to passe, and that I may bee invysible, in what howre or tyme soever I wyll; Also I coniure you mynisters, by Stubbaten, Nahcharen, Asey, Elmugit, Gabellis, Semene, that you come, and bringe to pass this my worke. This doynge thou shalt haue thy purpose, yf thou wylt worke any other wayes, ever see that all thinges bee in readynes requisyte, and say upon thy experiment this former coniuration, but fyrst say trinely the verse, Stalbon, Mecharum, Asen, and lykewise to the ende.

Erotica experimenta.

Howe and by what meanes experyments of Loue ought to be wrought, as well in gettynge hyr whome thou desyreste, as yn touchinge hir in her sleape, or talkynge wythe her. Cap. 8.

When thou wylt prepare any suche experiment, requisyte yt is to haue regarde to the daie and howre; and yf the experyment must be wrought by waxe or any suche lyke thinge, for waxe, let the image bee made of suche waxe, as is hearafter accepted, and when the waxe ys ready say as followeth: Venus, Ester, Astropolyn, Asmo, Mercurius, Jupiter, Saturnus, Sene, Sus, Vne, Nensa, Recle, Sether, Teres, Teest, Beret, Teser, Crest, Erces, Nilopolas, Atrop, Atoro, Ermo, Eoneta, Lepotarmon, Sompolocal, Peralotories, Noto, Solpiar, Raytroploson, Yoson, Omas, Samo, Moas, Saom, Mosa, Maso, Yrescas, Draco, Draontius, Ara, Arel, Atrax, Belay, Aray, Muemec, Jimar, Camma, Bexi, Exma, Agaua, Rima, Beberuna, Simra, Saam, Myny, Genycal, Okalioth, Bicurcals, Cogaoth, Thaye, Timpler, Thom, Driamtes. I coniure you all ministers of loue by hym wch [illegible] and destroye [illegible] and by all his names [illegible] that you constraine this waxe, as yt ought to bee: and [illegible] most holy father almighty Adonay, whose [illegible] euer and euer worlde without ende, that thou [illegible] haue the effecte, wch I desier yt to haue, and by the holy saythe Adonay, and by thys seat, where [illegible] to bringe my wyll to pass. &c. When this ys done, make the Image of waxe as yt ought to be made, yf so be that thou must write any thinge uppon thine Image, wryte yt with a needle, or a penn, as in the places ar appoynted. Yf furdermore yt bee required, that thou fume thy Image, fume yt wth suche fumes, as ar expressed in those chapters; yet yf yt be needfull alsoe, of any other thinge to be done uppon yt, or coniuratyon, then let the coniuration be done accordinge to the experymentes; wch once sayde, let there be made fumes as ar appoynted, and hold thy Image over the fume, and say as followeth;

O thou orient kinge Egaye, wch raigneth and ruleth in the East, and thou Paymon, most myghty kynge, wch haste dominion over the Weaste; and thou greate kynge Amaymon, wch raignest in ye South, and thou triumphant kinge Egyn, which hast rule over ye Northe, I most hartely call uppon you, by hym which only spake, and yt was done, wch wth his worde made all thinges; and by his holye names, whereat all the worlde doth tremble, and ys wrytten in 12 lettes, wch are, Joth, Eth, He, Vau; and by the 9 heavens and ther powers, and by the names and signes of our creatore, that thou constraine and conforme this presente Image so yt ought, by that holy names sake, Adonay, whose kyngdome hath not ende. This done thou mayst reede the coniuration of thy experymentes, and yf thou obtaine thy purpose yt ys well; but yf not, put thy image under thy beddes heade, and in a short time, thou shalt see her, whome thou desyrest come to accomplish thy desyre.

Here followeth an other waye wherby yt ys brought to passe, that she shall dreame of thee. Cap. 9.

This experyment is ineffable, and sheweth almost a wonder, for she [illegible] before thou begynn thy coniuration, loke into the aire, beinge in thy chambere, and saye wth an humble harte as followeth: Agla, Joth, Eth, He, Vau, Ia, Ia, Ia, Va, Va, Va, Ya, Ya, Ey, Elyoe, Ysi, Agays, Reon, Ioagat: O lord god [illegible] wch dydest make all thinges, and knowest the hartes of all [illegible] I beseche thee by thy most holy aboutnamed names, that thou enflame the harte and mynde of N. that she may love me, as I [illegible] her, and that she may bee allwaies ready to do my will [illegible] And furdermore, giue strength, and power to this experyment [illegible] by the (o father) and by these spirittes and the vertue [illegible] that all thinges may bee brought to a good ende. [illegible] doe thy arte, wth all thinges requisite [illegible] same, and yt shall haue good effecte.

Of experymtes of favor and freyndshipp. Cap. 10.

Yf yn this experyment, thou must wryte wth any thinge, thou shalt wryte yt wth suche, as are appoynted in the chapters of pen and ynke. Afterward let yt be perfumed, wth suche perfumes, as ar hereafter appoynted alsoe, and sprinkle yt wth the water, as are appoynted in that chapter. yf furdermore yt be required to wryte any sygnes, letters, or fygures, or any other names, let them be wrytten, as is sayde hereafter, as concernynge howe thes ought to be wrytten, and putt yt yn a cloth of sylke, beynge suche an one as hereafter shalbe prescrybed, and then say as followeth.

O most holy Adonay, wch art allmighty most gentle, wch art also α et ω. I beseche the of thy infynite mercye and pytty, wherof thou aboundeste, wch dost say, and yt shalbe gyven the, I aske of the therfore by thy allmighty power, that this experiment may be consecrated, and [illegible] contayne by thy holy vertue that power wch I desire; wch done lay yt a nighte and a daie unto the alter clothe. Afterward, yf thou woldest have the favor of any man, take these lres yn thy hande, and he shall denye the nothinge, whatsoever letters you wryte, or whatsoever conjuration. I saye to obtayne favour in the ende therof ever say or wryte thes verses followynge. Sater, Arepo, Tenet, Rotas, Ioth, Eth, He, Vau, Yach, Ya, Ia, Ia, Ia, Anexeneton; you holy names fullfill my desyer Gasper, Balthasar, Melchior, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Mysach, Abdenago, Marke, Mathew, Luke, John, Geon, Fyson, Tigris, Euphrates; be ye all present to helpe me, that I may obtayne grace and favor at whose handes soever I shall aske yt, by our lord Jhesus Christe which lyveth and raigneth with the father, and the holy ghoste, world wythout ende. Amen.

Howe experyments for hatred ar prepared that any may bee made deadly enemyes Cap. 11.

Experymentes of hatred ar done dyvers wayes, yf thou wylt make [illegible] image, or any suche lyke thinge make your ymage, and perfume yt wth suche perfumes as are prescrybed and yf ther be any thinge must be wrytten upon the image, write yt wth a needle, as shalbe appoynted in the chapter concernynge a needle, afterwards [illegible] upon the Image. Arator, Lapidator, temptator, Sommator, Subversor, agnator, aganator, Siccator, Sudator, Combustor, [illegible], Comestor, Devorator, Seductor, I doe beseche you ministers of hatred, and destroiers of frendshipp, I beseche you I say that this present ymage may bee so consecrated, that yt may engender hatred betwixte whosoever I would. Wch done lay the ymage in the [illegible] nyghte, and then worke wth yt in the hower fitt for that purpose, yf thou must worke otherwise, as by letters or other meanes, then in the ende therof wryte thes abovesayd names, Arator, lapidator, temptator, etc. Also yf thou wilt make dyscord betwene two that love well, then say before them (all thinges beynge readye): Where is the sower of dyscorde, wth the reste of the abovewrytten names; I conjure you, and wyll you by hym wch made you, and by hym wch ordayned you to this office, in which also you rejoice; I pray you and desier you that this may bee prepared, that they wch eate or touche this, may utterly bee sett at varyaunce. Wch afterward gyve yt unto them at ye hower appoynted, hereafter yf thou wilt worke by any other meanes, wryte the aforesayde names, Arator Lapidator, temptator, etc. and yt shalbee.

An experiment to fayne A thinge to bee wch indeade is false wherby many men be deceyved as in playinge or in showinge any other thinge. Cap. 12.

For suche an experimente one beynge founde, you must make yt in [illegible] chapter, as shalbe hereafter appoynted; Also you must wryte [illegible] blode, as shalbe lykewyse declared wth what blode; and what [illegible] yf yt required that you shold make this by any thinge, [illegible] worke as yor chapiters appoynte you. This done say [illegible] voice as followeth. Abac, Abdac, Istac, Castac, Adach, [illegible], [illegible], Super, Triumphator, Derisor, [illegible] be you present at my worke, and confyrme yt so as I desier, and make yt so appeare, that they that see yt be deceyved of their syghte, and may see false thinges in steade of true: Con[illegible] yt therfore to constrainte, and inchaunte yt, by Jhesus of Nazareth wch hath enjoyned you to that effecte. Wch done you may worke; the aforenamed names Abac, Abdac, etc. ar to be wrytten in the ende of yor worke, and yf you worke any other way [illegible] ever afterward that those wordes be sayde in the ende.

Here followeth A way to bringe [illegible] any extraordynary experyment. Cap. [illegible]

When thou wilt bringe to pas any thinge, wth the experiment [illegible] them as hereafter is sayde, yf yt bee for goode [illegible] say this prayer followynge, and yf you must any thinge [illegible]
+ + + + + + + + write yt in the ende therof.

(O) god wch hast made all thinges by thy holy name wch is wrytten in twenty letters, and every letter betokeneth one of thy holy names, wch ar here wrytten: Lacſos, h. h. h. Jhe, Ripan, Jba, Abgiſ, Luſ, Baff, Plas, hapd, Job, Joazacam, Orezeym, Cororator, graunt I pray the that this preſent experimente may bee fully brought to pas accordynge to my deſyer. Aſter lett this goſpell followynge be wrytten, or ſayde over yt.

In thoſe daies, Jheſus was ledd into the wyldernes of the ſpyritt to bee tempted of the devyll, and after he had faſted 40. daies he was an hungred, and the devyll the tempter, commynge unto hym, ſayde: yf thou bee the ſonn of god, command that theſe ſtones may be made breade: Jheſus, anſweringe ſayde: yt is written, That man lyveth not only wth breade, but wth every worde, wch commeth out of the mouth of god: Then the devyll ledd hym into the holy cytty, and ſett hym upon the pinacle of the churche, and ſayde unto hym: yf thou bee the ſonn of god, caſt downe thy ſelfe headlonge; for yt is wrytten; That he hath given his Angells commaundement over the, and they ſhall take the up, in their handes, leſt thou ſhould be hurte: Jheſus, ſayde unto hym: Againe yt ys wrytten: Thou ſhalt not tempte the lord thy god; Againe, the devyll toke hym up into a very hyghe hyll, and ſhowed hym, all the kyngdoms of the worlde, and their glory; and ſayde, All theſe I wyll give the, yf thou wylt fall downe before me, and worſhipp mee: Then Jheſus ſayde, Avoyde, Sathan, for yt ys wrytten, That thou ſhalt worſhipp the lord thy god, and hym only ſhalt thou ſerve: then the devill lefte hym, and his Angells came, and mynistred unto hym. Whiche done, thou ſhalt worke accordynge to thy deſyres: In other experymentes wch rather ar evyll then good, wryte or els ſaye this verſe followynge. Here followeth yn what howre Experyments ought to be done.

Cap. I.

If you have any dede ready prepared to speake with spirittes, you must worke yt the fyrste howre of Mercury, and his daye in the morninge. And thus you may fynishe all thinges; note that the tyme be pleasaunt, the daye faire and cleare, when thou workeste.

5 cap. 10. II.

The faire and bewtyfull spirittes are in the Northe. 1.
nota. The fyery spirittes remayne in the Easte. 2.
They which are created of the watre remayne in the weste. 3.
They which came of the wynde are yn the Southe. 4.

Note allso, that if thou hast ones brought to pas our experiment, thou mayste worke the same againe without obseruinge of the hower, or any other solempnytie.

Here followeth howe the Coniurer ought to behaue hym selfe.

First let hym write yt holy in one peice of paper; after let hym marke what thinges are requisite to that purpose; let hym chose a place mete for that purpose; and let hym have a bathe ready, as shalbe appoynted in the chapter of bathes; and let hym saye this prayer followinge.

O lord Jesus Christ, which hast made me (most wretched synner) to thyne owne lykenes, vouchsafe I beseche the, to blis and [illegible] this watter that it may be mundified to the [illegible] of my body, and my soule. O almyghty and ineffable father, which didest graunt vnto John Baptist to baptize thyne only begotten sonne Jesus Christ, graunt I beseche the that this watter may be my baptisme, that I may be clensed from all my synnes which I have committed and wrought. O lord Jesus Christ, [illegible] without end. Amen. And when this ys done let hym wash all [illegible], and put on a white lynnen clothe, and abstaine at the [illegible] from all fleshe, and unclene talke, and [illegible] this the followethe, [illegible] in the morninge about the [illegible] howre, againe about the nynthe howre, againe about the [illegible] about the fourthe howre, and also when thou goest to bed [illegible] then shall he saye: Abra, Asac, Asach, Radi[illegible], Antinanas, Bira, Bontes, Acazal, Zephite, Phaeth[illegible], vncacha, Adonay, Emagro, Abraxio, Ache[illegible], rachi, Uelycomat, Amystra, hngyma, Mach[illegible], Bama, [illegible]

Hemon Segom Gemas Jesu God, graunt me that I may endue that thinge which I goe aboute, and by the, O holy Adonay, I may bringe them to pas, by our lord Jesus Christ, which lyveth and raygneth world without ende. Amen. ¶. Let this be done three dayes together, yf yt may bee, the ayre beinge very cleare, and at yt day you may safely worke.

¶ Howe hys fellowes must behave them selues. Cap. 3.

In experimentes where Cyrcles be made, yt ys requisite that the m[aste]r haue fellowes with hym, whome he must instruct in all thinges, when they are sufficiently taught, lett the m[aste]r and they together enter into the chamber, and let those his companions putt of their vesture, and let the m[aste]r powre water upon their heades, sayinge be you renued, and baptized and cleansed, from all yo[u]r synnes, In the name of the father, and of the sonne, and of the holy ghost, and the power of the most highest come downe uppon you.

This done let them putt on their clothinge agayne, all this must bee done three daies before any worke begynn, After this let there be made a newe bathe, and lett them say for thre daies space, the aforesayd prayer, and let them followe the m[aste]r in all thinge.

Of fastynge and watche. Cap. 4

Yf you be wyllynge to worke, yt ys requyred that you abstayne from all thinges unlawfull, as from fornicacyon, from glotonye, and all other naughty deedes; which is requyred for the space of nyne daies before thy workynge; and let every one saye for that space, this prayer followynge.

O lord god allmyghty, be mercyfull unto me [illegible] lyfte up myne eyes unto the, my synnes are soe greate, [illegible] O god, art mercyfull, which [illegible] made [illegible] into paradyce, have mercy upon me, O god, and forgive me all my synnes, graunt [illegible] that I may bringe to pas my desyre, by the most [illegible] which art blessed world without ende. Amen. [illegible] daies before thou begynn thy worke, thou [illegible] say dayly the [illegible] as is [illegible] in the begynnynge of the first booke and the second [illegible]

¶ Of Bathes howe they muste be made. Cap. 5.

Thou muste goe to a well, or ryver, and before thou goe thyther, say these psalmes followynge: Dominus illuminatio mea; Dixit insipiens in corde suo; Dixi custodiam; Salvum me fac; Cantemus D[omi]no; Confitemini D[omi]no quoniam bonus; Quicunque vult salvus esse; which sayde, goe into yt, and saye: I exorcise the water by hym which set the in thy place, that thou drive out of me all uncleannes, through o[u]r lord Jhesus christe. Afterward let hym wash hym selfe, and saye; Marbalia, Gegeon, Falia, Jesse, Pharia, Gech, Acich, Gedich, Hail, Bayl, Musayl, Joyl, Tranchil, Pusil, Godif, Agnet, Trisif, Sabaoth, Adonay, Agla, Enel, Tetragramaton, Cedro, Agne, Fero, Stimulaton, Premanaton. and when he is wasshed, let hym goe out of the water; and sprinkle hym selfe with the water hereafter appoynted, sayinge; Asperges me Domine. etc. After putt on thy clothynge and in puttynge yt on say the 7. Psalmes, and that which followeth, and, Cum invocarem exaudivit, Confitebor tibi D[omi]ne quoniam dilexi, In exitu Israel de Aegipto, Domine probasti me; And this prayer which followeth.

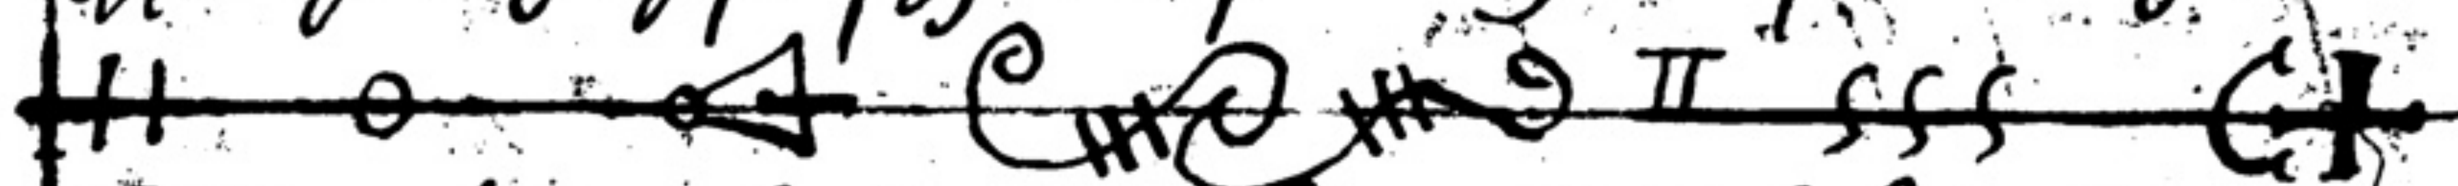
O most holy Adonay, and most mighty Hel, I desyre you by the most mighty and stronge name of the lorde, El, I worship the, I glorify the, and blisse the, I call upon the, that this Bathe may bee Salvation unto me, and that I may have my desier, by the O most holy Adonay, which lyveth and raigneth world without ende. Amen.

The blyssynge of the salte. Cap. 6.

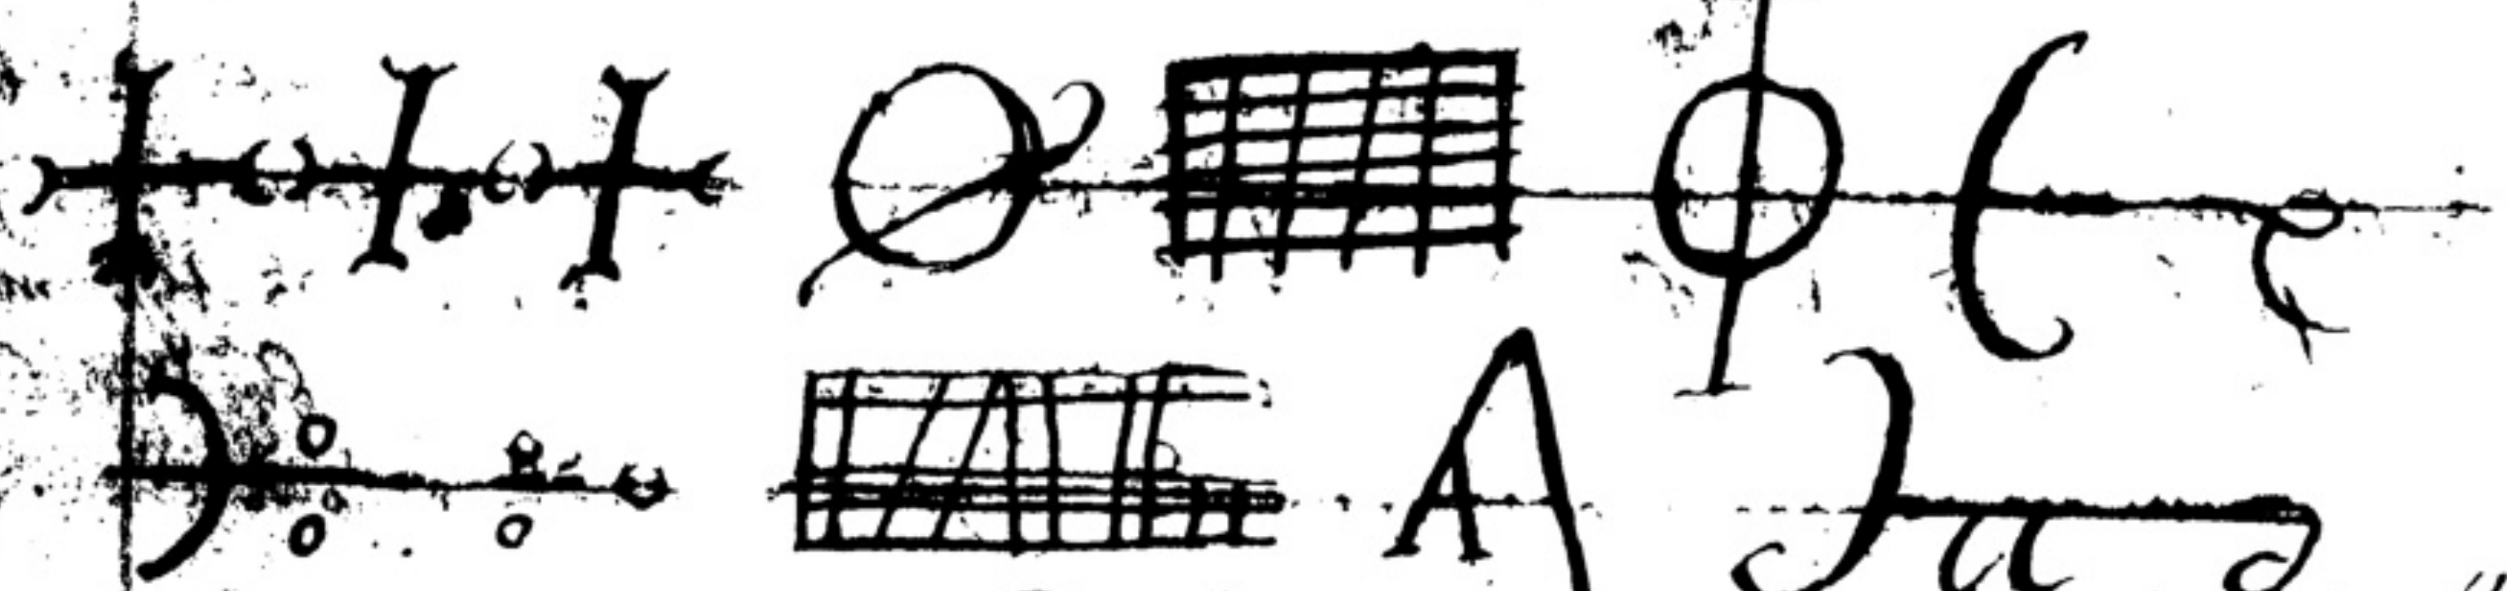
Afterward take salt, and blisse yt after this sorte. I blisse the in the name of the father, the sonn, and the holy Ghoste, Amen. The blyssynge of god the almighty father bee upon the, and all goodnes enter into the, wherfor I blisse the and sanctyfye the, that thou [illegible] at this p[re]sente, and this done saye: Benedicite omnia opera D[omi]ni D[omi]no, Afterwarde take the sweete odoures consecrated, and throwe them into the bathe, holdynge them in thy hande, and goe agayne into the bathe, and wasshe the, and beynge in the bathe saye: Amane Mameto, Inzaron, Poltibon, Amagna, Lameton, Caron, Sutron, Gardon, Hon, Mameraon, Tamerato, Fabron, [illegible] Nazmon, Stikon, Funeron, this saye the psalme, Bene omnia opera Domini, and washe thee sayinge, In the name of the father, and of the son, and of the holy ghoste. Amen. which done goe out of the bathe, and putt one cleane lynnyn clothinge, as shalbe sayd of clothinge, and let his fellowes doe after the same sorte.

Heare followeth of apparrell and shoes. &c. Cap. 7.

It is necessary that the maister put on lynnen clothes, whereuppon the pentacles must be sowed with silke & a needle, as shalbe appointed hereafter in the same chapter, They must also have hosyn about ther owne uppon the which those figures followinge must bee wrytten.



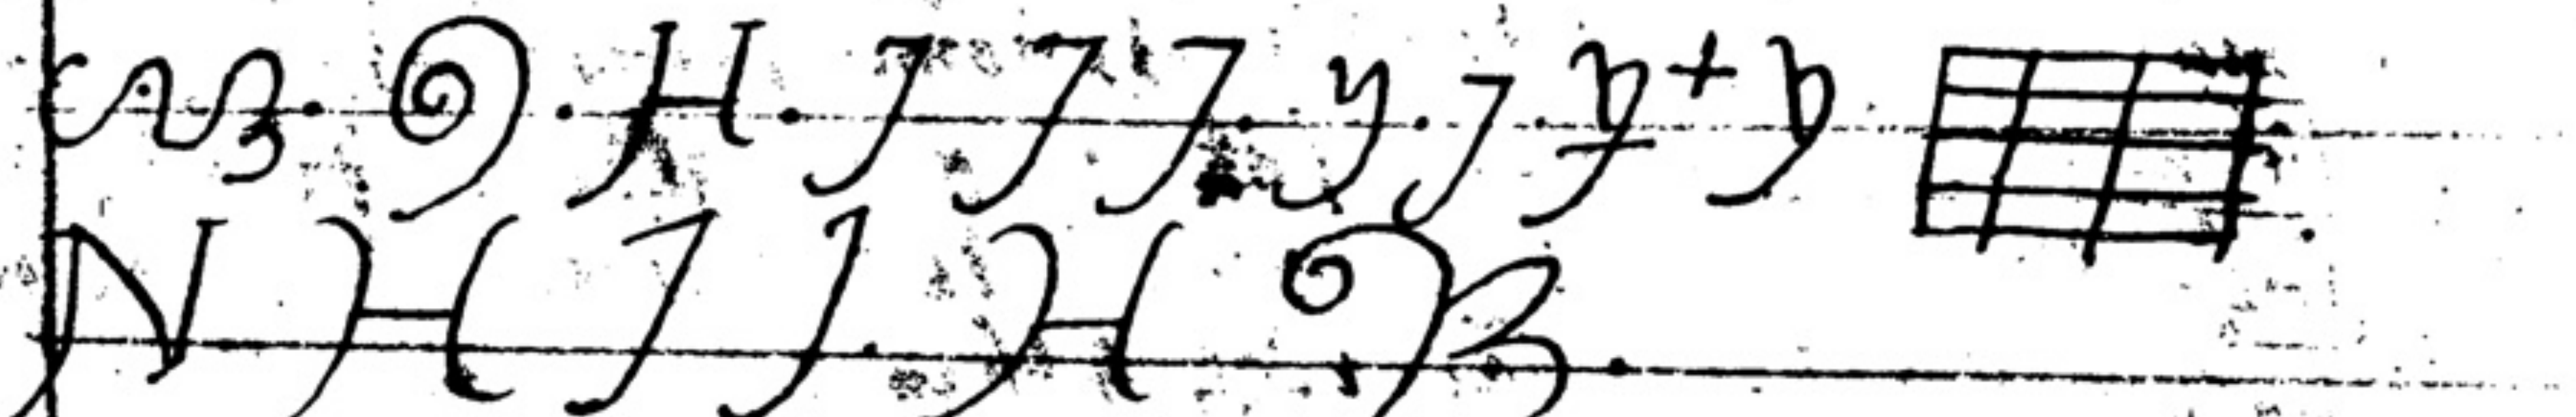
They must have shoes also uppon the which those same figures must bee wrytten, with suche pen and ynke, as shalbe prescribed in there chapter. Their shoes must bee of white lether, Also let the master have a garland uppon his heade of virgin parchmente, about the which shalbe written in capitall letters these 4. names, AGLA; AGLAY; Aglatha. AGALTHA; AGLAOTH; with ynke, and pen as shalbe hereafter in their chapters declared, also eche of his companions must have a rownd or garlande in whose compas those figures followinge must be wrytten.



And before they putt one this apparrell, let them saye these psalmes followinge. Domine Deus noster, Dne quis habitabit! Dne exaudi orationem meam, Cum tribularer, Domine non est exaltatum cor meum, Supra flumina, Nisi Dominus, Laudate Dominum omnes gentes; Deus misereatur nostri. These beinge sayde, let them perfume all theis apparrell, and sprinkle them with water, Then let the master putt on his apparrell sayinge: Antor, Anator, et, Anabis, Theodonias, Iamtor, by the merits of the holy Angelles, I will putt on the vestures of healthe, that I may bringe to pass my desyre, by thee o holy Adonay, whose kingdom hathe noe ende; The shoes and vestmentes must bee of lynnen [illegible] yett [illegible] as the preyst weareth it is beste.

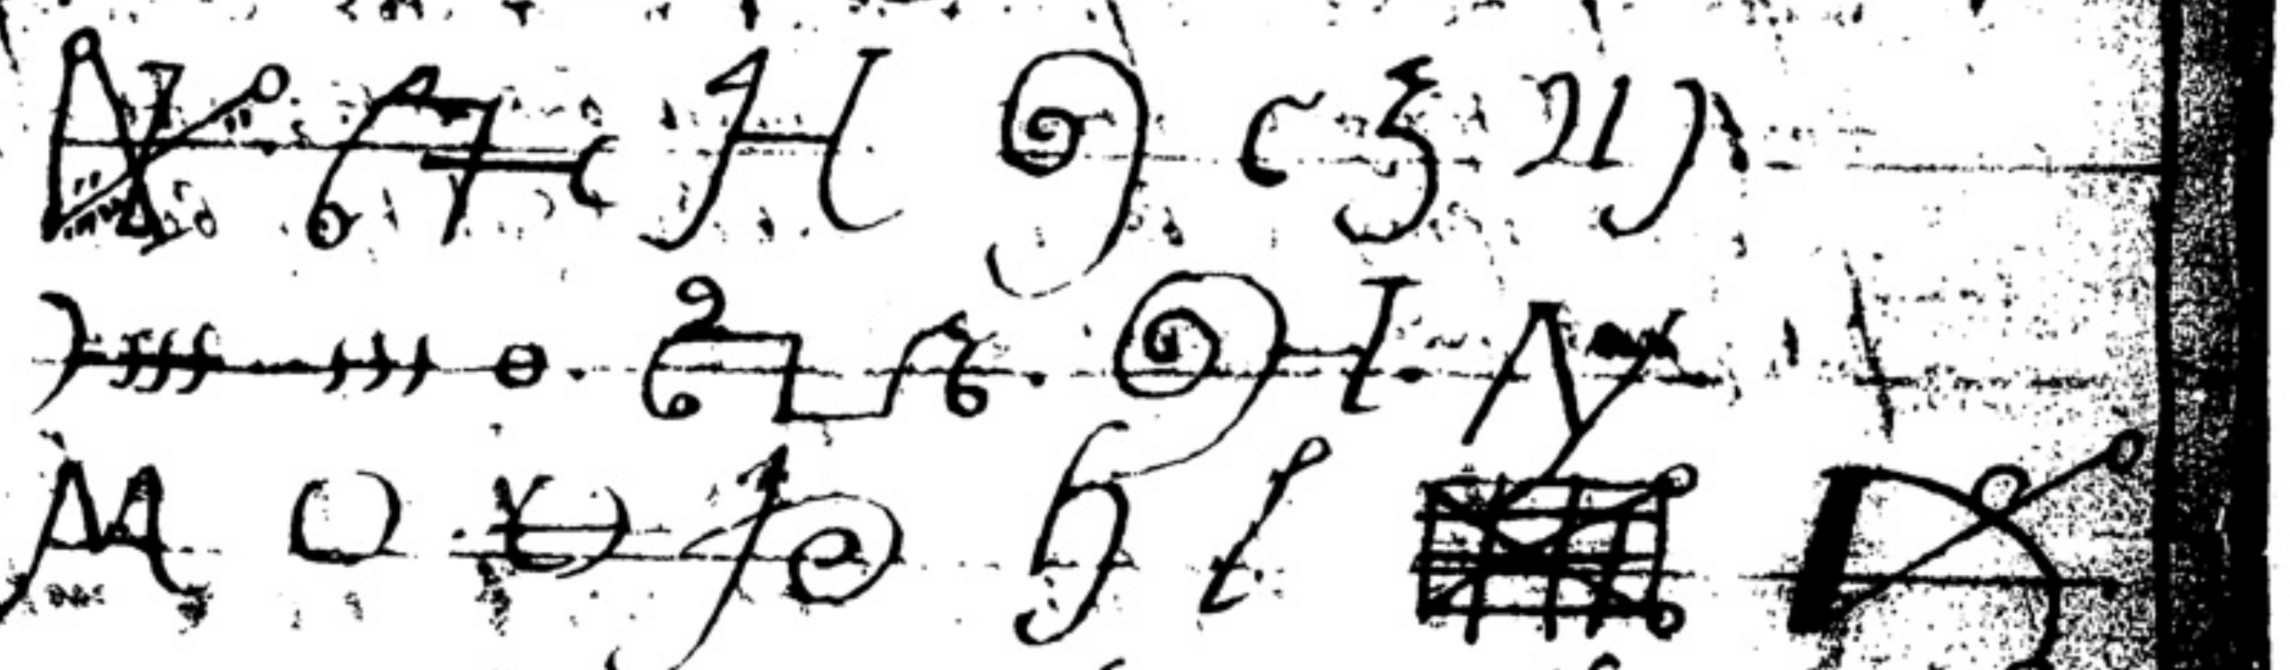
Here followeth of the knyfe requred in this Arte, and howe yt muste bee made. Cap. 8.

A knife ys requyred in this Art, therfore make yt bee made with a handle of yron which is pure: and lett yt bee tempered in gosts blode in the day of Mercury, in the encrease of the mone. After yt bee fynished cause 10. masses to bee sayde over yt, and write uppon the handle therof, with the needle aforesayde these signes which follow.

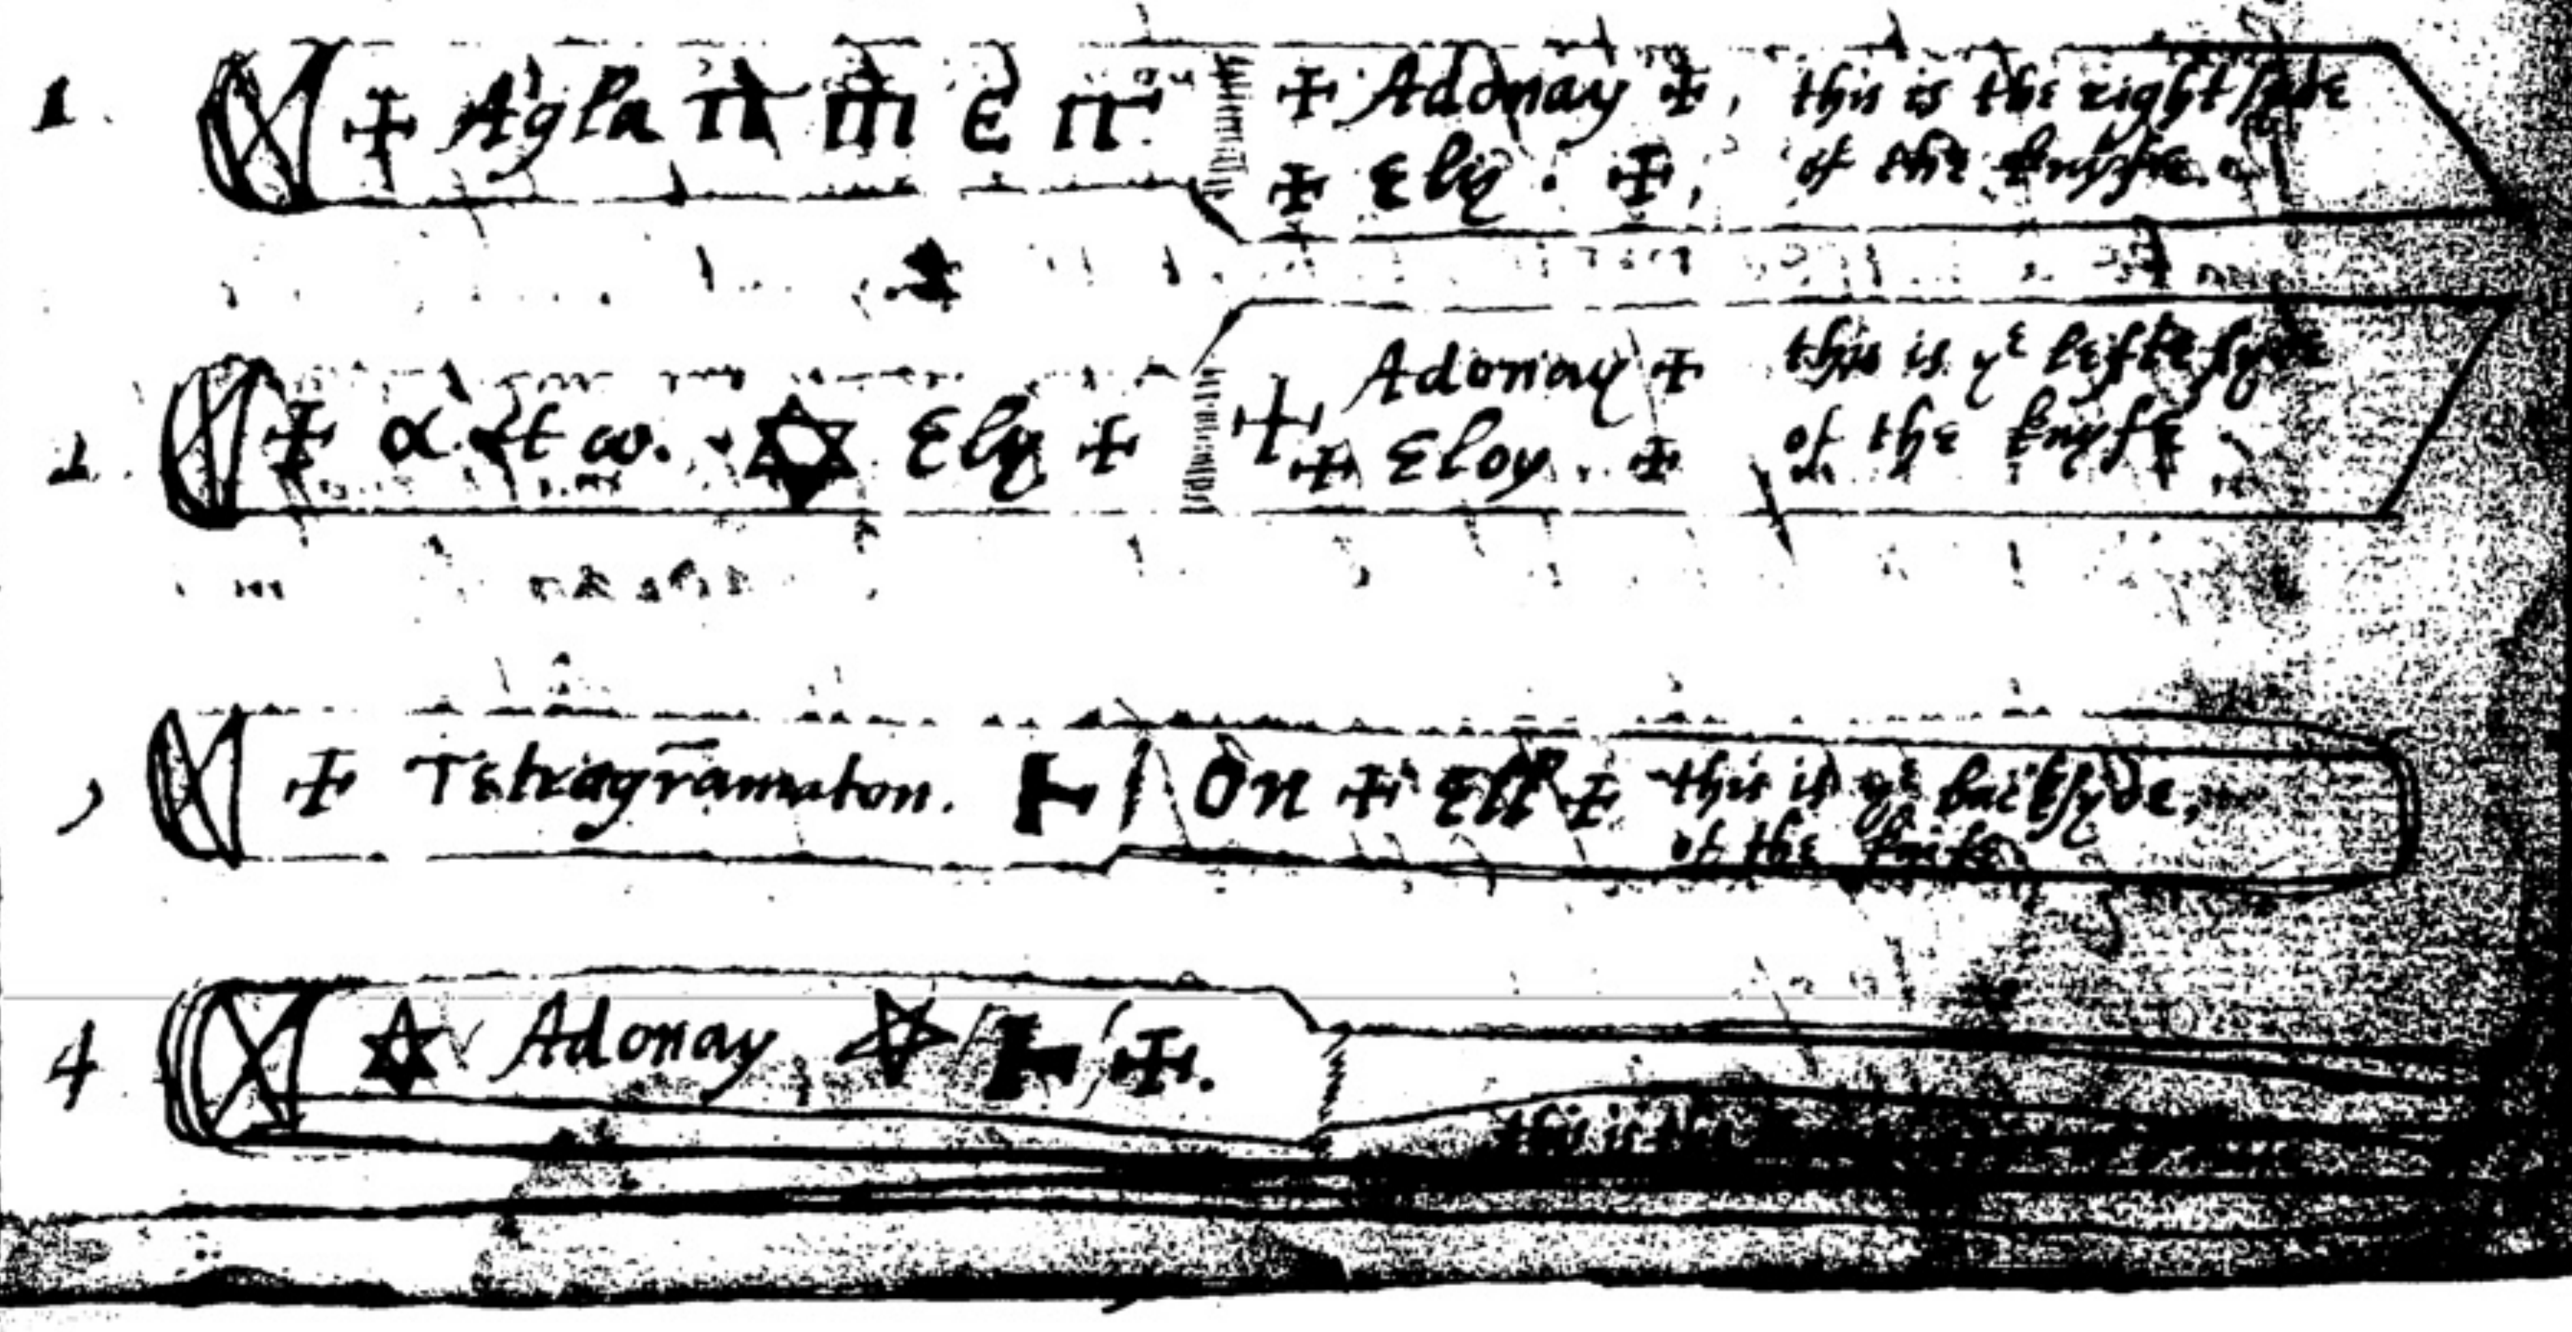


Then perfume yt as hereafter is appoynted, and note that the Circle bee made with such a knyfe, this done lay yt upp in silken clothes untyll thou wylt worke, and cutt nothinge with this knyfe, but only all thinges belonginge to this Arte.

All other instrumentes of yron whatsoever they bee, let them bee made on the day, and hower of Mercury, and write uppon them these signes followinge.



The forme and shape of ye knife, with wordes and carectes.



Also, sett to the swordes wherewithall you wyll worke, that they bee cleane, and write upon them as followethe: Lamec, Theah, Amles, Theophilos, Def, Beth Ladomay, El, Ja, Jah, Emanuel, Saday, Emnanal, Sum qui sum, Agla, α et ω, write this wth the ynke aforesayde, and smoke them wth the odoures, and say this coniuration. I coniure the by the names, Abraham, Abraho, Tetragramato, wch is to saye, Aglane, that thou hurt me not in worke. I coniure ye by youre Stimulaton, and by these consecratable names of allmyghty god: which are: Egyrion, Ossystron, Enona, Aula, by Alon and by Manalo, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, primus, nouissimus, unigenitus, via, vita, Manus, homo, primogenitus, finis, sapientia, virtus, α. Caput, verbum, gloria, splendor, lux, Sol, Imago, Mors, Janua, Petra, Lapis, Angulus, sponsus, pastor, propheta, sacerdos, Athanatos, ysyon, Pantacraton, Jesus, Halleluia; by those names, and all other names, I coniure you, that you have noe powre to hurt mee; wch done lett hym keepe yt, as before ys sayde.

Besides this there must be made an other knyfe in the day and howre of Mercury, tempered wth the ynke of pimpernell, and the blode of a gose, upon the wch you shall cause 3. masses to bee sayde, also you muste pfume yt, and sprinkle yt wth water, as is aforesayde, wth wch knyfe, all thinges necessary must bee cutt; note also that before any of these thinges bee consecrated, that they bee [illegible], that is but they were never used in worke or labour

~~There~~ followeth howe circles must bee made, and howe you must entre into them.

Caput 9:

The circles must bee made with the consecrated knyfe in [illegible] you wyll worke, strike the knyfe in the mydst of the place, and measure 9. foote on bothe sydes from the knyfe but remember to leave a space open, wherby you may go yn, and out: a foote beyonde ye circle make a nother circle, betwixt the greater circles, make ye pentacles wth the names of our Creator, as in the next leafe shalbe showed. In the circumference of the greater circle make crosses, Also a foote beyond this latter circle make a Quadrangle, in the corner of every one make a circle, one to sett the pott of coles yn, and in an other let there stande a sworde, a foote space from the pott: And which beinge done, lett the master bringe yn his companions by the gate of the circle, and lett one of his fellowes standinge towardes the easte, have penn and ynke yn his hande, and the other [illegible] sworde, lett them take heede they move not from the pott; Thinges beinge thus ordered, lett the master goe forth to kyndle the fyer, and caste therin the perfumes, and light the greate candle hallowed as shalbe sayde hereafter, which he shall putt in a Lantron, and then let hym shutt the gate of ye Cyrcle, after this lett hym pfume hym selfe, and hys fellowes, and the place with water, All which done, the master standynge in the mydst of the cyrcle, hys knyfe beinge stucke at hys feete, lett hym begynn hys Coniurations towardes the Easte.

The manner to make Circles, shall bee showed, on the other syde of this same leafe.

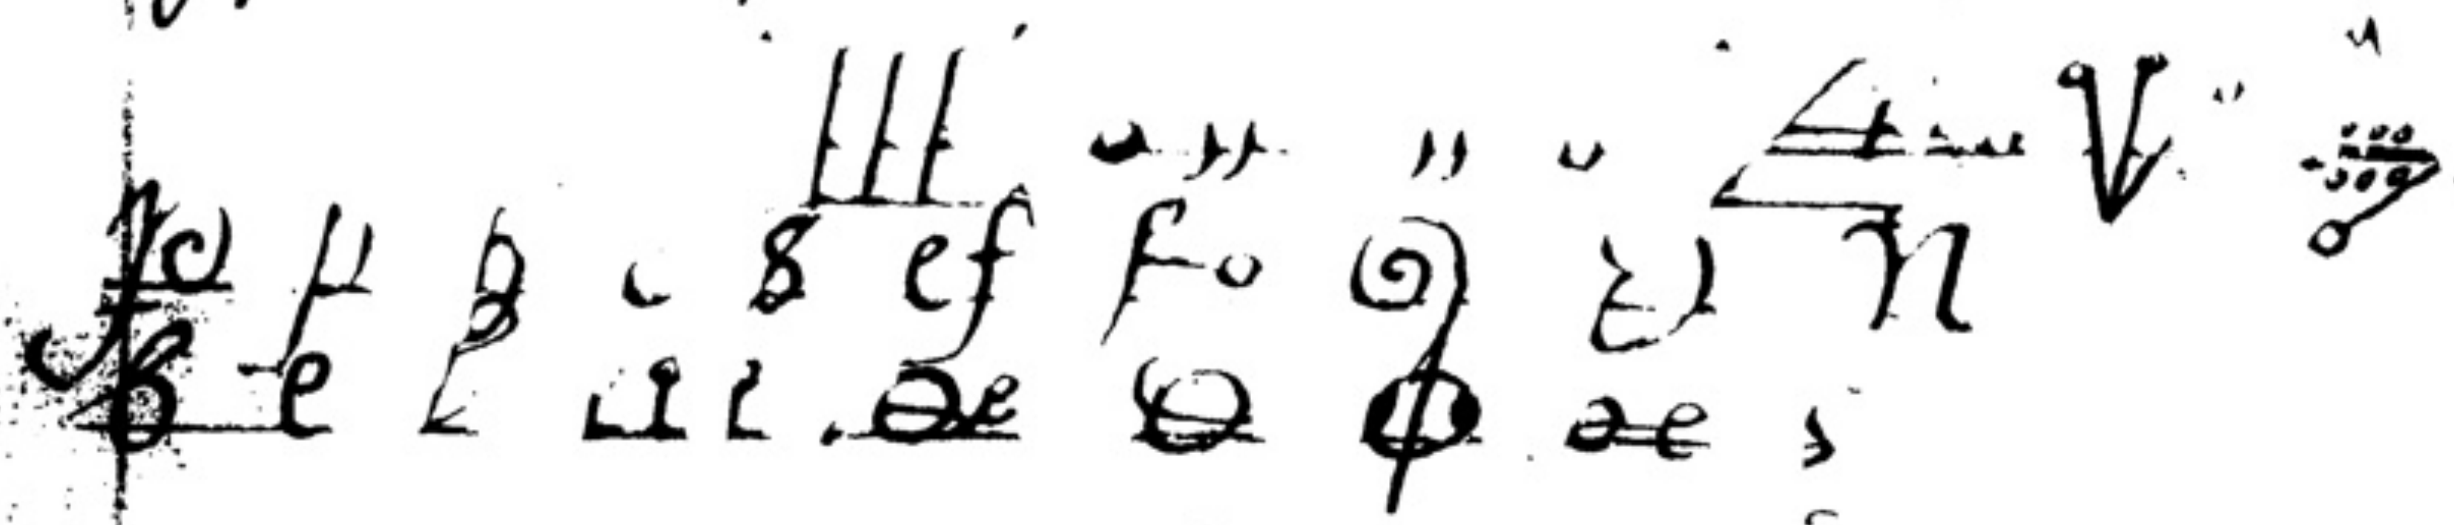
Ho Here followeth of water, and ysope. Caput 10.

The water wch is mentioned so often muste bee exorcised after this sorte, upon the day of Mercury, and his hower. Take a vessell wth exorcised perfumes, and salte, and fill the pott full of cleare water; and fyrst hallowe the salte sayinge. Sabaoth, Messias, Tetragramaton, Emanuel, Cedron, fortis, Janua, Turris fortitudinis, vouchsafe to sanctyfy this salte; which sayd throw yt into the water, and say over yt the 7. Psalmes: and this prayer followynge.

Thou art my god, and my reste, thou art my true and ryght way, helpe, most holy father, such as I trust in thee: O god wch art the god of Abraham, the god of Isaac, and the god of Jacob, I beseche thee, o lord allmyghty, by the invocations and desertes of thy Sayntes: vouchsafe to blis and sanctify thys water, that upon whome soever yt bee caste, he may receive healthe both of body and soule. Amen.

Ho Here followeth of ysope. Caput. 11.

The water beynge ready, make a sprinckle of Vervyn, Valerian, Fennel, Sage, Marjeram, and Basyl, and let all bee put upon a hasill wand; and knowe that in the day of Mercury, in the morninge, in the encrease of the Mone, yt must bee cutt, att one cutt wth the abovenamed knyfe, and in that hower let the herbes bee gathered; wch beynge made, consecrate yt as after is to bee sayd over them; wch done say the gospell of Saynt John over them, afterward upon the hasyll wande, wherewth thou dydest make thy sprinckle, wryte these caracters followynge, wth the nedle aforesayde



Here followeth of fier and waxe Caput. 12.

The lyght to worke by must bee made of virgin waxe, the candle must bee made in thys sorte, take syllken threade, and 5 15 made and spunn of a virgyn, whereof make the weeke, and wth that make a candle of wax, wch came out of a newe hyve, which is called virgyn waxe, let the candle contayne halfe a pounde of waxe, and wryte upon yt, wth the nedle aforesayde, these carectes followinge.

Afterwardes say these psalmes followynge: Benedicite omnia opera, Benedic anima mea dominum, Laudate dominum omnes gentes, Te deum laudamus: And this which followeth.

O lord god, give me vertue, that only I may truste in thee; In the name of the father, the sonn, and the holy ghoste, Amen.

I exorcise the [illegible] by hym wch spake, and yt was done, that thou drive all errors from thee: Amen. Which done sprinkle yt wth water, and perfume yt, and lyght yt, and say over yt: I exorcise the fier, In the name of the father, the sonn, and the holy ghoste, and by the fyrst name of our lorde god On, and by the seconde worde which he sayd Let there bee made lyghte, by this name; You, Adonay, Salua, Gla, Nanemente, that thou lyght the spyryttes, which will appeare heare. Amen.

Then take a lantron, wherein this candle muste bee putt, and write aboute yt these names followynge. Tetragramaton, Sabaoth, Adonay, Tetel, Lademas. And light the candle, and putt yt in yt, and reade by the light thereof.

Here followeth of penn and ynke Caput 13

Take a gander alyve, and pull out a fether out of the wynge, and saye Axbon, Naxbon, Nason, Tamaray, Lyonax, Arminax, Bludamax, drive out of this quill all deceipte, that truth only may abyde in yt; Then make a penn therof wth the consecrated knyfe, and perfume yt, and then lay yt up as is aforesayd.

Of ynke. Caput 13

Take a horne, in wch you must putt ye lycour, and about the said vessell wryte with the nedle this followynge: Joth, Teth, Eth, vau, Anosbias, Ja, Ja, Ja, Anxerneton, Anabona, Sabaoth. Then putt into yt newe ynke, and saye as followeth:

I exorcise the ynke by the name of Anaton, and by the name Stimulaton, and by hys name, that can do all thinges, that [illegible] bee my helpe in this my worke. + × × × + ×

Of the Blode of A Batt, howe you muste worke by yt. Cap. 14.

Take a lyve Batt, and exorsise hym after this sorte: Camac, Eamath, Omac, Cachac, Marbac, Glyac, Jamachar, Valmath. I adiure the Batt, by the father, the sonn, and the holy ghoste; and by all the wordes that ar spoken of hym that thou serve us: O thou Angell Adonay, Eloyt, and thou Angell Adonel, bee you my ayde and helpe, that I may accomplishe my desyer. Afterwardes take the nedle, and pricke hym under the right wynge, and take hyr blode, and saye.

O allmighty Adonay, Araton, Osul, Heloy, Heloe, Hetion, Esseecon, Sadon, Deus, Deus, Infinitus, Jhesus, Christus; be my helper, that this blode may have power in these my doynges.

Here followeth of vyrgyn paper, or Parchment, called Membrana.

Caput. 15.

Take a pece of parchment of the beaste or the navyll, of any beastes skyn which ys called Membrana, let yt be consecrated after this fasshion, but fyrste, smoke yt with the fumes, and in smokynge yt, saye: Domine Deus noster, Domine exaudi, Deus meus respice, Domine quis habitabit, Quam dilecta. Afterwardes saye thys Coniuration followynge twise. Malec, Fydomos, Theophilos: O god allmighty father which madest all thynges with thy greate wysdome, which didst chuse Abraham to be thy first clerke & whom, whose seede thou multiplied, as the starres; which dydest appeare to Moyses in the midst of the bushe like a flame fier, and revealed thy holy name unto hym which is Syphy, and Esser, Asserephe, which gaviste to Solomon, above all other creatures, I humbly beseche thy maiestye, that through thy vertue and powre this may bee consecrated, as yt ought to bee, by the, O allmighty Adonay, whose kyngdome lasteth for ever. Amen. Afterwardes sprinkle yt with water, and cause 3. masses to bee sayde over yt.

Howe you must worke with waxe

Caput. 16.

In many actes, wax and yearthe are used, wherof ymages ar made, of yt you muste use waxe, see that yt bee vyrgyn waxe, and that yt bee not wrought, vyrgyn waxe ys made of bees, which never confederate together: And yt ys sould at the Apothecaries, when thou wylt worke with yt, say over yt.

I will exorsise, Adomyon, Meryon, 29. Asmerals, Cosmas, Aliner, Concimas, Orsagos, Almay, Caphay, Equant, Vermant, Othios, Eyomdes, Trephylados; bee you present to helpe mee, for you I call upon in my worke, which I begynne by you, and shall bee ended through you: This done say these psalmes followynge. Domine non est exaltatum, Dne quis habitabit, Dne exaudi, Dne Deus noster, Quam dilecta, Exurgat Deus, Deus Deorum, Deus in nomine tuo, Deus iudicium, Ecce quam boni, In exitu Israel, In convertendo, Deus Deus meus, Deus meus respice, Beati quorum, Miserere mei Deus, De profundis, Domine probasti; After this cause 3. masses to bee sayd over this waxe, then smoke yt with the perfumes, sayinge. I coniure and warne the waxe; by the allmighty father which made all thinges of nothinge, that thou by thy holy name, geviste strength unto this waxe, that yt may bee sanctifyed, which lyveth and raigneth world without ende. Amen.

Here followeth of A nedle wherewth thou muste worke. Caput. 17.

Yt ys needfull in some experyment, to have a nedle, or suche lyke wherfore thou shalt cause a nedle to bee made, of styele, or yron, in the day and hower of Jupiter, which shall not be fynisshed untill the next day and hower of Venus, which fynisshed take yt in some secret place, and say over yt: I coniure the nedle by the father, the sonn, and the holy ghoste, and by all thinges which cann bee made, And by all vertue of Stones, hearbes, and wordes and by hym which in the laste day, shall come to iudge, the quicke, the deade, and all the world by fyer, that thou through the same Creator, receive vertue and strength, and that I may allwaies use thy ayde and helpe whensoever I wyll; Afterwardes say these psalmes over yt. Domine quid multiplicasti, Dne Deus meus in te speravi, Confitebor tibi Dne in toto corde meo, In Dno confido, Conserva me Dne, Diligam te, Celi enarrant, Dns regit me, Expectans expectavi, Quemadmodum desiderat, Deus [illegible] nes; which beinge sayde cause the masses to bee sayd [illegible] perfume yt, and sprinkle yt with the exorsised water and [illegible] yt up, and in laynge yt up, say over yt, as followeth. [illegible] spiritus [illegible] rationem acciperet, quinde certitudo
[illegible] sunt signacula [illegible] latentia, dignitate aliorum
[illegible] constructi [illegible] sunt signa mihi, foederis, aut promissi [illegible] obedientiae, et characteres multa ratione possunt indagari.
Praeter characteres sunt malorum spirituum familiares quaedam [illegible] et imagines, sub quarum forma invocantibus occurrere et apparere solent, de ante imaginibus inveniuntur per tabulam sequentem, [illegible] ratione literarum constructionum nomine ipsius spiritus, ita ut quae litera in nomine ipsius spiritus plures habet illius imagines principaliter, caetera suo modo commiscendo, ita ut quae priores [illegible] in superiores pars sit corporis et caput statuendum, [illegible] ista figura tribuatur, quae vero postrema pars et crura
[illegible] sic modo literae mediae corporis parti aliquid sibi [illegible] attribuat, vel [illegible] dent; si vero aliqua evenerit [illegible] contrarietas, quae litera potior est in numero vincat, si vero aequales [illegible] commiscebuntur, praeterea si idem nomen ex tabula Characterum figurae vel instrumentum aliquod obtinuerit, id ipsum etiam obtinebit Imago.

Cognoscere autem dignitates malorum spirituum per easdem tabulas
Characterum et Imaginum poterimus, nam cum nomen spiritus ex tabula [illegible] acceperit insigne aliquod vel instrumentum ipsius dignitatis, [illegible] quod si fuerit Corona, dignitatem indicat regiam, si Crista
[illegible] si Cornua, comitatum, si absque his Sceptrum, gladius, [illegible] [illegible] praefecturam indicat, similiter ex tabula imaginum invenies, [illegible] regiam dignitatem profitentur. Ex Corona dignitatem ex [illegible] praefecturam indicat. Denique qui humana figura [illegible] inferiores sunt iis, qui sub bestiarum imaginibus occurrunt, [illegible] praeterea equites praecellunt peditibus, et secundum omnium illorum [illegible] dignitatem, praecellentia spirituum [illegible], illud
[illegible] spiritus inferioris ordinis, cum [illegible] dignitatis [illegible] spiritibus sublunaris ordinis subesse, et ita [illegible]
[illegible] Reges atque duces, subesse et ministrare [illegible] [illegible] ordinis.

Formae familiares spiritibus
1. Saturni

[Apparent] ut plurimum longo et gracili corpore, vultu [illegible]
[illegible] quatuor habentes, unam in occipitio, alteram in anteriori [illegible] rostratas, in utroque genu apparent etiam facies; sunt [illegible] coloris nigri et perlucidi, motus eorum est ventorum agitatio [illegible] terrae motus, signum eorum est terra alba, qualibet nive
[illegible] formae autem particulares sunt:

Barbatus
Vetula

Apparent corpore sanguineo et cholerico [illegible] in [illegible] blando colloquio [illegible] cum tonitru; signum eorum, apparebunt homines circa circulum a leonibus devorari. Formae particulares sunt hae: Rex gladio evaginato Cervum equitans,
Homo mitratus longa veste,
Puella cum laurea corona ornata floribus,
Taurus,
Cervus,
Pavo,
Azurea veste,
Gladius, Buxus.

3. Formae familiares Spiritibus Martis ♂

Apparebunt longo corpore, cholerico, colore subfusco, aspectu [illegible] cornibus cervinis, et unguibus Gryphi, mugiunt instar taurorum insanorum, motus eorum est quasi ignis comburentis, signum autem erit, fulgur et tonitru iuxta circulum.
Formae autem particulares sunt:

Rex armatus lupum equitans,
Vir armatus,
Mulier clipeum in femore tenens,
Hircus,
Equus,
Cervus,
Rubea veste,
Lana, Multiceps.

4. Apparent ut plurimum amplo [Formae familiares Spiritibus] et magno corpore sanguineo et crasso, aureo colore [Solis ☉] cum tinctura sanguinis, motus eorum est commovere sudorem [illegible]; Formae autem particulares sunt:
Rex habens sceptrum, leonem equitans,
Rex coronatus,
Regina cum sceptro,
Avis,
Leo,
Vestis crocea vel aurea, Sceptrum, Caudatus.

5. Formae familiares [Veneris]
Apparent corpore pulchro, mediae staturae, amabili [illegible] aspectu, colore albo vel viridi ♀ desuper inaurato, motus eorum est sicut stella clarissima, pro eorum signo videbuntur extra Circulum puellae ludentes, quae invocantem ad ludum invitabunt.
Formae autem particulares sunt:
Rex cum sceptro camelum equitans,
Puella pulchre vestita,
Puella nuda,
Capra, Camelus,
Columba,
Vestis alba vel viridis,
Flores,
Sabina herba.

[illegible] in quo convenientes adversarios [illegible] Israel, vel etiam construebatur et conscribebatur [illegible] ante [illegible] versiculus; si vero nomen divinum aliis circumscribere libuerit, accipiatur nomen aliquod significans timorem, gladium, iram, vindictam dei, vel aliquod simile nomen rei desideratae, et effectui congruum. Et si figuras angulares construere libuerit, accipiatur secundum angulorum rationem, sicut docuimus in libro 2 occultae philosophiae, ubi de numeris exposuimus, et ita de similibus operibus. Et in hoc genere sunt duo pentacula sublimis virtutis et magnae potentiae, et ad constrictionem spirituum [illegible] et necessaria. Ex his unum est quod habetur Apocalypsis capite primo, scilicet figura maiestatis dei sedentis in throno, habentis in ore gladium bis acutum, et sic habetur scriptum: Ego sum alpha et omega, principium et finis, qui est, qui erat et qui venturus est, omnipotens. Ego sum primus et novissimus, qui vivens et fui mortuus, et ecce sum vivens in saecula saeculorum, et habeo claves mortis et inferni. Deinde circumscribantur hi tres versiculi: Manda deus virtuti tuae, confirma hoc deus quod operatus es in nobis. Fiant tanquam pulvis a facie venti, et angelus domini coarctans eos. Fiant viae illorum tenebrae et lubricum, et angelus domini persequens eos. Deinde circumscribantur decem nomina generalia, quae sunt: El, Elohim, Elohe, Zebaoth, Elion, Escerchie, Adonay, Iah, Tetragrammaton, Saday. Alterum pentaculum est agnus, [illegible] tanquam occisus, habens cornua septem et oculos septem, et sub pedibus librum septem sigillis obsignatum, sicut habetur Apocalypsis quinto capite; cui circumscribatur versiculus: Ecce vicit leo de tribu Iuda, radix David, aperiam librum et solvam septem signacula eius. Et alter versiculus: Vidi Satanam sicut fulgur de caelo cadentem. Ecce dedi vobis potestatem calcandi super serpentes et scorpiones, et super omnem virtutem inimici, et nihil vobis nocebit. Et circumscribantur decem nomina generalia ut supra. [illegible] pentacula construimus, facta consecratione, aliquam aliorum nominum [illegible]

6. [illegible]

apparebit ut plurimum corpore [illegible] mediocri [illegible] frigido, humido, pulchri et affabiles eloquio, forma humana, instar militis armati, coloris [illegible]; motus eorum est sicut nubes argentea; pro signo faciunt invocanti horrorem.

Formae particulares

Rex ursum equitans adolescens pulcher mulier tenens colum Canis
ursa pica vestis variis coloribus
virga
Baculus

7. Formae familiares spiritibus Lunae

Apparebit ut plurimum magno corpore, amplo, molli et phlegmatico, colore instar nubis obscurae et tenebrosae, vultu tumido, oculis rubeis et aqua plenis, capite calvo, dentibus apri; motus eorum est sicut ingens maris procella; pro signo apparebit ingens pluvia iuxta circulum. Formae autem particulares eorum sunt:

Rex sagittarius damam equitans parvulus puer mulier venatrix cum arcu et sagitta vacca
Damula
Anser
vestis viridis vel argentea Sagitta
multipes

Caeterum de sacris pentaculis atque sigillis nunc dicamus. Sunt autem ipsa pentacula tanquam signa quaedam sacra, a malis eventibus nos custodientia, et ad malorum daemonum constrictionem et exterminationem nos adiuvantia, bonosque spiritus allicientia nobisque conciliantia. Constant autem pentacula ex characteribus et nominibus bonorum spirituum superioris ordinis, seu ex sacris picturis sacrarum literarum seu revelationum, vel ex figuris geometricis, sacrisque dei nominibus [illegible], vel ex multis mixtim compositis. Characteres autem quos ad pentacula construenda assumimus, maxime bonorum [illegible] nobis utiles sunt ipsi characteres bonorum spirituum primi et secundi ordinis, nunquam etiam tertii. Et ex illo characterum genere, quod potissimum sacrum nuncupatur, [illegible] quos supra signavimus, quorumque [illegible] circulo, in quo circumscribendus [illegible] nomen ipsius angeli; et si volumus addere aliud nomen divinum [illegible] ipsi spiritui congruum, maioris erit efficaciae. Et si figuras angulares aliquas [illegible] numerorum ratione [illegible] licebit. Sacrae autem picturae [illegible] in sacris literis [illegible] veteris et novi testamenti traduntur, [illegible] figura [illegible] multa [illegible] et [illegible] consecrantibus [illegible] Esdrae [illegible] et aliorum [illegible] in libris [illegible] et nos de illis locuti sumus in libris occultae philosophiae, ubi de sacris [illegible] imaginum pictura [illegible] nomen aliquod divinum [illegible] circumscribatur [illegible] qui desideratam [illegible] victoria [illegible] ex 2 libro [illegible] mirabilis [illegible] ibidem contentus [illegible] versa [illegible]

Sic etiam pentacula, constituimus, [illegible] vocabulorum, alicuius nominis in tabella quadrata, circulo simplici circundato, vel duplici inscribendo vel scribendo, aliquid sacrum nominis huius competentis, vel ex quo hoc nomen extractum sit, et haec est ratio pentaculorum scribendi modus, cum distinctos quam pro libito ad huius maioris operationis et virtutis intentionem extentionemque possumus, cum sit magis cum aliis multiplicare, et commiscere, veluti fiat deprecatio pro destructione inimicorum, recordemur quomodo deus destruxit in diluvio Gigantum ipsam universam terram, Sodomam et Gomorram per pluviam sulphureis et ignis, Exercitum pharaonis, in mari rubro, et si qui alia dicto reperiuntur, in sacris literis, et sic de similibus, vel deprecamur contra pericula aquarum, recordemur salutis Noe, in diluvio, transitus filiorum Israel, in mari rubro, et meminerimus Christi, siccis pedibus ambulasse super aquas, et eundem servasse naviculam periclitantem ventisque et fluctibus imperasse, et petrum mergentem, eduxisse ex aquis et similiter similibus denique etiam invocamus, sacra quaedam nomina dei, ea videlicet quae desiderii nostri sunt significantia, et ad effectum optatum accomodata, ut ad destructionem inimicorum, invocamus nomina irae vindictae, timoris iustitiae et fortitudinis dei; ad evitandum aliquod malum vel periculum invocamus, nomina, misericordiae, salutis, defensionis, fortitudinis bonitatis, et similia dei nomina, quandoque etiam a deo precamur largiri nobis, aliud quod desideramus, executorem aliquem spiritum bonum, vel plures quorum id quod desideramus, officium est, illius nomen interserentes, sive etiam malos spiritus ad homines cogendos, obtestamus, cuius nomen similiter [illegible] ad mala tendit operatio, vel ad vindictam [illegible], et hoc [illegible] praeterea si quis versiculus in psalmis, vel aliqua parte sacrarum literarum, desiderio nostro congruus habetur [illegible] orationibus nostris inseremus, facta autem oratione ad deum, quandoque [illegible] convenit facere orationem ad executorem illum, quem nobis ministra-[illegible], in oratione praecedenti, sive unus sit, sive plures, sive [illegible], sive stella, sive anima, sive ex [illegible], talis autem oratio componi debet secundum regulas praecedentes, quas nos in libro secundo de occulta philosophia, ubi de componendis incantamentis, tractavimus.

Vincula itaque [illegible] triplici differentia, nam primum vincula [illegible], componuntur per res naturales; secunda componuntur ex mysteriis religionis per sacramenta, miracula, et huiusmodi; tertia constituuntur per divina nomina, sacraque sigillacula, et per huiusmodi vincula, non modo spiritus, sed etiam alias quascunque creaturas, ligamus, ut animalia, tempestates, incendia, diluvia aquarum, et vim armorum, saepe etiam utimur praedictis vinculis, non solum per modum coniurationis sed etiam per modum deprecationis, et benedictionis, praeterea, ad huiusmodi etiam permultum conducit commiscere, [illegible] ex sacris literis ad hoc accommodatum, ut patet in coniuratione serpentis, commemorando maledictionem serpentis in paradiso terrestri, [illegible] serpentis in deserto, praeterea versiculum illum, super aspidem et basiliscum ambulabis, [illegible] plurimum pollet per translationem [illegible]
[illegible], ad id quod ligare, vel impedire intendimus, [illegible] [illegible], excommunicationis, sepulturae, exequiarum, et huiusmodi.

Convenit autem nunc ut tractemus, de consecratione, quae fit per homines [illegible]

[illegible] Circulo [illegible] [illegible] Consecratione libri [illegible] de effectu mali spiritus

[illegible] malo spiritu exequi intendimus [illegible] non est opus, tunc fabricanda sunt illa, quae nobis velut instrumenta [illegible] vel [illegible] operationis, [illegible] puta sit imago, vel annulus, vel scriptum, vel [illegible] aliquid, vel candela, vel sacrificium, sive aliquid huiusmodi, [illegible] cum characteribus, [illegible] experimenti, tunc inscripto nomine spiritus eius [illegible] in sanguine [illegible] vel aliud, fumigio [illegible] exorcizata [illegible] spiritus [illegible] praefatis autem orationibus ad deum et bonos angelos, invocamus spiritum illum malum, commemorando illi potestatem divinam [illegible]

Est aliud genus spirituum ut in libro tertio &c., &c., diximus non adeo noxium, sed hominibus proximum, ita ut passionibus afficiatur humanis, hominisque communicatione gaudet, libenterque habitat in ijsdem, alij vero nemora et sylvas incolunt, alij diversorum animalium domesticorum vel sylvestrium conspectu laetantur, alij fontibus incolunt, et prata, hos itaque spiritus quicunque voluerit, in loco ubi morantur, ut fieri necesse est, suffumigijs odoriferis, et sonis dulcibus fidibus instrumentisque musicis adhoc specialiter compositis, adhibendo cantiones et incantamenta et Carmina, cum laudibus et promissionibus, hi vero obstinati, compellantur [illegible] minis, comminationibus, blasphemijs, maledictionibus, contumelijs, et maxime comminando illis exterminationem ab ijs locis, quibus versantur, et pariter in hac invocatione si opus est conferas te ad exorcismata, maxime autem constantia sit audacia spirituum, quod observare oportet, et animi constantia. Denique invocaturus hos spiritus, debes [illegible] mensam, mundo linteo coopertam, parare in loco invocationis, et aquam, vinum, et lac, in vasis [illegible] in qua locabis, panes recentes, cultellos novos, constructaque igne, in quo suffumigabis [illegible], et circa mensam sedilia, adaptata sint, sedeatque invocans in capite mensae, et libaverit [illegible] spiritibus, coramque ipsos invocando, [illegible] spiritum aliquem ingredi ad [illegible]. Quod si forte timueris spiritum aliquem [illegible], circumscribas circulum, sitque pars mensae, in qua sedebit invocans, intra circulum, reliquum vero extra.

In libro tertio docuimus quomodo, et per quae media anima corporis [illegible], et quid accidit animae post mortem. Scias igitur, ultra haec quae dicta sunt, quod animae etiam adhuc post mortem relicta corpora diligunt, tanquam cognatum aliquod, et eas alliciunt. Quemadmodum sunt animae nocentium hominum quae corpus, suum violenter reliquerunt, et animae debita sepultura carentes, quae adhuc in turbido humidoque spiritu circa cadavera sua oberrant, [illegible] animae cognitis mediis, per quae quondam corporibus suis conjungebantur, per similes vapores, liquores, nidoresque facile alliciuntur, hinc est quod [illegible] invocantur absque sanguine, vel appositione [illegible] animae mortuorum [illegible] partis relictae [illegible] mortuorum [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] invocare [illegible] [illegible] locis [illegible] [illegible] quibus [illegible] animae [illegible] dignoscuntur [illegible] alliciendi, vel propter [illegible] corpus [illegible] vel propter [illegible] passionalibus [illegible] vel [illegible] animae [illegible] cognoscentibus [illegible] [illegible] et [illegible] ita [illegible] locis [illegible] in quibus [illegible] et [illegible] publice [illegible] fuerint adhuc [illegible] [illegible] aliquid [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Ex [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] et [illegible] ad [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] quod [illegible] [illegible] animae [illegible] [illegible] mala violenta morte perijsse [illegible] corpora [illegible] [illegible] ×

+ De circulo, et eius compositione.

Forma circulorum non est una eadem, semper sed [illegible] spirituum invocandorum, eorum locorum, temporum, dierum et horarum mutari solent, oportet enim in construendo circulo, considerare quo tempore anni, quo die, et qua hora facere velis, quos spiritus vocare velis, cui stellae et regioni praesunt, et quas functiones habeant. Fiant igitur tres circuli latitudinis palmi unius, et distent ab alio palmum unum, et in medio circulo, scribe primo nomen horae in qua facis opus, 2 loco nomen angeli horae, tertio sigillum angeli horae, quarto nomen angeli qui dominatur in die in qua facis opus et ministrorum eius, quinto nomen temporis praesentis, sexto nomen spirituum regnantium in ea temporis parte, et praesidentium, septimo nomen capitis signi regnantis in ea parte temporis in qua facis opus, octavo nomen terrae secundum eam partem temporis in qua facis opus, nono et pro complemento medii circuli, scribe nomina solis et lunae secundum dictam rationem temporis, nam sicut mutatur tempus, ita et nomina mutantur. In superiore autem circulo [illegible] et trium ministrorum eius. Et extra circulum [illegible] mutato cum tempore [illegible] angelorum aeri praesidentium eo die, quo facis opus [illegible] quatuor nomina divina, crucibus [illegible] In inferiore circulo scribantur [illegible] in quatuor angulis sunt pentagona, In medio circuli scilicet ad orientem scribatur Alpha, et ad occidente [illegible] interpositis, In medio circuli [illegible] circulo, secundum rationem infrascriptam [illegible] [illegible] medium circuli.

Illud vero scias, quod nomina intelligentiarum presidentium unicuique [illegible] secundum hunc modum constituuntur, accepta ex figura mundi, videlicet ab ortu corporis planete, secundum successionem signorum per singulos gradus, atque ex singulis stellis, ab ipso planeta aspectibus [illegible] a gradu ascendentis. Consimili ratione nomina principum demoniorum malorum spirituum sub singulis planetis presidentium, accipiuntur ordine retrogrado, facta projectione contra successionem signorum ab initio septime domus / nomen supreme intelligentie, quam plerique animam mundi arbitrantur, ex quatuor Cardinibus figure mundi colligitur secundum rationem iam traditam / et per oppositum modum colligitur nomen magni demonis ex [illegible] quatuor angulis Cardinibus. Simili lege nomina magnorum spirituum / presidentium aereis potestatibus [illegible] super quatuor angulis demonum succedentium / ita videlicet ut ad nomen boni spiritus eliciendum, fiat projectio secundum successionem signorum incipiendo a gradu ascendentis / ad nomen vero mali spiritus [illegible]

Illud autem scias, quod nomina malorum spirituum / per has tabulas / extrahuntur ex nominibus tam bonorum quam malorum spirituum / ita tamen si ingredimur tabulam cum nomine spiritus boni, secundi ordinis, nomen mali spiritus extractum erit / de ordine primorum et gubernatorum / si autem ingredimur tabulam cum nomine spiritus boni / tertii ordinis vel cum nomine mali spiritus gubernatoris, quorumque modo extracti sunt per has tabulas sive ex figura celesti / nomina, que que ex his procedunt, sunt malorum demonum / ministrorum inferioris ordinis /

Illud autem sciendum quod quoties ingredimur tabulam cum nominibus spirituum bonis, secundi ordinis, ipsa nomina extracta / sunt secundi ordinis / et, si sub illis extrahamus nomen mali spiritus / ipse est de superiore gubernatorum ordine, idem est si ingredimur cum nomine spiritus mali superioris ordinis, si vero ingredimur hanc tabulam cum nominibus spirituum tertii ordinis, sive spirituum ministrorum, tam bonorum quam malorum nomina extracta, sunt spirituum ministrorum inferioris ordinis.

Multi autem majorum nostrorum non parve auctoritatis cuiusmodi tabulas latinis literis extenderunt / voluerunt / ita ut per easdem tabulas, solum ex nomine officii vel effectus cuiuslibet / nomen spiritus tam boni quam mali / invenirent per eundem modum [illegible] supra traditus est, accepto nomine officii vel effectus / in columna literarum / in sua linea sub suo sidere / [illegible] cuius quidem gravis autor est [illegible] effectus, qui cum hanc calculationem [illegible] literis traduceret [illegible] ut alias aliarum linguarum literas [illegible] et orationibus signis assignatas / [illegible] in sequentibus quid de nominibus spirituum eliciendis [illegible] primus ille extitit [illegible] ergo atque [illegible] figura spirituum nomina [illegible] constat / qui nomen spiritus effecerit / et quibus nomen [illegible] bonorum constituatur. hoc autem artificium ita perficitur [illegible] in locandis vocalibus clararum literarum / que per calculationem figure celestis [illegible] ad nomina spirituum secundi ordinis bonorum / atque malorum presidentium / et gubernatorum eliciendum est advertendum / et hoc in bonis [illegible] consideratis stellis / que literas constituunt, et in ordine [illegible] gradus ascendentis domus / a gradu stelle [illegible] in ordine [illegible] projectio a gradu ascendentis / et ubi numerus [illegible] ibi est pars vocalis primae literae [illegible] ergo ab illa, projectione vocalis [illegible] literarum [illegible] secundum [illegible] et quod ceciderit in locum stelle / que primus est in ordine ea vocalis prime litere [illegible] secunde litere [illegible] gradum stelle / que secunda est in ordine / a stella primi [illegible] quod remanet / projicito ab ascendente et [illegible] est pars [illegible] vocalis / et quod ceciderit super secundam stellam, ea est vocalis secunde litere / et ita in sequentibus [illegible] vocales sequentium literarum semper subtrahendo gradum stelle sequentis a gradu stelle precedentis / [illegible] omnes projectiones atque numerationes in nominibus bonorum [illegible] volunt secundum successionem signorum [illegible] in nominibus [illegible] in bonis [illegible] gradus [illegible] domus [illegible] Domus /

Invisibles Spyritts not into ye stone

You must never call any Spyritt in the stone, yf he be invisible. But you must allway hide thinges to make them fynde yt: And make the do thinges for you that you doe knowe allready to bee done. +

Nota

Invisible hardly beleived

That if any spirit do tell you never the truthe, that be inforced in the stone; you must never say to them that they tell true, for it is doubt yf he be invisible to the [illegible] for if he be visible to the [illegible] he knoweth what he hath to doe; for he must streightly commaund him as followeth. And if he do tell you true truly, whether he be to your sight or not, then you must release him within the space before sayde / And if he do lye to you, then you must streightly punisshe him. And when he doth tell you truly, yet you must punisshe him; for then you must streightly punisshe him againe for that lye, and commaunde him to doe another thinge for you, what you thinke very harde: And if he tell you yt truly, then release him within the tyme aforesayde; and yf he do not tell you truly, then bynde him to tarry very strongly, and strongly then you did at the first, And every daye when his power waxeth [illegible] then punisshe him very streightly. As if he be of the fier, then punisshe him with stinkinge water, either of man or woman; And putt stinkinge thinges into yt; and then putt the stone into yt, and streightly commaunde him to come fourth out of the stone into the water that you did putt him in, and there to tarrye, untill you doe commaunde

And yf he be of the water then take brimstone and burne yt, and commaund him first to goe into some stone for the purpose, and then putt him into the burninge brimstone; and that is for the punisshment of them, recitinge A curse over them. And yf he bee of the Ayer then you must commaunde him to goe fourth of the stone, into some vyle stinkinge mudd, and to tarry in yt, untill you doe commaund him to goe into the stone againe. And yf he be of the Earthe then you must curse him in godes name. And the that will serve them sufficiently. +

Nota Assasels call.

This is the call to have Assasel, which is the first you must call. first your prayer before, the call must be thus, beinge sayd with A good harte. O god of Angells. O god of Archaungells; O god of Patriarches, god of Prophetts; god of us synners, I most wretched synner, doe desier the to be my helpe that this spiritt Assasel, may nowe come and fulfill my will. O lord be my helpe, and assistaunce, that I may by thy power call him, and not by myne owne power. O lord lord be mercifull unto mee, and that the prayer of A synner may be hearde in thine eares. And I charge the Assasel that thou doe prepare thy selfe to come when I call the, which shalbe this nighte; O lorde be my helpe. And sayinge your Pater noster, and Crede, then call him as followethe.

Oratio ad vocandum Assasel.

O thou spyritt Assasel, [illegible] the commaundementes of god, I charge the in the name of Jhesus christ, that thou doe appeare heare visible to my sighte, here without any delaye, I conjure and commaunde the, and by godes power constrayne the that thou doe appeare heare, and doe my commaundementes without any

O thou lovinge Asasel, I charge the that thou do come and appeare heare quickly without any stopp or stay. By these holy names of god I here constrayne the Sabaoth, Adonay, El. Tetragramaton, and by this holye name Aglaon, Laiagin, Lialgagie, that thou doe appeare here quickly that thou doe appeare heare to my syghte, or to the sighte of my scrier. I conjure the and I comaund the, that thou appeare here without any delaye, or tarryinge, Thus I charge the to doe, and lay yt to thy charge at the latter day. And therfore as thou fearest thy god and maker that thou appeare here presently, and fulfill my desier, as may be expedient for a synner. O thou spyritt Asasel, or what other name soever thou hast, I charge the to appeare here, wch art the keper of the deade bones presently, without any staye, and then I wyll release the, And untyll thou have doon yt, I wyll never leave callinge, untyll thou doe come by the power of god. Therfore I charge the, and comaund and constrayne the, to come and appeare for I am the creature of god. O lord be my helpe that this spiryt Asasel may come. And this is the call for hym.

And yf Asasel wyll not come and obay you, say as followeth this sentence.

O thou spiritt Asasel, which hast been take for a noble spyritt and kinge, and I cannot fynde it in the, by thy disobeyinge of gods wordes: Therfore I shall doe as Arke wylleth mee. O thou wicked and rebellious spyritt, that rebellest against gods power, I by gods power accurse the and excomunicate the, and deprive the, and condemne the for thy disobedience. Therfore god the father accurse the, and condemne the, and of thy office deprive the. God the sonn accurse the, god the holy ghoste accurse the and condemne the. All holy Angells accurse the, all Patriarches and Prophetts accurse the: And I myselfe do likewise by gods power doe accurse the for thy disobeyinge; Therfore I charge the come. Amen.

Expellat te Dns ab isto C. sicut p Michaelem principem coelestis ecclesiae, te praecipitantem deiecit a Spiritibus beatis. Eiiciat te Deus sicut eiecit Cain a facie sua. Confundat te Dns sicut linguas volentium aedificare turrim usq ad Coelu nisi sine morâ, terrore, vel tremore mihi vel alicui creaturae ab isto C. in locu tibi praeparatu discedas: dispergat te Creator sicut oia membra tua dispersit aquis diluvii & [illegible] subtraxit de superficie terrae, pluat super te ignem & sulphurem Adonay sicut super Sodomam & Gomorrham, & fumus superbiae tuae ascendat in conspectu altissimi ut confu-maria: Flagellet te Sabaoth flagellis maximis sicut Pharaonem & domu eius propter Saram uxorem Abrahae, nisi cu oi festinatione in posterum & in pace ab isto C. discedas. Occidat te Saday, sicut Her primogenitu Judae eo quod esset nequa in conspectu Dni, percutiat te Emanuel sicut Onam eo quod rem detestabilem faceret ne liberi fratris nomine nascerentur:
Devoret te ignis infernalis, sicut virga Aaron devoravit virgas maleficioru, nisi celeriter te sine nocumento mihi vel alicui creaturae ab isto C. submoveas. percutiat te Sother sicut Aegypti per manus Moysi & Aaron ita quod perempta aqua fluminis in sanguine vertebantur et putrefieret & pisces morerentur, percutiat te Agios sicut eiusdem Aegipti ranis, ita ut per domos & lectos, per furnos & clibanos, & per cuncta loca intrarent ranae, percutiat te Ischyros, sicut percutiens pulverem Aegipti facti sunt cyniphes in hominibus & iumentis per totam terram, nisi sine ulla procrastinatione & omni cum celeritate fugias ab ipso C.
Impleat te Athros cunctis generibus formicarum & dolorum sicut domos Aegiptioru muscaru gravissim: diversis generibus ita ut corrumperetur terra. percutiat te Tetragramaton peste valde gravi; sicut Aegiptioru agros, equos, asinos, camelos, boves, & oves, ita ut morerentur.
percutiat te Athanatos, sicut sparsa cinere de camino percussit populu & Pharaonem ulceribus vesicaru turgentiu nisi sine laesione ullius creaturae omni mora postposita te ab isto C. ad locu tibi a Deo praeparatu removeas. Confringat Jehova omnes vires tuas & ab isto C. pacifice discedas. Manus gravissima valida Dei sit super te, sicut fuit super Philisthaeos propter arcam Dei translatam in templo Dagon. percutiat te Deus sicut per Angelum suum percussit castra Assiriorum. Confringat caput & abscindat manus Deus nisi festinanter ab isto C. in pace discedas sicut abscissae sunt palmae & caput maledicti Dagon. cecidit Golia lapide fronti infixa. Tradat te Deus sicut te Deus exercituum sicut David te Deus ab hoc C. sicut dividuntur aquae & sicut David dis sicut Saulem spiritui immundo: Dividat te Deus in patibulo inferni sicut suspensi fuerunt vij de filiis Saul castra Philisteorum. Suspendat te Deus in patibulo inferni sicut Baal. Devoret te ignis de Caelo sicut Interficiat te Deus Israel sicut interfecit prophetas Baal devoravit duos principes & quinquagenarios primos & secundos Ochoziae nisi ab isto C. discedas.

Effundat super te Dns furorem suum, sicut per virum indutum lineis & atramentario in dorso effudit super Hierusalem. Praecipitet te Deus in infernum sicut Jesu praecipitari fecit Jezabel. Servavit super te [illegible] sicut comedat te canes infernales, sicut canes comederunt eam. C. discedas. Apprehendat te dextra Dei Asmodeus Daemon super vij viros, nisi eam sine mora ab isto C. apprehensus & religatus fuit si vel alibi
& religet in Barathro, sicut per Angelum Raphaelem gladio [illegible] & [illegible] sua, & Daemon in deserto superioris Aegypti. Evaginet Deus gladium [illegible] discedas, sicut Judith percussit Holophernem apprehendens comam capitis sui percutiat donec ad infernum discedas, sicut interfecit viros mittentes Sydrach, amputavit caput eius. Interficiat te flamma ignis sicut interfecit viros mittentes Commoveat & dissipet te Misach & Abednego in fornace, nisi iam meo iussu ab isto C. discedas. Intromittat te Deus Leones infernales, sicut Leones comminuerunt viros accusantes Danielem qui causa perditionis fuerunt Danielis, ita in Barathri lacum sicut intromisit in lacum illos qui causa perditionis fuerunt. Herodes vermibus ut devorari in momento; percutiat te Deus per Angelum suum, sicut percussit vendentes & ementes e templo, ejiciat non daret gloriam Deo. Ejiciat vos flagello [illegible], sicut ejecit nisi statim pacifice ab isto C. discedas. Confun [illegible] furore sicut subvertit mensas nummulariorum Daemonia in porcos [illegible]. Confun Ejiciat te Deus Jesus in mare inferni sicut eos praecipitavit & praecipit in Maria Magdalena, ejiciat te dat te xpus sicut confessus exivit in multis millibus & praecipit surdo & muto Spui. Ego praecipio tibi, ab hoc C. xpus sicut ejecit Spum Lunaticum muti & surdum sicut ejecit Daemonium a filia Cananaea ab eo & amplius non introeas in eum. Ejiciat te Deus xpus sicut praecipitavit Suspendat Deus & alterum ab homine in Synagoga, & alia multa in suo nomine praecipitavit retrorsum sicut turba veniat in collo tuo, ut demergat in profundum, percutiat te Dns ut cadas retrorsum sicut turba cum lignis & armis volentes comprehendere illum, nisi iam statim ab isto C. discedas. Interficiat te sicut interfecit duos falsos testes maliciose accusantes Susannam. Suspendat te Dns furca inferni sicut Judas Laqueo. Tradat te Deus aeterno [illegible] tortoribus infernalibus donec reddas tia authoritati meae. Retribuat tibi Dns facienti malum juxta malitiam tuam, & sicut claudi [illegible] in regnum Dei donec feceris quae praecipio tibi. Contremiscat & fugiet te cum operibus tuis famulantibus ad invocationem Jesu xpi. Tradat te Deus corruentem ante pedes tuos & dispergaris per omnia tormenta inferni. Conterat duritiem superbiae tuae nunc, & semper in saecula saeculorum. Mittat Dns bestias inferni quae consumant te, ut ad nihilum redigantur in iniquitate tua ab hoc sine mora ab hoc C. aufugias. Affligat te valde Dns donec confitearis iniquitatem tuam & deducant
C. fugias sint stratae in nomine Dei ignei serpentes inimici tui, trahant te ab isto C. & deducant in Barathrum. percutiat te Dns egestate lepra, febri, frigore, ardore, aestu, aere corrupto, ac rubigine & donec pacifice ab isto C. discedas persequantur te & deinde in sempiternum. Humilitate

3. day of Judgement of our Lord Jesus xpt. that you shall labour to set love & amity betweene N & M. without any fained friendship, fraud dissimulation or crafty colouring of love or amity, & to cause the said N. so to burne with the love of M: that she said N. may neither eate drinke, sleepe or doe any thing untill N. have the company & dayly enjoy the company of M. as the said N. shall at all tymes desire. If ye precept & request of me if you shall despise or neglect to accomplish & performe as I comand, God condemne you with everlasting torments whose names you despise, condemne & violate his wisdome, Graunt this Our Lord & your Jesus xpt wch in ye trinity doth live & raigne world without end. Amen /

To Compell a Spirit to Speake.

Thou Spirit thou knowest yt God doth live + Christ doth overcome + Christ doth rule in heaven in earth, in hel, in ye water, & in all places: by ye truth of God I coniure thee, by ye will of God I do constraine thee by ye omnipotency & power of our Lord I do bind & comand thee, & by all the holy names of God Messias + Sother + Emanuel + Sabaoth + Adonay + Unigenitus + via + spes + veritas + Homousion + Saday + α & ω + xpt + caput Jesus the Sonne of ye Virgin Mary wch shall come to iudge ye quicke & ye dead & ye world by fire Amen. I doe comitt thee unto ye hands of ye infernall Spirits, Lucifer, Beucalbus, Sathan & Baciton, to be tormented in fire & brimstone untill thou hast done my will fi. fi. fi. Amen — O St Michael ye Archangel of God, I aske & beseech thee by the vertue of those 7 words wch our Lord Jesus xpt spake saying, father, forgive them they know not what they doe! by the second word, wch our Lord God spake saying thou shalt this day be with me in Paradise. by his 3d word: woman behold thy sonne & to his disciple behold thy mother. by his 4th word, my God my God why hast thou forsaken me! by ye 5 word I thirst by ye 6 word I comend my Spirit. by the seventh, it is finished. that thou dispatch into this place, keep & hold fast this Spirit in fire burninge wth brimstone till this tyme he shall tell me the truth in all questions I shall aske of him wthout deceit by ye vertue & power of Jesus xpt wch shall come to iudge the quicke & ye dead & the world by fire. Also I coniure thee by the most excellent name of God Tetragramaton & by the inestimable power thereof & by ye blessed Archangel St Michaell who fought & drove all infernall Spirits out of that blessed place where God at the first created them, & by the Annunciation of blessed virgin Mary ye mother of our Lord Jesus xpt, & by the Nativity, passion, death, resurrection & ascension, & by that incomparable sorrowe of ye virgin Mary for ye death of her sonne Jesus xpt, & by the darkninge of that same at ye hower of his death & by the rentinge of the temple in the tyme of his death, & by all things that were done in heaven, earth, or hell, that thou make presently a gentle, mild & peaceable answer truly & directly to all such things as I shall demaund of thee without fraud feare, lying or any other deceit that I may be truly certifyed of the truth. Graunt this the father sonne & holy ghost, to whome be honour & praise world without end Amen.

Consecratio Gladij

Take a faire bright sword with a crosse like an arming sword, & he that shall be the Consecrator of it must be fasting & pure, havinge (at ye least) a stole about his necke, & standing before the altar, upon which must be said at that tyme, missa Spus Sancti, he must hold ye sword betweene both his hands with ye ~~point~~ ~~pomell~~ pomell ~~downwards~~ upwards & ye point downward so done, hold it still about the middst with thy left hand & holding up thy right hand say as followeth. O thou sword I coniure thee & also charge thee by the ~~[illegible]~~ vertue of god ye father Almighty, by the vertue of god the Sonne, & by ye vertue of ye holy ghost, & by all things that ever were done or spoken either in heaven or earth, & by ye virginity of St Mary the virgin mother of our Lord Jesus xpt, & by ye virginity of St John the Evangelist, & by ye fearfull day of iudgment that thou become unto me a sword consecrated to be unto me a protection & help against all aeriall, watery, fiery & earthly spiritts, that when they are shewen or shaken all evill spiritts that behold it may feare & tremble & may be obedient unto my will & most benignely fulfill my requests & desyres. O thou sword I coniure thee by ye brightnes of Cherubims, the wch with a sword burning drave Adam out of paradice for transgression of the precepts of God. I adiure thee also by the sword of Salomon, the which he alwayes used in the callinge of Spirits, & by the Lance which pearced the heart of our Lord Jesus xpt, that thou be unto me a sword consecrated & blessed & o Lord Jesus xpt vouchsafe to blesse thee + & sanctify thee + that I may be able to subdue & overcome with thee all evill wicked & deceitfull spirits, through the vertue of God the Father, who liveth & raigneth world without end Amen.

Then let the Consecrator make a crosse upon the sword with holy oyle, then kneele kisse ye crosse, rise up, take the sword in his right hand, & comand his fellow wch shall be Mr in this worke to kneele downe, lay the bare sword upon his head, & say./

O sword to thee doe I give power through the vertue of Xpts blood to teach, to [illegible] to beare & governe this consecrated sword, to use it & to worke with it in all necessary things in this art & worke, & like ~~as~~ as ye Angel with a bright flaming sword did expell & drive Adam out of Paradice into this vale of misery, so mayst thou be able through the vertue of this holy & consecrated sword to overcome all deceits & all false pretences of all evill spirits, that they may be obedient unto thy will, & that thou maist mightily constrayne to do all such things, as thou of them shalt require. Graunt this o holy ghost the which doth raigne god with the father & the Sonn & without end. Amen.

Our Lord Jesus Xpt graunt unto thee strength for his infinite mercy & goodness that thou maist not faint in these works wch thou doest by the grace of God & by his sufferance entend to goe about & worke, but without feare & dread to the company, this sword may feare ye evill & wicked spirits whose nature is evill to every man, doe thou allwayes faithfully & strongly desyre helpe & comfort of that loving Lord Jesus Xpt who was himselfe approved by the false Tempter Sathan & mightily withstood him, so doe thou arme thy selfe with ye armour of faith, that in the callinge of wicked spirits, they shall not be able to resist thee but to be obedient to thy will through our Lord Jesus Xpt who raigneth world without end. Amen./

Then lett him rise up with the sword of peace makeinge courtesy & obedience to the Alter kneeling downe wrap the sword about with a stole & blesse ye Mr with in noie patris + & filij + & spus sancti + Amen. he holding the sword in his right hand./

Consecratio Annuli.

O thou creature of God thou ringe I coniure thee which was blessed & annointed [by] king Solomon wth oyle Olive, to blesse & thee I adiure thee to be blessed through Jesus Xpt the sonne of the living God, that thou maist have the forme, the figure, vertue, & power for that purpose that thou art ordeined for: and like as in the arke of God in the old Testament the golden ring was borne so be thou to this faithfull servant of the true science [illegible] servant of God N a token of knowledg unto this [illegible] he may have helpe of thee, & through [illegible] of calling of Spirits that when thou art held up he may [illegible] all evill spirits & compell them to shew & [illegible] to shew to him the thy vertue he may subdue the power of [illegible] all such things as he desyreth [illegible] make him a true assurance of all such things [illegible] to make him perfect through Jesus [illegible] truth of all hidden things & in the secretts of spirits [illegible] thou ringe in whose figure of round [illegible] Xpt our Lord I coniure thee thou creature of God [illegible] & perfect knowledge of Jesus [illegible] the world [illegible] & all figures [illegible] all the names of all the orders [illegible] all things in the world be fixed, I coniure thee by all the names [illegible] & by that highnes in the forme of thee [illegible] the moving of the 7 planets & [illegible] & have such vertue of [illegible] angells & all the [illegible] of God Tetragrammaton which is ingraven in thee that thou mayst [illegible] spirit or spirits soever [illegible] & in fulnesse of the grace of Jesus Xpt, that unto what spirit or spirits the bearer of it, & through [illegible] shewed, that they be brought to such feare & honour of the [illegible] & by the precept & will of thy blessed name they may be made afrayd & obey [illegible] except [illegible] thy faithfull servant of God N. & to [illegible] continuall [illegible] to lye nor to tell any false tales, to depart & that they have noe power to [illegible] but that thou be [illegible] nor worke evill [illegible] falshood when thou art shewed [illegible] in thee a blessed end with this ring through ye grace of God that worketh [illegible] all evill spirits through this blessed consecrated Ringe to subdue & overcome all evill spirits through [illegible] & the holy Ghost [illegible] Sonne of God which liveth with God the father & the holy Ghost world without end Amen

Christalli opera perfectissima.

Oratio ante operis inceptionem.

O Lord God Allmighty & omnipotent father, Sonne & holy Ghost graunt unto me thy servant although unworthy to know thee above all things to desyre thee to live according to thy will, and finally to finish the course of this life after thy godly pleasure, for I know perfectly & confesse openly thou art the fountaine & originall of goodness, of every godly desyre, of every knowledge & science & of ye right continuance of ye same: thou madest ye first man Adam in all naturall things perfect & endued with sufficient knowledg: Thou didst give unto thy servants Bezaleel & Aholiab knowledge to invent all kind of works in mettalls, thou gavest unto thy servant Salomon an heart apt unto wisdome, thou hast inspired ye hearts of all thy prophets, thou hast also said aske & it shall be given you, seeke & you shall find, knock & it shall be opened unto you. Therefore I most humbly beseech thee gentle God my redeemer conservour & Protector to lighten myne heart that I may aske such things as may be to thyne honour & glory of thy most holy name: And lett it not displease thee o omnipotent king I beseech thee that I a wretched sinner doe aske & desire by thy mercy to be instructed in these naturall things & secrets that albeit being unknowne by ye first, mayst be knowen by the last, [illegible] is by thyne operation glorious, give me by thy grace good God to know these things & rightly without impediment or lett either of ye world or devill, that all being this my purpose to passe with an heart evermore stablished in thee, that all I doe may be to ye laud & honour of thy most holy name, graunt this my petition for Jesus Xpt his sake my God & thy Sonne which livest &c.

The invocation of Salomon.

First then being prepared (in) thy conscience cleane & sad in devotion ye tyme & weather correspondent for that purpose, goe then into some apt place, having with thee a child of 14 yeares & having a christall or berill stone upon & round the which ye child holding in his hand begin thus In nomine patris & filij & spus sctj. Amen.

O Lord heare my prayer & lett my cry come unto thee.

O Lord I beseech thee guide me in all my doings that they may by thee being begunne, may also in thy feare & according to thy most holy will be ended, through Xpt o^r Lord. Amen.

Oremus.

O God wch didst send downe thy holy ghost sometime upon thine Apostles vouchsafe to send downe thy grace upon us thy servants heare congregated in thy feare & lighten the eyes of understanding good Lord of thy servant N that in ye spirit of truth he may heare & see thy creatures most plainly & perfectly speake the truth & give the answers of those things wch we covett to know taking thee to witnes most righteous judge that we doe it not for ye hurt of any but for ye reliefe of our poore estate, o most mercifull father we beseech thee to send thy good Angells from above to guide us in the truth & to strengthen us in all our studies & labours for the love of Xpt Jesus doe crave & desire the same Amen

A devout prayer for the Christall.

O God wch hast in herbs trees stones & mettalls hast placed [illegible] vertue [illegible] we beseech thee, even at this instant this Christall stone & blesse it good Lord we beseech thee, with the abundance of thy blessings, that it may be a receptacle for thy good Angells & ministers, And graunt that by thy holy names & blessings all diabolicall enticements may avoid from us & it, & that by ye vertue of thy grace & holy spirit nothing may remaine in us which may hinder the same, by Christ Jesus o^r Lord. [illegible]

An Angells Sight.

First take a pen full of Sallet oyle, & write on the middest of the gl[illegible] or stone, ~~Hermoty~~ Hermely, then turne thy backe South & thy fa[illegible] North, set the child betweene thy leggs & say as followeth.

O most merveilous & everlastinge God, thy power is in all, beyond a[illegible] & over all, thy secrett wisdome hath made all things, preserved all the[illegible] & keepeth all things in their order waight & measure which art the auther of all truth it selfe, & because thou art the perfect truth, th[illegible] hatest all those that tell lyes, there shall none such dwell in thy house, I know o Lord that in thy habitacle, are none unjust, lying or false Angells, but righteous, true, & just Angells ready & obedient to doe thy will. O most gratious God that art more ready to give, then we to aske, & giveth more then either wee desyre or deserve, vouchsafe to heare our humble prayers & graunt our request, that we may have to doe our wills in all honest & good causes, three of thy true just & godly Angells, which have true hearts, true tonges & just lipps, without any kind of leasinge, & that none unjust lying or false Angells may have any power to appeare in these places to mocke or delude us at any tyme, or [illegible] whensoever or wheresoever for Jesus Xpt his sake thy deare Sonne, heare this our prayer & grant this our request. Amen.

Then make the signe of the Crosse in the forehead of the child with thy thombe, & let the child say one pr nr an Ave Maria & a Cr: let him also say after that these names of God. On + El + Ely + Eloy + Messias + Sother Emanuel Sabao[illegible] in noie patris + & filij + & spus scti + Amen.

Then say to thy selfe

O Lord Jesus Xpt King of glory by vertue of these which [illegible] send unto us 3 of thy go[illegible] this name Hermely, & by thy power & mercy, into the middest of this glasse or Angells from thy right hand of glory into the middest of this child, lett them make appear[illegible] Christall to the visible sight of this child [illegible] true judgement to the virgin child true judgment & lett them give true judgement unto us without all deceit or fraud things doubtfull & uncertaine unto us [illegible] in nomine patris &c

Say this foresaid prayer 3 times & [illegible] thy child [illegible] honest reque[illegible] Angells that will [illegible] thee [illegible] them will demaunde

This is a apperaicion & a devine, whose effect is great because that by it thou mayst see all things that are under or above the 4. Elements & know all things to come which come by the course of nature. Make a glasse of christall which is proper neat & well polish[illegible] [illegible] whose body is not polluted with women [illegible] upon the name [illegible] so that it be upon the backe side of it, then lay it [illegible] or [illegible] & thy [illegible] masses be songe, & then take it away & set it in [illegible] & must be [illegible] upon the [illegible] must be graven & made ready upon the day of ♃ or ♀ [illegible] dayes aforesaid, but lett the worker be cleane fro women, & abstaine as much as [illegible] from all filthy pollutions [illegible] any thing that is in the end of the world, or else if any of yours doe aske you of any doubtfull thing, then put your glasse against ~~your~~ eye of the ☉ so that the ☉ may cast his beames upon it, & marke diligently & say these five prayers after one manner & forme as followeth.

The first of St John Baptist or Evangelist.
The second of ye blessed virgin St Marye
The third of ye passion of our Lord
The fourth of ye ascension of ye Lord
The fift of Longius.

The manner of ye prayer of St John ye Evangelist or Baptist is as followeth.

O Lord God before whose sight are all things both in heaven & in earth, & in the deep sea, & in all deep places, I do beseech thee by thy holy name Agla, & by the meritts & deserts of St John Bapt: or Evang: that I may see in this glasse how such a matter standeth which I am in doubt of, or which I demaund. And if it be a fortunate or a lucky thinge, you shall see white points or little ascending upward a pace in the glasse, if you doe enquire of man, or beast, or a booke, or any materiall matter, the forme & fashion of thinge, even right as it is indeed will appeare in the glasse; if it will not with ye prayer, saye the prayer of our blessed Lady the virgin Mary.

O Lord my God &c. of the blessed virgin Mary, mother of our Lord Jesus Xpt &c. ut supra

O Lord &c. & by ye meritts of thy most blessed passion which thou hast suffered for us sinners, that, &c

O Lord &c. of thy glorious ascension [illegible] & by ye [illegible] all ye glorious company of angells [illegible] rejoyce & are glad & all the company of all thy Saints & Saintesses, how this thing standeth &c

O Lord &c & by ye prayer of St Longius the blind knight that perced thy most precious side with a speare, & by the deserts & prayers of all thy Saints & Saintesses, that I may [illegible] this glasse &c. And for certaine the thinge shall appeare in his proper forme & shape, yea though it were in the bottome of the Sea: if you will worke to find out treasure, or els to gett knowledge of sicknes, be first confessed & looke that you be cleane both in body & soule & also in apparell, you must allwayes take diligent heed & beware that you say not the foresaid prayers, about any lustfull or filthy thinge deed or thing, for truly if you doe you may catch hurt by it, as it hath bin proved; for thereby one yongman lost his eye another his senses another his witts.

To consecrate the glasse.

[illegible] the glasse & [illegible] in the most [illegible] blessed [illegible] more you lay it upon the Altar till 9 Masses be sung, ye 1 of ye Angells ye 5 of Evangelists, ye 2 of our Lady the 3 of ye holy Crosse, ye 4 of ye holy Ghost, ye [illegible] of all Sts the 9 of the three kings 6 of St John Bapt: [illegible] Then the last inclose it & sprinckle it with holy water & fume it with Frankincense, & at the end of every masse let the gospell of St John be read In principio erat verbum &c

And in any case keep it cleane.

Whosoever beareth this prayer upon him needeth not to feare any of his ene eyther bodily or ghostly nor to be drowned or burned, nor to dy any evill death, & if he be accused before a Judge he shall have his favour & goall, of the thing that he aske in any true cause, & if there be any tempest upon ye sea, take some wate a dish, & make 3 crosses over it with this letter, & cast it into the sea at the quarters of ye shipp & ye tempest shall cease, this hath bin proved. And if a woman travailing with child take cleane water of ye well, & put it in a dish & make 3 crosses over it with this letter & say 3 pr nrs, 3 Av. 3 cred. & give her water to drinke shee shall have speedy deliverance & ye child right shape & christendome & ye woman good purification. And if that a man beare this letter upon him in field or towne, house or pasture, & blesse his house or pastur wth this letter at ye 4 corners thereof, ther shall noe theeves carry away his go but stand still till he give them leave to depart. & it keepeth a man from ill agues. & if thou touch the bare flesh of thy enemy with this letter, he sha be thy friend. & if a man be poisoned & blesse himselfe wth this letter he sha be saved, & this tre hath many more vertues wch no man knoweth but God al

An experiment often proued to cause a theefe to come by proper person whersoever he be by this experiment if thou haue the right vse thereof thou mayst cause him to come to thee at thy pleasure.

First looke that ☉ be in ♈ then marke the new ☽ while ☽ is that signe & ye first monday after ye new ☽ the ☉ being still in ♈ thou shalt worke thus. Take virgins waxe or parchment y^t neuer touched fire nor water & make two Images like the proportion of a man & a woman so that thou mayst haue them at all tymes at thy pleasure, also if it be made in waxe it must be made by the heate of y^e ☉ & not by fire. This done write in ye forehead of one of them this word [illegible] with this Char: & in the crowne of the head Sibika or Vticia with this Char: & in the nowle of ye head this word Azena with this Char: & in ye breast or heart these words Ehemar emalegra or this word malagne with this Char: & make this Char. followinge in ye back against it

Then when thou wilt worke make a fire of Eglantine dried, then take the worke & hold it in thy hands saying this prayer followinge. O God ruler of all things vnto whom noe secrets are hidden we humbly beseech thy maiesty that the theefe wch hath comitted this theft thou wilt vouchsafe to bringe againe to vs that through the shame of this theft, he may be drawn to come to worthy pennance & repentance through Christ our Lord. Amen./

Almighty & everlasting god the true discerner of all things both manifest & hidden vnto whom noe secrets are vnknowne I humbly beseech thee that by calling vpon thy holy names thou wilt comand thy cleane Spirits Sabaoth, Vriel & Raguel to obey my precepts & comandements in this my worke that ye theefe coming vnto me may openly confesse his fault & evill deed before vs wheresoever we shall be eyther in this place, or elsewhere that in the holy Church we may give thanks & laude to thee through thy Sonne our Lord Jesus Xpt who liveth and reigneth with thee in the vnity of the holy ghost, God, world without end, Amen./

Then say thy prayers with this verse followinge; O Lord quicken vs, & thy people shall reioyce in thee.

Then hold the worke before the fire but beware it touch it not or melt the same & say.

I Comand & call you Angells of Sabaoth Vriel & Raguel & pray you by the ~~prayer~~ power of the right God the Father, the Sonne, & the holy Ghost, & of these names of God that I doe call vpon that you doe helpe me, Ego sum, qui sum, α & ω the first & the last, by Agla & by that holy name of God Tetragrammaton & by ye name of Jesus by vertue whereof all knees doe bowe & obey in heaven, in earth & in hell, & the voice of heaven in which you are, that yee force & constraine this theefe which hath stollen these things, in what place of the world soever he or they be, by the virtue of these Characters that are hereon written in all places of his body as is on this Image which now I strike (& then strike it with Eglantine) so that he rest not day nor night, sittinge, goinge, sleepinge, wakinge, eatinge or drincking, & that his heart & long to me melt & warme as this waxe doth at this fire vntill he come againe & confesse his fault, in nomine patris & filij & Spus sancti. Amen.

This vse day by day till he come & say it first on the crowne of the head, then of the backe &c. & if he be in all the world he will come in 2 weeks./

Then must keep this Image in a cleane Lynnen cloath & in a Cleane Chest, & as it happeneth to the Image So will it happen to the theefe.

Gloriosa – – Passio – – Domini – – nostri – – Jesu

✠ IHS O father of heaven one God in substance & three in person, God of Abraham, God of Isaac and God of Jacob, which sufferedst thy deare [illegible] to come & thyselfe to be Trinity, for our sin in suffering death upon the Crosse: thou which didst deliver the three Children out of the fire fornace, Susanna from the false witnesses, O Lord & Saviour Jesu Christe, as thou didst deliver Daniel from the lions den, & didst raise Lazarus from death after he had been dead iiii dayes in the grave, & didst appeare unto Moyses in mount Sinai in a burning flame [illegible] I beseech thee O Lord that what spirit soever shall be called into this Circle in Christall stone or glasse, that forthwith he may be compelled to appeare really & visibly to the Caller, & being appeared may by the virtue of thyne excellent power, through this prayer, characters & bond, be firmely bound & constrayned to answere truely to all lawfull & honest demaunds without all fraud or equivocation words or to the true meaning of the Caller; & that being commaunded he may be constrayned to bring backe any murtherer theife, or stolen goods, to any place appointed without hurting any of thy creatures; because thou hast said that in the vertue of thy holy name is infinite power to the faythfull of comming & beleeving spirits. O Lord & Jesus Christ which art the way, the truth & the life, King of glory, Father, Sonne & Holy Ghost, O King of Kings, & Lord of Lords the true redeemer of the world, vouchsafe me my request, & graunt me the power of thy mighty name, that what spirit soever shall be called into this Circle, may by thy omnipotent power be made obedient, by the vertue of these thy most holy names + Messias + Sother + Emanuell + Adonay + Tetragrammaton + Adonay + Theos + Panton + Saluator + Alpha & Omega. O Christ [illegible] call & most mercifull Father with all my strength & mind, & with all mine hart & soule I humbly beseech thee, as thou didst cast the 7 divells out of Mary Magdalen, & didst vouchsafe Thomas unbeleeving to put his hand into the wounds of thy most glorious side; as thou didst ascend wonderfull out of [illegible] into heaven to the admiration of all spectatours, & sittest at the right hand of thy Father, that thou shalt come to iudge both the quicke & the dead & the world by fire, so I beseech graunt this present prayer, characters, bond & Circle be truely constrayned & of sufficient force to constrayne any spirit that shall be called into it, & that he shall [illegible] being called but to appeare [illegible] by spirit, really, truely, & visibly, in his true & proper shape & fourme, & obediently whatsoever shall be commaunded him without any illusion of the Caller his request. Graunt this O Lord for thy deare sonne his sake our Lord & Saviour Jesus Christ to whome be all honour & glory & [illegible] in secula seculorum. Amen. O ye glorious Angells & archangells + Michaell + Gabriell + Raphaell + Uriel + with [illegible] & mission [illegible] this spirit to [illegible] in nomine Patris Filij et Spiritus Sancti Amen.

my [illegible] thou spirit of what nature name office or dignitie soever thou be of, that art here within this circle

✠ An [illegible] by the name of [illegible] thou spirit [illegible] to yeeld thee obedient to appeare within this Circle & Christall in a true essentiall appearance, be thou constrayned & bound [illegible] free from false illusion of any of the Callers [illegible] & to answere truely unto what shall be demaunded [illegible] shape & fourme without any false illusion [illegible] & to performe what shall be commaunded & truely, so farre forth as thy office power & [illegible] of thee without any fraude or equivocation, & [illegible] hurting any of Gods creatures directly or indirectly. Be thou therefore constrayned by the infinite word [illegible] which made man after his owne image, & that all things [illegible] be thou constrayned by his [illegible] by the [illegible] the redeemed [illegible] pride & rebellion. Be thou obedient unto the Callers demaund [illegible] condemne thee for thy pride & [illegible] thee into subiection [illegible] superiour & by his most holy name [illegible] mankind, & by the power [illegible] by whose commandement [illegible]

The Vision of Humfry Smith wch he saw concerning London, In the fift moneth, in the Yeare 1660 being not long after her king came into her. and Printed by Thomas Simmons, at the Signe of the Bull & Mouth neare Aldersgate

Concerning the great Citty of London.

I beheld all her Waters wch belonged to her frozen up, and that exceeding hard, and the vessells which went upon them, so yt I and others passed over her waters without the least danger, and over the greatest vessells which had carryed her Merchandize; ffor all was frozen with a mighty freezing, whereby all her goodly Merchandize were stopt, and her mighty swift waters were turned into a mighty thick frozen Ice, wch stood still so yt her pleasant streames ran no more.

And as for ye Citty her selfe & her suburbs, and all yt belonged to her, a ffire was kindled therein but she knew not how, even in all her goodly places and ye kindling of it was in ye ffoundacons of all her buildings, and there was none could quench it for it was like unto mountains of fire, neither was there any able, neither did any make to quench it, and ye burning thereof was exceeding great and it burned inward in a hidden manner [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] God [illegible] [illegible] lifted up [illegible] thought the foundacon was burnt up, and all ye lofty ꝑt brought downe (by ye fire) yet there was much old stuffe, and ꝑt of broken desolate walls and buildings in the midst, which ye ffire continued burning agst; And yt wch was taken as to make use of, which yet escaped ye ffire, became uselesse in mans hand as a thing of nought. And ye vision hereof remayned in me as a thing yt was secretly shewed me of the Lord.

And now let her wise men finde out the matter, and her prudent men read ye parable, and her divines (so called) interpret ye vision (And let her know yt her day is at hand) And lett every one of them looke to their owne wayes.

Elizabeth the daughter of the Lady Jennins a child now 13 yeares of age being in Thistleworth) (shortly after she was frighted wth the sight of an old woman who suddenly appeared to her att the dore and demaunded a pin of her) was taken wth an infirmitie in her throate aboute the 13th of January refusing ev(er) after all manner of fleshe meate.
The 15th of ffebruary she complained to be exceeding sicke, and from that p(re)sent time lost the use of both her leggs. The 19th day at night she was taken wth extreame fitts of panting and sighing and began to talke idlely and growe very ill, in so much that her parents fearing her death sent p(re)sently to London for Doctor ffox, who brought her being very sicke, to London with him, where she continued languishing complaining of aches in diu(er)s p(ar)ts of her bodie and often weeping extreamely.
About the end of ffebruary every night after midnight she had a great fitt of sighing and groaning expressing diu(er)s paines in her knees, armes, head & heart very suddainely removing from one of these p(ar)ts to another, and at last being setled in the head and heart, she would then lye continually sighing & groaning 4 howers at the least as if death were att hand. The 17th of March at night she had an exceeding great fitt of strange convulsions, noe p(ar)te of her bodie being free, wch lasted the greatest p(ar)te of the night, After wch fitt her understanding was very much weakned, and her memory of all things past quite lost; And shortly after all her right side was benummed, and her right arme lost all motion and sence as if it had bin taken wth a dead palsie. And after this these fitts of convulsions nev(er) failed coming once or twice in 24 howers but only for 4 or 5 daies about fortnight before her recoverie, and in her fitts her dead arme was as violently moved as any other p(ar)te of her bodie. During this time many things were applyed by the physitions for her helpe but all invaine, the medicines rather producing contrarie effects. On Easter eave

These haue bewitched all my mothers Children.
East, west, north and South all these lye.
All these are damnable witches.
Sett vp a great Spring of Rosemarie in the middle of the house.
I haue sent this Childe to speake to them all these witches.
Put Countesse in prison this Childe will be well.
If she had bin long agoe all the other had bin aliue.
Them she bewitched by a Catsticke.
Till then I shall lye in great paine.
Till then by fitts I shalbe in great extremitie.
They dyed in great miserie.
A hundred more haue bin hanged in the west Contry.

[illegible]

And noe sooner was the fitt ended but she remained speechles and in her palshe as before. That evening her Parents (hauing sett downe the words aforesaid by her spoken) resorted to Sr William Slingsbye the next Justice to aduise what to doe: And they found the meanes to bring Countesse to him to be examined she not knowing their intent. whose examination followeth.

The examination of Margarett Russell als Countesse taken before Sr Wm: Slingsbye kt one of the Justices of the peace in the Countye of Midd. 25th of Aprill.

Margarett Russell als Countesse accused for bewitching Elizabeth daughter of the lady Jennins being examined confesseth that yesterday she went to mrs Dromondbye in blacke and white Court in the old bayly and told her that the Lady Jennins had a daughter strangely sicke, whereuppon the said Dromondbye wished her to goe to inquire att Clarken well for a ministers wiffe that could helpe people that were sicke, but she must not aske for a wich or a cunning woman but for one that is a phisition woman, and there this examinate found her and a woman sitting wth her, and told her in what case the Childe was, and she said shee would come this day but shee ought her noe service, and said she had bin there before and lefte receipts there but the Childe did not take them. And she said further that there was two Children that the Lady Jennins had by this husband that were bewitched and dead, for there was controversie betweene two [illegible] and that as long as they dwelt there they could not prosper [illegible] that there should be no blessing in that house [illegible]

[illegible]

On fryday the 26th of Aprill betweene 10. and 11. a clocke in the forenoone (at time Countesse was brought out of the gaole to speake the minister and hi wiffe and others att a private house) the Child had another very dangerous fitt of convulsions, wch Doctor ffox beholding said it merely touched her in wch fitt she began to speake againe as followeth.

The height of my disease is witchcrafte.

& after a good space she spake againe thus. They have noe power to witch me to death but only to putt me to paine.

& a non after ~~she~~ ~~said~~ wth a smiling countenance she said. One is in prison tother is hanged.

& presently after It is roaste: it is roaste.

And presently her fitt went of; her speech returned; and her palsie arme recovered motion and sence, and ever since hath bin and is perfecte in her understanding and memorie, and of very good health in all respects and writeth her mynde as well as she did before she fell sicke.

The second examination of Margarett Russell als Countesse taken before Sr Tho: ffowler and Sr william Slingsbye Kts and Doctor Bates Justices of the peace in the Countie of Midds the 26th of Aprill.

That mrs Goodcole the ministers wiffe did not as in her former examination is sett downe, but that it was a woman that sate by her working who was her sister. But she confesseth that this morning about 10. or 11. a clocke she was brought out of Newgate to the house of James the Clarke, where we did nowe examine her, to speake wth mr Goodcole and his wiffe and wth mrs Dromondbye.

And she further confesseth that when mrs Gargrave lay att mr Higgins house when my Lady Jennins first child was sicke, that she was then there wth her, and that a maide servant of the Lady Jennins came thither to waish a mapp, of whome mrs Higgins did inquire how the child did and she answered not well, to whome mrs Higgins replyed, that they had much wronged them and that it would come home by them and theirs.

The examination of ffrancis Aston Anne Goodcole and George Goodcole taken before Sr william Slingsbye one of the Justices of the peace in the Countie of Midds 27th of Aprill.

ffrancis Aston the wiffe of mr Thomas Aston dwelling in Clarkenwell examined, Confesseth that yesterday about Nyne a clocke her sister Goodcole sent for her and showed her a note in writing the wch her brother mr Goodcole did read unto her, the wch did containe that there was a woman in Newgate committed for a witch who had named a woman in Clarkenwell wth whome she had lately been [illegible] and had lefte a medicine there but that the childe had not taken it. But sh utterly denyeth that she or her sister did either speake any thing or kno any thing either of the death or bewitching of the Lady Jennins other children that were dead, or of any controversie betwixt two howses. A that Countesse told her she was sent to her from a woman in the Strond that she had done good unto, and from the childs grandmoth and prayed her att the last that she shold come when she heard furth from her./

And further saith that yesterday in the morning there came a ma to speake wth her husband who was in bedd wth her, but she knowe not, being a blacke man aboute 40 yeres old like a Cittizen who did desire him to doe some busines for him sometimes the next wee After he was gone her husband did rise and went abroade, but did turne aboute 10 a clocke to her sisters howse Mrs Duffeilds, and sent this Examinate and her Sister to goe wth ~~her~~ him to Mr James h house before 11 a clocke whose maide fetched him thither as soone a they came. Mr Goodcole and his wiffe desired him to bringe Count unto them. And then they did inquire of her whether shee knew examinate, she answered that she nev saw her nor knewe her but day before as is confessed. And she also confesseth that her broth Robte Duffeilds went wth them; wch done James carryed the pri to the goale and they returned to Mrs Duffeildes againe and there dined togeather.

How to discover a witch

Take a sharpe knife, or a nayle, or other pointed Instrument & pricke the stoole or seate on the bottome (on wch the witch sitteth & she will not be able to sitt still, others by scratching, or drawing blood from the witch by whom they are greived or the next of blood to the same, & others first as by burning any relique, or principall ornament belonging to the suspected witch, wch shall not sooner be on fire, but the witch will presently come running to rescue it, But the only assured, absolute & perfect way to finde her out is to take the witch or the suspected, either to some Milldam, Pond or Lake or deepe river, & stripping her to her smock, tye her armes crosse only lett her leggs have free liberty; then fastening a rope about her middle wch wth the help of bystanders may be ever ready to save her from drowning (in case she sinke) throw her into the water, & if she swim alloft & not ~~swim~~ sinke, then draw her forth & have some honest & discreet woman who may presently search her for the secret marks of witches, as Teats, blew moles, moist warts & the like wch found, then the second tyme (binding her right thumbe to her left toe, & her left thumbe to her right toe) throw her into the water againe, (wth the assistance of the former rope to save her if she should chance to sinke) & if then she swim againe & doe not sinke, you may most assuredly resolve she is a witch, & of this pregnant & most evident proofes, have been [illegible] namely [illegible] Mr Enger [illegible] of Bedfordshire [illegible] upon [illegible] of Mary Sutton (a [illegible] witch) [illegible]

[illegible] [illegible] worke, [illegible] you [illegible] all [illegible] [illegible] are [illegible]

You must have a house of necessitie [illegible] familie wth you, cleane and sweete [illegible] of a good [illegible]. And that day of Consecration of the ring, scepter, and crowne, ye must [illegible] fast and drinke [illegible] the Consecrations, for wth out yor ring, scepter and [illegible] you shall hardly attayne to yor desires.

All [illegible] this is necessarye, And cleane [illegible] wthout [illegible]
And if you can conveniently, it is best working when the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] is of a great worth.

When you begin to worke you must have a masse of St Cyprian

In the same manner ~~[illegible]~~ is the consecration of a plate of Copper [illegible] in which must be graven the great name of god that is in the ring the plate must be the length of three ynches & every quarter, but the thickness be according to his discretion, so that it do not easily bend & it must be gilded.
And then as in the consecrating of the king, so to the plate of copper and in the same Commaracion beforesaid when you said of the ~~king~~ [illegible] before the ~~Arke of god~~, ye shall name the plate when you did name the king, & you shall say that [illegible] the golden plate of gold in the foresaid of the [illegible] worthily dignified [illegible] shall have this plate in the Invocation and Commaracion [illegible] & being worthily dignified & constant

[the voyce of a Multitude answered saying, Whose name is great for ever.]

King Carmara straight way said as followeth. — Open your eyes, and you shall see from the highest to the lowest. The peace of God be uppon you.

King Carmara Novemb. 17. — Iterum, atque iterum repetimus opera Dei. [Liber primus Principis solus loquebatur ... said King, ...]

Hagonel — Venit etiam, et Dominus est super nos. [Very many came uppon the Cordes ... and sayd] Pereat ... sumus ...

Carmara Novemb. 19. — This work shall have relation to time present, and present use, to Mysteries ... it: And finally, to a purpose and intent, whereby the Mercy and Name of God, shall and may, and of force must appeare; with the Apparition of his wonders and marvayles yet unhard of. Dixi.

Δ — Note the Uriel and Michael at the beginning of this Art, were present, and gave Authoritie to Carmara to order the rest: so at the Conclusion they appeared againe, and Raphaël with them: and Michael concluded the Boke, with these wordes: Mercifull is our God, and glorious is his Name: which chuseth his Creatures, according to his own secret Judgment and good pleasure.

Michael Novemb. 19. — This Arte is the first part of a threefold Arte, joyning man with the knowledge of the World, the government of his Creatures, and the sight of his Majestie ... into ... shall ...

Prince [illegible] [illegible] BNAPSEN [illegible]

The 13th of August Anno dni 1626. There was one Edward Bull & one Johane Greedie indited at Taunton Assizes for bewitchinge of one Edward Dynham whom these Deponents say, that hee is often in a traunce or swoone wch hold him sometymes 2 or 3 howres, duringe wch tyme hee lyes as if hee were dead, 6 men beinge not able to move his head any way, and then they see somewhat beate uppe & downe in his stomacke and belly, and sometymes they thrust pinnes and needles ~~throw~~ thorowe his hands and nostrills of wch hee is insensible neither doeth there any blood appeare, also in his traunces there are heard 2 voices in him besides his owne whereof one is a very pleasant voice & still wth them termes him, Son; and the other a deadly and hollowe voice [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

Come. Come come spirites tell me who they are that bewitched me

m. q. A woman in greene clothes with a blacke hatt with a longe poll; and a man in a gray suite with blacke stockinges;

b. q. But where are they?

i. m. q. Shee is at her house, and hee is at a taverne in Youghall in Ireland.

b. q. But what are their names?

m. q. Nay that I will not tell.

aske him againe.

Come Come, come, spirites tell us what are their names

m. q. I am bound not to tell.

b. q. You tell halfe of their names.

[illegible] Edward [illegible]

[illegible]

b. q. How came they to bee so.

i. q. By discent.

b. q. But howe by discent

m. q. From the grandmother to the mother and from the mother to the children,

b. q. But howe ~~are~~ were they so

m. q. They were bound to us, and wee to them,

b. q. Lett me see the bond.

m. q. Thou shalt not;

b. q. Lett me see it, & if I like I will seale ~~it~~ also,

m. q. Thou shalt if thou wilt not reveale the contents thereof.

b. q. I will not.

[illegible]

[illegible]

b. q. But why did Bull bewitch him

m. q. Because his remedie was not stronge enough

b. q. But where is Bull now

m. q. Hee is now in the feild of this side lyinge under the greate Mulberie,
The deponent went and found the signe of his sittinge in the grasse, and withall a hound which he himselfe sawe, as they most [illegible], with [illegible] him runninge away before them,

b. q. Did they ever destroy a christian

m. q. Yes that they did,

b. q. What was his name

m. q. His name is Edward,

b. q. Cominge then [illegible] in [illegible] now [illegible]
[illegible] I will [illegible]

Then the deponent went, and found that hee had bin there but lately.

m. q. I will have thy soule

b. q. Thou shalt not have his soule

m. q. Then hee that speaketh next shall winne.

who saith that betweene 7 or 8 yeares since, shee beeing in her house at Marsden in greate passion & anger & discontented & wthall oppressed wth some want there appeared unto her a spirit or devill in the similitude & proportion of a man apparelled in a suite of black tyed about wth silke pointes, who offered her yt if shee would give him her soule hee would supply all her wantes & bring to her whatsoever shee wanted or needed, and at her appointmt would helpe her to kill & revenge her either of men or beastes or what shee desired, and after sollicitacon shee did contract and covenant wth the said devill or spiritt for her soule. And the said devill bad her call him by the name of Mamillion, & when shee called he would bee ready to doe her will. And shee saith that in all her talke and conference shee called the said Mamillion her God. And shee further saith that the said spiritt or devill did by her consent abuse her body by committing wicked unclean[illegible] together. And shee further saith that shee was not at the greate meeting of the witches at Harestones in the forrest of Pendle on All Sts day last past, but saith that shee was at a second meeting the sunday after All Sts day at the place aforesaid where there was at that time betweene 30 & 40 witches which did all ride to the said meeting. And the end of the said meeting was to consult for the killing & hurting of men & beastes. And that besides their particular familiar devill or spiritt there was one great grand devill or spiritt more eminent then the rest [illegible] to kill or hurt [illegible] body. A Note to the Reader

In choosing the rather formal Old English Text to set ¶De Nigromancia, we were soon faced with an unusual quandry: the short 's' looked somehow out of place, at least in the middle of words. It appeared just too fussy and decorative to occur too often. We probably would have setteled on what we thought was the jarring effect in using the short 's' when Monotype informed us that they had cut the more traditional long 'ſ': that setteled it, we chose to use the long 'ſ'. Thus this note of explanation for those unfamiliar with this old style usage:— the character 'ſ' will be used both initially and medially, and the character 's' will be used only as a finial; the ligature 'ſſ' will be used for double-s medially and the character 'ß' for double-s finially, and finally the ligature 'ʦ' will be used for 'ts' as a finial. We hope that this reversion to old style usage will not prove to be inconvienient to the reader.

¶The Grand Oration*

I Humbly beſeech thee, Otheos Sother, and conjure [that] from [all] the perils here in this world, and in the world to come [You] do grant me refuge, and by the virtue of Thy help vouchſafe that thoſe Spiritz [I call upon] may hear and do obiſcience to me, ſo that I may ſucceed in all my work and obtain the Treaſure of the Spiritz by Thy Great and Mighty Name Tetragrammaton which is above all Names, to whlch all patriarchs in Heaven, Earth, and Hell do reverence; Oneipheton, which is moſt Mighty and Terrible, and which is not to be named ſave at great diſtreß, to which be all Honour and Glory, World Without End. Amen. ¶O Great and Marvelous Lord, which of Thy Holy Spirit didſt give health in the hands of the martyrs; ſown miraculous life in Mary, the Virgin Mother of Thy only Son, Our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt by the 'Coeleſtes Reginia,' the Holy Spirit deſerving of Her; and by His Holy Body, which Jeſus gave up and abandoned to the Croß, and thereby redeemed the world for Her. I humbly beſeech Thee, grant that you do hear my prayers and fulfill my deſires, delivering me from all the powers of Darkneß, that by Thy virtue and power, and by the virtue of Thy Moſt Precious Son Our Saviour, the Golden Light of the World§, and alſo by Thy Holy Name Tetragrammaton, which is ineffable, that Thou betimes may hear my prayers and fulfill my deſires whatſoever they may be. By Thy Name ſhall I ſummon theſe Spiritz, without fear of injury to my Body or Soul, or any thoughts unſeemly, through Jeſus Chriſt, which ſhall come to judge the quick, and the dead, and the world by fire. Amen.

❡Introduction:

HEre beginneth the practice of Nigromancy—or the Black Art—which is the convocation and eſtriction of the Spiritz whereſoever they may be; and in verity to gather them like fellows to thyſelf as thou wouldſt ſheaves of wheat, that by their means you may obtain the 'Theſaurus Spiritum'—or treaſure of ſpiritz, By this Art is ſcarcely anything completed unleß it be newly ſet apart, at once made venerable, mighty, and occult. Thus the ſecret work before [my] diſcovery was widely known by the populice of ancient Alexandria, by which I, Fra. Robert Lombard, a brother minor of the Franciſcan Order together with Fra. Roger Bacon through many years of ſtudy of that place fell upon it. Before my death—whereafter concluſions may be drawn, and evidence followed upon—let it be ſaid not that I was prodigial becauſe of the diverſs works I have had the opportunity to tranſcribe, and my good fellow in faith Fra. Roger Bacon has tranſlated into the Engliſh of whom, putting aſide our childhood friendſhip, his fame, and his own ſincere faith, beſpeaks him at the ſame time extraordinary, whitherto obſerve the piety of this treatiſe which I truſt he would hold no diſcredit to add to his many other entrances to true expertiſe.

This work is divided into four partz: ¶The firſt concerns itſelf with the diſpoſition of the operator; ¶The ſecond concerns rudimentary operations and the prerequiſite neceſſities for completing the work; ¶The third deals with the convocation of the Spiritz; ¶The fourth covers prayers uſed for all manner of effects.

The First tract or part containeth ſix chapters: ¶Of the principal things required of the operator; Of the regular obſervances; ¶Of the cleanneß and purity of the operator; ¶Of the vault and the ways and diſpoſitions therein, and of the ſecret cubicle; ¶Of the compoſition of the chriſm, and the faſhioning of the ſigils; and ¶Of the mingling[?] of Metals uſed in the faſhioning the ſigils.

The Second tract or part concerns the manner of conjuration, and contains ſix chapters: ¶Of the manner of calling the Spirits; ¶Of the adoption of dignity and honour before them; ¶Of the diſcovery of the Treaſure of the Spiritz; ¶Of the eſpecial times, places, and Coſmic arrangements at which we may behold the Spiritz; ¶Of the co-archetation—or hierarchy—of the aerial Spirits, inasmuch as elementary, true yet remarkable, and innumerable unto monumentouſneß is their counting; ¶Of familiar ſpiritz, ſuch as will ſing, attend, build, adviſe, cloathe and inſtruct thee through, ſo-without deceit.

The Third tract or part is divided alſo into ſix chapters, to wit: ¶The convocation of the Spiritz through the ineffable love of God Almighty; ¶Concerning inviſibilily . . . ; ¶Of the compoſition of metals; ¶Of the completion of our labours; ¶Of the ever-laſting praiſe ſo-required; ¶Of the fraternity which is a delight to the good Spiritz, and of the marriage in love both with theſe undertakings and through the power of every living thing.

The Fourth part or tract is divided into five eſſays: ¶Of the True Knowledge of all Spiritz; ¶Of the certain moderation by which we preſent ourſelves before the Spiritz when they are bound; ¶Of the incluſion of thoſe eſſentials that will bring us to fulfillment without negation or death; ¶Regarding the duties of the Prieſt, and the enkindling of all the Sciences; ¶Concerning the formulation of the Ceremonies & the oblations & obeiances thereof.

Tract One, ❡1.

HOw greatly this Secret Work and the operations of obtaining the Treaſure of the Spiritz ſucceed, nevertheleß do not confuſe in any way the cycle of days and hours, and obſerve the Characters and Conjurations without doubt or heſitation—by which many works are truly perfected—on which occaſion obſerve all without fear of danger both by reaſon and exception of the [Characters and] Conjurations in your poſſeſſion.

OF the Chief and Supreme Rulers [of the Spirits] it is impoſſible [to have knowledge] in many operations of this Art unleß we be pure and clean, not only in veſtment but in body and ſoul, and immaculate, and free from monſtrous communication; and it too is neceſſary that your Inſtrumentz of Science be pure and clean, and rendered ſuitable to enter boldly upon this work.

I, ❡2.

IT is near to impoſſible to ſucceed in theſe many rites and operations of our Art without an eſpecial true Prieſt of a noteworthy family, and honeſt and pure of heart; and on that day of Conſecration of the Ring, the Sword, and the Sceptre he muſt faſt with faith, and devoutly commit the conſecrations if we are to enter completely and without fault into Our Work; for without the Secptre, Ring, and all elſe, hardly anything in theſe operations will ſucceed.

I, ❡3.

IT is nigh impoſſible in theſe many operations of Our Art, without dillegent attention paid to days and hours, names; of even night-obſervances, and eſpecially the Lunations [phaſes of the Moon]. Always muſt you wear veſtmentz of white linnen, itſelf proper, inſofar as it is always kept clean and perfumed, and is made paſſing meet from our truſt in theſe dilligent ſummonnings [conjurations] of the Spiritz.

I, ❡4.

IN connexion with the operation of theſe conjurations, and of the chriſm*, you muſt always dreß in the proper veſtments of freſh white linnen or ſimple wool, and not elabourate with moot extravagances; and you ſhall perfume all things aforeſaid. You ſhould be new [i. e., clean, freſh] and duly prepared, yet as many of theſe other Spiritz may be unwilling to be ſeen as aforeſaid. Nevertheleß, if you annoint your eyes with conſecrated chriſm, of whatſoever ſort, and put on your veſtmentz you will ſucceed. And always take care not to commit anything ſinful in connexion with doning theſe veſtmentz to do that work ſuitable to you, becauſe if your veſtmentz are tainted, you and your aſſiſtantz will not ſucceed in your work.

I, ¶5.

IN all operations of this humble Art it is neceſſary from the beginning not to be proud in eſtate, and to overcome temptations with true eternal faith. With [ſuch] various requiſites and Inſtrumentz, and with the requiſite precautions and other dictates; perform without doubt error, or vanity—for one error is magnified abſolutely to a thouſand by pride.

I, ¶6.

IN all things it is neceſſary that all be ſweet and freſh and the air muſt be without clouds: this is preferable for the Spiritz. And if you can do ſo convieniently, it is beſt in our accuſtomed work to call when the Sun ſhines, for the ſame is of great virtue. If you follow in this you will attain all your deſires, & they ſhall appear.

Tractate Two, ¶1.

WHen you begin working in all operations of this Art, you muſt during the time of preparation for the conjurations have a Maß of St. Cyprian ſaid and any other Maß which is required [to be ſaid by the Prieſt by cuſtom*].

But in this Maß of St. Cyprian, you ſhould offer a penny—and if you offer a crown,* ſo much the greater it will add [to this work]—and that upon his book, as a chaſte ſervant of this Art. The ſanctifying of the chriſm ſhould be attempted at this time, but the Maß muſt always be one in the manner of St. Cyprian, by whom it was in this Art through conſequences moſt propitious we [became] guardians of his Secret Book, from which ſucceed faithfull renditions and very harſh injuries and puniſhmentz await thoſe who perform this work if they doubt the truth & virtue of theſe undertakings, for they are Holy. And without doubt theſe formulae along with others requiſites in this tractate require certain ſuitable and dilligent obſervation, wherefore if you ſet yourſelf apart from all fallicies, you truly will obtain your deſires.

NOte well the fact that from the firſt to the laſt quarter of the Moon—and not before—is the hour when we are moſt ſkilled in our operations. Still, our proſperity in this work being to ſuch degree as to be ſuitable, if we begin in that time at night,-how greatly increaſed in truth is that hour from Sunriſe until the Meridian [i. e., Zenith]. It is of leß virtue from Meridian until Sunſet. It increaſeth from the hour of night at Sunſet until cock-crow, and from the hour of cock-crow until Sun-riſe it decreaſeth; and in the hours of increaſe, from that time through the night is matter in control. Take care in all other things to be true, and not commit ſin; abſtain from frequent copulation, and other impurities.

II, ¶2.

When all thoſe things have been prepared, before you work in this Art, the firſt and foremoſt obſervances is that always for not leß than three days you muſt abſtain from all copulation, natural pollution, and drunkenneß as from every conceivable Cardinal Sin, but be pure and confeß [your ſins] to [your eſpecial] Prieſt.

INſofar as in all operations you muſt work chaſtely, you ſhould be annointed with oil; you muſt pare your nails, and ſhave your beard, and your head ſhall be ſhorn; and you ſhall waſh yourſelf clean, both head, hands, and feet.

ANd ſeven times towards the Eaſt; and ſeven times towards the Weſt; and ſeven times towards the North; and ſeven times towards the South you ſhall repeat the conjurations, and ſeven times towards each of the Four Quarters you ſhall ſay the 'Our Father' altogether. ¶And whenſoever you ſhow the Plate with the Great Four-fold Name of God in this work to the Spiritß, or when you repeat that Great Name, the Plate muſt be annointed in unction of ſweet balſams, and you muſt bear the burden on bended knee. ¶Then alſo muſt you always wear upon the middle finger of your left hand* the Ring—whoſe form and figure ſhould thereon be engraved, and it duly conſecrated.

NOte that always in all aſpectß of your operations that before [commencing] there muſt exiſt a different and exceeding angency of purity both in theſe veſtmentß, your appearance, and even an exceeding ſplendidneß in the agreed-upon place: for if the leaſt foulneß be preſent in your veſtmentß, body, or conſcience, without doubt the Spiritß will account you unworthy of this high exerciſe; wherefore do as this chapter doth inſtruct you carefully, and after ſo preparing yourſelf, aſk confeſſion on theſe operations, and devoutly pray.

IT is of the higheſt importance to be free of any profane contact when you enter into the Circle, and that with true deſire and devotion you follow theſe dictates, and have Maß ſaid, and thereafter† waſh your face in clean water & make ſuffumigations of laurel leaves & other ſweet ſmells... & enter your Circle in the Hour of Venus§ and begin your dedication in the firſt part of her hour, and for a half hour thereafter, thus. Conjure in May [the fourteenth of May is the Feaſt of St. Cyprian] ſo as to [be within] Holy and not impure hours; and enter into your bath in the ſame demure manner: write in hard labour [i. e., in copying this book], ſtudy, and with dillegence expell all ſortz of putridneß from you. And [being] ſo purified, for a half hour ſay the oration. The ſtraw of your pallet muſt be freſh, and your bread newly baked, which food will thereafter aſcend; and before commencing the conjuracions remain faſting at leaſt after finiſhing the reading; and when you partake, eat ſcarce, no meat, but bread & water clean & ſweet; becauſe fleſh before theſe operations is not partaken. However you may partake of fine wine and ſweet bread, and of fiſh; preſerve even your ſtomach from impurity during theſe operations thus far, leſt ſtrong and fearfull viſions be impoſed upon you for the delight of the Spiritz to overcome you, ſo that you are not able to accompliſh any thing. Inſofar as ſuch perils are very much true and real, it is meet that after theſe operations you ſhould light a candle for three hours to guard and vehemently calm that place where[-in] you eſſeyed them.* If at night, ſuch is cuſtomary; if as before in the day, it is cuſtomary to obſerve the aſpect of the Sun.

You ſhall enter into abſtinence from your paſſions and hunger, during the time you wiſh to employ theſe conjurations, elſewiſe the ſtrong ſway of the nocturnal forces will thereafter manifeſt, and will ſomehow ſupercede the virtue of theſe bindings and conjurations. And ſo before [work at] night do not eat any thing, as alſo before [work by] day contain all carnal deſire; always abſtain before your operations, and of all things ſhun impure communication by acts of copulation, as likewiſe all boiſtrous and bibulous companionſhip, but firſt and foremoſt take care leſt ſome ſtirring [undo your effortz]. But ſhould you conceal from your prieſt and fellows your copulations and not confeß ſolumnly, without ample doubt you will gain little of your purpoſes.

Before beginning accordingly as ſet forth herein, it is neceſſary with reſpect to theſe operations to ſeclude ['dis-poſition'] yourſelf in a certain ſecret place, as like a field which is abſent of rugged ground, or ſome fortification wherein theſe ſeveral operations may be conducted in all due ſafety. Have faſhioned therefore a ſecret Vault, bright, and clean, and ſquare in whoſe quadrangle there muſt be placed windows five cubits ſquare in conformation or perhaps a ſcant more. And theſe ſhall be ſituated in the Vault thus: one window you ſhall place towards the Eaſt, and one window you ſhall place towards the Weſt; one window you ſhall place towards the South, and one window you ſhall place in the North. You ſhall form the Vault about twenty feet to a ſide in width or leß, and in height it ſhould be about twenty feet or more; and the roof thereof ſhould be ſquare, and riſe croſſwiſe height-by-centre another four feet or ſo.* Set this building upon ſtraight and level ground, and in a place ſerene, and far from the ordinary dealings of men.

When you enter therein, deſcribe a ſuitable Circle with chalk whoſe form is correct to the work; and write out in faith the letters and names of the Angels or Spiritz, and the Holy Saintz with a good underſtanding of your undertaking.

Under one window ſhould be placed wine, and ſtraw in good quantity which is freſh and new and ſweetly ſpiced oils for annointment of the body, and even an offering of bread newly baked, as if you were expecting an entourage of honoured perſons, as in diverſe experimentz hereafter is weighed carefully.

You ſhall arrange the place as if all were uſual; and you ſhould trace the Circle with the Sword or Sceptre in the place you do your work, and pause ſo and conſider; for it muſt be ten foot acroß or more

In theſe diverſe operations it alſo is required that you have an altar-table of laurel wood freſh cut and reſinous, a finger-linnen new and white which has been waſhed in clean ſweet roſewater, and three new knives with white hilts, deſtined for ſuch purpoſes. On this occaſion bleß and ſanctify moſt certainly the book, the vault, the table, the finger-linnen, and the knives, and every other thing which is within the vault; then they are fit for the work you conduct and without doubt with them you will have what you ſeek.

II, ¶5.

In diverſe operations you muſt uſe diverſe Circles, but three forms of Circles fit, for with additions they ſuffer for all work as you ſhall well perceive. ¶Note that as regards the binding of Spiritz of the Air, and of Fire, you ſhould chooſe one Circle with diverſe additions to the Names where ſuch are required, and with that Circle, and the proper Characters, you may proceed in your operations thereafter as before-ſaid. But when conſidering Spiritz of Water in this work, they muſt be bound in a Circle with their correſpondences; and in the centre muſt be placed a phial filled with rainwater, or elſe water from a ſpring. And many bindings of ſuch are done near running ſtreams, as hath been shown before*, but in the phial is the greateſt virtue of [i. e., with reſpect to] this conſtriction.

Before dealing with the Spiritz, conſider theſe many Circles; which is appropriate in theſe bindings, and diſcover how all Circles ſuffice in their place. Note that Circles uſed for Spiritz of Water or Earth ſhould never be greater than fifteen feet in diameter, while the croſſes going forth ſhould not exceed two foot out therefrom, of three at the utmoſt. Nevertheleß go forth, and purge the place with bleſſed Holy Water, and do ſo for nine days.

II, ¶6.

SUrround yourſelf with a curved line deſcribed in chalk, and a ſecond one foot apart ſo curved. Wherein which place deſcribed in chalk under the proper ſigns and auſpices, and with all you require; Sceptre, Altar, &c., in that part ſhall the Prieſt offer at the proper time threemaſſes in honour of the Saintz, of the which muſt be one of St. Cyprian as aforeſaid in the chapter concerned with the inſtrumentz. Keep faſt to the very word of theſe ſecret tables, and true, nor overwhelm them with ſuperfices but hide them well. And above, below and on all ſides incenſe theſe inſtrumentz with Frankincenſe as ſhall be explained. ¶Thereafter ſprinkle and incenſe them, and being at peace with God, repeat the following oration.

¶Conſecration:—

LOrd Jeſus Chriſt, deliver me from evil and have mercy upon me; by Thy ineffable purity and clemency in this hour take heed of me by my invocations. Holy and Indiviſible Proof; Father ✠ Son ✠ and Holy Spirit therefore accept and be pleaſed by theſe orations and theſe words of mine by the invocation of theſe Your Holy Names; with rapture and ſincerity I implore Thee, permit me nonetheleß, though unworthy, to truſt in Thee, and depend upon Thee, I prithee in full awe and devotion; prevail upon me being Thy creature; inſpire my heart, [raiſe sceptre aloft] and by the ineffable and incomprehenſible Father, Bleß ✠ Sanctify ✠ and Conſecrate ✠ [theſe obiects: sceptre, &c.], and by theſe, Thy Holy Names:

HOly Jeſus Chriſt, Alpha and Omega, Hely, Helion, Elohi, Theon, Stimulaton, Oppreſares, Tetragrammaton, Aetiaram, Eregion, Viſion, Oriſton, Eyrynes, Meſſiah, Sother, Emanuel, Sabaoth [Tzabaoth], Adonai, and by all your Holy Names which no man is permitted to ſpeak, and by all the virtue of this place, and by Thy virtue and power, Thou who art Divine and not Created, Conſecrate ✠ Bleß ✠ and Confirm ✠ and by the virtue and power of your precious Body and Blood as ſuch virtue deſtined to be acquired and kept, and truly without any falſehood ſoever, give ſtrength and efficacy to this Circle compoſed of nought but Thee, and make it an admirable defence for both body and ſoul in theſe operations againſt all evil and falſehood; all things viſible and inviſible; and all malignacies; purify and ſanctify it with your virtue that it may be found perfect, in whoſe excellence it be faſhioned, Our Lord Jeſus Chriſt who reigneth in Heaven, to whom be all honour and glory forever and ever. Amen.

OBſerve the rules in making your Circle, which ought not to exceed fifteen feet in diameter; the manner of which deſcription has been thus explained. ¶Theſe Circles deſcribed in the name of the Father omnipotent, who by a ſingle word created all; thereafter describe all circles as is ſeemly. Some circles ſhall be deſcribed in the name of the Son of God alone-begotten who was made man, who ſhed his precious blood for our ſins; thereafter deſcribe all circles as is ſeemly. Some circles ſhall be described in the name of God the Paraclete* whoſe ſacred heart was preſent within the Apoſtles and the Prophetz. And theſe ſhould be henceforward be obſerved [in reference to the names [??] of] God. And after you have written theſe Names in the firſt [or principal] Circle, deſcribe the ſigils of the Angels, the hours, days, and characters as is ſeemly.

INaſmuch as is formoſt in this work, you muſt call the Spiritz to appear through Jeſus Chriſt, by Adonai, and by Jebedias [ſic. ?]; and by all that which appertains to the experiment. And in the ſecond degree of the Circle† write the Names and Characters appropriate to the operation, and eſpecially theſe: יהוה without which characters nought of your conſtraintz of the Spiritz will avail anything. ¶Beyond the Circle as is fit deſcribe Pentagrams, Hexagrams, or Octograms as beforeſaid, the ſhape being that moſt ſuited to the work. In all Circles you muſt be fervent in order, and ſprinkle the circle accordingly, purifying it alſo with incenſes in circumambulation as is ſeemly.

¶Conjuration:—

AGla, the veritable Light, Way, Life; Revealer, have mercy upon me. At this preſent time grant me courage and patience, and aſſiſt me in conſecrating this Circle through your great mercy, by the beauty and bounty of theſe fumigations, and by the Holy ſacrifice of Our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, through the endleß virtue of the Virgin Mary, Thomas, Jacob, Phillip, Bartholomew, Simon, and Thaddeus; by Gregory, Lawrence, Dioniſis, Christopher, Euſtachius, Blaſtius, Egidius[?], Katherine, Margaret, Cyprian, and all your Saintz grant us your favour by conſecrating this Circle; ſend the Spiritz* to appear before us, without their deceitz, but through your ineffable Preſence let us behold only Truth from the beginning, and let our deſires be fulfilled, through Thee, who Art the Creator and Saviour of All in One. Amen.

¶Conſecration of the Circles:—

IN the Name of Our Lord, Jeſus Chriſt; Father ✠ Son ✠ and Holy Spirit ✠ Inſeperable Unity, I humbly entreat and conjure [Thy?] eternal protection and defence both for my Soul and Body now at the preſent time, and forever, through the virtue of Thy Holy Crucifixion and Paſſion; I beſeech Thee, Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Son of God made fleſh, through the virtue, consent, and interceſſion of the Holy Virgin Mary, Thy Mother, and by all Thy Saintʒ and Apoſtles; ſo far have I ſtrayed from Thee, yet by Thy infinite Mercy, ſhow me the wonders of all the Spiritʒ howſoever often I deſire, by Thy Holineß and Virtue, and by Thy Sacred Name compell theſe Spiritʒ here before our Circle in anſwer to our Conjurations, from all partʒ of the World ſo-agreeable to willingly perfect and compleate from nothing my deſires without deceit but with greater obedience and by Thy help and the Virtue of theſe conſtraintʒ let them complete my demands, through Chriſt Our Lord. Amen.

IN the Name of the Holy Father Omnipottent, eternal God, creator of Heaven and Earth and all the elementʒ, Thy complete majeſty I implore and beſeech Thee to grant me Thy favour; bleß ✠ conſecrate ✠ and ſanctify ✠ this Circle, made with my hand, juſt as Thou didſt bleß and dignify the altar of Noah after granting him the Viſion of the Deluge, by Thy Sacred Word [the Chriſt], in the Name of the Father Omnipotent, the Foundation of the World, who Liveth and Reigneth in all the Ages. Amen.

IN the Name of the Univerſal Architect and Great Foundation-Stone, Admirable Author, I adore Thee and make offerings to Thee, and appeal to Thee here in this Circle, that you intercede for me againſt the Spiritʒ which I call upon, and compell to reſpect itʒ compoſition thus formed and annointed on this day of ſanctification. Pour down Thy bleſſings and inceive this conſecration even as Thou art of one ſubſtance with the Father and yet a bleſſed Trinity; let it be found agreeable and acceptable to Thee, through the invocation of Thy Holy Name. I beſeech Thee to Conſecrate this place and with great propitiouſneß eſpecially protect us by your Preſence againſt viſitʒ from phantaſms; enlighten and ſanctify ✠ bleß and aſſiſt ✠ and allow our habitation to perpetuate, O Thou who liveſt and reigneſt unto the Ages. Amen.

LOrd Holy Father, Mercy of whom there is neither beginning nor end, pay heed, I prithee unto my prayers, and ſee fit in thy bounty to ſanctify my deſires; Holy Spirit Who Art God, wonderful and immortal, whoſe Majeſty and Grace are without limit, I beſeech Thee to beſtow Thy bleſſings upon this Circle, and intercede for us herein, and make it Holy; even as that place where Jacob beheld the Angels aſcending and deſcending from Heaven as in a viſion of ſleep, through Chriſt Our Lord. Amen.

GOd who reigneth in all places, hear Thou this conſecration, and grant that this our Circle may remain inviolable through thy Majeſty. O Lord Holy Father Omnipotent, Eternal God I humbly implore Thee, inaſmuch as this Circle, being conſtructed for the invocation of Spiritz is worthy, that Thou bleß ✠ ſanctify ✠ and conſecrate ✠ it with ſuch ſingular honour [virtue?]. We, though unworthy, invoke Thy moſt Holy Name [Tetragrammaton]; ſee fit to conſecrate it, in Thy Divine Viſion, Thy Piety, and Infinite Power, bleß it that whoſoever enters herein will enter under Thy protection and care, and will be freed from the fetters of their iniquities, and that our petitions ſhall be complied with to effect, O Thou Moſt High Who Liveſt and Reigneſt forever and ever. Amen.

SEnd down, O Lord our God, Thy Holy Spirit above our Circle, who with Her Ineffable Virtue may ſanctify ✠ and be preſent in our Heartz, dilligently fortifying us with Her Strength, through Chriſt our Lord. Amen.

AlMighty and Everlaſting God in whoſe honour this Circle is conſecrated in Thy Name, Heavenly Virtue, Holy Bleſſings, and all things in Thy Commandmentz, and in my calls give me Thy Help that I may declare Thy Name, Thy Holineß, and Thy Virtue, and thus obtain effect in my work, through Chriſt our Lord. Amen.

GOd Who Art the Author of the whole Univerſe, whoſe Multitudes extend above the heights of Heaven, and whoſe faſtneſſ remaineth even as the foundations of the Earth; and Thy Bride whoſe Mercy paſſeth not over our ſincere repentence*; Who haſt given a place in the Firmament of Heaven for the Sun ✠ and the Moon ✠ and the Stars ✠ and who by thine infinite Wiſdom haſt made man in thine own image; Who counſeled Adam and Eve to obſerve Thy mandate, and care for Paradiſe, and who when they diſobeyed didſt caſt them out thereof; Who covered the whole world with the Flood; whom Abraham did ſee at the Holy City, under the guiſe of three perſons† and gave aid unto; who allowed Lot to eſcape from the judgement paſſed upon the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah; who Moſes beheld, covered in flames of fire in the midſt of a buſh, and didſt ſpeak with, who delivered his people out of captivity and returned them to the Promiſed Land, and who cauſed a path to appear in the midſt of the Red Sea, all through Thy might and virtue; from whom Moſes received the Law on Mt. Sinai; who cauſed water to pour forth from a ſtone in the midſt of the deſert; who delivered Daniel from the Lion and the Arena; who the three children, Shabnoch, Miſach, and Abednego ſang of, and were delivered from the might of the fiery furnace; who Suſannah had faith in, and was freed from the hands of the infidels; who Jonah the prophet called upon and was freed from the belly of the whale; through theſe and other miracles which Thou haſt ſeen fit to manifeſt, I beseech Thee to hear, and be propitious unto my orations, through Jeſus Chriſt's sake, who is Thy only begotten Son, Our Lord.

IN complete devotion of my heart, and with mildneß and humility; and by the virtue and power of this Circle by the efficacy of which let me be preſerved of body and ſoul, gather the Spiritz from whitherſoever partz of the world they may be, and place Thy firm protection on me againſt all the aſſaultz, falſehoods, and deceitz of the Demons through Thy omnipotence and virtue, by Thy Holy Incarnation, Nativity, Circumciſion, Baptiſm, Privation, Temptation, and Tranſfiguration; by the virtue of Thy glorious Death and Paſſion, Thy Scourging, Trial and Crucifixion and precious Death; through the virtue furthermore of Thy deſcent into the fires of Hell, by Thy ſpoilation of the Inferno and the liberation of the damned, by Thy glorious Reſſurection from death and admirable aſcent into Heaven, and through the virtue of the Seven Orders of Holy Angels, and Thy Apoſtles; and by the tremendous Day of Judgement, and by Thy Ineffable Names by which all things are preſerved: Tetragrammaton, Shemhamphoraſh, Agla, Sabaoth, Adonai, El, Eloi, On, Jeſus Chriſt. Reſide in this Circle, Bleß ✠ Conſecrate ✠ and Approve ✠ through Our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who liveth and reigneth forever, and governeth by the virtue of God the Holy Spirit, forever conjoined as One through all things unto the Ages of the Ages. Amen.

Diſcover* Thou ✠ God the Father ✠
Bleß Thou ✠ God the Son ✠
Sanctify Thou ✠ God the Holy Spirit ✠

HOly Mary, Mother of Our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, bleß ✠ and ſanctify in all things and places Thou doſt occupy and with Thy great Mercy aid me to obtain that as I ſhould deſire ✠ bleß ye all you Apoſtles, bleß ye all you martyrs and confeſſors, bleß ye ✠ all virgins and in all earthly ſafety and with all the virtues of Heaven, Holy and Everlaſting God bleß thee ✠ and in all Sciences, and by the Confirmation of all Holy Angels and Archangels, Thrones, Dominations, Principalities, Virtues, Powers, through Cherubim and Seraphim and from Thy Great Authority bleſs ✠ and Thou Lord Jeſus Chriſt have Mercy upon me, Bleſs ✠ Protect ✠ and Sanctify this Circle as is apt and fitting, and through all the power of theſe our invocations, ſummonings, conſtraints, and bindings of all the Spirits theſe deſires: [—petition—] and place Thy good Salvation and protect me with a ſtout and true defenſe and eſpecially the tuition of my body and ſoul, through Thee, Jeſus Chriſt, the Saviour of the World, the King of Glory who in Truth and in Victory with the Holy Spirit liveth and reigneth as One God through Immortality Forever and Ever. Amen.

❡The Bleſſing of the 'Sphere' or Chamber:

I Exorciſe thee, O creature of God, thou Chamber, that all inimicable phantaſms fly out from thee, by God the Living ✠ by God the True ✠ and by God the Holy ✠ I exorciſe thee in the Name of God the Father omnipotent ✠ and in the Name of the Son ✠ in all theſe operations of cleanſing of the Soul and Body, Pour forth and let deſcend the Holy Spirit, that the multitude of phantaſms may depart, eſpecially thoſe of the machinations of the Devil, and every ſuch Spirit unearthly I adjure, through Him who ſhall come to Judge the quick and the dead by fire. Amen.

❡The Oration to follow:

God, the Unconquerable Virtue and Author, and Indiviſible Ruler, and ever-magnificent Victor againſt the minions of evil, whoſe Great Strength holds back the Adverſe Dominations, who looks down upon and condemns with ſeverity the fallen and pertinacious ſpirits, who quelleth hoſtility by Thy tremendous power, Repell thee the terrible illuſions of phantaſm and heed my prayer and petition as of this worthy Circle approve in your Piety, Goodneſs and Wiſdom that it may acquire Holineſs as whereſoever it be required, through the invocation of Thy Holy Name repell all the infeſtations, and terrors of the impure ſpirits and the temptations and ſeductive illuſions of the poiſonous Serpent, and manifeſt Thy Holy Spirit to us, and have mercy upon us, and appear when we attempt to diſpell them, O Thou who liveth and reigneth God of All forever and ever. Amen.

❡Then incenſe the place as deſcribed in the previous chapters, and write theſe Seven Holy Names of God in ſeven ſtations of the Circle: Iah ✠ Lealge* ✠ Vehe* ✠ Agla ✠ Charon ✠ Libares ✠ Poimander ✠ and juxtapoſe them within the Circle towards the Seven Parts of the world and with the operations of conſtraint aboliſh the preſence of evil Spirits, ſeeing as in theſe operations you are therefore protected.

Tractate Three, ¶1.

The Pentacle of Solomon itſelf ſhould extend upon the face of the Circle about two feet beyond, and the diameter of the Circle ſhould not exceed ſeventeen feet. The Characters conſidered true and pertinent ſhould be ſhown in their places. Conſider well the Principal Characters are theſe: יהוה which ſhould be placed in all Circles and in all ſuch Lamens, becauſe without them, all conjurations of the Spiritz will fail, and no Spirit will anſwer truth, but falſehood. All theſe Characters are letters of Hebrew, and are of the Name Tetragrammaton, which were placed in the phylacteries of the forehead of the High Prieſt in gold leaf, as in the Old Law, and were alſo placed in Jeruſalem and in Alexandria the Great, which place I beheld with weeping eyes, my hands raiſed up devoutly to Heaven, even as do the Saracens look towards Judea. ¶Theſe are furthermore the characters of the Planetz: Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Sol, Venus, Mercury and Luna:

¶All of which characters ſerve in their hours. And all muſt be made in Lead, Tin, Silver, or Copper, but the Characters of Venus muſt be made of Copper alone; and you muſt always hold theſe Characters in your right hand, and if your experiment is made in the hour of Jupiter, uſe his Characters, and ſo on. And care not if your experiment continues into the ſecond hour, ſeeing that theſe operations take their dominion from their beginnings. If you work in the hour of Mars then your experiment muſt relate to Mars; and you ſhall ignore all other hours beſides in your experimentz ſave that hour which relates to the Planet in which you do work. And therefore in all theſe conſiderations of work all muſt be done before you ſolicit the Spiritz.

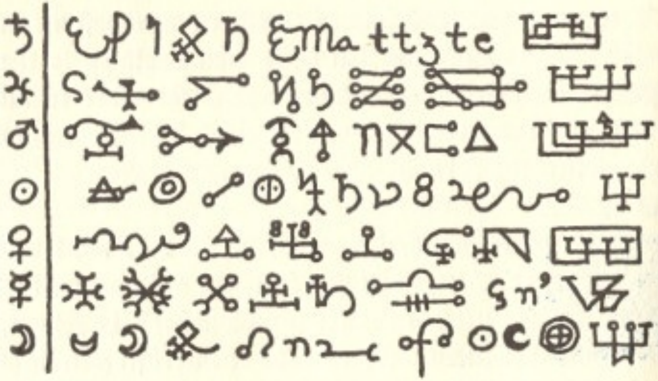
You ſhould alſo note that you may not work at all times in this Art, but only when it is ſagacious to do ſo. You will heed the Moon, her lunations; that ſhe be increaſing in light and augmented with good aſpects; and everything in theſe days thereof: 2nd, 4th, 6th, 8th, 10th, 12th &14th, & no more in that Moon; & do many things in this Moon continuouſly, and with good conjunctions near approaching. You muſt hold faſt to this conſideration untill the next Moon, elſe this experiment will not avail anything.

MOſt experimentz do begin in good Signs, as in the Sun if he be well-aſpected, and in the hour ruleth a good Planet it is better, and moſt effectual in this Art. ¶If you work for Love, work in the day and hour of Venus; if for honour, in the day and hour of Jupiter, and all the hours are of a like operation. But if you work for war or to do evil you may only work in Mars, his day and hour; and it were better that you work not at all.



OUr Hours and alſo our Calls are the agency of a True Science; a Conjunction of the Sun and Moon are to be preferred to the leſſer computations of the Church, for in all things is the Moon of foremoſt importance in conjunctions for the fortification of Circles. The Moon ſhould be in the third or fourth quarter, on that account conſider, and call the ſpiritz to obey your requeſts, with the diſcloſure of treaſures, ſciences, and our deſires. ¶Fear the Immortal One, and ſay your prayers and orations, and make a great oblation, faſting as aforeſaid, and obſerve all the rules and regulations herein ſet down. ¶And take heed well that you know the True Conjuration of the ſame, and the means by which it may be with three or four ſo rendered.* ¶Therefore take great heed of the name and planet, that you work wiſely in this ſecret, for it ſheweth ſecretz and wiſdom. If you truly obſerve the rites and keep theſe orders without doubt you ſhall not fail of your deſires.

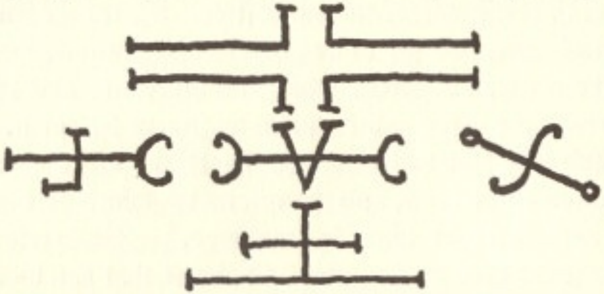
THeſe words [alone] may ſuffer for the diſpoſition and working, and the knowledge of the place and times, and of the Characters and planetz. And forthwith be faithful and give God the praiſe . . . ſaying your [prayers] with ſolemnity from [your] heart. And make a great oblation, faſting for at leaſt three days as aforeſaid, and the characters muſt be made at this time, and bathe yourſelf as directed, and ſweet-cloathed in [linnen] veſtments. Then have a girdle of Buckſkin, and write about it theſe letters: A. L. P. H. A. &. O. M. E, G. A.* & on the other ſide the Great Name of God. And upon your breaſt you muſt have this figure drawn in Virgin Parchment, & hang it on your breaſt on your white veſture:†



& if you have fellows you muſt have them provided for after the ſame manner.

ALſo the Maſter muſt have a Knife with a White Hilt on which muſt be worked A. L. P. H. A.§ & with the ſame Knife make a Circle on the ground as followeth, & in the ſame manner & form, in an even & clear ſpace.

BEfore you enter into your Circle, you muſt with ſuffumigations cenſe yourſelf, as with Olibanum and Lygn Aloes and repeat Pſalm XLVIIJ*† with great devotion, as well as other devout prayers of penitence. ¶Upon your right arm you muſt have a band of Virgin Parchment with theſe figures:—

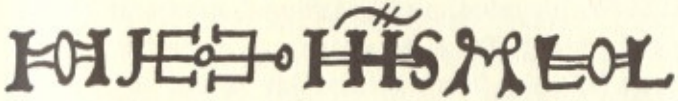
& likewiſe on your left arm a band with theſe figures:

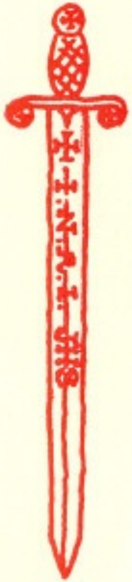


THen in the Name of God, enter thy Circle & adjure the Spirit* with the conjuration following, & fear not, for they will work many deluſions to affright thee, but be of good comfort, & adjure them more fervently: for they muſt needs obey thee— & let your work goeth forward, & doubt not but by the mercy of God you ſhall effect that which you deſire.

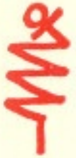
IIJ, ¶4.

THen muſt you have a Sword, clear & bright, & with . . . & a ring of copper, & in the ſame written theſe words: . . . & you muſt have the Planets & their characters [upon them], & on the D[ay & Hour of Venus will you commence your work in the which you ſhall] have from the Spirit certain anſwers for what[ſoever you may aſk of them, & reſt certain that they ſhall] give you perfect anſwers.* ¶Then muſt you have a Sceptre conſecrated, of copper in the which may be graven the Great Name of God.† All theſe things muſt be conſecrated . . . & faſhion the Sword after this manner:—

The Prieſt you call to aſſiſt, being adorned with the ornament of a Prieſt , but chiefly his robes, muſt be faſting & newly come from Maß, being Pure & Clean; & while ſtanding he muſt hold the ſword betwixt his hands, ſo that the pommel of the Sword be againſt the point § upright, & holding it but lightly lifting up his right hand he ſhall ſay:—



I Conjure thee, O Sword & I adjure & bind thee by the virtue of God the Father Omnipotent, by the virtue of Jeſus Chriſt his Son our Lord, & by the Holy Spirit, & by all things made in Heaven & Earth, & by the perpetual virginity of Holy Mary, the bleſſed Mother of our Lord, & by the chaſtity of John the Baptiſt, & by the dreadfull Day of Doom, that thou be unto me a Sword conſecrate, that thou mayeſt be a bond & a help againſt all powers of Air, Water, Fire, & Earth ſuch that whenſoever this ſervant of God ſhall caſt or ſhow thee, all Spirits may be made aſtonied, until they have been obedient unto him, & do whatſoever he commandeth them. ¶I conjure thee, Sword, by the brightneß & virtue of the Kerubim which with his ſword [ ] drove Adam out of paradiſe for his perverſity & impiety; & by the Sword of Solomon which is uſed in the invocation & calling of Spirits, & by Longingus' Sword,*† that thou become bleſſed & conſecrated, & that our Lord Jeſus Chriſt bleß & dignify thee ✠ & ſanctify thee ✠ that againſt the gainſaying of all falſe Spirits thou mayeſt ſafely overcome, by the virtue of the Lord God Omnipotent which ſhall come to judge the quick & the dead, World without End. Amen.

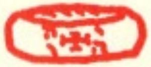


¶Then the Prieſt ſhall make the ſign of the croß ✠ upon the Sword with the Chriſm & on bended knee he ſhall kiß the croß of the Sword.* After he ſhall lift up himſelf & take the Sword in his right hand, & ſay;— 'Strengthen us, Lord God &c.' the whole of that Pſalm,† & he§ ſhall put the croſſ-feigning of the Sword upon the bare head of the Maſter & ſhall ſay;—

To thee, my ſon by the virtue of the body & blood of our Lord, Jeſus Chriſt, I give the power of this Sword, being Holy to touch, to hold, & to lift up. And as thou wouldſt govern it in all thy works, that sa the living Lord didſt deſcend into this world out of paradiſe, ſo by the virtue of this ſword all Spiritz will do Thy will & grant that they may tremble & be obedient to thoſe that hold this, O Lord which liveſt & reigneſt One God, World without End. Amen.

Confeß & counſel both together, & kiß each other, & wrap the haft of the Sword in clean cloth, & give it to the Maſter to kiß, & being taken in the right hand of the Maſter & being ſigned with the ſign of the Croß & other Holy deſigns, let it be kept aſide for four hours wrapped in the ſtole of the Prieſt. ¶Then in the third hour begin to exorciſe the Ring of Copper—but firſt, let the Prieſt take the ſtole that the Sword was wrapped in, & hang the Sword up by the point, & keep it very clean, that the duſt mark it not.

IIJ, ¶5.



The Ring's conſecration muſt be in the hour of Jupiter, & in the hour following [which is of Venus]; then ſhall be graven in the Ring the Great Name of God Tetragrammaton in Hebrew letters as before: & ſo engrave theſe letters that in their midſt be a croß, & all be on the further ſide of the Ring. Then after, have this Ring of fine Gold marked as well, [i.e. gilded,] & give this to the Prieſt. This ſhall he wrap in his ſtole. When all is then prepared, begin the Conjuration:

I Conjure Thee, O Creature of God, thou Ring which ſometime waſt of Solomon bleſſed; I bleß thee, & be thou so bleſſed. ¶I beſeech of thee, thou Son of God, Jeſus Chriſt, that thy form & figure & this work which I do by thy enterpriſe may touch this Ring, that Lord as thy Holy Ring was bourne before the Ark of God, ſo do thou make this Ring to make well known unto me the knowledge of All Spirits, & that this conſecration & conjuration which we aloud offer & by the virtue of this Ring the power of the wicked ſpirit ſhall be repreſſed, & their ſtrength, might, & power be compaſſed together, that they be compelled to anſwer truly to all queſtions that they knoweſt without deluſions, telling me the truth only of whatſoever is in their ſecret knowledge, that they will make it moſt clear & manifeſt unto us. Let it be done by the ſame Lord, Jeſus Chriſt which with God alone liveth & reigneth in great & mighty majeſty. Amen.

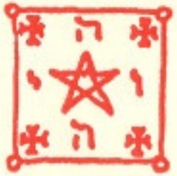
I Conjure thee, thou creature of God, in whoſe form above the clear Celeſtial orb all ſcience is aſſigned, & by all the ſigns of Heaven, by the Name & Order of the Angels. by all the climes of the world, & by the Great Name of God Tetragrammaton that is graven in thee by the Judgement & Power of Jeſus Chriſt.

After this, his beginning . . . that what Spirit ſoever ſhall be shown unto me, that . . . he ſhall be in great dread & fear, until he have . . . Great Name graven in this Ring, ſtraight he ſhall obey . . . importance, to get honour, charge, . . . tell you untruth, but to ſhow & manifeſt & anſwer all he hath heard & known . . . but that I have power which . . . Holy . . . in my works that ſtraight away all ſpiritz . . . & conſecrated that truſteth in thee our aid, O Lord almighty . . . which ſhall come in the hour that all . . . obey & be subject unto him, by the bleſſed sacrament . . . that our Lord which liveſt & reigneſt World without End. Amen.

Then ſhall the Prieſt ſprinkle the Ring with Holy Water, & . . . he ſhall annoint the Ring with pure balſam & [crocus. . ?] . . . & on the middle finger of the left hand of the Maſter the Prieſt ſhall place the Ring; but when the Maſter receiveth it, he ſhall do ſo reverently, on both his knees.

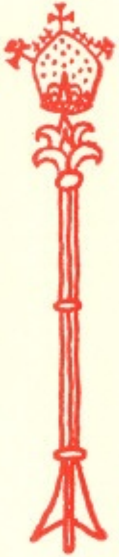
IIJ, ¶6.

IN the ſame manner is the conſecration of the plate of Copper or Tin in which muſt be graven the Great Name of God that is in the Ring. The plate muſt be the length of three inches at every quarter, & let the thickneß be according to your diſcretion, ſo that it doth not eaſily bend; & like the Ring it muſt be gilded.* ¶Then as in the conſecration of the Ring do likewiſe to the plate of Copper; & in the ſame conjuration beforeſaid, where you ſay: 'as of the Ring bourne before the Ark of God, &c.,' here ſhall you name 'The plate where God did name the Ring' & you ſhall add, 'like as the Golden Plate in the forehead of the High Prieſt' & guardedly dignified, ſo ſhalt thou have this plate in thy invocation & conjuration of the ſpiritz & their ſecretz, & being worthily dignified & conſecrated, the Moſt High & watchful God almighty ſhall by the virtue of the ſame plate, & by the Majeſty of the Great God have power to puſh down the power of the wicked ſpiritz. Amen. ¶After this oriſon is ended, the Prieſt ſhall annoint the Plate with ſweet balſams & give it to him [the Maſter] in the work, being wrapped in a clean cloth & a ſweet perfume in it, & he muſt receive it reverently on both his knees.



IIJ, ¶7.

HEre followeth the Conſecration or bleſſing of the Sceptre, which muſt be made of Bay Laurel wood, & faſhioned like unto the Sceptre or mace of the council of a city. Let it be ſo broad & ſo thick as you may deem fit, with a nail to hold the plate aforeſaid, & in the midſt of the Sceptre there muſt be a hold* & all muſt be gilded. And the Prieſt ſhall wrap his ſtole about the Sceptre & he ſhall takeſt & raiſe it on high ſaying:—



I Conjure thee O creature of God, thou regal Sceptre, dignified by the power of God & his virtue immeaſureable, by the pure wiſdom of Solomon, which once uſed thee in his regal kingdom, & in the binding & conſtraining of Spiritz, by the terrible day of Judgement, & by the virtue & power of all the Angels that keep the ſpiritz in ſubjection. I adjure you, when I work in this Art, that you be obedient to my conſecrations, conjurations, & ſtraight bindings, & againſt the malignations of any ſpirit whatſoever, & that it remain & keep the ſame virtue for which it was ordained & made by Solomon, & as to whenſoever the worthy Sceptre of the Aſſyrians by his power & clemency did demonſtrate love & friendſhip, ſo in friendſhip I proffer to the ſpiritz this Sceptre, to preß thee deſcend, & conſtrain thee to obedience by Jeſus Chriſt which with God the Father & the Holy Spirit liveth & reigneth ever one God, World without End. Amen.

WHich done, annoint all of the Sceptre with Balſam. Let it be of one cubit in length, no more, which done & finiſhed give willingly to the worker* the Sceptre & with worthy devotion, let him kiß the Ring at the reception thereof; & after, take it in his left hand, & let him lay it where he will, in a clean place, until the time be that he would work therewith. ¶So have I ſecretly revealed to you that without which it is impoſſible to work effectually in the Art of Nigromancy. All this muſt be done in one day—that is on a Friday—both Sword, Ring, Plate, & Sceptre. ¶And ſo may you do anything whatſoever you will, obſerving the times, ſeaſons, & hours, as well as others order as aforeſaid.

NOw it reſteth to ſay ſomething of the conjurations, ſay in accord &c., & the firſt of theſe—whoſe Art never faileth—but firſt take care that the aforeſaid conjurations be made on a Friday; of the Sword, Plate, Ring, & Sceptre, let them be made in the month of September . . . the next Friday after the Conjuration of the Sword & other inſtrumentz, with the moon increaſing . . . after your Balſam, which muſt be made when the Sun lls in Aries, that is, in March, which then made in a great quantity you may keep always & need not more . . . in a font which was deſtined for the purpoſe.

Tractate Four, ¶1.

FIrſt ſhall you retire to thy chamber, being prepared as aforeſaid, & . . . accordingly, upon a Wedeneſday, & you ſhall begin in the hour of Mercury, which is at the riſing of the Sun. If it be a clear day, it is all the better, but if it is dark do not ſtay in his hour at afternoon. If then it be that . . . look in the nighttime ſoever he be, when it is clear, in the hour . . . & thou ſhalt make a Circle of chalk, that it may well be diſtinguiſh-of Solomon, which once uſed thee in his regal kingdom, & in the binding & conſtraining of Spiritz, by the terrible day of Judgement, & by the virtue & power of all the Angels that keep the ſpiritz in ſubjection. I adjure you, when I work in this Art, that you be obedient to my conſecrations, conjurations, & ſtraight bindings, & againſt the malignations of any ſpirit whatſoever, & that it remain & keep the ſame virtue for which it was ordained & made by Solomon, & as to whenſoever the worthy Sceptre of the Aſſyrians by his power & clemency did demonſtrate love & friendſhip, ſo in friendſhip I proffer to the ſpiritz this Sceptre, to preß thee deſcend, & conſtrain thee to obedience by Jeſus Chriſt which with God the Father & the Holy Spirit liveth & reigneth ever one God, World without End. Amen.

Which done, annoint all of the Sceptre with Balſam. Let it be of one cubit in length, no more, which done & finiſhed give willingly to the worker* the Sceptre & with worthy devotion, let him kiß the Ring at the reception thereof; & after, take it in his left hand, & let him lay it where he will, in a clean place, until the time be that he would work therewith. ¶So have I ſecretly revealed to you that without which it is impoſſible to work effectually in the Art of Nirgromancy. All this muſt be done in one day—that is on a Friday —both Sword, Ring, Plate, & Sceptre. ¶And ſo may you do anything whatſoever you will, obſerving the times, ſeaſons, & hours, as well as others order as aforeſaid.

Now it reſteth to ſay ſomething of the conjurations, ſay in accord &c., & the firſt of theſe—whoſe Art never faileth—but firſt take care that the aforeſaid conjurations be made on a Friday; of the Sword, Plate, Ring, & Sceptre, let them be made in the month of September . . . the next Friday after the Conjuration of the Sword & other inſtrumentz, with the moon increaſing . . . after your Balſam, which muſt be made when the Sun lls in Aries, that is, in March, which then made in a great quantity you may keep always & need not more . . . in a font which was deſtined for the purpoſe.

Tractate Four, ¶1.

Firſt ſhall you retire to thy chamber, being prepared as aforeſaid, & . . . accordingly, upon a Wedeneſday, & you ſhall begin in the hour of Mercury, which is at the riſing of the Sun. If it be a clear day, it is all the better, but if it is dark do not ſtay in his hour at afternoon. If then it be that . . . look in the nighttime ſoever he be, when it is clear, in the hour . . . & thou ſhalt make a Circle of chalk, that it may well be diſtinguiſhed. Make it of generous ſize & let it be in the midſt of the houſe. As you ſit in the Circle you may turn you to the windows, & will ſee the four corners of the Heavens; that is to ſay the Eaſt, Weſt, Horth, & South. Make ſo your Circle that when you may mark your corners . . . then take thou the Sword in your left hand, & the ring on the middle finger of the left hand, & the ſceptre being held in your right hand, & faſtened thereto the plate, & take thou the ſceptre, & boldly go thou with the Sword, & bleß you; & being right diſpoſed as before, enter the Circle & thy fellows alſo being right & well diſpoſed—& if you will, you may bleß your fellows with the croß of the Sword & with the Sceptre as before—then enter into the corner; be in the middle of the Circle as a ſentry. Let the croß of the Sword lie on the earth, & ſet yourſelf next to the haft of the Sword looking towards the Eaſt. Obſerve that your followers ſit at the hame [or point] of the Sword, looking towards the Weſt, & mark that you may in the Circle behold all the principal parts of the world; that is to ſay Eaſt, Weſt, North, & South. But chiefly look thou in the Eaſt, & at thy back be the backs of thy fellows, & upon both ſides thou ſhalt ſee the North & South.

Then being rightly diſpoſed & proposed, hold this book upon your knee, & upon what part of the heavens thou ſhalt look—that is, towards the Eaſt—begin the firſt Conjuration, which once ſaid turn you the ſecond time to the Weſt, thirdly to the South, & fourthly towards the North, ſaying this Conjuration; & as often as you ſhall name the Great Name Tetragrammaton graven in the Plate & fixed to the Sceptre, & in the Ring, with bended knee ſhalt thou kiß both—& mark that your fellows do the ſame—& that you may be ſafe & ſecure, in the foreheads of your fellows make a croß with both the Plate & Ring, & ever as you read the Conjuration, have the handle of the Sword, which his hand—in which the Sceptre is—is over, & be ready to ſeize the ſame in a moment but at the ſight of the Sceptre the ſpirit ſhould be affrighted ; & then you ſhall kneel with great & circumſpect dignity, looking on this book. Leiſurely you ſhall kneel, & do not look before the book leaſt the ſpirit at that phaſe appointed be mean, and deviſe ſuch tales as you longeth for, So let this your devotion, and all your works begun be wary & of mighty force, for if diſſolutely you race, your work will not go forward . . . days. . . . have a fellow that may look & take heed as in that . . . the moſt, ſhould the ſpiritz then appear, that he may truly tell . . . if that . . . may turn that way, fixing his eyes always upon the . . . & the Maſter ſhall after, at the end of every conjuration with his fellows . . .* & that one fellow ſhall tell you truly without diſſembling, until the . . . drawn near unto the Circle. You ſhall not ſpeak one word to the ſpirit more than the conjuration in this book, until you have from your fellows that he is devout & hath refrained from laughing & toying. Let him therefore in any caſe refrain, & when you are ſettled in direction then perform your conjuration, & then conſtantly you ſhall ſay to your fellows: "They are bound," then looking directly upon them thou ſhalt ſay this conjuration of obedience as followeth ſlowly & clearly without recourse to the book, but looking conſtantly towards them . . .

¶ . . . & offering or bowing the Septre with the Plate towards them: & when you name Tetragrammaton you ſhall ſhow them your Sceptre & Plate in your left† hand with the Ring, at which point they will begin to bow their knees & hark their teeth. Then undoubtedly you ſhall hear & have a true anſwer, & they ſhall do their obedience to the great & mighty God; & in coming again begin the Conjuration, bowing the Sceptre & the Plate of the Great Name of God. If they bend not their knees, then holding it towards your fellows, graſp the Sword in your hand, but ſay nothing. Then at bowing the Sword, Plate, & Sceptre, they ſtill bend not their knee then conſider the hour of the planet that reigns then, & ſhow the Table with the characters of all planets every one in a plate by itſelf, & mark under what planet they be. For at the proper character they will be obedient & bend their knees, under one of the planets; & on their knees they will bend to that. Conſider, therefore which is the planet, & when his hour is; keep it well in mind. But as yet thou ſhalt not ſpeak. The hour being found, you muſt then remain in the Circle for viij hours; you ſhall ſit ſtill 'til the coming of the ſame hour . . .

¶ Say this conjuration & binding to obedience:—

O I conjure you, Spirit; & I adjure you by that infinite goodneß of God wherewith all things were made when he aſked: "let it be made;" & it was done. I conjure, require, & command you nowbetimes & forthwith that you appear, viſibly without our Circle, by the almighty power & wrath of God the conquerer, wherewith he made man like to his own image above all others . . . [by his] juſtice [by the which] your pride hath been dampened, & by the mercy wherewith . . . & by the humility & virginity of the bleſſed Virgin Mary, mother of our Lord, Jeſus Chriſt . . . he who brought you to obedience, that you anſwer truthfully, & give quick reply to all my queſtions, & that you [dare not] diſobey, but heed theſe words, & be obedient thereunto. ¶I conjure you, Spirit[s] by the obedience that you all do owe, by this great & heavenly Name of God [here the Maſter ought to bow] Tetragrammaton that in this Sceptre & Ring is graven; that by theſe Holy & High Names of God All-powerful that you quickly & without delay perform my requeſt, or depart; & by the precious blood of Jeſus Chriſt that you be obligated to bring ſome other that hath knowledge [soas] to anſwer me truly what I demand of, all & whatſoever I ſhall aſk, without any fraud or deciet, but rather that you forthwith fetch my deſires, by the virtue of wiſe Solomon whose power, by the great virtue of God, hath bound you to obedience, which is of force & authority to will & command, by He which liveth world without end & reigneth everlaſtingly. Amen.

¶Which all being finiſhed, mark as I ſaid whether they do their obedience or no, & call to mind all things aforeſaid. ¶The Binding of the Spirit:—

I Conjure you, Spirit, by the obedience you owe to the Great Name of God [bowing] Tetragrammaton, who hath made both you & me & all things by the great power of His mighty Name, and by Michael the Archangel which caſt and drove you down out of Heaven, and by the Annunciation of the Bleſſed Lady, mother of our Lord, by all martyrs, by the Paſſion, Death, & Reſſurection of Jeſus Chriſt, & by his Aſcention into Heaven; & by the great abundance of tears of the bleſſed Virgin Mary, & the Magdalene & the other Holy women for the death of Chriſt, & by the darkening of the Sun at his death, & by the ranting & raving of the people thereat, & by all the things that then were done in Heaven, on Earth, in the Air, & in the depths of Hell . . . that was to me of all things that I ſhall aſk you. Give me perfect anſwer without fraud or deceipt withall, or any manner of fear. Make true anſwer to my queſtions, by virtue of our Lord & Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, reigning as One; Father, Son, & Holy Ghoſt by & to which be all honour, praiſe & glory, One God, the Father Everlaſting, world without end. Amen.

I Conjure you that ſpeak [but if not, then only, "I conjure you Spirit,"] by the virtue . . . & by the ineſtimable ſtrength of the Name [bowing] of God, Tetragrammaton, & by all the characters in this Circle, & by all things in Heaven, Earth, & Hell, that this thing [—Petition—] . . . . ſhew me & tell me without any fraud or deceipt, I adjure thee by God Almighty that ſhall come to judge the quick & the dead, who liveſt & reigneth world without end. Amen.

¶Then certainly he will tell you of the thing you require & all concerning it ſoever: which being done, you ſhall give the Spirit licence to depart.

NOte that in all this enterpriſe your fellows look not, leaſt that they be tempted to ſpeak, for if they ſpoke then would there be no peace, for the ſpirit being bound cannot hurt, & if they would hurt at the beginning, they cannot preſently for fear of the Sword, Sceptre, Plate, & Ring, but if the binding is looſed by idle talk then all would be loſt; & hold you always the Sword & Sceptre in your hand, at riſing, & take no heed of ſcoffing or teſting, or any laughing voice you perchance hear, but have your eyes fixed on the Sword & Sceptre.

¶Licence to depart:—

I Conjure you, Spirit, by that Holy Temple of Solomon that the Almighty God ſanctified, & by all the elements, & by the Great Name of God [vow] graven in this Ring & Sceptre, that you quietly & peaceably depart, without any tempeſt, rain, thundering, or other deliverer of diſmay, terror, or fear, & that you & your fellows come to me whenſoever I call you, without any fear or trouble to any, by the virtue of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, & by the virtue of the living God, Father, Son, & Holy Ghoſt

I Conjure you, O Amazael, Aziel, Anathana,* Abſoul [?], Azael, Tyer,† you Holy Angels of God, by the Spiritual Grace that teacheth you "ſin not!" & by the terrible face of Lucifer, & by the virtue of our Lord & yours, Jeſus Chriſt, & by the fearful day of Judgement, & by that Ineſtimable Name of Nanes that was written on the forehead of Aaron, Tetragrammaton [bowing] that here is written in my Ring & Sceptre, that ſo often as you ſhall ſhow your ſervice unto me in a viſion, without fear or awe. ¶Anſwer truly my queſtions, without any fraud or trouble from error, nor with any delay shall you ſay & do whatſoever I ſhall command of you by the virtue & power of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt which liveth & reigneth one with the Father & the Holy Ghoſt world without end. Then you ſhall ſay on bended knees in the middle of your Circle, bending & ſtreaching the Sceptre towards the North† make this great charge.

I Conjure you, Spiritz, Aſtaroth, Belial, & Troglis, & you infernal ſpiritz, by Jeſus Chriſt, by the Father, Son, & Holy Ghoſt, & by the gracious Virgin Mary, by the prophet John the Baptiſt, by the Tables of Moſes, by the virtue of Michael the Archangel that drove you out of Heaven, & by the glorious Saint Cyprian the martyr with which you made ſubject, & by Solomon who made you obey his ſayings, & by the fearful day of Judgement, by the mild countenence of Jeſus, by his precious wounds, both in his hands & in his feet, by his Annunciation & Preaching, by his Death, Reſſurection & glorious Aſcention, & by the ſending of the Holy Ghoſt, by the Father & the Son, by the Holy & glorius Apoſtles, by all the virtues of Heaven, by all the ſeven gifts of St. Mary the Virgin, mother of Jeſus Chriſt, which ſhe gave her ſon; by his five joys, by the Aſſumption of the Virgin Mary, & by all Holy Myſteries.

HERE SITS THE MASTER WITH HIS FELLOWS

This Circle is for Treaſure that be hid in water—as in the Sea, or elſewhere . . .

IV, ¶3.

¶ . . . namely . . . Julius[?] . . . , & by the virtue of Lyon . . . which the . . . & by his caſting out of Devils from men, & by thy Holy ſaviour Jeſus Chriſt, by his precious blood, which ran out of his hands, his feet, & other parts of his Holy body, & by the virtues of all Saints, & by all honours awaiting in Heaven, & by all your Good Angels, who are: Almarazen,* Amalzatin,† & Colatizab'tin; & ſtill I adjure & conjure you, by the fearful Name of God, Tetragrammaton [bowing] which is to you a Name Horrible & Terrible, O evil expiates and horrible ſpiritz, that you without any delay do appear unto me, & truly anſwer to whatſoever I ſhall aſk of you, & obey me in all things, by the virtue of our Lord & Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, which liveſt & reigneſt world without end. Amen.

Which finiſhed, & nothing appear— even if devoutly & charitably it be ſaid—& neither you nor your fellows ſees any thing, let you turn yourſelves towards the North or South, & repeat theſe conjurations until they appear— which undoubtedly they will appear unleß you be not clean in conſcience, body, & clothing—which ſhould be before you have repeated it three times; & when the firſt comes, you ſhall hear as it were the hiſſing of a ſerpent, which at the firſt hearing with a bold mind name you Tetragrammaton, ſigning the which with the the ſign of the croß, bowing your Sceptre towards the place where you firſt hear. But anſwer not without your book, nor fear not, for undoubtedly the Evil Spirit will tranſform himſelf into horrible & terrible ſhapes to terrify you & your fellows; but let them name Tetragramaton in a like manner, and ſign them with the croß. Then ſtraightaway the ſpiritz will ceaſe, & change themſelves into a fair ſhape, & after, for the ſpan of one hour, you ſhall hear no ſtirring, but ſtanding quietly you ſhall hear them ſpeak.

Which done, & the conjuration finiſhed, if they be ſtanding, offer them the Sceptre* & they ſhall follow in obedience; & if they do not, ſhow them the characters of the Seven Planetz doing as is ſaid in the former experiment, & mark your hour, & without all doubt they will be obedient, they ſhall ſay to you in a hoarſe voice: Behold! From out of the fire aſcend nine winged beings. It is they who ſhall bring what you deſire . . . & ſurely you ſhall behold them, bringing the treaſure with them in coffers from all directions, & a freſh ſcent accompanies them; & then ſhall you ſee them, then you ſhall ſpeak the name Tetragrammaton . . . with the Sceptre in your hand . . . which ſhall be like a lion before, & the form [or face]? of an eagle behind, & his voice like that of a fair women; as fair as thee to look upon & theſe will give you ſcarce . . . thereunto to ſay the conjuration in the firſt experiment, & so being ſaid, then the egregia &c. naming His Name, & devoutly ſhall you conjure him to ſpeak & do whatſoever thou wilt—but it is ſore hard to make him ſpeak—then thou ſhalt riſe, & whether he will or will not, thou ſhalt command him to ſpeak & to bring thee what thou requeſt, in ſuch a place as you name—but after he has once ſpoken you ſhall never ſay anything without the conjuration aforeſaid—& when you have named your place he will ſtraightaway depart. Do not forget which place you name, but add this to your conjurations; that without fail he ſhall come again, & that then only about the time that you appoint. He will come, & you may aſk of him what you will, either in the earth or in the ſea; but you muſt make fumes of Maſtic & Oil,* & after you ſhall ſay your conjuration, & give him licence & ſtraight he will vaniſh away. But you ſhall not go out of your Circle, but muſt remain, as in the former experiment, & with patience ſhall you have your demand; for which offer God thanks, Who worketh & doeth all for His glory & your good.

¶This Circle is for Water Spirits. Uſe in like manner, when you may work for friendſhip, in the Hour of the Sun on the morning of Sunday:†

NOw it reſteth to tell the making of an ointment, wherewith you ſhall annoint your eyes; & all ſpirits will appear unto you ſuch that you may ſee them when you pleaſe. [NB]* Firſt when the Sun is in the ſame ſign, & in the ſame moment as Mars,† take the ſting§ of a ſerpent which hath killed himſelf & dry it, & make of it a powder. Then take Balſam — & mix: of the powder, 1 oz.; & of the Oil 4 ſpoonfulls. Then take a little of the root of Mandrake, in a powder, 4 ſpoonfulls—& if you will you may preß the leaves in the oil—& mix altogether. Then put it in a clean glaß with a little clear ſtopper, & when the Sun is in which degree of Aries that is fitting, make this Circle following in your chamber, & put the glaß with the oil in the midſt of the Circle, between your legs, with a piece of clean copper, & have your Sword, Sceptre, & Ring in your hand[s], & the other inſtrumentz [i.e. the Plate] towards the Eaſt. ¶Bowing your Sceptre, begin to ſay very devoutly—having faſted the ſame day, bread & water; & hearing a Maß of the turmoil of St. Mary the Virgin & a Maß of St. Cyprian, & offer in the Maß what you will only ſo that it be not leß in value than a penny — then having all things ready, towards the Eaſt: [ſay:]

HOly Lord, Father Omnipotent, & Everlaſting God, which of Thy only Word didſt make & create all things; which in the days of Moſes didſt conſecrate oils to be powdered, & annointed on the head of Samuel; by the virtue of thoſe oils wherewith Mary the Magdalene didſt annoint the feet of Chriſt, & by those oils which St. Mary the Virgin, mother of our Lord unto Thy bleſſed Son didſt annoint his Holy body aftre it had been taken from the croß & was placed into the tomb; & by his humility who was born in a ſtable, which lived as the ſervant of a carpenter, & was obedient unto Thy will alone unto death, which ſuffered for us miſerable ſinners; moſt humbly we pray thee, like as this oil by Thy Holy Saintz & Angels was prepared & made Holy , & by conſecration made bleſſed, by the conſecrating power of his precious blood, Thy only begotten Son who died upon the croß, bleß theſe oils to annoint & open my eyes ſo that everywhere I may ſee & behold the ſpiritz appearing, which once were inviſible & hidden, & that familiarly they may anſwer me whatſoever I ſhall aſk of them, & be obedient unto me & perform my ſayings, & alſo whatſoever, by Thy grace & power, I ſhall command of them by virtue of this oil, & by our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Thy dearly beloved Son, which with Thee &

the Holy Ghoſt liveth & reigneth ever One God, world without end. Amen.

O Holy Mary, mother of Jeſus Chriſt, make this oil worthy & conſecrate; O Holy Spirit, Cherubim & Seraphim; bleſſed, O all you ſpiritz bleſſed, I beſeech you to ſanctify this oil & make it an example . . . O you ſainted Apoſtles, O bleſſed martyrs, holy Patriarchs & Prophets, O all holy Angels, bleß & conſecrate this oil, that all ſpiritz may, by the virtue of this oil, be driven to obedience without any fear, terror, or diſquiet to me or any other creature, & that viſibly I may ſee them, by Jeſus Chriſt Our Lord. Amen.

Which done, kiß & put the Sceptre & Ring in the midſt of the Circle, laying it againſt the glaß with the oil, & the Sword accroß it in the manner of a croß. But take heed that the Plate with the Name of God Tetragrammaton touch the Earth, & be rotated ; & put the Ring upon thy fingre all the night following. You ſhall lie that night in a clean linnen & ſweet, in a clean & ſecret chamber & bed, & ſo much as you can, abſtain from ſleep; & without all doubt, before the middle of the night, thou ſhalt have that which [thou deſireſt] . . . By 20 days thou ſhalt not be tempted to evil . . . After, eat a little, that thou faſt not overlong, & then you ſhall ſee a million Angels in the air, which will come & bleß the oil which you have made. Now this is a ſign, when as about the middle of the night you hear, as it were, a talking very diſtinctly, but you cannot underſtand [what is ſaid], You ſhall ſee the Sceptre lifted up into the middle of the Circle, & the Sword alſo, without hands. Take heed you be clean when you touch it leaſt that wonder decay. But it is better that a prieſt make this oil, & enter the Circle to make it. Always when you make this, you muſt be alone.

THis oil muſt be kept in a clean glaß phial, or in an unguentorium bought clean & wrapped in the ſtole or garment of a prieſt. I Conjure thee, thou ſpirit preſent, by virtue of this oil, & by the virtue of this Name written in this Sceptre & Ring, & by the fearfull Day of Judgement; & I conjure & require of you by the precious blood of Jeſus Chriſt that you be unto me loyal, truthful, & truſtworthy at my command, & that thou do not ſhow me any terror,or fear, or hurt to horrify me, but quickly, without fraud or deceit you come unto me ſo neigh that there may be but ſeven feet between ye & me, & that truly you anſwer me with effect whatſoever I ſhall ask, by that great & ineffable Name of God Tetragrammaton [bowing Sceptre as before] that is in my Ring & Sceptre, & by Jeſus Chriſt, the only begotten Son & ſaviour which with the Father & the Holy Ghoſt liveth & reigneth One God, world without end. BE clean in all things, then make this Circle in your chamber in the hour of Jupiter; then enter your Circle with your inſtruments & characters, & turn you toward the Weſt quarter & begin this conjuration:—

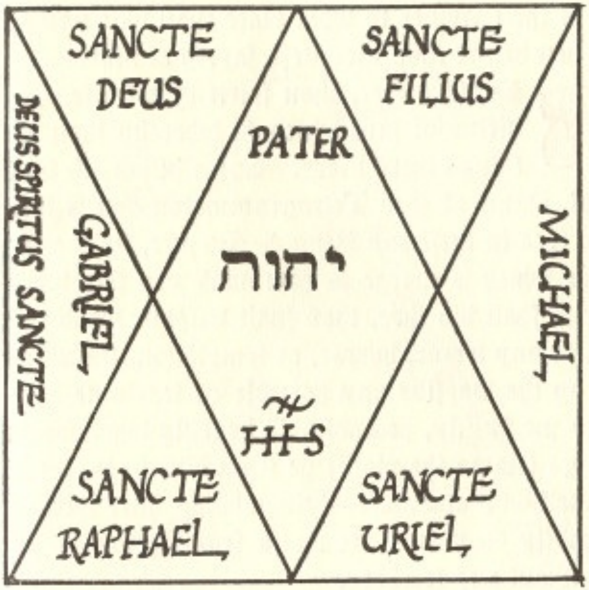
I Conjure you, Spiritz & Devils in the Weſt, & you the principal Spirit of the Weſt; I adjure & conjure you by the infinite power of God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghoſt; & by the clemency of & the virginity of the glorious Virgin Mary, mother of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, & by his humility, plentifulneß, & gentleneß, & by all his pains, & by his death; by the rending of the temple thereat, by the darkening of the Sun at his Paſſion, by all the Names of God known & unknown, & by this Name infallible & infinite, which is terrible, great & Holy: Tetragrammaton, that is graven in this, my Ring & Sceptre; & by the fearfull Day of Judgement, that without tarrying you come & appear, bringing with you a ſwift ſpirit-horſe which you have & know, that without deceit, fraud, hurt, or fear ſhall humbly obey me, and carry me without any bodily hurt or ſpiritual hurt or fear whither-ſoever it pleaſeth me to go [name the place] by him that liveth & reigneth ever One God, world without end. Amen.

Which done, you may kiß the Ring & Sceptre, & with the blood of a lapwing or of a bat, make this figure following with the characters new* . . . & place it in the window towards the Weſt, & ſtand in your Circle—& if your Circle be made that it extend directly to the wall Weſt, it is better . Which done ſay the conjuration thrice,



& then he will come, but take heed of this for then will appear in the air ſpiritz with many horſes which then wilt . . . & there will be four ſuch horſes . . . but take heed & note well whether they be white or black, & chooſe only from thoſe that be white, & you will one ſuch with a red bridle, for all the others are demons, & none hath a bridle but one. Thou ſhalt ſay to the principal Spirit that thou wilt have the horſe which beſt pleaſeth thee—& thou ſhalt point to the horſe with the red bridle—& then all the other horſes will vaniſh away, but that horſe will come then out of the chamber to what place thou wilt name . . .

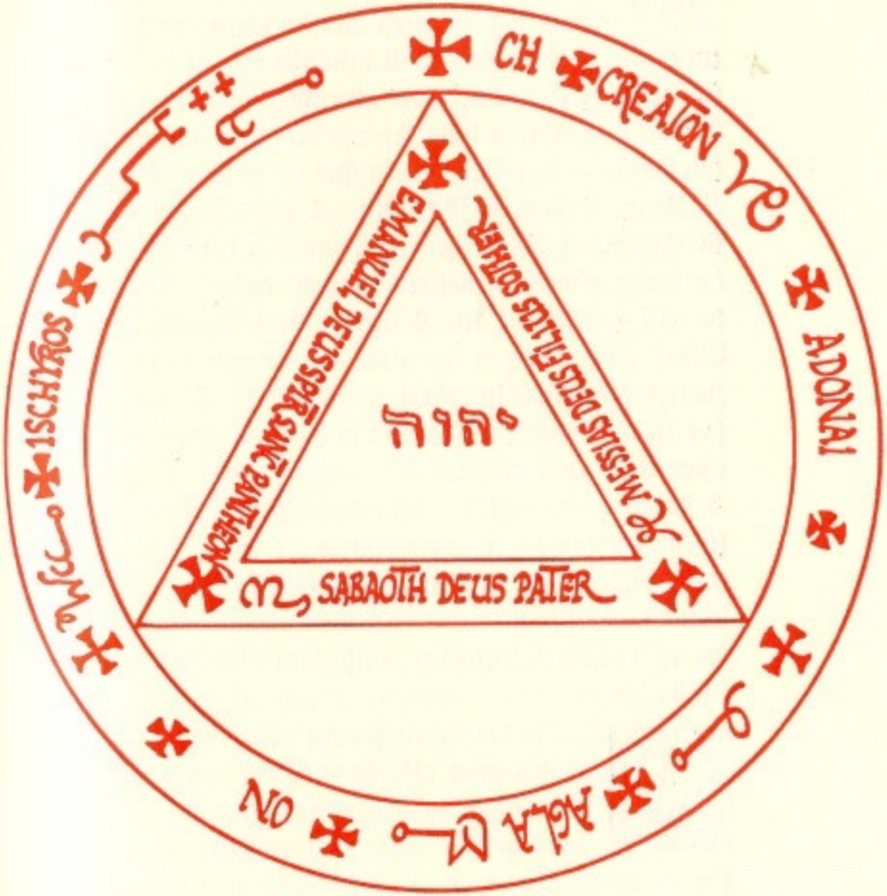
¶Then before thou mounteſt, ſayeth of him:—

I Conjure thee, thou ſpirit of a horſe, by the virtue of him which & whereby thou & all things were made. Come hither, & by that great Name of God Tetragrammaton that I ſhewed unto thee in theſe my Ring & Sceptre, by the virtue of the which I charge & command you that whenſoever I ſhall bid thee, thou ſhalt without fraud or deceit, or any terror, horror, or temptation, ſhowing me not by the wayſide any horrible or fearſome demon, carry me ſwiftly, peacably, & honeſtly whereſoever I will go [name the place] be it on Earth, in Heaven, or Hell—or otherwiſe—without any hurt ſpiritually or bodily & return me again from thence in ſafety & without any trechery.

I Do charge thee by all the powers of Heaven, & by the infinite power & clemency of God, & by the virtue of his Name Tetragrammaton, that I have thee at command all the while that thou carryeſt me & re-carryeſt me to what place I ſhall command, & that thou not ſtumble nor deign thee to go to any other place than I ſhall bid thee, whether I am riding or ſitting upon thee, by Jeſus Chriſt Our Lord & Saviour which liveſt & reigneſt, world without end. Amen.



AFterwards, ſtrech your Sceptre towards the Spirit, looking into the Air towards the prince that licenced him by virtue of the conjuration, & after thou ſhalt take the end of the bridle in thy hand & put thy foot into the ſtirrup ſaying the former conjuration unto the words: 'without any hurt ſpiritually or bodily,' & then ſhow him your Sceptre, & Ring, & ſay: ¶'By virtue of this Name written in this Ring & Sceptre I command thee that thou faithfully obey my deſires without delay' ¶& after he will go into the Air & bring thee where thou wilt. When you come to the place where you deſire, put your bridle ſecretly where you will;* & you ſhall ſay in deſcending the ſame conjuration that you ſaid upon aſcending into the Air, unto its end. Then go & do what you will, but take heed that you commit no ſin, nor break any commandment, for if you do, your horſe will not be at your obedience, nor can you ride him to bring you back again unleß you remain pure & unpolluted whatſoever with ſuch like which you muſt obſerve.

This is the Circle for the experiment above which may alſo be uſed for the Circle of friendſhip, which with the ſame conjurations may be uſed, but you muſt call out of the South: Almazon, & Elobona§ in the hour of Venus, & command to cauſe friendſhip betwixt two, & love, & conſtancy & without any doubt they will do whatſoever you command them. But you muſt uſe all your inſtrumentʒ & characters as in the former conjuration & uſe all circumſtances as before done; but do all devoutly, with great piety & diſcretion, for in this Art there is no dallying or jeſting, but God muſt have his due honour, by whoſe gracious preſidence all things are done & brought to paß at your requeſt. Therefore be mindful & thankful to Him for theſe wonderful miracles which you do attempt & accompliſh in His Name.

IV. ¶6.

¶[To Know a True Spirit from Anything Other:]

NOw of the knowledge of a good & true ſpirit such . . . conjurations, inſtrumentʒ, & Circles in the firſt experiment . . . in the hour of Jupiter or Venus, being clean go into your chamber & Circle, & on bended knees in the midſt of the Circle with your fellows if you will, holding up the Sword in your hand upright againſt the Spirit of the East, by your conjuration firſt you ſhall begin. After once ſaying the conjuration, turn you towards the Weſt; after to the South; & laſt towards the North, calling the ſpiritʒ out of all the regions.

After four times ſaying your conjuration you ſhall call the ſpiritz on bended knees ſaying firſt: ¶'I conjure you ſpiritz of the Eaſt,' ſecondly: ¶'I conjure you ſpiritz of the Weſt,' & ſo on to the four quarters. And ſo repeat your conjuration 'til the four Principal Spiritz appear, then to know which are true & which are falſe, bind them by your conjuration, & all true ſpiritz will do obedience. Bending the Sceptre towards them, & your Ring, & Characters of the Planetz, they will bend their knees. If they honour the Great Name of God Tetragrammaton—which doubtleß they will— then they will do ſo at the firſt, without tarrying any. But repeat & begin your conjuration thrice, & thoſe that will not then obey & do reverence you may know to be falſe, damned ſpiritz, & perverſe. For knowledge further of their offices & names, look in the Book of St. Cyprian, which is called the book of the offices of ſpiritz; the which is divided into four partz, according to the four partz of the world, & thereby you ſhall know the Names of all thoſe Spiritz, & of their offices, & ſo by practice & good heed you may have all at your fingers' end; for if you lead a good life & keep from voluntary & preſumptuous ſins, & obſerve all orders & reverences before ſpecified, you may eaſily attain any experiment that you deſire, ſo long as you be clean in life & clothing, & in body & mind, & devout in all your doings, for which the Lord God be praiſed both now & forevermore. Amen.

¶With this Circle & Triangle following the Spiritz will not fail to anſwer, & truthfully tell thee anything:

ANd make it in the hour of Mercury, & put the Ring in the Weſt part of the Circle— or in the Triangle— upon a four foot linnen cloth. The Ring ſhould be of Gold, hollow, with a device which will open & ſhut, & after it is made faſt on its back part, then ſay this conjuration:—

I Conjure you, O Prince Alaſtiel, & all thy ſpiritz ſubject unto thee, by that good God who with his word created & made all things; I conjure you all & require you by that goodneß of God which made man after his own image, & you by his juſt geſture for your pride damned, & by his infinite mercy wherewith he redeemed us with the Moſt Precious blood of his Son, Jeſus Chriſt, & by the virginity & humility of the bleſſed Mary, mother of our Lord, by the power wherewith he subdued all ſpiritz, crucified, * & made ſubject all the devils, & by the Fearful Day of Judgement, by all the Virtues & Powers of Heaven, by Angels & Archangels, Cherubim, & Seraphim, by the Prophetz, Patriarchs, & Martyrs, by the Bleſſed Saints & the Holy Virgins; by Jeſus Chriſt, by his death & paſſion, by his humility & converſation[?], & by this Great & Terrible

Name of God, Tetragrammaton [bowing the Sceptre as beforeſaid] which was in the forehead of Moſes, graven in my Sceptre, & conſtructed & conſecrated in my Ring, wonderful & inexpreſſable. You, you Prince Alaſtiel I conjure to aſſign me one Familiar Spirit, not of the higheſt nor of the loweſt [order] but of excellent knowledge, which can & will abide with me, true & faithfull, for the term of my natural life, faithfully ſeeking all I aſk for, & being obedient; anſwering not ſubtly or fraudeulntly, or with deceit, but fondly & faithfully; truly anſwering me of all queſtions which I ſhall demand of him, & by the Powers & Virtues of God our Father, that ſo long as this Ring ſhall laſt & endure, that he ſhall remain & continue therein & never go out or depart, unleß of me he be aſked to come out, or licenced to depart, & by Thy power that is in this, conſecrated & fumed, by Thy ſacrifice, & all real works aforeſaid, by him alſo that ſhall come to Judge the quick & the dead & the world by fire. Amen.

After this is ſaid, you ſhall ſee them in the Triangle. Call all the ſpiritz between themſelves, & [he]* will aſſign you one which he himſelf will include† into the Ring, but you muſt ſay this conjuration thrice before, or otherwiſe they will not obey. ¶Which done, & the Spirit being included, you ſhall put the Ring joining to the Circle, § right within thy chamber with thee. ¶Which accompliſhed & done they will all ſtand at the window to hear your words: ¶Then ſay:—

I Conjure thee, Spirit, included in this Ring, by the great power of God, & by the words that hath reſtrained thee & made thee ſubject & obedient, & by all the miracles of Jeſus Chriſt, & by that great & ineffable Name of God Tetragrammaton that is in my Ring & Sceptre engraved, that ſo oft as thou ſhalt be included in this Ring—by the virtue of thy Prince Alaſtiel—by my conjurations, thou never go forth or depart unleß thou be licenced, but truly anſwer all my queſtions whenſoever I ſhall aſk or demand of you, without fraud or deceit, or guile, or any diſſimulation [then move to the Weſt]. O thou ſpirit now without, within this Ring I conjure you, & be thou quick to heed my call, & anſwer me truly all queſtions whatſoever, by Jeſus Chriſt Our Lord who one with the Father & the Holy Ghoſt ſhall come to judge the quick & the dead & the world by fire. Amen.

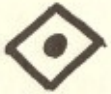
IV, ¶7.

¶[For theft: to cauſe the thief to come unto thee, in order for, & to allow thee to aſk what thou wilt of him, whereſoever he be:]—

FIrſt having your Circle as before for theft in the firſt experiment & all inſtrumentz & all conjurations performed & yourſelf clean, look firſt at the phaſe of the Moon, the Sun being in Leo on the firſt day of the Moon.*

TAke ſome virgin wax which never ſhall touch water or air[?], clean & white, & in the ſame work until it be ſoft. Of that wax make an image of a man or a woman, but make it by the Sun, & when you have made your image, write in the forehead: Iris & this character after, on the breaſt, thy name—or the name of him for whom you work together with theſe Names:

& on the cleave or crown of the head: Sybilla & alſo this character:



& in the midſt of the head: Azriel & this character:

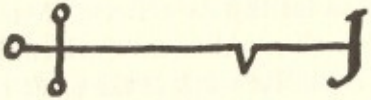
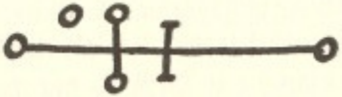
Eliezar, Malago, with this character:



upon the feet, & on the back, againſt the heart, this character:



¶And when you work, make a fire in your Circle of dry eglintyne, then go into your Circle, & take the image in your hand, ſaying:—

O Lord, the ſearcher & revealer, with whom no ſecret lieth hidden, by Thy majeſty & Power I humbly beſeech Thee that the thief that hath ſtolen [name the item] come before me, & confeß his crime, by Thy might & Power, & by Our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who ſhall come to judge the quick & the dead & the world by fire, & through Thee who liveſt & reigneſt, world without end. Amen.

Almighty & everlaſting God, the maker of all things, & ſearcher & purger of all ſins, from whom nothing is hidden, to whom nothing is impoſſible, knower of all ſecretz, we moſt humbly beſeech Thee that by Thy Holy Name Thou commandeſt Thy Holy Angels Raguelim & Urielim by Thy precepts which I do obey in this my work, that the thief which ſtole [name the thing] come & appear before me, & that ſoon & quickly he confeſſeth the truth of ſuch things as I ſhall aſk of him, by & through Our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Thy Son, our only Saviour & Redeemer which with Thee liveſt & reigneth world without end. Amen.

Then hold the image againſt the fire of eglintyne, but take heed in any caſe that you melt it not for then the thief, which you worketh for, will die; therefore take heed that the wax melt not, & keep it ever in a clean & ſweet cloth conſecrated with the image as in the other experiment. Then take the image again in your hand, & looking towards the Eaſt on bended knees ſay very devoutly this conjuration:—

I Conjure & call you ſpiritz & Angels of God Sabaoth, Urielim & Reguelim; I conjure you by the almighty power of God the Father, God the Son, & God the Holy Ghoſt. Amen.

¶And by theſe Holy Names of God that I call on for help, who ſaid I am Alpha & Omega, the firſt & the laſt, & by the High & Noble Name of God Agla, & by this moſt mighty & terrible Name Tetragrammaton, & by this Name Jeſus to whom all knees in Heaven, Earth, & Hell obey & do reverence, & by the joys of Heaven in which you art, that this thief who hath ſtolen [name the thing] in what part of the world ſoever he be, whatſoever he be about, by the virtue of all theſe Holy Names, & by theſe characters worked on this image, that he bodily appear & come to me, & as I prick this image with this charm, even ſhall he be pricked, that night nor day he reſteth not nor ſhall he leaſt he come; Fire, I conjure thee to ſcorch his body with great & unceaſing burning; prick this image in the face by the heat of the fire, & make him come unto me & quickly confeß his crime.

SAy this conjuration firſt upon the head of the image, second upon the forehead, thirdly upon his breaſt, fourthly upon the neck, & fifthly on his back near towards his heart. And always remember your characters; & do this every day until he comes—& ſurely he will come within nine days if he be in England. And keep your image faſt in a cheſt wrapped in a clean cloth, for whatſoever happeneth to the image, the ſame will chanceth to him of whom thou doſt work. Take heed therefore, & pray to God for all ſpeed with hearty prayers; be thankfull & then shall you have what you demand, to whom be praiſe & honour forever & ever. Amen.

HEre is an end of theſe approved experiments of Fra. Roger Bacon & a contented aſſociate, then his fellow in Braſenhouſe Colledge in Oxford. ¶Often ſuch tried, for moſt certainly experiments they ever were, being both the Keys & bounds of Solomon; his ſecret book of the Art, the which he left graven in braß. ¶Here you ſhall do wonders, nothing is impoſſible, believeth, & uſe the faſting & prayers, & you ſhall attain more each year forthwith, for which be thankful. Amen.

¶[An additional prayer:]—

¶Say this prayer . . . every work muſt . , , & on your knees, looking & lifting your eyes, your mind, & your heart up to Heaven:

OMoſt excellent goodneß, drain not from me Thy great mercy, O moſt mighty maker, diſpiſe not my work, O moſt prudent redeemer, who ſuffered to purify thy redemption, O moſt gentle ghoſtly & heavenly hoſt purify for us, & keep thy houſe & dwellingplace, the which then was ſanctified & dedicated to thee in the Sacrament of Baptiſm. ¶O Lord Jeſus Chriſt, wound my heart with thy moſt Holy wounds mayeſt my mind with thy moſt precious blood [be mingled], that whither ſoever I go or turn, I may behold above me thee crucified, & whatſoever

I ſee it may appear to me ruddy with thy moſt precious blood, that thus beholding of thee I may ſlight my heart & ſight in nothing, but only dwell in thee, & be thankfull to thee for all thy great bleſſings & goodneß; love praiſe & honour: Thee which art Alpha & Omega the firſt & the laſt; the beginning & the end, which liveſt & reigneſt forever & ever.

Amen.

¶Afterward

IN MCMLXXX I had the fortune to frequent the Britiſh Library, where I was, through the generous aſſiſtance of Mr. Harry Bourke the curator, made privy to the Manuſcripts archives of that place. In ſhort, I gained acceß to a wealth of unpubliſhed material. ¶At that time a rather ſpurious book called the 'Necronomicon* or Book of Dead Names' was enjoying a certain popularity. The contributors to this book were famous people, ſome of them ſcience fiction writers, and others notable occultiſts, yet the book itſelf was the moſt appalling ſcheme to deceive the public I had ſeen in years; a blatent attempt to capitalize on the 'Lovecraft phenominon.' Among the ſources cited in the text were Sloane MS. 3885 & Additional MS. 36,674. My curioſity was naturally piqued, and I ſidetracked my original reſearch [a tranſlation of the 'Lemegeton,' forthcoming] and purſued this odd vein. What I found was far from the 'Necronomicon' but inſtead a whole genere of Catholic Magical tracts, of which one of the moſt notable was 'De Nigromancia.' ¶In the heat of my youth I decided to embark on an expoſe of ſorts, by tranſlating the whole contents of Additional MS. 36,674. The project, called 'Thaumaturgical Daemonology and Goety' ſoon proved too dry and fragmentary to be publiſhed as a whole.

There were but two treatiles in the codex complete enough to use, one was ‘The Key of Knowledge’ by John Dee [another verſion of the ‘Greater Key of Solomon’] and the other was ‘De Nigromancia of Roger Bacon.’

AS would happen, a friend of mine, a ‘catholic’ Biſhop, viſited me ſome years after the project had been abandoned. He and I talked at length, and the matter of ‘¶De Nigromancia’ came up. He ſuddenly became oddly both animated and reticent. Eventually I pulled out of him the peculiar confeſſion that ‘De Nigromancia’ had long been a Secret Book employed by the ‘catholic’ Church for the ſacrament[?] of Exorciſm, and the cleanſing of the damned. I decided at that time to take up the project again, and ſent it to my publiſher. ¶Now we in the Art often note ſynchroniſtic or parelell events of ſignificance in our lives. So whether coincidence or deſtiny, oddly, my publiſher wrote me back with great enthuſiaſm to tell me that he had another copy of this MS. from the Sloane collection in Latin, and apparently more complete. It turned out to be Sloane MS. 3885, you ſee before you the reſult.

†I would dare to ſuggeſt that this waſhing take place during the Lavabo of the Maß itſelf, and not thereafter. It is lmportant to remember that the only diſtinction from 'a Maß of St. Cyprian' and any other, is that it includes a collect appropriate to that Saint, and was uſually held on the day dedicated to him. For the purpoſes of this work I ſhould think that lhe incluſion of this collect at the appropriate time during the Maß would be ſufficient, and that by no means muſt the operator wait until the Day of St. Cyprian.

§The Latin ſuggeſts the hour of Jupiter as an alternative. The hours of the day are divided into twelve equal partz from ſunriſe to ſunſet, and the hours of lhe night are divided likewiſe from ſunset to ſunriſe. On Friday, the day of Venus, the hour of ſunriſe would be her firſt hour [followed by Mercury then Luna, &c.] and her next hour of rulerſhip eight hours laler. Theſe 'hours' furlhermore by reaſon of theſe calculations may be greater or leß than ſixty minutes each.—ed.

*The implication throughout the MS., by uſe of ſuch words as 'volneris'—to harm—for conjure, and 'eſeas'—to eſſey or wage war upon—for ſummoning or negotlating with, is that the ſpiritz will be hoſtile and uncooperative with the conjurer from the beginning of the work, and as ſuch great caution is to be adviſed. Indeed, by context, 'volneris' might be coined equally as curſe.—ed.

Gal — My garment is called HOXMARCH, which, in your speache is Δ Initium sapientiae est Timor Domini. We acknowledge it to be in a true lesson: and allso the First step of the pathway to Felicitie.

Gal — What is Fear?

Δ Feare is of two sortes: one is called filialis, the other servilis &c.

Gal. — Unto the first, all fear is Joye: and therfore the Beginning and entrance into quietnes. True quietnes and rest is Wisdome. For the mynde of him that knoweth hath the greatest rest and quietnes.
The Dowghter of Dispayre, unto the wicked is Feare.
This Feare is the first that accuseth unto Damnation: But he that is perfectly wise, or tasteth of Wisdome, knoweth the Ende.
And his feare is of the thing that is done.
For when we feare synne, we do it not, because we hate it. This is the true feare of God.
When we study to do good, it is a token of our fear. For that it is a token we feare him, whome we Love, and for whose honor we study to do so.
This is all that may be sayd of Lawfull and unlawfull feare.

Δ. Deo Nro reddamus immortales

The same Fryday after None, Circa 3a horam.

After a short request made by me to Christ for wisdom and verity to be ministred by Nalvage, he appeared, and spake much to EK which he expressed not to me, but at length confessed that he gave him brotherly counsayle to leave dealing as an Idolater or fornicator against God, by asking counsayle of such as he did.

EK. confessed that he had byn that day and some dayes before dealing by him self after his manner, to understand of my Lord Lasky, and of other matters of his Lordships, and lost his question in his wyndyng matters: Nalvage told him the devil had now taken away his question. EK would [illegible] to see if it were true: and he found it true.

sday : Aprilis .17.

After diverse ejaculations appropriat to the Action, and the Curten of white silke remayning: EK loked diligently, but he saw nothing but the white silke and stone and all, nothing appearing therein.

EK immediately fell into a rude dealing of the veritie of these Actions: and sayd he had a vision of a fayre Creature the last night, which sayd, these Creatures with which we delt, wold no more appere unto him. Whereupon he sayd that both the last dayes shewe and these our instructions were all divells: and that he wold no more sit to Action. And so by letters, my doctrine of them, unlesse they wold otherwise expressly and verbally deliver in playn rules thereof. With many other arguments to disprove the veritie of our Actions. Whereupon he sayd, John your boy can well understand, and so you nede not me to deliver you these letters.

I referred all to God his will and mercy: For, as I had at his handes only, and by his order, and for his service required Wisdome and knowledge, so do I not doubt, but God will according to his accustomed goodnes, provide that for me, that is best for my vocation here in erth.

EK he rose, and went away: and left me alone in my Study appointed for these Actions.

Δ Deus in adiutorium meum intende
Domine ad adiuvandum me festina
Gloria Patri et Filio et Spiritui Sancto
Sicut erat in principio et nunc et semper et in secula seculorum

Thursday circa 9a As I was in my upper study, and had gathered the holy wordes of the second and third Call and had conferred them with the English delivered also unto us: EK came up the stayres and so went into his study and came out agayne, and as he cried for ... down the stayres I opened my study dore, and saluted him: he thereuppon came up agayne and came into my study: and there I shewed him what I had done: and that I had some understanding of these holy wordes their significations, by reason of the due applying of the English to the wordes: entending thereby to have induced EK to like the better of the manner of our frendes due and methodicall proceding with us. And told him that unlesse of this strange language I should have the wordes delivered unto us letter by letter, we might erre both in the ortographie, and also for want of the true pronunciation of the wordes, and distinctions of the pointes, we might misse the effect expected.

But

2 He goeth on, and commeth to an other gate: as there seme ~~to be two gates~~ This third man unlocketh it, as the former unlocked the first gate. I have [illegible] [illegible] by the first delivered, so as [illegible]

There appeareth a thing like a Kyte, all white, very [illegible]. It hath a fowle great bill. It semeth to be in a very pleasant garden: it flyeth ~~from~~ from place to place of it, and eateth down the [illegible] herbs, and other fruite trees. The garden semeth very delicate & pleasant.

They go all into the garden as I have sayd. Those are of the Wytnesses. The feathers and [illegible] are not white, the spoyle of the garden.

Note the Kyte [illegible] a grape all the men that he taketh the Kyte, and cutteth the Carkas in two equall partes fro the crown of the head ~~[illegible]~~ the pryvities and hangeth the one side of the bridge ~~[illegible]~~ the other over the other side ~~[illegible]~~ [illegible] [illegible]

I hear say O Justicia Divina, clappyng their hands ~~and~~ over their heds.

3 Note they went — and openeth an other gate (going over the same bridge still)

The rest of the buylding from this gate semeth very [illegible] and bright: yet there appeare no [illegible] in it. It is a frame, made of [illegible] the 7 planets moved in it. The Moone semeth [illegible]

Note Moone

There standeth Armor, and this man putteth it on, all white harnes: He semeth to stryke down the [illegible] Moone and the [illegible] or orbe: and semeth to make peces of them.

For there is no Mercy here. sayth he.

Now another of them goeth forward to an other gate and openeth the gate, & goeth in: there appeare an infinite Multitude of men.

There sitteth a man clothed like a priest, saying a [illegible] and crying as he sayth: There are many priestes in this place. He goeth to the Cardinall priest, & he taketh away the Diademe [illegible] of his vesture [illegible] [illegible] and sayth as on tuesday last, he made agayn her [illegible], our Teachers to be deluders, and no good or spirituall Teachers who had not in two yeres space made us hable to understand or do anythyng: and that he could in two dayes have learned ~~many~~ all the 7 liberall sciences, yf he had first learned Logik. &c. that he wold have no more to do with them any manner of way. wished him self in England, and sayd that yf the bokes were his, that he wold out of hand burn them. and that he had written to my Lord (by Pemis) that he toke our Teachers to be deceyvers and wicked and no good Creatures of God. with many such speches, and ~~[illegible]~~ reasons (as he thought) of force to dissuade him self from any more dealing with them. E. K. willed me to use John my boy as my Skryer. for that those spirituall Creatures were well able to deale with him. &c. I answered unto all those parcells and reasons, as tyme served, declaring my perfect trust in God, that seeing I have many yeres desyred and prayed for wisdome (such as this Action importeth) at his hands, and by such meanes as to his divine Maiestie semed best, that he wold not [illegible] wise lyke my prayer, or abuse my constant hope in his goodnes and mercy: Therfore I concluded that I referred all to the mercifull will of God: and desired nothing at the Almighty to be satisfyed of my request and prayer made unto him. So he went from me this second tyme. God lighten his hart with knowledge of the ~~[illegible]~~ truth, if it be his divine will and pleasure.

A King is a King, and a priest is a priest:

He taketh fro the rest their keys & [illegible], and giveth them a staff and a bottle in their hands.

Note: Pemis went on ~~tuesday~~ ^last monday^ morning: and had receyved our letters ~~on [illegible]~~ after noone on Tuesday last: But on monday before, the wicked Prince of darknes did what he could to hinder our procedyng.

On Thursday Fabius (brother to my Lord Lasky his wife) brought tydings to Cracovia that my Lord Lasky was comming to Cracovia ward: Emericus cam fro Kesmark, and returned bak agayn. Fabius rode fro Cracovia [illegible]

Δ I have sayd ::

Kal :: Move not, for the place is holy:

E.K. What meaneth he by that sentence or phrase.

Kal. It is of two partes, the first, in respect of the spirit and presence of him that is holy: present & blessing.
Second, in respect of your callings, which is obedience
For obedience confirmeth the voyce of God in man
And the voyce of God confirmeth mans salvation
Where it is sayd, move not: and why: because the place is holy.
Move neyther in mynde, neyther in body.
For obedience is the Conclusion, and Confirmation of your separation from the Divels.
Sacrifice is accepted but Obedience is better.
You are surely answered.

E.K. I like your answer well.

Ave — A Vision

The signe of the Love of God, Beyond the faithfull.

Fower sumptuous and belligerant Castels, out of the which, sounded Trumpets thrise.

The signe of Maiestie, the Cloth of passage, was cast forth.

Red — In the East, the cloth red, after a new smitten blood

White — In the South, the cloth white, Lilly colour

Green — In the West a cloth, the skynns of many dragons, greene; garlick bladed

Black — In the North, the cloth, haire colour, Bilbery juice.

The Trumpets sound once

The gates open

The 4 Castels are moved.

There yssueth 4 Trumpetters whose Trumpets are a pyramis, six cones, wreathed.

There followeth out of every Castell 3, holding up their banners displayed, with ensigne, the names of God

There follow Seniors six, alike from the 4 gates

After them commeth from every Gate a King. Whose princes are five, gardant, and holding up his trayne.

Next issueth the Crosse of 4 Angles, of the Maiestie of Creation in God attended uppon, every one, with 4: a white Cloud, 4 Crosses, bearing the witnesses of the Covenant of God, with the prince gone out before. Which were confirmed, every one, with ten Angels, visible in countenance.

16 Angels — After every Crosse, attended 16 Angels, dispositors of the will of those that governe the Castels.

They proceede.

And, in and about the middle of the Court, the Ensignes keepe their stations, opposite to the middle of the Court.

The rest pause.

The 24 Senators meete

They seeme to consult.

1586 In Maio, [illegible] decretum contra nos [illegible] a Caesare Rud.
In Augusto, Reversionis permissio; D. Rosenbergo [illegible]

And as our Spirituall Scholemaster, ... him Leprous. Therfore I committ this his doings to the iudgment of God.

But allso it is greatly to be remembred and Noted that he made allso dispute against with E.K. concerning the byrth of Christ that it could not be proved by the Scriptures, but that Christ came of the line of David, unles he were begotten of the actuall copulation of Joseph with Mary: and said that, though it was the doctrine of the Church that at the first and onely carnall copulation with Mary Christ was conceyved, therfore she was accounted (in manner) a Virgin. ~~...~~ according to this his doctrine ... which I trembled for the horror of so ... manifest and horrible: against evident Scriptures, Virgo concipiet, et Virgo pariet, &c and against many other most playne and sufficient authorities both of Scripture, and also histories of our Lady her examination and the womens that she was found a virgin &c. And as for the apparition to the Angel, Quomodo fiet istud quoniam virum non cognosco &c. Et integram conservavit, Iubilat assidue in Fyro Sabbatis de Spiritu Sancto. &c

*Vide Christ that is Miraculous that Virgo in partu et post partum ... conceptio ...

Note

Yt is evident hereby that this Pucci, is very ... and ... with ... whatsoever outward ... and ... , that he ... his former infidelity, proved.

On Thursday, 17 July Fr. Pucci entred his voyage toward Prage with my letter to the Nuncius Apostolicus, and with letters to John Carpio from E.K., and with my letters inclosed to the Lord Rosenberg. And he entended to have ridden toward Cassovia: but that night we rode onely 3 myles, to Golsa. our horse was so ill that we feared: and therfore sending our horse back agayn the next day, we hired a Coach &c.

Post Script

Remember that Fr. Pucci, the morning before his going away required of me our letters testimoniall, to our frends, of his Fidelitie toward us. What needeth that (said I) for as much as your ~~...~~ doings were ~~...~~ as well known to them, as to us: and ~~if he ... ,~~ your own Conscience to your self, may serve abundantly: But our frendes, doubtless, have suspected us of Error and have marvayled that we would suffer you any longer in our house and company, and would neyther credit our letters as yet (in this case). And would allso condemne us of light iudgment, or great credulitie to iudge this cause ... ~~...~~ &c.

But truly I observed in him, rather a more proud presuming over us than ... ... , for discrediting us, so, as he ... in words.

Presumptio 1. He ... said, he had as great authority as we, to publish any of our secrets, at his discretion.

2. That he ought to deal friendly with us.

3. That he understood our bokes of Actions, better than we.

4. That he needed not our consent or counsell to deale with the Pope his Nuncius: he did it of his duty generall, of Charity &c.

5. He offred to order the Nuncius and the Emperor to the revoking of the Decree made against us: &c.

Note

Consider what this may import, that the Decree against us, being one of the Pentecostall Company, and of them that then did appertayn to me: and whose name he is not afrayd to ..., and as other were not ashamed to professe him in the 4th booke of Revelations as a principall follower or worker of those: and ... first he thought to be assured of the danger of the Decree which banished us: unles he is assured of their good will, who have favored this false and outward ..., or else some other kind of collusion he, to some other purpose &c. The good God he will be assured ... tyrant persecutions: being but a probationer, not yet allowed of; and to be knowen, as to be cut of.

*vide Scripta ... ... nomen &c

F.D.

All these points I can not decypher and iudge, but refer them to the profound wisdome and high providence of God, wherfor and why for he hath admitted him to be privy of our Actions, and so a Witnes to some purposes hereafter. All which be to the honor and Glory of God. Amen.

with a preface by Elias Ashmole. An: 1672.

Be it remembred, That the 20th of August 1672.
I received by the hands of my Servant Samuell Story, a parcell of Dr Dee's Manuscripts, all written with his owne hand; viz: his Conferences with Angells, wch first began the 22th of Dec: ano 1581. & continued to the end of May ano 1583.
where the printed Booke of the remaining Conferences (published by Dr Casaubon) begins, & are bound up in this Volume.

Beside these, the Booke intituled, The 48 Claves
Angelicæ, also Liber Scientiæ Terrestris Auxilij & Victoriæ (These two being those very individuall Bookes, wch the Angells comanded
+ 10. Apr. } 1586. to be + Burnt, & ~~of~~ were after ‡ restored by them, ‡ 30. Apr. } as appeares by the printed Relation of Dr Dee's Actions with Spirits pag: 418. & 419.) The Booke intituled De Heptarchia Mystica Collectaneorum Lib: primus, and a Booke of Invocations or Calls, begining with the Square ~~Square~~ filled with Letters, about the Black Cross.
Sloane 3191 | These 4 Bookes I have bound up in another volume.

All wch were a few daies before delivered to my said Servant, for my perusall (I being then at Mr William Lillie's house at Horsham in Surrey) by my good friend Mr Thomas Wale, one of his Maties Warders in the Tower of London.

The 5t of Sept: following Mr Wale (having heard of my returne to Towne) came to my Office in the Excise Office in Broadstreete, & told me he was content to exchange all the foresaid Books, for one of mine, vizt. The Institution Lawes & Ceremonies of the most Noble Order of the Garter, to this I agreed, and provided one, wch I sent him fairely bound, & gilt on the Back.

As a further Testimony of the sence of Mr Wale's kindnes; shortly after his death, I sent for his Son, & bestowed on him one of my Deputies places in the Excise, with an allowance of 40li p Annum.

On the 10th of the sd Sept: Mr Wale came thither to me againe, & brought his wife with him, from her I received the following account of the preservation of these Books, even till they came to my hands, vizt: That her former Husband was one Mr Jones a Confectioner, who formerly dwelt at the Plow in Lumbardstreet London, & who, shortly after they were married, tooke her with him into Adle Streete among the Joyners, to buy some Houshold stuff, where (at the Corner house) they saw a Chest of Cedar wood, about a yard & halfe long, whose Lock & Hinges, being of extraordinary neate worke, invited them to buy it. The Master of the shop told them it had ben parcell of the Goods of Mr John Woodall Chirurgeon (father to Mr Tho: Woodall late Serjant Chirurgeon to his now Matie King Charles the 2d: my very intimate friend) and tis very probable he bought it after Dr: Dee's death, when his goods were exposed to Sale.

Twenty yeares after this (& about 4 yeares before the fatall Fire of London) she & her sd husband occasionally removing this Chest out of its usuall place, thought they heard some loose thing rattle in it, toward the right hand end, under the Box or Till thereof, & by shaking it, were fully satisfied it was so: Hereupon her Husband thrust a peece of Iron into a small Crevice at the bottome of the Chest, & thereupon appeared a private drawer, wch being drawne out, therein were found divers Books in Manuscript, & Papers, together with a litle Box, & therein a Chaplet of Olive Beades, & a Cross of the same wood, hanging at the end of them.

They made no great matter of these Books &c: because they understood them not, wch occasioned their Servant Maide to wast about one halfe of them under Pyes & other like uses, wch when discovered, they kept the rest more safe.

About two yeares after the discovery of these Books, Mr Jones died, & when the fire of London hapned, though the Chest perished in the Flames, because not easily to be removed, ~~but~~ yet the Books were taken out & carried with the rest of Mrs Jones her goods into Moorefields, & being brought safe back, she tooke care to preserve them; and after marrying with the foresd Mr Wale, he came to the knowledge of them, & thereupon, with her consent, sent them to me, as I have before set downe.

ad perpetuam rei memoriam A°. 1582 : 7

O God Almighty, thow knowest, that my desire, and wishes therein, That I have from my youth up, desyred & prayed unto thee for pure & sownd wisdome and understanding of some thy truthes naturall and artificiall: such, as by which, thy wisdome, goodnes & powre bestowed in the frame of the world might be browght, in some frutefull measure under the Talent of my Capacitie, to thy honor & glory, & the benefit of thy Servaunts, my brethren & Sistern, in & by thy Christ our Saviour.
And for as much as, many yeres, in many places, far & nere, in many bokes & sundry languages, I have sowght & studyed, and with sundry men conferred, and with my own reasonable discourse labored, whereby to fynde or get some ynckling, glyms, or beame of such the foresaid radicall truthes: But, (to God I speak) after all my foresaid endevor I could fynde no other way, to such true wisdome attayning, but by thy Extraordinary gift: and by no vulgar Schole doctrine, or humane Invention: And seeing, I have red in thy bokes, & records, how Enoch enioyed thy favor and conversation, with Moyses thow wast familier: And also that to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, Josua, Gedeon, Esdras, Daniel, Tobias, and sundry other, thy good Angels were sent, by thy disposition, to instruct them, informe them, help them, yea in worldly and domesticall affaires, yea and sometimes to satisfy their desyres, doutes & questions of thy Secrets:
And furdermore considering, the Shew stone, which the high preists did use, by thy owne ordering: wherein they had lights and Judgments in their great dowtes: and considering also that thow (O God) didst not refuse to instruct thy prophets, (then called Seers) to give true answers to common people of things oeconomicall, as Samuel, for Saul, seeking for his fathers asses being gon astray: and of other things vulgar true predictions, whereby to wyn credit unto the waighty affayres: And thinking with my self, the lack of thy wisdome to me, to be of more importance, then the value of an Asse or two, could be to Cis, (Saul his father): And remembering what good counsayle thy Apostle James giveth, saying, Si quis autem vestrum indiget Sapientia, postulet a Deo &c. And that Salomon the wise, did so, even immediately by thy self, attayning to his wonderfull wisdome: Therfore, seeing I was sufficiently taught and confirmed, that this wisdome could not be come by at mans hand or by humane powre, but only from thee (O God) mediately or immediately:
And having allwayes a great regard & care to beware of the filthy abuse of such as willingly and wittingly, did invocate & consult (in diverse sorts) Spirituall creatures of the damned sort: angels of darknes, forgers & patrons of lies & untruths: I did for many yeres by hearty prayers, full oft, & in sundry maners: Sometymes crying unto thee, Mitte lucem tuam et veritatem tuam, quae me ducant &c Sometymes Recte sapere et intelligere doceto me, Nam sapientia tua totum est tuam in corde meo fige tu: And having perceyved by thy [illegible] [illegible] with thee divers persons, that thow hadst a speciall care [illegible] me thy light, and truth, by thy holy and true ministers Angelicall and Spirituall:, and at length, hearing of one (a Master of Arts, a preacher of thy word admitted) accounted as a good Seer, [illegible] of Spirituall apparitions, in Christalline receptacles, or in open ayre, by his practise, procured: and trusting to frame him, by my ernest & faythfull prayers unto thee (my God) to some my help in my foresayd Studies: Tyll, thow (o hevenly father) wouldest by thy unsearchable providence, send me some ~~other~~ apter man or meanes thereto. Thereupon, having him and using him, I fownd great diversity betwene ~~his~~ spirituall meanes, and [illegible] of practise, and my pure, sincere, devoute, & faythfull prayers unto thee onely. And therefore often & stoutly rebuked him ~~[illegible]~~ to thee good; and reproved both him, and his ministers, with no small danger, but that thow (in manner beyond all) didst [illegible] unto my desyre, and comfort, in conflict [illegible] trouble: as thow best knowest o God, as I walked [illegible] thy mercyes, & the words of the Kingly prophet [illegible]

Castrametatur Angelus Domini, in circuitu timentium eum.

And out of Roger Bacon his boke written De mirabili potestate Artis et Naturae, ~~I [illegible]~~ (where he writeth against the wycked Divell callers) I noted unto him this sentence, Facilius (sine comparatione) a* Deo impetrandum foret, vel a bonis spiritibus, quicquid homo utile reputaret. So [illegible] my [illegible] [illegible] promised [illegible] [illegible], as thow art witnes, o our true & almighty God.

And ~~albeit~~ at thy good Spirituall Creatures neither had delight in this man, neither would so playnly (according to my desire) give me answers or informations by him, that he might [illegible] the apter thereto: So was he at length very unwilling to [illegible] him self [illegible] for his [illegible], and [illegible] from the [illegible] of thy truthes understanding [illegible] the onely thing that I desyred, [illegible] grace, o our most mercifull God. Therefore, as well for a Memoriall answerable to the premisses, as for the better warrant of my [illegible] [illegible] to be made accordingly hereafter: (referring all unto thy infinite mercies, and unsearchable providence,) I have thought it not impertinent, to note downe, even in this place one of the last Actions, wherein I used the foresayd prayer: wherein I made devout & faythfull petition unto thee (o the true and Almighty God) for wisdome, but my comfort & direction (if it were thy blessed will) thy holy & mighty Angel Anael: of whome as of all thy Heavenly hoste all prayse, honor & thanks, be rendred unto thy divine majestie now & for ever. Amen. Amen. Amen.

ANAEL

△ After my fervent prayers made to God, for his mercifull comfort and instruction, through the ministery of his holy and mighty Angel, named Anael (yf it were his divine pleasure) I willed, the Skryer (named Saul) to loke into my great Chrystalline Globe, yf God ~~had~~ had sent his holy Angel Anael, or no.

And Saul looking into my foresayd Stone, (or Chrystall Globe) for to espie Anael, he saw there one, who answered to that name. But being ernestly requested of me to tell the Truthe if he were Anael, An other did appeare very bewtifull, with apparell yellow, glittering, like gold. and his hed had beames like star beams, blasing, and spreading from it; his eyes fyrie. He wrote in the stone very much ~~[illegible]~~ in hebrue letters, and the letters seemed all transparent gold: which, Saul was not able eyther presently to reade, that I might write after his voyce, neyther to imitate the letters in short tyme.

△. Note: An illuding intruder, even at the first, putting him self, as an Angel of light. Take hede allwayes of such untrue intrusions.

A bright star did go up ~~and~~ and down by him.

There appeared allso a white* dog, with a long hed.

And many other visions appeared, with this second: the first being voyded quite away.

*There appeared a great number of dead mens skulls, like Thereupon I sayd, as followeth.

△ — In nomine Jesu Christi, Quis tu es? — he answered to Saul his hearing.

AN. — Potestas omnis, in me sita est.

△ — Quae?

AN. — Bona, et mala.

△ — Then appeared in the stone, these two letters M. G.

I then asking him some questions, de Thesauro abscondito: he answered,

AN. — Ne perturbes: Nam haec sunt Nugae.

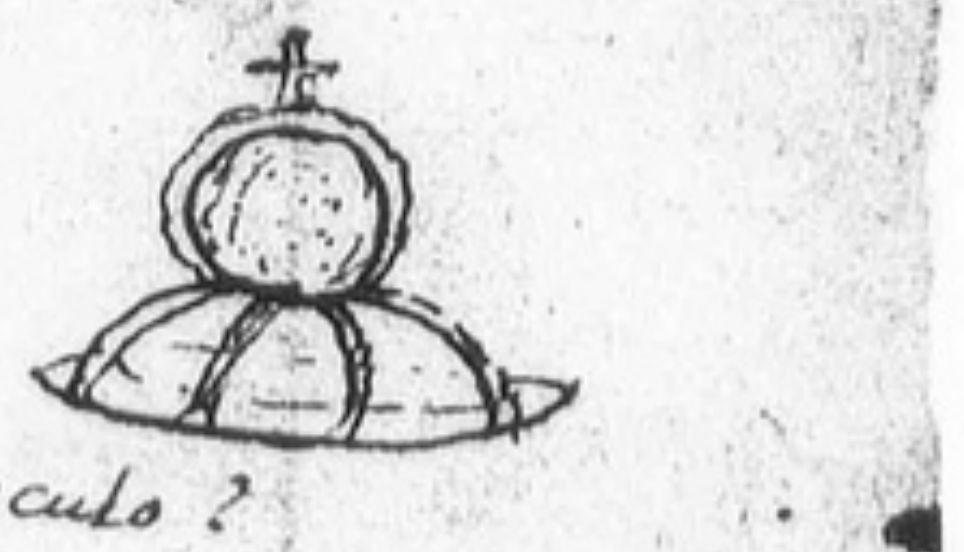
And withall appeared many dedd mens skulls, on his left hand.

He sayd to me,

AN. — Ubi est potestas tua?

△ — Cur quaeris de potestate aliqua mea?

AN — Cur? Significo, non mihi placet.



△ I, thereuppon, set by him, the Stone in the frame: and sayd.

△ — An bonus aliquis Angelus, assignatus est huic speculo?

AN. — Etiam.

△ — Quis?

AN. — מיכאל — he answered, by the shew of these letters in the stone △ — Bonus ne ille Angelus, de quo in scripturis fit mentio?

AN — Maxime.

△ — Fieri ne potest, quod ego eundem videam, et cum illo agam?

AN. — Ita. and therewith appeared this character ——
△ — Quid per hoc, significare velis?

AN — Alterius Angeli character est.

△ — Cur hic, et nunc ostendis?

AN — Causam ob magnam — Make an ende: It shalbe declared, but not by me.

△ — By whome then?

AN. — By

My name is ANNAEL
I will speak ones more to ~~the~~ the: and than fare well: for thow shalt not haue me any more.

Be not to hasty in wrath.

Δ — Is this, that, you ment to speak?

AN. — I. Do good to all men. God hath sufficient for the, and for all men.
Fare well.

Amen.

Δ — Remember, that diverse other particulars, mought haue byn Noted of this dayes Action: but these may suffice: And yet it is not to be forgotten, that as he sayd his name was Annael (with a dubble n) so he allso confessed him self to be the same Annaël which is prepositus orbis Veneris and allso Chief governor Generall of this great period, as I haue Noted in my boke of Famous and rich Discoueries.

Consider and Remember. } That this Note, of the Action (had with holy ANNAEL) is, of Prince Befafes, (otherwise called Obelison) accounted as the Prolog of my first boke of mysticall exercises

In nomine Jesu CHRISTI. Amen.

Anno 1582. Martij die 10. hora 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ Ante meridiem. Saterday

Note: he had two dayes before made the like demaunde and request unto me: but he went away unsatisfyed: for his comming was to entrap me, yf I had had any dealing with wicked spirits as he confessed often tymes after: and that he was set on. &c.

Δ — One Mr Edward Talbot cam to my howse, and he being willing and desyrous to see or shew some thing in spirituall practise, wold haue had me to haue done some thing therein. And I truely excused my self therein: as not in the vulgarly accounted Magik, neyther studied, or exercised: But confessed my self long tyme to haue byn desyrous to haue help in my philosophicall studies through the Cumpany and information of the blessed Angels of God. And thereuppon, I brought furth to him, my Stone in the frame (which was given me of a frende) and I sayd unto him, that I was credibly informed, that to it (after a sort) were answerable Aliqui Angeli boni: And allso that I was ones willed by a Skryer, to call for the good Angel Anchor, to appere in that Stone to my owne sight. And therfore I desyred him, to call him: and (yf he wold) Anachor and Amilos likewise, accounted good Angels. for I was not prepared therunto. &c. He than settled him self to the Action: and on his knees att my desk (setting the Stone before him) fell to prayer and entreaty &c. In the mean space, I in my Oratory did pray, and make motion to god, and his good Creatures for the furdering of this Action. And within one quarter of an howre (or less) he had sight of one in the Stone. but he still expected for two more: deeming this to be one of the three (namely Anchor Anachor Amilos). But I then cam to him, to the Stone: And after some thanks to God, and Wellcome to the good Creature, used; I required to know his name. And he spake plainly (to the hearing of E.T.) that his name is VRIEL.

Δ — Are you one of them (sayd I, John Dee) that are answerable, (uppon due observations performed) to this Stone?

VRIEL — I am.

Δ — Are there any more besyde you?

VR — Michaël and Raphaël. But, Michaël est princeps in operibus nostris.

Δ — ys my boke, of Soyga, of any excellency?

VR — Liber ille, erat Adæ in Paradiso reuelatus, per Angelos Dei bonos.

Δ — Will you giue me any instructions, how I may read those Tables of Soyga?

VR — I can — But solus Michaël illius libri est interpretator.

Δ — I was told, that after I could read that boke, I shold liue but two yeres and a half.

VR — Thow shalt liue an hundred and od yeres.

Δ — What may I, or must I do, to haue the sight, and presence, of Michael, that blessed Angel?

VR — Præsentias nostras postulate et invocate, sinceritate et humilitate. Et Anchor, Anachor, et Amilos, non sunt in hunc Lapidem invocandi.

Δ — Oh, my great and long desyre hath byn to be hable to read those Tables of Soyga.

VR — Hæc maximè respiciunt Michaëlem. Michaël est Angelus, qui illuminat gressus tuos. Et hæc revelantur in Virtute et Veritate non Vi.

Δ — Is there any speciall tyme, or howre to be observed, to deale for the enioying of Michael?

VR — Omnis hora, est hora nobis.

Δ — After this, there appered in the stone a strange seale, or Characterisme of this fashion ensuing:

Δ An illuding spirit straightway intruded him self, and this character, as may appere here: Quaere appendice where the Character is △ —— What is the intent, or Use of this?

*this was not true Uriel: as may appere A° 1583: Maij 5.

*VR —— Sigillum hoc in auro sculpendum, ad defensionẽ Corporis, omni loco, tempore et occasione. et in pectus gestandum.

△ — So he ceased, with thanks to god: and I musted much uppon this Action: and layd all up in mynde, and writing.

△ —— Soli Deo Honor omnis, et gloria.
Amen.

The same Saterday after none. Hora. 5.

△ — After that Mr E.T. had called Uriel, and I was come to the stone and had used a short speche of thanks giving to God: an I then required some instruction for the purpose of Soyga VR — Peace. you must Use Michaël.

△ —— I know no meanes or order to Use in the invocatiny of Michaël

Note. in this time there appeared in the stone, a riche chayre: and after a little while, it was out of sight.

VR —— He is to be invocated by certayn of the psalmes of David, and prayers. The which psalmes, are nothing els, but a means unto the seat and Maiestie of God: wherby you gather with your selues due powre, to apply your natures to the holy Angels. I mean the psalmes, commonly called the Seven psalmes. You must Use pleasant sauours: with hand and hart: whereby you shall allure him and wyn him (thorough Gods fauour) to atteyn unto the thing, you haue long sowght for.

There must be Conjunction of myndes in prayer, betwyxt you two, to God Contynually.

Yt is the wyll of God, that you should, ioinctly, haue the knowledge of his Angells togither

You had atteyned unto the sight of Michaël, but for the imperfection of Saul.

Be of good Cumfort.

△ —— The chayre cam into the stone agayne: and I axed what it ment.

VR. —— This is a seat of perfection: from the which, things shall be shewed unto the, which thow hast long desyred.

△ — Then was there a square Table brought into the stone: and I demaunded, what that Table betokened.

VR — A Mysterie, not yet to be knowen. These two, shall remayn in the stone, to the sight of all undefyled Creatures.

you must

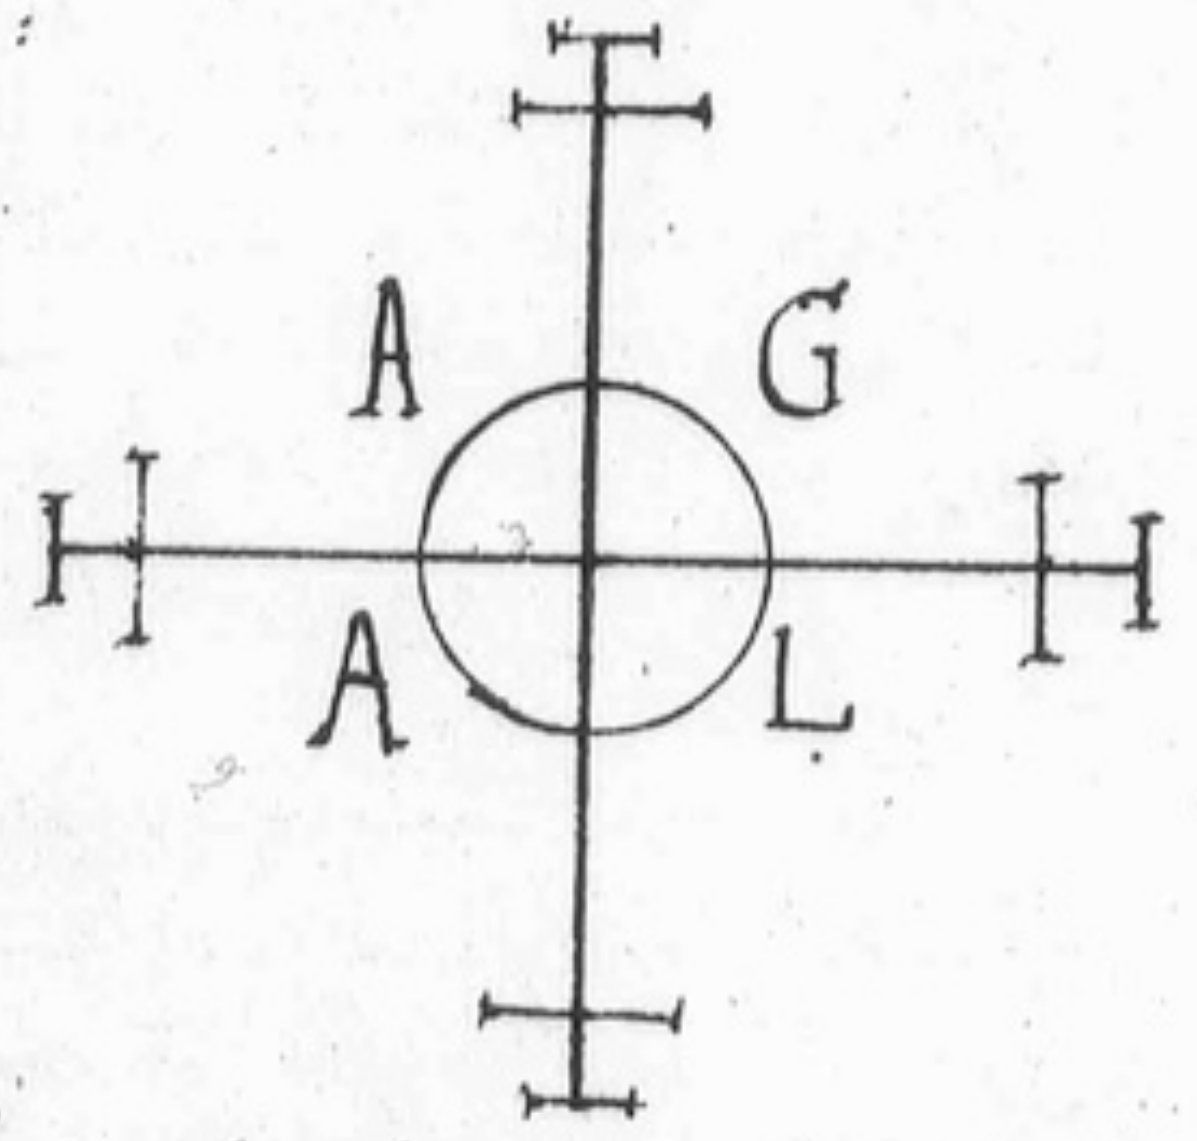
you must Use a fowre square Table, two cubits-square: Where uppon must be set Sigillum ~~Dominitatis~~ Dei, which is allready perfected in a boke of thyne: Blessed be God, in all his Mysteries, and Holy in all his Works. This seal must not be loked on, without great reuerence and deuotion. This seale is to be made of perfect wax. I mean, wax, which is clean purified: We haue no respect of cullours.

*. Curanice, contra ignorantia mea. vide post.

This seal must be 9 ynches in diameter: The roundnes must be 27 ynches, and somwhat more. The Thikness of it, must be of an ynche and half a quarter. and a figure of a crosse, must be on the back side of it, made thus:



The Table is to be made of swete wood: and to be of two Cubits high: with 4 feete: with 4 of the former seales under the 4 feet.

△ —— The fashion of the 4 feet, standing uppon the foresayd round seales, was shewed: so as the uttermost circle conteyning the letters, did seme to be clean without the cumpas of the fete, equally round about the same fete. And those seales were shewed much lesser than the principall seal.

Note this point

Under the Table did seme to be layd red sylk, two yardes square.
And over the seal did seme likewise red sylk to lye fowrsquare: somwhat broader then the Table, hanging down with 4 knops or tassells at the 4 corners thereof.

Uppon this Uppermost red silk, did seme to be set the stone with the frame: right over, and uppon the principall seal: sauing that the sayd sylk was betwene the one and the other

The Table was shewed to haue on the fowre sides of it, *Characters and names these, that are here in a schedule annexed, in 4 diuerse rowes.

Caue: quia angelus tenebrarum se intrusit, ut Quinti libri appendice apparebit.

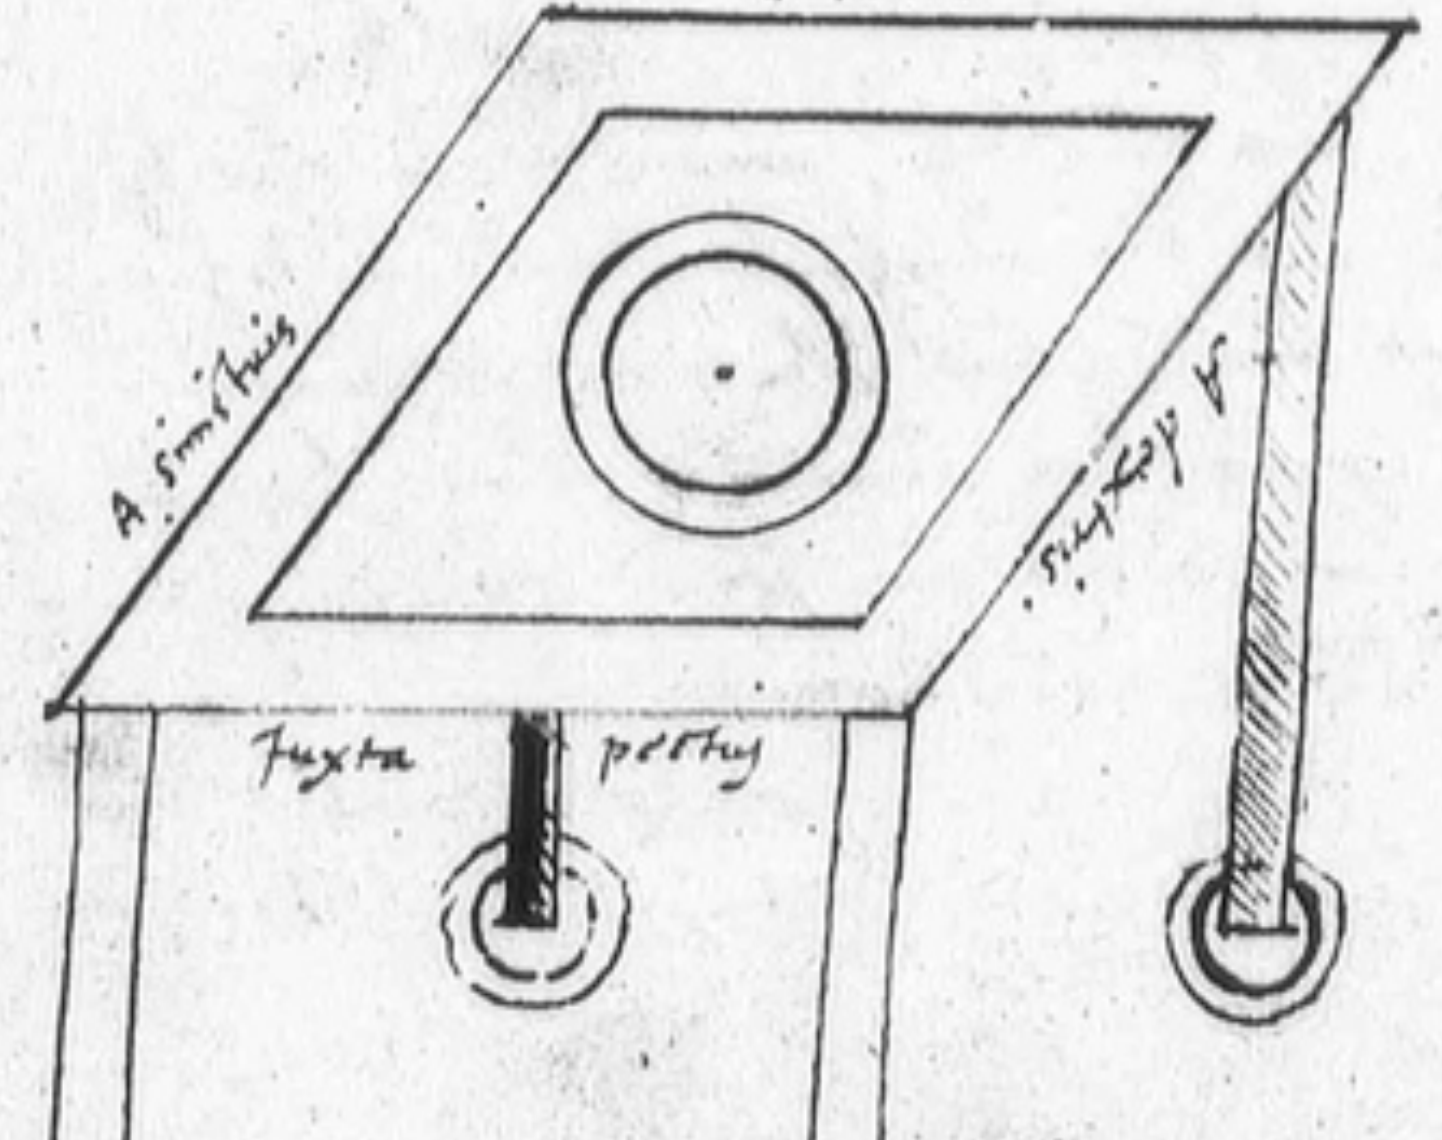
VR —— The Characters and words on the sides of the square Table, are to be written with yellow, made of perfect oyle, Used in the Church.

△ —— What oyle is that

VR — of That oyle shalbe opened unto you. The oyle, is perfect prayers of other oyle I haue no respect.

We sanctifie, bycause we are holy: and you sanctify bycause of your holines

In fronte



VR — There is a spirit, named Lundrumguffa vsing you. Who seketh your destruction, in the hatred of men, in the hurt of thy goods. Discharge him to morrow with Brymstone.
He haunteth thy howse, and seketh the destruction of thy dowghter.
His pretence was to haue maymed the in thy sholder the last night, and long ago. Yf thow do not discharge him to morrow, he will hurt both thy wife and thy dowghter.
He is here* now
Giue him a generall discharge from your familie and howse
He will seke Sauls death, who is accursed.

Δ Note:
* so is it euident who went abowt to hinder the truth before in the character, and in the border of the Table, falsely counterfeting there: as it also in the next action may appere.

Saul in danger of being carried away quik

Δ — I know no meanes, or art to do this by. For I did burn in flame of Brymstone, Maherion his name and Character, when I found Saul priuilie dealing with him (which manner of wicked dealing I had oft forbydden him) and yet he cam after, and wold haue carryed Saul away quick: as Robert Hilton, George, and other of my howse can testifie.

VR — The Cursed will come to the Cursed.

Δ — I desire you to discharge him: and to bynde him somwhere far of, as Raphael did (for Tobias sake) with the wycked spirit Asmodeus

VR — But Tobias did his part. Art is vayne, in respect of God his powre. Brymstone is a mean Δ — When shall I do this?

VR. — To morrow at the tyme of prayers.

Δ — Gloria Patri et filio et Spiritui Sancto Sicut erat. Amen.

Sonday. a Meridie hora. 3.ª circiter

Δ — Vriel being called by. E.T. there appeared one, clothed with a long robe, of purple: all spanged with gold. and on his hed, a garland, or wreath of gold: his eyes sparkling. of whome I asked Whether the characters noted for the Table, wer perfect: He answered,

* Hereby may appere that this wycked spirit foysted in the sheet of the Angels characters and names before — They are* perfect: there is no question

Δ — Are you Vriel.

Than presently cam in One, and threw the brave spirit down by the sholders: and bet him mightyly with a whip: and toke all his robes and apparell of him: and then he remayned all heary and owgly: and styll the spirit was beaten of him, who cam in after him. And that spirit, which so bet him sayd to the hearing of my skryer,

LO, thus are the wycked skowrged

Δ — Are you Vriel, who speaketh that?

worthy of the Noting.
This was thy persecutor Lundrumguffa. I browght him hither: to let the see, how God hath ponished thy enemy Lo, thus, hath God delt for the: Lo thus haue I delt for the: Thank God.

Δ — blessed be his holy name, and extolled, world with out ende.

E.K. — he drew the wycked spirit away, by the leggs, and threw him into a great pitt. and washed his hands, as it were, with the sweat of his ~~hed~~ own hed. for he seamed to be all in ~~[illegible]~~ a sweat.

Δ — Here vppon, my skryer saw Vriel go away: and he remayned out of sight a little while. Then he cam in agayn: and an other with him: and ioyntly these two said to gether. Glorifie God for euer. And than Vriel did stand behinde: and the other did set down in the chayre, with a swoorde in his right hand: all his hed glystring like the Sonne. The heare of his hed was long: He had wings: and all his lower parts seamed to be with feathers. He had a roabe vpon his body: and a great light in his left hand. he sayd Michaël — We are blessed from the begynning: and blessed be the name of God for euer.

Δ — My skryer saw an innumerable Company of Angels abowt him: And Vriel did lean on the square Table by.
He that sat in the chayre (whom we take to be Michaël) sayd Then:

Martij 14. Wensday. mane circa horam 9

Δ — Being desyrous to proceede in this matter, by consent, we bent our selues to the Action. And after that E.T. had called Vriel and saw him, I cam to the desk from my oratorie.
There did contynually appeare, the chayre and the Table
I than being affrayde that any other shold come into the stone, in stead of Vriel, did ernestly require the Spirituall creature appearing, to show who he was, and what was his name.
At length he answered, and sayde to the hearing of E.T.

* Agrippa hath so, Cap. 24. Lib. 3. occultae philos.

VRiel is my name, with diuerse called *Nariel.
Stay.

Δ — Then he went away, for a while: and cam agayn, and sayd thus.

VR. — The strength of God, is allwayes with the.
Dost thow know, what thow writest?

Δ — In two senses, I may understand it: eyther that the good Angel Gabriel is allwayes with me, though invisibly: or els that the strength, and mighty hand of God, allwayes is my defense.

Δ potius erat dicendum Michaël: Nā, Gabriel est Praeualescentia Dei: et ita, fortitudo quidem, sed altioris gradus.

VR — Fortitudo Dei, tecum semper est.

Δ — He went away agayn, and cam agayn, following or waiting on an other. and before that other, was a man hauing his hed all couered with blak. Then he that cam so in the middle, did sit down in the chayre, and spake this worde following:

Mi — Note

Δ — This was Michael, with his sword in his right hand.
Then cam Vriel to the man (hauing his hed all hyd, as it were in a blak hode) and toke of that blak hode: and then lifted up the Table cloth. He looked under it, and put it down againe: and lifted it up again. The man stode still before Michael. Then Michaël rose; and toke of all the mans clothes, and left him, as it were, onely in his shirt Then Vriel toke a little round Tablet, as it were, of the bignes of a Sixpence, hauing two letters in it, thus:

and gaue it to Michaël.
Vriel lifted up the Table cloth:
and, from thence, semed to take apparaile, and put on the man. it semed to be sylk and very full of wrynkles, or plights. And the man kneeled, and held up his hands. Vriel toke like a Lawrell bush, and set uppon the mans hed. And than the man kneeled before Michaël Michaël toke the round thing, with the letters: and gaue it the man to eat: and he did eat it

VR — Lo, things are couered.

Δ — Then he couered the Table and plukt the cloth ouer it, down to the grownd, on euery side. The man rose up: And Michael dubbed him on the hed with his sworde. Then the man stode up Then

Then the man turned his face toward E.T. the skryer. and the man did resemble me (John Dee) in countenance. And then he turned to Michaël agayn.
Michaël wrote uppon the mans bak, thus,

ANGELVS TVÆ PROFESSIONIS.

de Agrippam Triplex hom[illegible] custod. Lib. 3. cap. 22.

Δ — Then E.T. asked me, yf there were such Angels of a mans Profession: and I answered yea; as in *Agrippa and other, is declared

Mi — Leaue your folly: Hold thy peace.
Haue you not red, that they that cleaue unto God, are made like unto him.

Δ — yes, forsoth.

Mic — Thow canst better to lern, and not to dispute.
Laudate Dominum in operibus suis.

Δ — The man kneled down, and so went out of sight.

Mi — He hath eaten strength against trubble: He hath eaten nothing: and in eating, he hath eaten all things. The name* NA be praysed in trubbles.

Vide Reuclinum de Verbo mirif. [illegible] de nomine NA

Δ — Now Michael thrust out his right arme with the sword: and bad the skryer to loke. Then his sword did seme to cleaue in two: and a great fyre flamed out of it vehemently. Then he toke a ring out of the flame of his sworde: and gaue it, to Vriel: and sayd, thus

Mi — The strength of God, is unspeakable. Praysed be god for euer and euer.

Δ — Then Vriel did make cursy unto him.

Mi — After this sort, must thy ring be: Note it.

Δ — Then he rose, or disappeared, out of the chayre, and by and by, cam agayn, and sayde, as followeth.

Mi — I will reueale the this ring: which was neuer reuealed since the death of Salomon: with whom I was present. I was present with him in strength, and mercy.
Lo, this it is. This is it, wherewith all Miracles, and diuine works and wonders were wrought by Salomon: This is it, which I haue reuealed unto the. This is it, which Philosophie dreameth of.
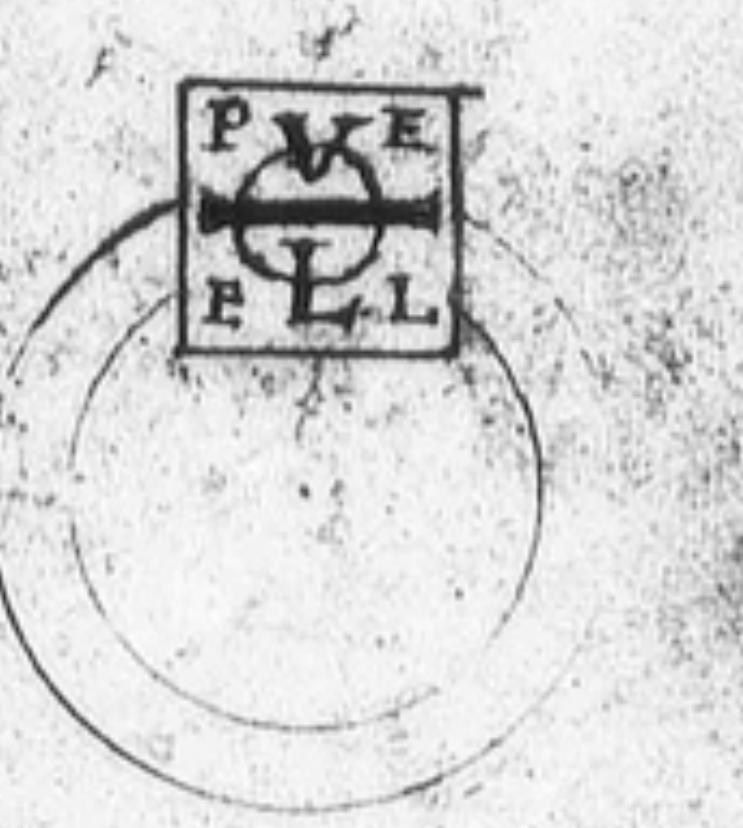
This is it, which the Angels skarse know.
This is it, and blessed be his Name:
yea, his Name be blessed for euer.



Δ — Then he layd the ring down uppon the Table: and sayd,
Note.

Δ — It semed to be a Ring of Gold: with a seale graued in it.
and had a round thing in the myddle of the seale and a thing like a V, through the top of the circle and an L, in the bottome and a barr ▬ cleane through it: And had these fowre letters in it, P E L E.

Vide Reuclinum [illegible] de Verbo mirifico de nomine PELE

After that, he threw the ring on the borde or Table: and it semed to fall

to fall through the table: and then he sayde, thus,

Mi — So shall it do, at thy commandement.
Without this, thow shalt do nothing.

The use of the Ring

Blessed be his name, that cumpasseth all things:
Wonders are in him, and his Name is WONDERFULL:
His Name worketh wonders, from generation, to generation.

Δ — Then he went away: and cam in agayn by and by.

Mi — Note

Δ — Then he brought in the Seale, which he shewed the other day: and opened his sworde, and bad the Skryer, reade; and he red EMETH
Then the sword closed up agayn: and he sayde

De Sigillo Emeth Vide Reuchlini Artis Cabalisticae lib. 3. et Agrippa lib. 3. Cap. 11.

Mi — This ~~do~~ I do open unto the, bycause thow mervayledst at SIGILLUM DEI. This is the Name of the Seale: which be blessed for ever. This is the seale self. This is Holy: This is pure: This is for ever. Amen.

Δ — Then the Seale vanished away. And I sayd to my frende (the Skryer) In dede, this other day, I considered diverse fashions of this seal: and I found them much differing, one from another: and therfore I had nede to know, which of them I shall imitate: or how to make one perfect of them all.

Mi — Dowt not for the making of it: for God hath perfyted all things. Ask not the cause of my absence, nor of my apparell: for that Mysterie, is knowen to God. I have no cloathing, as thow thy self shalt see. I am a Spirit of Truth, and Vertue. yea you shall see me in Powre, and I will viset you in HOPE Bless you the Lorde, and follow his wayes, for ever.

Δ — Then he went away: and URIEL followed him.
And then I sayde to my skryer: It were good, we had ever some watchword, when we shold not loke for any more matter at theyr hands, every tyme of theyr visiting of us.
Whereuppon, (unlooked for, of us,) he spake agayn.

Mi — We lead tyme, Tyme leadeth not us:
Put up thy pen.
The Name of God, be blessed for ever.

Δ — Then they lifted up theyr hands to hevenward (which heven appeared allso in the Stone) and turned toward us, and sayde Valete.

Δ — So they departed: and at theyr going, the chayre, and the table, in the Stone, did seme to shake

Δ — Soli Deo oīs honor
Laus et Gloria.
Amen.

Martij 15. Thursday. Hora 1 1/4 a meridie.

Δ — After EK his calling into the Stone, appeared a tall man, with a sceptre (very great) of gold, glittering. His body all red: and out of his hed, did shote out beames of light, like the sonne beames.

Δ — I being desyrous, to know who he was, and his name, I requested him earnestly thereto. but he answered, as followeth.

— Invocate nomen Domini, et agnoscetis eum

Δ — Then I prayed the psalme, Deus misereatur nri, et benedicat nobis &c. after that, he sayd

— I am mighty.

Δ — Bycause he delayed to declare his name, EK the Skryer did require him, in the name of God the father, Jesus Christ his sonne, and of the holy ghost, to expresse his name: and he answered in speche

— So I will by and by

Δ — Then he semed to take from his hed little bright sparcks, like little candells endes: and to stick them abowt the chayre: and he went rownd abowt the chayre: and than he spake, as followeth.

— I am mighty, and working wonders: I am SALAMIAN.

SALAMIAN.

Δ of Salamian you may rede, in the Call, Diei Dominici in Elementis Magicis Petri de Abano, there called Salamia.

I rule in the hevens, and beare sway uppon erth in his name, who be blessed for ever. Thow doost dowt at me. I am the servant of God, in his light: I serve him. I say, I serve him, with ~~reverence and~~ feare and reverence. My name is SALAMIAN: Mighty in the Sonne: worker of wordly actions, aswell internall, as externall: knowen unto God: whose name I know, and bless for ever.

Δ — Then appeared a big flame of fyre by him in the ayre

Sal — Thow knowest not, or thow wilt not know, that Mamon, with his servants, are present abowt the: whose presence doth hinder the presence of the Vertues Adonay ~~our~~ comming. Blessed be God, in the highest. Amen

Δ — He toke the forsayde flame of fyre, and flung it up into the heven ward.

Mamon.

Sal — Mamon is a king whome God hateth: whose sect, contynually tempt, provoke and stir up wikednes, against the Lord, and against his anoynted. But he dyeth: blessed be God for ever. Drive him away

Δ — It is incomparably more easy for you to do. And as for my parte, I fele neyther in body, nor sowle, any token of his presence or working.

Thereuppon he caused the whole chamber (which we were in) to appere very playnely in the stone: and so there shewed a great cumpany of wycked spirits to be in the chamber: and among them, One, most horrible and grisely thretting, and approaching to our bodys: and skorning, and grasping at us.

Sala — God determing his mysteries, by Arte and vertue

Δ — Then he willed me very erstly, to drive them away. And I prayed fervently. And there semed One to come into the stone, which had very long armes: and he drave them away courragiously: And so they were driven away.
After that presently, cam one into the stone, all white Salamian reached this white one a Cup.
The white man held up the cup: and sayd, as followeth,

— Lo, this is my name.
God shall bless you. Fear not. your faithfullness provoketh me to tell my name, and this it is: (putting furth the Cup again) for, I am called Medicina Dei. I will shew the, and I will shew you, the Angel of

For. Dei —— Joyne in prayers. For God hath blessed you. Do not Consider these Mysteries.

Δ —— Then they in the stone used talk togither: but not well to be be discerned of the eare of E.T.
At length F.D talked very much, and speedily to E.T. and disclosed unto him (which he expressed not to me, at the stone, but afterward) all the manner of the practise, and Circumstances about the Action intended, with the Gold Lamin, the ring, the seales &c. And after I had spoken somewhat in requesting him, to shew me the manner, how I shold artificially prepare everything spoken of, he sayd

F.D

Blessed be God, who revealeth all Mysteries + &c ^

I am strength in nede.
And Lo, here is Medicine for the sore.
We bless the Lord: We govern the erth, by the societie of Gabriel Whose powre, is with us: but he not here. &c Use Patience.

Vr —— I lived with Esdras: I lived in him, in the Lord, who liveth for ever.

Raph —— I lived with Tobie: Tobie the yonger. 14

Δ —— This was the white creature, that spake this.

F.D —— We Live in the Lorde: who be praysed for ever.

Δ —— I stode silent a good while.

F.D —— What wilt thou?

Δ —— I did attend, what you wold say.

F.D —— I have sayd.

Δ —— I have byn long at this tyme, in my dealing with you. I trust, I do not offend you therewith. But, for my parte, I could finde in my hart to contynue whole dayes and nights in this manner of doing: even tyll my body shold be redy to synk down for weariness, before I wold give over. But I feare, I have caused weariness to my frende here.

F.D —— In vertue is no weariness.

Δ —— Now ~~they~~ he stode up, out of his chayr: and he, and they all, jointly blessed us, stretching theyr hands toward us, Crossingly. And so they went away. The table and the chayre remayned. And the glyttering sparckles, or drops of streaming little lightes were of the chayre immediately.

Note: The Circumference (which is done) conteyneth 7 names:
7 names, conteyn 7 Angels:
Every letter, conteyneth 7 Angels: :
The numbers are applyed to the letters.
Whom thow dost know the 7 names, thow shalt understand the 7 Angells.

The declaration of the Numbers.

The Number of 4, pertayning to the first T, is a Number significative:
signifying, to what place thow shalt next apply thy eye: and being placed above, it betokeneth removing toward the right hand. Taking the figure for the number of the place applyable to the next letter to be taken. The under number, is significative: declaring, to what place thow shalt apply the next letter in the Circumference, toward the left hand.
Which thow must reade, untyll it light uppon a letter, without number, not signifying. This is the whole So shalt thow fynde the 7 principall Names: knowen with us, and apply-able to thy practise.

Make experience.

Δ Then telling from $\overset{4}{T}$, 4 more places (toward the right hand) exclusively, I finde in that fowrth place, from, T (but being the fifth fro the beginning, and with the begynning) this letter h: with 22, over it.
Therfore, I procede to the right hand, 22 places: and there I finde
A, and 11 over it. Going then toward the right hand 11 places farder: I finde a little a with 5 under it: by reason of which under place of 5 I go toward the left hand, 5 places exclusively; where I finde o with 10, under it: whereuppon I procede to the left hand, farder by 10 places and there I see the letter t, and 11, under it: and therfore going to the left hand 11 places, I see there the letter h alone without any number. Wherfore, that letter, endeth my word, and it is in all. ThAaoth: ys this, as it shold be?

אב אלהים בן אלהים רוח ~~[illegible]~~ הקדש אלהים

שלשה באחד אחד בשלשה

id eſt: Pater Deus, Filius Deus, Spiritus Sanctus Deus: Tres in Uno, ~~[illegible]~~ et Unus in tribus. Vel Trinitas in Unitate et Unitas in Trinitate.

or this אב אל בן אל רוח הקדש אל אבל לא שלשה

אלהים כי אם אלוה אחד

which in latin, is, Pater Deus, Filius Deus, et Spiritus Sanctus, Deus, attamen non tres Dii sed Unus Deus.

And as this is of God, Unitie in Trinitie, ſo of Chriſt onely (the ſecond perſone of the Divine Trinitie) the Cabaliſts have a nomen explanatum of 42 letters, on this manner.

כאשר הנפש המשכלת והבשר אדם אחד

כן האל והאדם משיח אחד

that is in Latin Sicut anima rationalis, et caro, homo Unus, ita Deus Deus et homo, Meſſias Unus.

Δ Vriel cam and stode before him and sayde: What will you: O our fellows, and servants to GOD? What will you?

By contynued and ancient prayer. Δ Perfect knowledg and understanding, such as is necessary for us.

VR. Looke vppon, and see if thow canst not vnderstand it: We will depart for a little space: and come to the agayne

Δ So they went: and left all the stone in fyre, so that neyther the Chayr or Table could be seen in it

Δ After a quarter of an howre, Michael and Vriel cam both agayne

Mi. Loke into the 7 angles next vnto the vppermost Circumference.

Δ Vriel cam and stode before Michael.

Note these manifold and great Mysteries & and mark these 7 double crosses, and these 7 letters.

VR Those 7 letters, are the 7 Seats of the One and everlasting GOD. His 7 secret Angels proceding from every letter and Cross so formed: referred in SUBSTANCE to the FATHER: in forme, to the SONNE: and inwardly to the HOLI GHOSTE. Loke vppon it: it is one of the Names, which thow hast before. every letter conteyning an Angel of brightnes: comprehending the 7 inward powres of God; knowen to none, but him self: a sufficient BOND to vrge all Creatures to life or death, or any thing els conteyned in this world. yt banisheth the wicked, expelleth evyll spirits: qualifieth the Waters, strengthenneth the Iust, exalteth the righteous, and destroyeth the wicked. He is ONE in SEVEN. He is twise THREE He is Seven in the Whole. He is Almighty. His Name is everlasting. His Truth can not fayle. His Glory is incomprehensible. Blessed be his name. Blessed be thow, (our GOD) for ever.

Note this Bond.

Δ He is twice three that is 6 and one

VR

Thou must refer thy numbers Born conteyned, to the Upper Circle. For, From thence, all things in the inward partes, shalbe comprehended.

Looke if thou understand it

Δ I finde it to be GALETHOG

VR. It is so. Δ I thank God and you, I understand now (allso) the numbers annexed.

VR. As this darknes is lightened, by the Spirit of God, herein; So will I lighten, yea so will the Lord lighten your imperfections, and glorifie your myndes to the sight of innumerable most holy and unspeakable Mysteries.

VR. To the next part. Δ Michael sat still, with his sword in his hand 7 Angels.

VR. The parte wherein thou hast labored, conteyneth 7 Angels. Dost thou understand it? Δ Not yet. VR. Oh how far is mans judgment from Celestiall powres! Oh how far are these secrets hidden from the wycked! Glory be unto him, which seeth for ever. Δ. Amen, Amen, Amen.

VR Note. We cannot tary long. Thou must set down these letters onely, by 7, in a square paper thus.

Note this Trumpeter.

Δ After appearance was had, there cam in one before Michael (who sat in his seat) and Uriel leaned on the table (as he usually did). He semed to be a Trumpeter: he was all in white, and his garments bespotted with blud. He had nothing on his hed. his heare very long hanging behynde him on his sholders. The Trumpet semed to be gold. The sound therof was very playne.

We were commanded Not to ax of the apparayle of Michael.

Δ I axed of my skryer, ~~how~~ in what manner Uriel now shewed, and Michael likewise. Then Michael sayd, I warned thee for asking of my apparell or manner.

Then the Pillers ioyned theyr heds togither very close, and flew up into the firmament with Thunder.

Sic Domine, sic sic.

Mi. Place these in the table. Δ I wrote. and he sayd, Thow hast done right Laudate nomen Domini qui vivit in aeternum.

Δ A voyce cam out of the next Cumpany of the 7 pillers (ioyning them close togither) saying IPSE.

Mi. Et Misericordia tua Dn̄e magna est

Δ Michael kneled when he sayd this

Δ Michael shewed out of 4 of theyr heds, of the pillers (and with all sayd) NO, NOT the Angels of heven, but I, are privie of these things: Δ So there appeared, 4 letters, H E I D.

Δ Then the other 3 pillers were opened and had E N E on theyr tops

Dominus collocatur in numero suo.

Δ The 7 pillers mownted up into the ayre, and it thundred at their going.

Δ Then the fowrth Cumpany of pillers bowed to Michael: out of them cam a voyce. Vivo sicut LEO in medio illorum

Mi. Est tua potestas magna est ubiq;

Δ Then Michael pluckt of, five of the tops.

There appered D: then they ioyned all togither: then appered E I M O

Mi. Hoc non est sine prece

2. Vr. Go forward. Δ So, I finde next Zedekiel.

the true sound Vr. this I in the last syllable augmenteth the true sound of it.

3. Δ. Then next I finde Madimiel. —— Vr. it is so.
4. Δ. Then —— Semeliel —— Vr. it is true
5. Δ. Then —— Nogahel —— Vr. it is so.
6. Δ. Then —— Corabiel —— Vr. it is so
Δ. Then —— Leuanael —— Vr. it is so

Δ This name Corabiel you may see in Elementis Magicis Petri De Abano, in the Consideration Diei D

Vr. Write these names in the Great Seal, next vnder the 7 names which thow wrotest last. Videlicet, vnder EL, An. Aue. &c distinctly in great Letters.

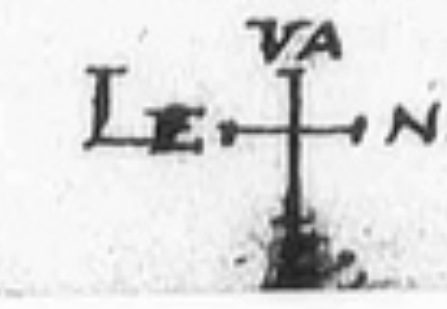
Vr. Make the E and L of Zabathiel, in one letter compounded; thus ZABATHIEL. In this, so fashion your E and L. And this name must be distributed in his letters into 7 sides of that innermost Heptagonum. For the other, I will teache you to dispose them. You must make for IEL (in this name onely) I with the $\frac{21}{8}$ annexed. So haue you iust 7 places.

Vr. The next fiue names thow shalt dispose in the fiue exterior angles of the Pentacle: euery angle conteyning one whole name.

Vr. Set the first letters of these 5 names, (in Capitall letters) within the fiue acute internall angles of the Pentacle: and the rest of eche name following Circularly from his Capitall letter, but in the 5 exterior obtuse angles of the Pentacle.

Vr. Set Z, of Zedekiel within the angle which standeth vp toward the begynning of the greatest Circle. And so procede toward thy right hand.

Vr. In the middle now of thy Pentacle, make a cross † like a Crucifix and write the last of those 7 names Leuanael thus,



Vriel. Vidit DEVS, opus suum esse bonum

Anno 1582:
Aprilis 28:

Liber 3us
Liber 4us

A° 1582. Aprilis 28 a meridie hora 4

E.T. Onely Michael appeared; and to diverse my complaynts, and requests sayde

Mi. The lord shall consider thee in this world, and in the world to come.

E.T. All the chayre seemed on fyre one of us

Mi. This is one Action, in One person. I speak of you two

Δ. you meane us two to be joyned so, and in mynde united, as yf we were one man.

Mi. Thow understandest.

Take heede of punishment for your last slaknes.

Δ. Yf you meane my slaknes on my behalf, Truely it was and is for lack of habilitie to buy and prepare things, appointed of you. Procure I pray you habilitie, and so shall I make spede.

E.T. A great hill of gold with serpents lying on it appeared: he smyteth it with his sword, and it falleth into a mighty great water, hedlong.

Worldly habilitie.

Mi. Dost thow understand. Δ No verylie.

E.T. He rased the hill away, as though there had byn none: and sayd Mi. Lo, so it is of this worldly habilitie.

Δ I pray you how must the Lamine be hanged?

The lamin not simply spoken: for such things may be used

Mi. As concerning the Lamine; It must be hanged upon in some skarf.

The Ring when it is made, I will blesse it according to my pleasure

I meane by two cubites, your usuall yarde.

Haste, for thow hast many things to do.

Glory be to God, Peace unto his Creatures, Mercy to the wicked, Forgivenes to the Faithfull: He liveth, O He raygneth, O thow art mighty, PELE thy name be blessed. Δ Amen.

PELE

Ese

Venito ESE, Δ he cryed so with a lowd voyce

E.T. he is now covered, in a mighty covering of fyre, of a great bewty.

There standeth a thing before him I cannot tell what it is.

Laudate Dominum in cælis

Orate. Δ we prayed.

E.T. His face remayneth covered with the fyre, but his body uncovered

Mi. Adesdum ESE

Adesdum Iana.

Vobis dedit demonstrationem in Tabulis Dei.

Iana

E.T. There appeare of the figure, (before, imperfect) two little women: One of them held up a Table which lightened terribly: so that all the stone was covered: with a myst.

A voyce cam out of the myst, and sayd,

Creatio.

Ex his creata sunt et hæc sunt nova illorum.

E.T. The myst cleareth, and one of the women held up a Table being thus written upon Numerus Primus.

Δ The Table seemed square, and full of letters and numbers, and Crosses, in divers places, diversly fashioned Δ Remember, ESE and Iana, are the thirde and fowrth of the Septem Filiae Bonitatis, lib. 2°. They are thus in order there, EL, ME, ESE, IANA, AKELE, AZDOBN, STIMCUL.

A finger

A finger cam out of the mist, and wyped oute, the first shewe, with the Cross, letters, and numbers
The second was in like wise
The Third was a b with the tayle upward thus ꝗ
The 52 with the three great BBB, seme to be covered wt Gold
The two crossed ones he did not wipe out with his finger
The next be blotted oute.
He blotted not oute the three $\overset{b}{b}$ with the 8 and 3.
The two barrs must go clere^{b} and not touch the 666.
The $\overset{G}{M}$, the square wherin it standeth, is all gold: | 666 / 666 / 666 the barrs.
and that be let stand.
Fire cam oute and burnt | B | bA 1556 |
The | 1 B 2 3 / b 123 b | is all of a bright cullour, like the brightnes of the sonne: and that was not put out
The places are very blark, but where the letters, and numbers do stand.
E T. hard a voyce saying Finis Tenebrarū: Halleluyah.
E T There commeth a hand and pulleth the little woman into the clowde.
Mi. Prayse God: Be inwardly mery
The Darknes is comprehended
God bless you: God bless you God blesse you.
You must leave of for an howre and a half: for you have 6. other Tables to write to night
Prayse God: be ioyfull.

After supper we resorted to our scholemaster

ET. I here a voyce but see nothing: he sayeth.
Initium bonum in nomine eius et est. Halleluyah.
ET. Three quarters of the stone (on the right side) are dark, the other quarter, is clere.
Mi. Venite filiæ filiarū ESe | Filiæ filiarū ESe inf lib. 2o somewhat wanteth.
The nethermost . . . . .
E T There come six yong maydens, all in white apparell a like.
Now they all be gone into the dark parte of the stone, except one
There cam a flame of fyre out of the dark, and in the flame written Venus on this manner
V$^{nus}_{nus}$ nus
Lux | She that standeth without putteth her hand into the dark: and pulleth out a ball of light: and threw it oute: and it waxed bigger and bigger: and it Thundred.
ET. A voyce sayd —— Dies primus another voyce —— Ubi est Tabula?
an answer —— Est, Est, Est
She wyndeth and turneth her self about, begynning at her hed, and was Transformed into a Table, rownde.
ET. Three faces do shew and shake oute, and ever returne into one her agayne: and with it cam a merveylous swete savour
The Table collored | The Table was of three cullours: white, redd, and a mixture of white and red.

Fryday. May 4. hor. 2½ a meridie. ~~40~~ 42

△ E.T. wold not willingly now deale with the former Creatures: utterly shak[ing] and discrediting them, bycause they willed him to marry. Neyther wold he put of his hat in any prayer to god, for the Action with them. Where=uppon I went into my Oratorie, and called unto God, for his divine help for the understanding of his Lawes and Vertues ~~knowledge and understan[ding]~~ which he hath established in and amongst his Creatures, for the benefyt of mankinde, in his service, and for his glorie etc.

E.T. to marry.

And comming to the stone, E.T. saw there these two, whom hitherto, we were instructed to be MICHAEL and URIEL.

E.T. Michael and Uriel, both kneled holding up theyr hands: and Michael seamed to sweat water abundantly, somwhat reddish or bluddish.

There cam 7 Bundells down, (like faggots) from hevenward. And Michael taketh them kneeling. And Uriel taketh a thing like a superaltare and layeth it uppon the Table: and with a thing like a Sensor doth make perfume at the fowre corners of the Table: the smoke ascending up: and the Sensor, at the last, being set on the Table it seemed to fall throwgh the Table.

Uriel his manner of apparition.

URIEL semeth to be all in a white long robe tucked up: his garment full of plyghtes: and seemed now to have wyngs (which, hitherto from the begynning of these kinde of Actions he did not) and on his hed a bewtefull crown, with a white Cross over the Crown.

Uriel taketh the 7 Bundells from Michael: and with reverence layeth them on the forsayd Superaltare.

A Glorious man.

E.T. there commeth a man, as though he were all of perfect pure glistring gold: somtyme seeming to have One eye, and somtyme three.

From under the Table commeth a great smoke, and the place semeth to shake.

Uriel lieth now prostrate on his face: and Michaël contynually prayed sweating.

All creatures.

The glorious man seemed to open the Covering of the 7 bundells (being of diverse cullored sylk,) and there it appeared, that these Bundells seemed to have in them, of all Creatures some, in most glorious shew.

The glorious man seemed to stand uppon a little hill of flaming fyre

He taketh of, of one of the Bundells a thing like a little byrd; and it hovereth afore him as though it had life: and than it rested uppon the thing like a superaltare

A description of the glorious man.

This glorious man semeth to be open before, and his brest somwhat spotted with blud. He hath a berd forked of brownish cullour. his heare of his hed, long, hanging down to his sholders: But his face for bewtifull glittering, can not be discerned. His heares do shake, as though the wynde carryed them.

This man blesseth the bird, making a Cross over it: and so he did three tymes. He looketh up to heven

Now the byrd, which before, seamed to be but as byg as a sparrow, seameth to be as great as a swanne: very beutifull: but of many cullours.

Many cullors in all all his garments have ar shewed in sc= [illegible]

Now looketh Michael up, and held up his hands to heven, and sayeth

SIC, SIC, SIC, DEUS NOSTER.

Uriel (sayd) — Multiplicabit omnia, benedictione sua.

The former Bewtefull man taketh this fowle, setteth it on the bundell, and on the place, from whence it was taken: And, now, the place where

Where this byrd stode before, seameth allso, to be (proportionally) as big, as the byrd, (thus enlarged).

the wyng yoking of 2 byrds — This man taketh an other byrd, and putteth the wyng of it, to the wyng of the first, as though he yoked them
This second byrd at this his first taking, was as byg, as the was become, (encreased, as it semed) and it was allso a very bew

They seme to grow to a huge bygness, as byg as mountaynes: incredibly byg: and they seme to hover up in the ayre, and to fly up toward heven, and with ~~theyr wyng~~ theyr wyngs to towch the sky: And one of them with his bill semeth to take sterrs into it: and the other byrd to take them from the same byrd, and to place them agayn in the Skye.
And this they did very often: and in diverse places of the heven with great celeritie

The byrds touch the sky and sterrs

After this they semed to fly over Cities, and townes, and to break the clowdes in peces, as they passed: and to cause all dust to flye from all walls, and towres, as they passed, and so to make them clene:

cloud.

And in the streets, as these two Byrds flew, semed diverse brave fellows, like bisshops, and Princes and Kings, to pass: and by the wyngs of these byrds, they were striken down. But simple sely ones, like beggers, lame and halt, Children, and old aged men, and women, semed to pass quietly, untowched and unoverthrown of these two Byrds
And than they semed to come to a place, where they lifted up, with ~~theyr wyngs~~ the endes of theyr wyngs, fowre carkases of dead men (oute of the grownde) with crownes on theyr heds: whereof one semed to be a Childe.

In the first leafe were the Offices of the two Kings Blumaza & Bobogel recited, as appeares by the Note at the bottome of the 2d page (Action 28 May 1583). & perhaps this first leafe was lost before he drew up his Booke of De Bonorum Angelorum invitationibus because I find a Blank where Blumaza is placed.

This Character seemes to stand for Carmara, as appeares from severall places in fol. 2. a. & b. & many other.

It appears by a note of Dr Δ: (De Heptarchia Mystica: Cap. 1.) That Michaell & Uriel were present at the begining of these revealed Misteries & gave authority to Carmara to order the whole Heptarchicall Revelacion perhaps this authority was entred in the first lost leafe of this 4th booke (though Dr Δ: calls it ~~[illegible]~~ the 2d Booke, in his Note) see Chap: 2. at ye begining.

By a marginall note at the begining of the first Chapter, it should seeme, yt the Dr meanes by the first ~~chapter~~ Booke the Action only of the 16 of Nov: 1582. & by the 2d Booke the Actions of the 17 & 19 of Nov. 1582. But his marginal Note of 19 should be 20 of Nov. for so it appears by ye Actions entred. The 21 of Nov: viz: the action of yt day he calls the Appendix of the 2d chapter.

Δ — The Cloth remayned drawen, a prety while after we had done our prayers to God: and so was all the things in the stone kept from sight.

Δ — The Man with the Crowne, (he onely) appeared first, and the transparent Globe with the people of the world in it, as before. The Diaphanitie or (as it were) the shell of the foresayd Globe, was very glistring bright. The man shaked his hand toward me and the bak of the Chayre was toward EK. On the globe appered a trace like a seame, of two things ioyned togither, or rather a very narrow path: which began below on the Convex superficies of this globe and went upward to the verticall point or (as it were) the zenith prik of it. but fro the lower part of the same to the place where the chayre stode, it semed brode, and more worn, than from the Chayre up to the vertex or top prik: for that part (which semed to be about the eight part of the whole) did appere very smalle, and unworne, or unoccupyed.

Bob: I weare these robes, not in respect of my self, but of my Government.
I am the Prince, Chief [EK. He falleth down on his knees and speaketh words which I understand not] yet the onely distributer, giver, and bestower of Wisdome and Science. 53

Wisdom & Science: true Nobility.
I weare this apparayle, for that in dede, being a Prince I am a Counsaylor to estate and dignitie. All Dignitie and Government that is not counsayled by me, and my subiects, is frustrate, voyde, and cleare without firm grownd.

Pipers.
Those which thow sawest, (being pipers) do signifie praysers, with unaccustomed, and not usuall instruments: which allways seame to sownd that which None but I my self, with my subiects, (yea not all of them, but the fewest) can performe.

Philosophie.
But I am true Philosophie. I am true understanding. Of my descending from him which raygneth, is even uncomprehensible of the Angells. Neyther do I know my self: But what I think I utter, and what I measure, I am.
He sayd. Ordinationem Infinitae potestatis eleuate.

LEE
EK. Now come Three out of the 42, and layd theyr fingers upon the the three first letters. and
The first sayd. O Unitas in Natura et in Deo
The second sayd O Aequalitas Dei et Naturae. Deus in Deo Natura a Deo et se.
The third sayd. Concentus omnis, est sine numero: Tamen nobiscum est in Uno, Fons et Caput Naturae

EK. They ioyne them selves together and become, all One Man, most beautifull to behold: Whose hed and to the brest, seamed to be neare to heaven.
His brest and myddle part, in the ayre: His fete seamed to stand on the earth. There cam like a Fire, owte of the Crown of his hed, and to enter into the heaven, hard by it: This great high and fayre man sayd. Veritas quaesita, mea est.

Vegetable Minerall.
EK. His apparayle is divided, into two halfes: from the crown of his hed to his fete. The one half seamed to be most fresh florishing herbes.
The other half seamed to be of diverse metalls: and his right side seamed to be Leade. He sayd (with an Aposiopesis) thus
5. Beatus est qui Lumen capitis mei &c.
EK. the rest, all, quake. He sayd further Unus in Capite, unus in pectore, unus in pedibus.

EK. Then stept owte 9, at ones.
EK. Then the great man returned, or was resolved to his former estate of three particular men agayn: and they three leaned to the Gentleman with the Cape on his sholder: BOBOGEL. who sayd

Dee.
Dee, Dee, Dee, at length, but not to late.
EK. In the place of the former first three, appeared LEE
EK. Of the 9, which stept out, they of the first Ternarie

Adam
The Ternarie sayd, Faciamus, quae fecerunt, nam nos Tres, sumus Adam, societate.
EK. They became one man, as the other before, but a slender and a weak one neyther so high as the first: ever laboring or striving with it self to stand up right, but still it bended, bowed, and inclined downward, as though it would fall for feblenes of ... The Body of this compownded man, seamed to be of Gold

Of Gold glittring. When they returned to theyr distinct shape, they semed [illegible] and to be sorry, and Lament: And Bobogel did put them fro him, with his sworde, skabbard and all, as it semed by his syde.
Theyr letters were NAR

3 BLN E.K. Then cam the Ternarie — B.L.N, and orderly they sayd thus

{1 Ab illo
{2 Per illum
{3 Cum illo

Bob. Qui caret his tribus, [E.K. he whispereth to the first Three leaning to him. and with all, seeing me muse at the Aposiopesis, he said No No, thow shalt not dowt [pointing to me.]
In ecclesia Dei, laborabit in vanum.

E.K. This Ternarie of men becam to have one onely hed, and three [illegible] and that one hed was in good proportion

E.K. The syde of the Diaphanous Globe opened, and this Transformed [illegible] point into it, toward the multitude: and the people had theyr brests naked and semed to wepe: and to wipe theyr brests, and where they wiped the place becam fayre.

Penitence

△ E.K. This Ternary did seme to stand uppon a triangular stone, and to turne (as a horsmyll doth, abowt one axeltree) orderly agaynst, and by the hole of the Globe so opened. and every of the three bodyes, in theyr turning, as they cam agaynst the open place of the Globe, they extended, and stretched out theyr hands toward the people: The first semed to hold a round ball in his hand

1. being little, but very fayre white.
2. The second body, his hand had in it, a little sword flamming with fyre.
3. The third had a thing like a hatt band of Laden, of many collours, which ever as his turne cam to be agaynst the opened hole, he semed to cast toward the people, and the people did seme to be drawen to him ward, by the casting of it toward them.

Those three bodyes, though they turned contynually, yet did the face or Cowntenance of that One Compownd hed, stedily and immovably regard, or loke into the Globe at the forsayd hole thereof.

⊕ Ho — A Wonder to behold the heven, much more this.

E.K. Note this Ternarie separated it self, and the hole or clyft in the Globe did shut to. These three did sit down by Bobogel.

⊕ Ho — Sunt semper, et Cibus illorum est Unus.

△ Note. { The first Ternarie, they semed to stand leaning to Bobogel
The third Ternarie was set orderly and uncessantly close by Bobogel his feete, one of those betwene two of the first, lower. So that orderly one of the first, and one of the third ternarie: one of the first and one of the third; one of the first and one of the third.

4 ANA E.K. Then cam the Ternarie ANA
They sayd, orderly thus. 1. Ab illo, Sed
2 Cum illo Sed, looking on his owne belly.

△ Then I demaunded of theyr ~~appa~~ Apparayle: and E.K. sayd that these were braver than the former Ternary. Bobogel sayd, Aliqui a dignitate, Cæteri tecta quia non sunt Digni. this he sayd, poynting to theyr apparayle

Then the third sayd. 3. Per illum, Per illu', Per illu' with a frowning countenaunce thrusting forth his hand.

E.K. They ioyne together into one hed and three bodyes. The Hole of the Globe opened very wyde now

This one

This one Compownd Hed had many eyes, many noses, many mowthes, as though it were a Chaos of Faces, in one hed, but three bodyes. One of the bodyes had in his hand a little Ball, like the other before, ~~but~~ very white, but with twynkling brightnes in it. The other two bodyes, theyr hands were emptie.

E.K. They turn in order agaynst the Hole of the Globe. But the People regarded them not: but at the comming of the hand with the Ball, agaynst the hole, the people loked a little up at it.

Bob. sayd. Et quia carebant in ardentibus ignis

E.K. These being dissolved into theyr former state, go and sit with body (hence) by them that sat afar of, from BOBOGEL. Theyr apparaill semed to be simple: theyr gold apparayle was gone.

△. Here I found a certayn error in my writing of the first Notes: which I have amended in the writing of this. But while that error did trubble me, the spirituall Creature sayd these wordes Bob. — The Fault is in E.K. his remembrance, and not in his will. Note this,

LEE ar the Three that stand with me
NAR are the Thre that I reiect
BLN are the Thre which are enterlinked with me
ANA are the Thre that are reiected.

Bob. sayd Omnes naturam ad, Sed, Non in illo.

△ There remayned 30 tymes Three

E.K. The 30 remayning, cam all away, and satt between Bobogel and the reiected Company. and fro that △ of 30: Company cam onely 7 to the circle agayn. Every of those 7, sett theyr foot, or so uppon a letter of the Circle, which letters are these,

Note by theyr sitting that they are indifferently: and so they say:

AOIDIAB

△ They semed therfore to sit betwene the perfect and the reiected: as indifferent:

E.K. They say, In* use, we are perfect; Misused, we are Monsters.
Sumus septem Januæ Naturæ, et sui ipsius qui nobit Deum.

E.K. These 7, seme to vanish into wynde, or white smoke, and to fall into the Globe. And the six reiected, turn into a black smoke. and the rest of the 30 △ beside AOIDIAB semed also converted into black smoke, and to fall into the Globe.

6, 7. Bob. sayd In sexto et septimo sunt omnia.

E.K. The six that were next him, semed to cling hard and close to Bobogel

(Bob. Behold.) E.K. They be ioyned all into One body, and becam like the same, into the forme of a bowle or Globe: and so moved up ~~the~~ or rowled up the small narrow race, or line uncorned, which remayned higher than the chayre, toward the top of the Diaphanous Globe, as before is declared. So that this Princely ~~&~~ Noble man, and his ~~six~~ LEE, BLN adherents, in this manner went out of sight.

NOTE the narrow path, above the chayre.

Speculator of Princes

Behold. ~~E~~very one of these Princes hath his peculier Table. Thow hast Noted the First Table which begynneth, as I will tell the.

2: King 1st ~~...~~ ~~Be~~ answering to Blumaza, as I perceyved 1583 May 5. mane by meditation: and a Nervosity must be: ... the last .. for Baligon.

In BOBOGEL, that O, the second ~~...~~ letter is the first of the Table OEFSNGLE; and the ~~second~~ of Befafes, is the second, and the thirde of the third: and the fowrth of the fowrth and the fifth of the fifth, and the sixth of the sixth, and E in the seventh, ~~Bag~~ Bnagole is the seventh and last of this first seven of this first Table: ~~I~~ accordinge the first AVZNILIN. The second seven by like order is gathered of Babalel, and the rest of his septenarie. And so furth to the ende downward as thow dydst before. &c.

2. 3: In the second Table; L (the first letter therof) is out of Bobogel his last letter, the second letter, is the sixth of Befafes; the third is the fifth of Basmelo &c and so you have LEENARB for the rest kepe that order downward to the ende of the last name Bamnode: transversim, quasi retrograde!

Δ The next L is the last letter of Babalel and then transversim as before &c.

3. 4: In the Third, begyn at the ~~lower~~ first letter [of the latter word] last of the last of the second seven: and so upward, toward the right hand: Δ the last word is of second seven is Bnagole: the last letter therof is e: which is the first of this third Table. and the l, in Bristle, is the second, and l in Branglo the thirde, and then so furth upward, overthwart toward the ~~...~~ left hand. till ye come to Bobogel, his second letter being o. then to n in Bonefon: e in Bernole: O in Bragop &c.

4. 5: For the Fowrth, loke, Bobogel. Then loke to this fowrth Table

The first B of the Table is the first B of Bobogel.

The second B of this Table, is the B of Befafes.

The third letter is a the second letter of Basmelo.

The fowrth letter, R, is the thirde of Bernole

The fifth is the fowrth of Branglo.

The sixth is the fifth of Bristle

The seventh is the sixth of Bnagole.

And so in to the next sevens downward orderly for the rest of the Table.

5. 6: The Fifth begynneth from Bnagole upward: begynning at the last letter being e: and then upward crosswise exactly tyll the B of Bobogel And so of the next Seven, for the next: begynning at the n of Bonefon, and so furth.

6. 7: In the Sixth, (the Infernall Table) the first is B of Bobogel, the second is A of the 15th: the third is N of the 22th the fowrth, is the fowrth of the 29: the fifth of the 36: the Sixth of the 43: and the seventh of the 49: being E in Bamnode two letters being taken in that last Septenarie.

The second septenarie begynneth at the first of the 15th, the second at the second of the 22th (being Y) the third at the thirde of the 29th. then the 4th of the 36th: the 5th of the 43th.

7. 1: The Seventh: the first A, is the A of Baligon, and so downward all the second letters of the 7 Kings. Then all the third letters, then all the fowrth letters, then all fifth letters, then all the sixth letters only & finally the seventh and last letters of the first names of the 7 Tenaries.

Δ Note, this table is made all of Kingly substance. &c

Δ Now I trust I understand (meetly well) the making of the 7 Tables. I wold gladly have some instruction of the great Circular table (which you call the Globe) which hath the Kn. with theyr Characters, and so within 7 tymes 7, seven tymes 7 tymes 6, seven tymes furnished with letters and numbers .... An Angel had came up the Stone.

& Ho Go toward it, and take it up.

The plagues of those that plagued them selves, shall fall uppon you, yf you transgress one iote of your eye sight: For, what you desire, is granted: and if you love him, you shall endure for ever. I am not as a clowde, shevered with the wynde: nor as a garment, that waxeth olde, and torn in peces: But I am for ever (bycause my message is such) and my truth, shall endure for ever. Beholde, Beholde, yea let heven and earth behold: For with this, they were created: and it is the voyce and speche of him, which proceded from the first, and is the first; whose glorious name be exalted in his own horn of honor. First there was a great noyce of harmony, hard
There appeared two great Armies fighting, and much bloudshed on both sides.
One Captaine is in red harness, the Contrary Captayn, in white and grene.
There appered Flags with a croked tree, or like a ragged staff, or cudgell, in them: and they were on the red Captaynes side. He and his soldiers had the worst and were putto flight, and they ran away.
The Captayn with the white and grene was Master of the felde: and assembled, and gathered his men to gather after the victorie
Now this Captayn goeth to a town and beateth with his hand to breake up the towne

A. Gilbert Δ Our desyre is to know what we are to think of the Man which cam out of my Oratory and layd the fyry Ball at Mr Adrian Gilbert his fete yesterday, as he sat ~~by me~~ in my study with Mr Kelly and me: whether it were any Illusion, or thrust of any seducer?

NOTE Election Me No wicked powre shall enter into this place. Neyther shall Iniquitie range where the fyre of his percing Iudgment and election doth light; which shall quicken his deadnes; and revive his courrage to the aduancement of the name of him, which liveth unto

EK. The stone is become very dark

Three. Fowre. Me As the Buylding is grounded and ended uppon three, So must the mysteries hereof be practised with ~~three~~ three. The fowrth is the Boke, which, Lo, is here present.

Δ Must Adrian Gilbert, be made privie of these Mysteries?

A. Gilbert may be made privie, but he is not to be a Practiser. Me Thow hast sayde

Δ May I note to your name any peculier Character or syllable to distinguish your spirits from ours or others?

Me Medicina sum.

Δ I may then use this syllable Me, to note Medicina or Medicus Dei.

A. Gilbert his Task. Me Behold, these things, shall God bring to pass by his hands whose mynde he hath now newly set on fyre. The corners and streights of the earth shall be measured to the depth: And strange shalbe the wonders that are Creeping into new worldes. Tyme shalbe altred, with the difference of day and night. All things have growen allmost to theyr fullness.

Note a prophesie Pride But beware of Pride. We teache duty, Humbleness, and submission Shortly shall these things come to pass.

Adrian Gilb. Δ Than, this Adrian Gilbert shall cary the name of Jesus among the Infidells to the great glory of god and the recovery of those miserable people from the middes of hell into which, for many hundred yeres past, and yet dayly, they do fall etc.

Description geographicall. Δ May we require description of the Countryes, for his better instruction, etc.

Tenebrae post dorsum. Instruction requisite Note Me Let darknes go behinde thee, and tempt him not, that iudgeth. These things belong not to my charge. Thow knowest them, which are sufficient; when short time shall serve, for the whole instruction. Me. Peace, Thow talkest, as thowgh thow understodest not. We know thee, And see thee in thy hart: Nor one thing shall not let an other. EK. Now the vale is plucked away.
Three appear, as before time.

All three sayd — Multa nos, quia multa patitur ipse.

EK. The two go away. and the third remayneth, who is like in all poynts to him, who yesterday to me alone, in your absence had declared him self to be an Illuder. Δ NOTE, for the better understanding of this dayes Act it may be remembred that E Kelly, while (John Dee) was at London, yesterday (being Wensday) had used meanes to have conference, with the good Creatures, with whome we have dealing iointly: and that there appeared one very like unto our good frende, who toke upon him to be the same and not semed to be constrayned by EK to tell the truth: and therfore his outward beautifull apparell semed to go of and his body appeared heary and he confessed that he was an Illuder &c. Whereuppon EK was in a great perplexitie of mynde, and was redy to have gone his way. And at my comming home told me a long processe of this tempters Act. But I comforted him, and would not yeld to his opinion, but did declare my confidence in the goodnes of God: for that we craved at his hands, things good and necessarie: and that therfore he would not give his children a stone for bread, or a scorpion for nedefull fode required &c.

And this morning the matter was propownded by me, and thereuppon the former sayings were used, and all the consequency of matter, which hereafter is recorded.

Me. Oh how brittle are the works of thy hands [he looked up] whose imperfections are more innumerable than the sands of the sea: or clowds that were lifted up since the begynning of the world. Darknes dare presume to place him self in Lightnes: yea dishonor (O God) to dwell in place of glory: His lying lipps presume against Truth: Whilst thow suffrest his old and withered face to be garnished with thy beawty. Headines is his seat, yet are his lipps myrthfull: and little knowe they that that separateth him from the dignitie of honor: But his punishment is sufficient, his dishonor unspeakable, and his damnation for ever: which how bitter it is, is great and unspeakable, Thow, o thow (I say) that lightest (which hast estraunged him so far from thy glory) makest only manifest [illegible]. But yet how long shall the sonnes of men puff up them selves with bragging and bosting of that they see not? But (alas) All things are confounded, and are contrary to thy commandements: some only which differ, remayn with concordant myndes praysing thee, and lifting up thy name, as much as strength performeth. But great is thy glory and long sufferance manifested in that thow dost not only with grief behold their synnes, but like a iust iudge favorably dost ponder the greatnes of their ~~enemies~~, which infect their myndes, and blynde the light, which thow hast given ~~to~~ their understanding, with inflammatory bodyly, instigations worldly, and temptations innumerable. Great therefore and most great, and none greater can be, which derydest the Adversarie, and healest the weak: whose smallnes of habilitie thow canst augment, wherein the mysterie of thy great glorie and might, is manifest. Thy seat yeld prayses, with incessant and dutifull obedience. Thy name be magnified, thy mercy published to thy glory: Holy Holy, yea great and most holy is thy everlasting kingdome for ever.

EK. Now he standeth up, and sayd

Raphaelis officium — Me. As I have all redy told, from whome I cam, so have I not hydden what I am, or what message I bring; why it is sent, it is allso written. How long shall I persuade to stedfastnes? But the greater your measures are the greater shalbe the quantitie. These afflictions are necessary. For herein is a measure ~~is a measure~~ to distinguish * from falshode, light from darknes and honor from dishonor. The more they are like us, (as shew them selves so, for, nothing can be more unlike) the more they are iudges of their own damnation. Yea, if his strength had byn great, he would have devoured thy sowle. [loking to EK] But whome God hath chosen, shall none overturne. Brag not: eyther Credyt my words by thyne owne reason. But Consider that diverse may be dishonored, yea though they be in honor: yet shalt not thow neyther be overturned with the one wynde nor the other: though the afflictions that shall follow thee, be great and hard.

In my words are no error: neyther have you found my lipps untrew. When I knowled, I spake for you. But I have promised that No unclean thing shall prevayle within this place. Neyther am I a revenging spirit nor of any such office. Me. Behold. Veniat vindictam dei, et perturbat linguam mentientem.

EK. He goeth his waye and taketh all with him, Table, Chayre, and Curten and all. There cam in a great many with flaming swords, and bring in the wicked spirit, who yesterday delt so devilishly with EK. One of them holding him by the arme, sayd, Speak now for your self, you could speak yesterday. They all drew theyr swords: they stroked fire. And there seamed a water to com in, but it went away again.

A voyce — Dicat, nam suum non est.

EK. Now is the Skroll with the Caracters brought in, which was found by spirituall direction this month, the 12 day, about 10½ after none. by Mr Kelly and Master Husy.

The finding of the skroll, of the Treasors. He semeth now to be as like our good frende, as may be.

Our frende cam with a sponge and annoynted the wicked spirit his lipps.

A voyce — Els could I not speak.

Δ Seyng now thow canst speak, answer me.

The wicked sayd — Ask quickly.

Δ What is thy Name? — The wicked answered Gargat.

Δ What is the Content of that Skroll? — Gar. I know not.

Δ In the name of Jesus, I charge the to tell me the truth as concerning that Roll here shewed: — Gar. I have counterfeted this roll, and brought it. for it is not the true roll.

Counterfeted Roll. Vide infra pag. 152. 153. &c

Δ After ~~many~~ many words between him and me, and the more, bycause he denyed that he knew of any glorie belonging to God, I urged him so, at length with short and evident argument, that he answered, he must confess the powre and glorie of God: and sayd, that he was damned for ever. and did wish damnation to me: And I requested God to use his Justice on him, for the glory of his name: then he entreated me somewhile, and somewhile derided me, saying, Art thow so lusty? &c

Δ All the Company fell on him, and hewed him in peces: and digged a hole in the earth, with theyr swords, and he fell in, and ~~then~~ after that was a mighty roaring hard.

A voyce — Sic soleo miustis.

Δ The Company went away. There cam a fire and semed to burn all the house.

A voyce — Purifica Domine sanctum tuum, et dele iniquitatem inimicorum nostrorum.

Δ Then returned our frende Me, and all seemed light and bright agayn: likewise all the furniture, of Table, Chayre, Globe in the Chayre covered with a red covering &c.

Write. Me. Visio vera, verè denotatur. Denotetur etiā ad gloriā Dei.

Δ Master Kelly, is your doute of the spirit, now taken away?

E.K. Yea truely; I beseche God to forgive me.

Me. Dixisti, et fac bene.

A.G. Δ As concerning Adrian Gilbert, there might be some doute in common externall judgment, of his aptnes to the performance of the voyage with the appertenances, but the secret of God his providence, I will not meddle withall: for he can make infants speak, and the dum to shew forth his glory &c.

Me. Yf God be mighty, acknowledge his powre. Who made the Sonne of nothing?

of nothing? or man, so brittle a substance? Nature bringeth up her bolders amongst trees and herbs, like a gentle fyre: In beasts and all the Creatures of the felde, waters, and earth, in a palpable imagination: Amongst the Sonns of men, she avanceth her self, wholy in the light of Understanding. In all these she walketh by her own qualitie, mixing the quantitie, with her before judged proportion. Amongst all these is some distinction, yet all in theyr kindes are perfectly and substantially norrished. Yf Nature have such powre, What powre hath our God, and how great is his might in those, in whom He kindleth a whole understanding. The strength of body and inward man, with the strength of him that also leadeth him, are augmented and diminished at his pleasure.

Δ Note Body Sowle Spirit

Yf earth, in mixture become fyre, how much more shall he encrease, whom God hath strengthened: Yf he wold have conquered with thowsands, he wold not have sent back the dogged harted people. Yf riches or wisdom were his felicitie, he wold have kindled the twelve Lamps of his eternall light, on a higher mountayne: But he chose them in the valleys, and from the working place. I think this be sufficient to confirme your understanding.

The 12 Apostles.

Δ I trust, God be not offended with this matter propounded. &c

Me. He is pleased: And it is endless. Eternitie is mighty and glorious to the righteous.

Δ When shall I make him privie of these things?

A.G. Me. When thow wilt. For every thing is acceptable with those that are accepted. See thow advertise him, and be his Father.

Δ As concerning John Davis, we are to ask somwhat &c

Jo. Davis. Me. John Davis is not of my Kalendar. Lern of them, of whome it is necessary.

Lern the Alfabet. Be not negligent, in lerning the things before prescribed.

God be amongst you.

EK. He hath drawn the Curten of red.

Δ Soli Deo sit omnis honor et gloria. Amen.

The reformation of the Kalender. Δ As concerning the Kalendar to be reformed, I am greeved that her Matie will not reforme it in the best termes of Verite. And as for the privilege for Mr Adrian Gilbert his voyage, I think not well of it, that Royalties shold not be granted. Therfore both these points, respecting her Matie, I wold gladly have counsayle, such as in the judgment of the highest might be most for my behoofe, to follow.

why didst thou so? ... the word hath 64 significations · or gascampho arce + das gorhahalpstd gascampho Lange +

I: cum humilitate adorare ... cum adoratione Trinitatis · this is the name of the spirit contrary to Befafes

Orh: Deus sine fine / Gorh: Deus a Deo.

Befes argedco nax arzulgh orh + Sémdaram this word hath 72 significations · of two syllables.

Befes, the vocative case of Befafes: Befes, is as much to say as Come Befafes and see us

Vncal laf garp oxox + Loangah + 75

Befafes ô, is to call upon him as on god.

Befafes os, is as much to say, Come Befafes and beare witness.

Befafes his Etymologie is as much to say as, I am the Illumination.

Spirits ors, seemeth to be in predicament of tenebrae. [illegible] ors signifieth [illegible] if it be the name of a wicked spirit.

Δ Now appeared Raphael, or one like him, and sayde

Salus vobis in illo qui vobiscum +

I am a medicine that must prevayle against your infirmities: and am come to teache, and byd take hede.

Vt you vse dubble repetition, in the things that follow, you shall both write and work and all at ones: which mans nature can not performe. The trubbles were so great that might ensue thereof, that your strength were nothing to prevayle against them. When it is written, reade it no more with voyce, till it be in practise.

All wants shalbe opened vnto you

Where I found you, (with him, and there,) I leave you. Comfortable Instruction, is a necessarie Medicine

Farewell.

Δ Veniet vox eius, ut dicat filijs hominum quae ventura sunt.

Δ Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini — Ur. Amen.

Ur — I teache: EK sayd that he turned toward me

Ur. What wilt thou I shall answer thee, as concerning this work?

EK He hath a ball of fire in his left hand and in his right hand a Triangle of fyre

Δ What is most nedefull for us to lerne herin, that is my chief desire.

A prophesie very dredfull, now at hand

Uriel — Fowre monthes, are yet to come: The fifth is the begynning of great miserie, to the heavens, to the earth and to all Living Creatures. Therfore must thow nedes attend uppon the Will of God: Things must then then be put in practise. A thing that knitteth up all things must of force conteyn many celestiall Vertues

(141)

Therfore, in these doings, must things be finished spedyly, and with reverence.

spedily & reverently

This, is the light wherewith thou shalt be kindled

Uriel held up now the triangle of fire

This is it, that shall renew thee: yea agayn and agayn, and, seventy seven tymes, agayn

Then shall thy eyes be opened from the dymnes

Thou shalt perceyve those things, which have not byn seen,

No, not amongst the Sonnes of men.

Δ Uriel now Holding up the Ball of fire in his left hand, sayd as I have written

This other have I brought, whereof I will now, beside the Seventh part of the first part of Seventy seven. The residue shall be fulfilled in, and with thee; In (I say) and togither, with thee.

Behold (sayth the Lord) I will breath uppon men, and they shall have the Spirit of Understanding

Liber 40

[illegible]

In 40 dayes must the boke of the Secrets, and key of this World be written: even as it is manifest to the one of you in sight, and to the other in faith. Therfore have I brought it to the wyndowe of thy senses, and dores of thy Imagination: to the ende he may see and performe the tyme of God his Abridgment. That shalt thow, write down in his proper and sanctified distinctions.

The Abridgement of time speaking to Δ

This other, (pointing to EK) shall have it allwayes before him, and shall dayly performe the office to him committed. Which if he do not, the Lord shall raze his name from the number of his blessed, and those that are annoynted with his blud

The danger threatned, if EK do not his dutie

For, behold, what man, can speak, or talk with the Spirit of God? No flesh is hable to stand, when the voyce of his thunder shall present the parte of the next leaf unto sight.

Note a terrible thing

You have wavering myndes, and are drawen away with the World: But brittle is the Stake therof; Small therfore are the vanities of his illusion

Be of sound faith. Beleve. Great is the reward of those that are faithfull

God will not be dishonored, neyther will suffer them to receyve dishonor, that honor him in holiness

The ende of all.

Behold, Behold, Mark o and Behold: Eache line hath stretched him self, even to his ende: and the Middst is glorious to the good, and dishonor to the wicked. Heven and erth must decay: So, shall not the words of this Testimonie.

Δ Ecce servus et missellus homuncio Dei mei, fiat mihi iuxta beneplacitum voluntatis suae: &c

Δ Uriel toke a little of the fire in his left hand and flung it at EK: and it went in at his mouth.

Note, by the place here before what measure of perception and understanding this [illegible] in respect of the whole boke of fyre

Ur. My message is done.

Δ

(142) ~~(144.)~~

Δ I pray you to shew us advise what ^we are to do in our affayres.

Ur. It is sayde

Δ He sayd to EK, Tell him, I have told him, and semed to smile.

Δ Of Mistres Haward (Gentlewoman of her Maiesties privie Chamber) I wold fayn knowe, wherefore we were ^not warned of her comming ~~to make~~ us. She hath caused us, now, for an howre or two, to intermit our exercise: Is it the will of god, that for her great charitie used toward many (as in procuring the Quenes Maiesties Almes to many nedy persons) the Lord entendeth to be mercifull to her? I meane as the partaker of these great misteries ensuing, now (by you) told of. And that by her, I may do good service concerning the Quenes Maiesties Comfort.

Mistres Francis Haward elected to taste of god his great mercy for her charitable hart &c

Ur. Who is he, that openeth thy mowth, or hath told the of things to come? What thow hast sayd, is sayde. Mark the ende. It is a sufficient answere.

Ur. Loke up — Δ he sayd so to EK. who loking up, sawe the boke the Chayre and the Globe a part, abroad, out of the stone, and then, none remayning in the stone to be sene. and it cam nearer & nearer to him, and it turned, as before.

Ur. So, sett down, what thow seest. [Δ The boke and writing was made very playne to him.

What thow seest, deliver unto him.
As it is his will, so be it unto the:
Do thy duty, whereunto thow art moved,
and it shalbe sufficient.
Farewell, for a time

Ur.

EK. He is all covered with a white clowde, such an one as I sawe not yet.

Δ We put up the stone: and the former boke and other furniture, appeared upon the table hard by EK. and he was to write out as he sawe: which he began to do, both in Character and words: but it was to cumbersome to him: ~~and~~ therfore he wrote onely the words in Latin letters

Δ After he had written 28 lines there in that ~~boke the~~ paper boke, the first word being Arney, and the last, being nah suddenly all was taken away out of his sight: and so likewise his understanding of that he had written was quite gone. For, contynually as he wrote, he understode the language and sense thereof, as if it had byn english.

Δ And this is the last ende of the second page, of the first leafe of this excellent Booke. The other leaves are written apart, in other bokes, as may appere.
But with these 9 rowes and the former 41, doth arise the summe of 50: which is one more then 49: Therefore I am not onely of this but of diverse other imperfections yet remayning in this page, to ax the solution and reformation.

Δ When I had told this my doubte to EK. he answered me that the first rowe of these last .50. before set downe, was the last of the first page of this first leafe: and that it is that in the first page were first set downe the rowes of which eight and fortithe rowe beginneth with this word Amycedpha &c And therfore the next rowe following (beginning with Arroy vas nol gadeth &c) is the nyne and fortyth rowe of the first page. and so the last rowe of that page: And therby also the second page of this first leafe hath here 49 rowes here noted: the one doubte taken away: The other is of the ~~imperfect~~ numbers of wordes in some of the 49 rowes of this second page.

Aprilis 10. hor. 9. Δ As we were talking of the Macedonian (the greeke) who yesterday cam with Mr Sandford his letters, there appeared in the corner of my study a blak shadow: and I did charge that shadow to declare who he was: then cam a voyce and sayd that it was the Macedonian: and about his hat was written in great letters this word, ΚΑΤΑΚΡΙΝΩ, which EK wrote out: and it signifieth maculosus, or condemnatus &c. and the voyce sayd, that word was sufficient adding [illegible] he shalbe checked and punished.

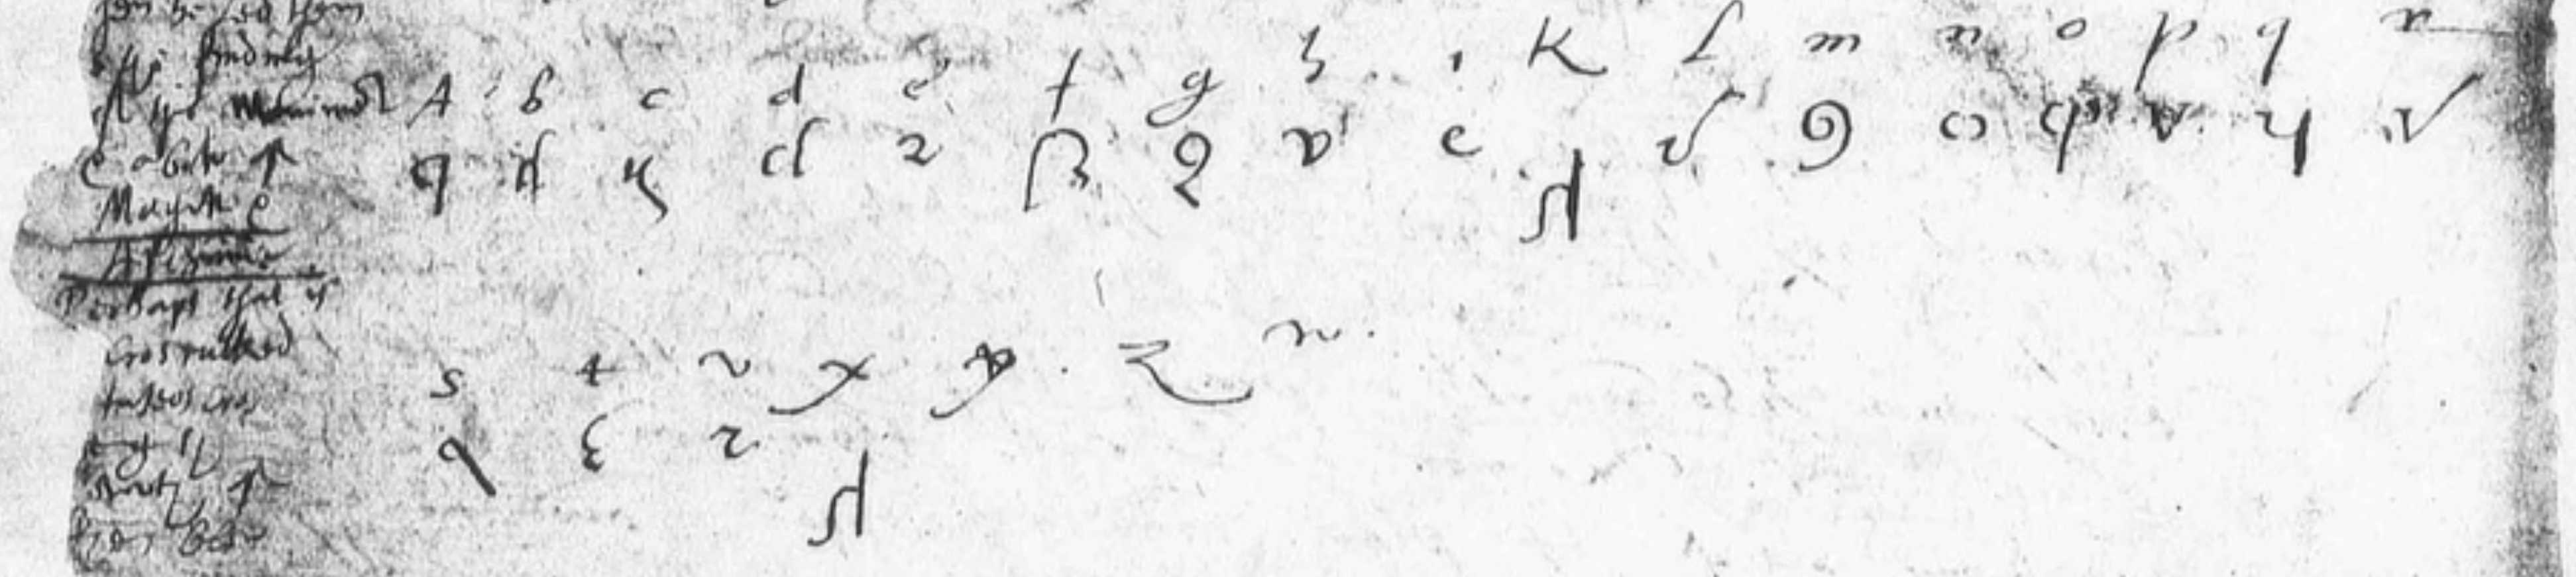
Aprilis 11. Thursday

Δ After my comming home from the Court about 4 of the clok after none, and after my being in my study a while, it cam into my hed to assay to decipher the other writing before is spoken of, which was brought me by E.K., as he was willed to do. 88

And at the first I was halfe out of all hope: but yet making many assayes, and guessing it (as the Writing) to be Latine, I found the Key to be the same Alfabet. God giving me the perseverance.

Δ They were found at Huets cross as the Spirituall creature affirmed [illegible] the finding [illegible] Mayntic Afsians Perhaps that is cross called [illegible]



And, the first longe writing, was this:

Tabula Locorum rerum et Thesaurorum absconditorum, Menabani, mei Gordanili, militis, et Danaorum Principis, expulsi, multorumque aliorum Clarissimorum (Britanie meridionali parte) virorum, contra eiusdem inhabitatores militantium: quam, hic, familiarissimorum consensu, aliquando ad nostratium redeuntium commoditatem et auxilium abscondere et sepelire decreui: qua quidem intellecta, facile possunt ad Lucem abscondita efferre.

Aprilis 15 Monday (156)

Δ As EK was writing the eighteenth leafe which was of the Spirits of the earth, (a matter of 4½ of writing) he saw a parcell thereof, belonging to him self, and thereuppon suddenly at his syde appeared three or fowr spirituall creatures like labouring men, having spades in their hands, and their heare hanging about their eares, and hastily asked EK what he would with them whereupon he called them. He answered that he called them not. They replyed, and sayd that he called them: Then I began to say, they lyed: for his intent was not to call them, but only to read and repeat that which he had written. and that every man who readeth a prayer to perceyve the sense thereof, prayeth not. No more did he call them. and I bad them be packing out of the place. and thereuppon removed from my desk (where I was ruling of paper for his writing) to the grene chayre which was by my chymney: and presently he cryed out and sayd they had nipped him and broken his left arme by the wrist: and he shewed the bare arme and there appeared both on the upper syde and lower syde imprinted depe in, two circles of brode as grotes they were red: And I seyng that, caught for a stik, and in the meane while, they assalted him, and he rose, and cryed to me (saying) they come fleying on me, they come; and he set the stole which he sat on, betwene him and them: but still they cam gaping or gyrning at him. Then I asked him where they were: and he poynted to the place and then I toke the stik and cam to the place and in the name of Jesus commanded those Baggages to avoyde and smitt a cross stroke at them: and presently they avoyded. All thanks be to the only one Almighty and Everliving God whose name be praysed now and ever. Amen.

Aprilis 18. Thursday morning. hor. 8. circiter

Note. Now 30 Tables being writte since good friday. 4 dayes only 21 passed since good friday.

Δ As EK cam to write out the Tables according as he was wont: and to have the letters appearing in the ayre hard by him, he saw nothing but a blak clowde seven cornerd and after I had put the stone agayn into the frame, and thereuppon did make long and oft request, for answer having, there appered nothing, neyther was any thing seen in the stone. Then I fell to prayer agayn, and at length, there appeared written uppon, or out of, yssuing out of the clowde, this sentence

He promised, be not carful. Δ Note, here were instead 21 letters

Δ as who should say our tor [illegible], the [illegible]: [illegible]

EK. The letters semed to stand at fingers endes (being 21), and so every finger had a letter on it: and the fingers semed to be placed in the corners of the Heptagonall clowde: and assone as the sentence was red the fingers which semed to issue out of the Heptagon, did shrink in agayn and disappere

Δ All laude honor and thanksgiving, be to the highest, our most loving mercifull and almighty God, now and ever Amen

The stone out of the frame.

Δ We being desirous to know the cause of this stay making, in the Tables shewing as before was accustomed; and now (24 Tables being written) a dark clowde to hang in the place of a glorious boke, did greatly disquiet our myndes, and brought us in feare of some offence lately committed, by any one, or both of us whereby the Indignation of the Lord might be kindled against us. Thereuppon we prayed severally; and at length, (no alteration, or better comfort happening to us) ~~as~~ I prayed in the hearing of EK, ~~at my~~ (by my desk, on my knees) in great agony of mynde, and Behold there appeared one standing uppon, or rather somwhat beyonde the Heptagonall clowde who sayd

I am sent, to understand the cause of your greif, and to answer your dowtes.

Δ I, then, declared my mynde briefly, according to the effect of my prayer. Whereunto he answered at large, reproving my appointing of god a tyme or to abridge the tyme spoken of. and among his manifold grave speaches he had these words

Prepare all things

Prepare all things, For tyme is at hand

His Justice is great, and his arme stronge

How darest thow dowt or dreame, saying: Lo, God, this may be done in shorter time &c. But such is flesh.

Be rocks in faith

Good Angels

It is not the manner of us, good Angels, to be trubbled so oft.

At the time appointed, thow shalt practise: While sorrow shall be measured, thow shalt bynde up thy fardell.

Great is the light of Gods sinceritie.

Appoint God no tyme: Fullfill that which is commanded

God maketh clere when it pleaseth him. Be you constant and abyde Temptations: For True it is, that is sayde: And lastly I say, It shall be performed

What is it now thou woldest desyre to be made playner?

Δ Still he proceded uppon my answers: and at length he sayd tyme of Justification known to him

Neyther is the time of mans Justification knowen untyll he hath byn tryed.

The ende of our election

You are chosen by God his mercy to an ende and purpose: which ende shall be made manifest by the first begynning in knowledg in these Mysteries

God shall make clere when it pleaseth him: & open all the secrets of wisdome when he unlocketh. Therefore seke not to know the mysteries of this boke, tyll the very howre that he shall call the. For then shall his powre be so full amongst you, that the flesh shall not be perceyved, in respect of his great glory.

tyll the very howre

Want of due reverence shewing in our actions is reproved.

But was there ever any, that tasted of gods mercies so assuredly, that wanted due reverence? Can you bow to Nature, and will not honor the workman? Is it not sayd, that this place is holy. What are the works of holines? I do advertise you: for, God will be honored. Neyther will he be wrested, in any thing he speaketh.

Angels abase them selves, to pleasure man by their infirmity when they take upon them, as use any sensible evidence of their person [illegible]

Think not, that you could speak or talk with me, unlesse I did greatly abase my self, in taking uppon me so unlikely a thing in forme, as to my self: ~~&~~ But he doth ~~it not~~ this, for your causes, not for your deserts, but for the Glorie of his own name.

Three are to be lightned. One is not to be lyghtned, but all. And, which all? — the two fir[st] to gither with the Captayn 40 dayes. Ask what thou wilt: for, untill the 40 dayes be ended, shalt thou have no one more shew of us.

A.L. Δ Whether shall we gyve Counsayle, or consent to the Captayne to go down into his Contry, as presently he entendeth.

Ur — As he listeth. Δ EK sayd that this was Uriel who now had appered and answered all this.

Δ — I will ask thee one question. Have we any voyce or no?

Δ I do think you have no organs or instruments apt for voyce: but are mere spirituall and nothing corporall: but that you have the powre and property from god to insinuate your message or meaning, to eare or eye, in such sort as mans imagination shall be, that both they here and see you sensibly.

Vox angelorum. Ur — We have no voyce but a full noyce that filleth every place. Which when you once taste of, Distance shall make no separation.

Uriel putteth one in his place. Let there one come that may better answer: not in respect of thy self: but one, more meter to thy estate. — Do thy Duty.

Δ He sayd this, to one who came in, and he departed him self.

Il or El. Δ This newcome Creature sayd, Wold you have any thing with me, Il?

Δ Who art thou: Art thou one that loveth and honoreth our Creator?

El. Il — Will you see my hart — EK. he openeth his body and sheweth his hart and theron appered written EL.

IL Δ He semed to be a very mery Creature, and skypped here and there, his apparell was like as of a Vyce in a play: and so was his gesture and his skoffing, as the outward shew therof was to be utterly demed. but I did carefully ponder the pith of the words which he spake: and so forbare to write very much which he spake at the beginning: by reason EK did so much mislike him, and in manner take him to be an Illuder.

Δ As you are appointed to answer us by the Message of God, so answer us, who desyre the pure and playne verity as may be correspondent to his Credit that assigned you, and to the honor of God who created us.

Note. Threfold answer. Il — My answer is threefold — I answer by gesture — by my apparayle, and will answer thee by my wordes.

Δ Do you know where the Arabik boke is that I had: which was written in tables and numbers?

Liber Arabicus. Il — It is in Scotland — A minister hath it; it is nothing worth. The boke conteyneth false and illuding witchcrafts. All Lawde honor and prayse be to the One and everlasting God: for ever and ever.

EK. he knoweth [illegible]. Δ The Lord Treasorer, hath he, any bokes belonging to Soyga? Il — He hath none: but certayn Introductions to all artes.

Note. Δ But it was reported to me by this skryer that he had: certayn peculier bokes perteyning to Soyga. otherwise named Zoga, and Agnos, that is transposed.

Il — Soyga signifieth not Agnos. Soyga alca miketh.

Δ What signifie those wordes? The true measure of the Will of God in iudgment which is by Wisdome.

Δ What Language is that, I pray you? Il — a language taught in Paradise. Δ To whome? Il — by infusion, to Adame. Δ To whome did Adam [illegible] Il — Unto Chevas. Δ Did his posteritie use the same? Il — untill the Ayrie Tower was destroyed. Δ Be there any bokes of that Language yet extant among us mortall men? Il — [illegible] that there be. Δ Where are they? Il — Ô, Syr, I shall make make you in Love with your Masterships boke.

Δ Did Adam write any thing in that Language? Il — That is no question.

Δ Bokes than, they were delivered from one to an other by tradition. or els

Enochs. Δ Enoch his boke, or prophesie, doth, or may seme, to be written in the same Language: bycause mention is made of it in the new Testament. in Jude his Epistle where he hath, Prophetavit autem de his Septimus ab Adam, Enoch, dicens, Ecce venit Dominus in sanctis millibus suis facere iudicium contra omnes, et arguere omnes impios, de omnibus operibus impietatis eorum, quibus impie egerunt; et de omnibus duris quae locuti sunt contra Deum peccatores impij. &c.

Note excellent Memories, for traditions conteyning and preserving. Il — I must distinguish with you. Before the flud, the spirit of God was not utterly obscured in men. Theyr memories were greater, theyr understanding more clere, and theyr traditions, most, unsearchable. Nothing remayned of ~~Enochs~~ Enochs but (and if it pleas your mastership) mought have byn carryed in a cart.

I can not bring you the brass, but I can shew you the bokes.

Δ forte 18. Note 28 dayes more do make iust the 40 dayes, before noted. I Slepe * 28 dayes, and you shall fynde them, under your pillow when you do rise.

Esdras bokes. Δ As concerning Esdras bokes, which are missing, what say you?

The Jues. Il — The prophets of the Jues have them. Δ But we can hardly trust any thing in the Jues hands, concerning the pure verity: they are a [illegible] people and dispersed all the world over.

Il — I will shew you a trik. Δ he lifted up his fote, and shewed the sole of his shoo: and there appeared the picture of a man, who semed to have a skurf or foule skynne on his face: which one toke of: and then there appered in his forhed these two figures 88.

Δ this might seme to signifie the calling home of the Jues, A° 1588. to come. I will shew you more then that, to. and will speak to a man shortly, that shall bring water to wash every mans face.

Δ What mean you, by every man? shall all men, be made cleane?

Il — There is a difference in washing of faces.

Note, El semed to be woman. EK. This creature semeth to be a woman by his face: his apparell semeth to be like a Vice in a play.

EK. Ar you not a Kinsman to Syngella?

Il — I syr, and so are you a Kinsman to Synfullas.

Δ A man may finde corn in chaf.

Il — So may you (perchaunce) finde me an honest man in my ragged clothes.

Δ This other day, when I was in dowt of the Grecian (the Macedonian) whether he had any good and profound lerning or no, he was represented spiritually, and abowt his hat in great letters was written this greke word [illegible]. I pray you what doth it signifie — I asked the grecian and he sayd, [illegible]

Il. Loke in your boke. Δ I toke the common lexicon: and he sayd, No Not that: Then I asked if I shold take Phavorinus his lexicon: and he answered. Nor that. and I asked which then: and he sayd your boke covered with a white parchment. and I asked, that of Munsterus his Latine greke and hebrue: and he sayd, yea. and there you shall finde that Macuto hath onely that one word [illegible] longing to it. I loked and I found it: which satisfied me very well.

Δ I pray you what say you of Gariladrah; do you know him? who long sins did deale with me?

Gariladrah. Il — Yf he were lesse than I, I durst speak to him. But bycause he is greater then I, I am not to speak to him. All under, and nothing above me, I deale. Loke in your Tables and there you shall finde an other name of his.

Δ I remember no such thing. Il — Consider who hath set me here. If the truth thou hast allready, be of a greater then my self, then is it sufficient. Δ What day was that name given me?

[illegible] Uriel [illegible]. Il — Immediately, sir, after your * worships last coming.

He pointed at EK. Δ That was Raphael. And I remember that Gariladrah sayd that he must leave me, and his better (Raphael) shold be my instructor, and that yet the same Raphael was my good then. &c.

Δ Sing a song to his prayse, who created us.

EL — I will sing a short song.

Your doings are of GOD: your calling great:
Go down and seke the Threasor, and you shall obteyn it.
Take no care: for, this Boke shall be done in 40 dayes Begyn to practise in August. Serve God before.
You shall know all things, ictu oculi.
And so, prayse, glory, and eternall singing with incessant humilitie be unto the Creator that hath framed, made and created all things, for ever and ever. Now say you, yf you will.
Amen. Δ Amen Amen Amen.

Thesaurus absconditus. 40 dayes. — August. — Knowledge to be infused ictu oculi.

Thesaurus ab[illegible] 40 Note: till August — After the ende of 40 dayes, go down for the Threasor. When those 40 dayes are done, than this boke shall be finished. The rest of the time untill August, is for rest, Labor, and prayer.

Δ What labor? EL — In digging up of those threasors.

Δ Must we nedes dig for them? EL — Otherwise, yf thow wilt.

Δ How, I pray you? For to dig without lycence of the Prince, is dangerous by reason of the Lawes: and to aske licence, is half an odious sute.

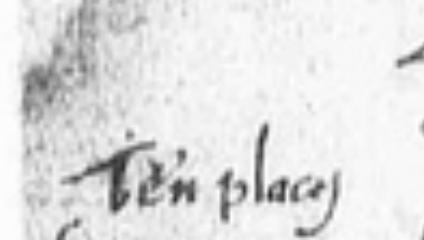
without digging.

EL — Yf thow have a parcell or part out of every place of the erth, in any small quantitie, thow mayst work by the Creatures, whose power it is to work in such causes: which will bring it (never trust me) before you can tell twenty.

Δ he meaneth. Never trust him, if it be not so, as he hath sayde.

EL — No, never trust me, if it be not so.

Ten places. The chest



Δ you mean those ten places, marked in the Table, which, last day, I discovered.

EL — I mary, now you hit it. Yea sir, and your Chest also, it wold do no hurt. Give me One: and I will make 40: and give you twenty and take twenty to my self: and when you have it, I pray you let me have some little portion for my wife and Children.

Δ As concerning that Chest, I pray you how cam the Macedonian, or Mr [illegible] to knowe of it, so perticularly, as he did?

EL — Hussey told of it, openly, at the bord at Braynford in the hearing of divers.
The Grecian will seke him out.
The Greke in Grecia perhaps can fynde out Threasor, but not in Anglia.
The Greke hath a Threasor in his hed, that will enriche him to be a fole.
I was yesterday at London, I met with a blak dyer. He had a cupple of rings, that wold give better instructions.
Your Chymney here will speak agaynst you anon: yet I am no bricklayer.
I must be gone.

Δ True it is, I had hidden there, in a capcase the records of my doings in Sancte College.

Δ God, for his infinite mercyes be allwayes prayesed, glorified, and extolled of all his Creatures: Amen.

It advised EK to communicate to me the boke, and the powder, as also the rest of the roll, which was there found: saying, true frendes ought not to hide any thing the one from the other.

The boke. The powder. The rest of the roll.

Δ An old proverb it is: Amicorum omnia communia.

Soli, Deo soli sit Laudatio
Laus honor et gloria
Amen

Quinti libri Mysteriorum Appendix

Aprilis 20 — Saterday.

Δ This Saterday had byn great and eger pangs betwene EK and me: while he wold utterly discredit the whole process of our actions: as to be done by illuding spirits: seking his discharge. Saying that he hath often heretofore byn told things true, but of illuding devills: and now, how can this be other, than a mockery, to have a cornerd book closed to be shewed him in stede of the playn writing, which he had written out of: and that when they shold do good in dede, that then they shrank from us. And that he was not thus to leese his time: But that he is to study, to lerne some knowledge, whereby he may live: and that he was a cumber to my howse, and that he dwelled here as in a prison; that it was much better for him to be more Cotsall playne where he might walk abroade, without danger or to be cumbred or vexed with such sklaunderous fellows as yesterday he was, with one little Ned dwelling at the blak raven in Westminster, who brawled at him for bearing witnes of a bargayn made betwene the same Ned or Edward, and one Lush a Surgeon, who was now fallen in poverty, a very honest man etc. With a great deale of more matter, melancholik, and cross overthwartly to the good and pacient using of our selves to the accomplishing of this action.

I replyed, and sayd, that we must stand our selves unfeyned [illegible] on the shewstone: as, that God wold clere when it pleased him: and that we were not to appoint God a time to performe his mysteries and mercyes in: not shorter than he hath spoken of. And that undoutedly, the occasion of this blak closed, was some imperfection of ours, to be amended: and that then, all, wold be to our further comfort. And as concerning his doubting the goodnes of the Creatures (dealing with us) he was to blame, to say or doubt the [illegible] that bringeth furth good fruite. for of these Creatures, from the first to the last which have dealt with us, we never hard other than the beginning of theyr dealing with us, exhortations to humilitie, patience, constancy, the prayse of God, instructions and exhortations to faith etc. The things they promise be such as God can performe, and such as have byn imparted to many, is for his service and glory to performe: and such as have byn, not impossible for man to enioye agayn, nor before: and therefore mystical, impossible for men to hope for. And though his troubled mynde did doute, yet my quiet mynde, which God hath made joyfull through his mercyes, and which accuseth me not in this action of any ambition, hypocrisie, or disorderly Longing, but only is bent and setled in awayting the Lordes helping hand to make me wise for his service (according as long tyme my dayly prayer to him hath byn) and seing I have and do ask wisdome of the Lord his hands, and put my trust in him, he will not suffer me to be confounded: neither will he offer a stone to his sely children, when in tyme of nede they ask bred at his hands: besides that I volunteer [illegible] the feare of God: and by his graces I feare him so, and am so carefull to do that shold please him, that I make no account of all this world possessing, unles I might enioye his favor, his mercyes and graces.

Sapientia.

And whereas he complayned of want, I sayd my want is greater than his: for I was in det allmost 300 pounds, had a greater charge than he, and yet for all my 40 yeres course of study, many hundred pounds spent, many hundred myles travayling, many [illegible] incredible toyle and sparing of my body in study using to lerne or to devise out some good thing, yet for all this I wold be very well pleased to be deferred yet longer (a yere or more) and to go up and down England clothed in a blanket, to beg my bred, so that I might at the ende be assured to atteyn to godly wisdome, whereby to do God some service for his glory. And [illegible] that I was resolved, rather [illegible] to leave this world presently [illegible], that so I might in spirit enioye the bottomles fountayne of all wisdome, [illegible] els to pass forth my dayes on earth with gods favor and assurance of enjoying here his mercies, mighty blessings, to understand his mysteries, not for the performing of some actions, such, as might sett forth his glory, so, as it may be evident and confessed, that such things were done Dextera Domini. And many other discourses and answers I made unto his objections and doubtes:

meridie — Afterward I began to speak of the trobbles and miseries promised to be nere at hand, and by that tyme I had ended a little in the consideration & talk of the matter, he appeared that sayd he was called El or Il, and sayd

— Now to the matter.

Δ What matter?

Il — Il. — I must have a wallet to carry your witt and myne both in.

Δ Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini

Il — Then I perceyve that I shall have a blessing
Blessed is the physician that hath care of his patient, before the pangs of death doth visit him.

Δ — What think you of that clowdy Heptagonon?

Il. — Dost thow consider, I go about it?
I told thee every thing I did, was an Instruction. As I can not stand stedfastly uppon this, (it self, One, and one, perfect:) So can not my mouth declare, much lesse speak, that you may comprehend it, what this is whereupon I go.

EK. He went on the Heptagonon, as one might go on the top of a turning whele: (as some horses use to turne wheles as may appere in Georgius Agricola de re metallica)

Il. — I know, what all your talk hath byn: But such mynde, such Infection, such Infection, such Corruption: and must nedes have a potion applicable for the cure. But how will you do? I have forgotten all my druggs behinde me. But since I know that some of you are well stored with sufficient oyntments, I do entend to visit you onely with theyr help. You see all my boxes ar empty? — EK he showeth, a great bundell of empty potecaries boxes, and they semed to my hearing to rattle

Δ How commeth it, that you pretend to come from a favorable divine power to pleasure us, and your boxes ar empty.

Il — You sayd even now in your talk: Jovis omnia plena: Yf my empty boxes be vertuous, how much more shall any thing be, which I bring not empty.

Δ Then I pray you, to say somwhat of the vertue of your empty boxes; bycause we may have the better confidence of your fullnes

Il. — Will you have my bill? Δ Shall we go to the Apothecaries with your Bill?

Il. — I will show it: Send it, where you list.

Judra galgol astel.

Δ You know we understand it not: how can it be served?

Il. — You must nedes have an expositor
What boke of physik is that, that lyeth by you?

[Δ There lay by me on my desk, Marcus Heremita de lege spirituali in greke and latine, but the latine translation lay open before, on the left side of which, the sentence began Non raro per negligentiam, quae circa alicujus rei operationem committitur, etiam Cognitio obscuratur And on the right side, began Corpus sine mente nihil est perfectum &c]

Il. — Mary here is good physik in dede.
You found my name the other day. Go to my name. [Δ So I turned to the Greke boke and brought forth ~~[illegible]~~ [illegible]. and there chose the word Ilemese. he than asked me, which letter of the name I liked best, and I sayd, L: bycause it conteyned the name representing God. El. &c then he sayd somewhat farder of the letters, which I wrote not.

Il. — Go to great M, the second: for this is it that shall serve his turne

Il

A remedy for blered eyes of EK at this instant

Yf this can not serve him, he shall have a medicine, that a horse can not abyde. Use this, and I warrant you, your blindnes will be gone.

Δ. It is here greatly to be Noted: that I turned in this boke of Marcus, 27 Leaves farder: till I cam to the Quaternio of M, the second and there I found this sentence notified (by my lines drawen, and a Note in the margent, Cor Contritum.) Sine corde contrito impossibile est omnino liberari a malitia et vitiis. Conterit autem cor tripartita temperantia somni dico, et cibi, et corporalis licentiae: Caeterum horum excessus et abundantia voluptatem generat. Voluptas autem pravas cogitationes inserit: repugnat vero precationi et conveniendi contritioni.

And so many dayes yet wanted of the 40, yf we accownt from the 6 day of Aprill: but yf from the tyme of the beginning I wrote them, then there wanteth not much by 9 or 10 dayes

Δ This being considered by us, we cessed and this instant and thanked God of his mercies, that it wold please him to make us understand some iust cause why the clowdes with appeared in stede of brightnes &c.

Soli Deo sit honor laus et gloria. Amen.

Aprilis 23. Tuesday. mane hor. 8.

Δ After our prayer ionctly, and my long prayer, at my desk requesting God to deale with us so, as might be most for his glory, in his mercy: not according to our desertes, and frowardnes: &c. At length appeared in the stone a white clowde, golden coulored. And behinde the clowd a thunder semed to yssue

Nos — A voyce — When I gathered you, you were chosen of the myddest of Iniquitie: Whome I have clothed with garments made and fashioned with my owne hand — I, AM, therfore, Beleue:

Δ I prayed, and thanked the highest, that so mercifully respected our miserie.

A voyce — I, AM. ×

Ur — EK. There standeth Uriel uppon the clowde, and semeth to loke downward and kneled, saying Æternitie, Maiestie, Dominion and all powre, in heven the earth, and in the secret partes below, is thyne, thyne, yea thyne; and to none els due, but unto thee: whose mercies are infinite; which respectest the glorie of thy owne name, above the frowardnes, and perversnes of mans nature: which swarmeth with synnes, and is covered with Iniquitie: and in the which, there is founde no place free from filthynes and abhomination. Glorie be to thee: O, all powre: and magnified be thow, in the workmanship of thy own hands, from time to time, and with out ende of times, from generation to generation: and even amidst and in the number of those, for whome thow hast prepared the flowres of thy eternall Garland. Beare with them (o Lord) for thy mercyes sake. for, woldest thow seke them in the myddst of miserie? Whom yf thow sholdest iudge according to thy iustice, How shold thy Name be glorified so in thy self, to thy own determination, and writing, sealed before the Creation of the worldes? The fire of thy Iustice consumeth thyne own seat. and in thee is no powre wanting, when it pleaseth thee, to cast down, and gather them to gether, as the wynde doth the Snowe, and in hemme them

Election confirmed.

Your Words are, yet, not offensiue vnto God: Therefore, will not we, be offended, at any thing that is spoken: For it must be done, and shall stand; yea and in the number which I haue already chosen.

Allso that when he had made an ende, he thowght his belly to be wyder, and enlarged, much more then it was before.

Δ I sayde certayn prayers to the Almighty our God and most mercifull father, on my knees, and EK on his knees likewise, answered diuers tymes, Amen.

A.G. After this, we made A.G. to vnderstand these the mercies of the Highest: and he reioyced greatly, and praysed the Lorde: And so EK, was fully satisfyed of his Dowtes: And A.G. and he, were reconciled of the great discorde which, yesterday, had byn betwene them &c.

Aprilis 26. . Fryday Note
Δ

By the providence of God, and Mr Gilberts his meanes, and pacifying of E.K. his vehement passions and pangs, he cam agayn to my howse: and my wife very willing, and quieted in mynde, and very frendely to E.K. in word and countenance: and a new pacification, in all partes confirmed: and all uppon the Confidence of God his service to be faythfully and sincerely intended, and followed in and by our actions, through the grace and mercy of the highest.

1583 Aprilis 28. Sonday: after Dynner. abowt 4 of the clok.

Δ As I and E.K. had diverse talks and discourses of Transposition of letters: and I had declared him my rule for to knowe certaynly how many wayes, any number of letters (propownded,) might be transposed or altered in place or order: Behold, suddenly appeared, the Spirituall Creature, IL, and sayd, IL — Here is a goodly disputation of transposition of letters.

Chuse, whether you will dispute with me, of Transposition, or I shall lerne you

Δ I had rather lerne then dispute. And first I think, that those letters of our Adamicall Alphabet have a due peculiar unchangeable proportion of their formes, and likewise that theyr order is allso Mysticall

The mysticall Alphabet.

IL — These Letters represent the Creation of man: and therfore they must be in proportion. They represent the Workmanship wherewithall the Sowle of man was made like unto his Creator.
But I understand you shall have a paynter shortly:

Δ — I pray you what paynter may best ~~serve~~ serve for the purpose? Can master Lyne serve the turn well?

IL — Dost thow think that God can be glorified in hell, or can diuells dishonor him? Can wickednes of a paynter, deface the mysteries of God?
The trueth is, I am come to advertise you, Least with a small error you be led, far, asyde.

The Table of Practise

Let me see the forme of your Table.

Δ — I shewed him the Characters and words which were to be paynted rownd abowt in the border of the Table.

IL — How do you like ~~it~~ those letters? Δ I knowe not well what I may say. For, perhaps, that which I shuld like, were not so to be lyked: and contrarywise that I shold think well of, might be nothing worthe.

IL — Thow sayst well.
Behold great is the favor and mercy of God toward those whome he favoreth. All things are perfect but onely that. Neyther was that shewed or delivered by any good and perfect messager from God. A wicked power did intrude him self, not onely into your Societie, but allso into the Workmanship of Gods mysteries. Sathan dare presume to speak of the Almighty. Those Characters are divelish: and a secret band of the Divell. But, thus sayeth the Lord, I will rayse them up, whom he hath overthrowen: and blott oute his fotesteps where they resist my glorie. Neyther will ſl — What haue you in the middle of your Table? Δ Nothing. ſl Sigillum Emeth, is to be sett there.

Sigillum Emeth.

ſl — The rest, after supper.

Δ Soli Deo Omnipotenti sit laus perennis.
Amen.

After supper, returning to our business, I first asked of the heds of the letters in the border, to be written, which way they ought to be turned, to the center ward of the Table or from the center ward.

ſl — The heds of the letters must be next or toward the center of the square Table or Figure Diuide that within, by 12 and 7.

Note of the Square within

Δ I diuided it

ſl. — Grace, mercy and peace be unto the liuely branches of his florishing Kingdom: and strong art thow in thy glory, which dost unknytt the secret partes of thy liuely workmanship: and that, before the weak understanding of man.
Herein is thy powre and Magnificence opened unto man. And why? bycause thy diuinitie and secret powre is here shut up in Numero Ternario et Quaternario: à quo principium et fundamentum omne huius est tui sanctissimi spiritus For, yf thow (o God) be wunderfull and incomprehensible in thyne owne substance, it must nedes follow, that thy works are likewise incomprehensible. But, Lo, they shall now beleue, bycause they see, which heretofore could skarsly beleue. Strong is the influence of thy supercelestiall powre, and mighty is the force of that arme, which ouercommeth all things: Let all powre therfore rest in the;
Amen

IL — Leave oute the Bes of the 7 names of the ~~Kings~~ seven Kings, and 7 Princes: and place them in a table divided by 12 and 7: the 7 spaces being uppermost: and therein write, in the upper line, the letters of the King, with the letters of his Prince following next after his name: and so of the six other, and their Princes. And read them on the right hand from the upper part to the lowest, and there shalt finde then, the Composition of this Table. Therein they are all comprehended, saving certayn letters, which are not to be put in here: By reason that the Kings and Princes do spring from God, and not God from the Kings and Princes. Aprilis 29. Monday, a meridie

△ As EK and I wer talking of my ~~boke~~ boke Soyga, or Aldaraia: and I at length sayd that (as far, as I did remember) Zadzaczadlin, was Adam by the Alphabet therof, suddenly appeared the spirituall Creature, which sayd yesterday that he wold come agayn, this day, uncalled: and at his first comming he sayd

Ben, à primo

△ Qui primus est et novissimus, Alpha et omega, misereatur nri. Amen.

IL — Glorie be to the, which art one, and comprehending all. Merveylous is thy wisdome, in those, of whome, thow wilt be comprehended.

A short prayer, but appliable to my purpose

Every prayse, with us, is a prayer.

IL — Well I will give you my lesson, and so byd you farewell.
First I am to perswade you to put away wandering myndes.
Secondly, for your instruction, in those necessarie occasions, thus it is:

An ænigmaticall lesson

The owtsides or Skyn must be the Centre. There, is one fowndation.
The Flesh must be the owtside.
The Centre it self must be dissevered into 4 æquall partes.
There is your lesson

△ We understand not, this dark lesson

IL — The hart must be the fowrth part of the body; and yet the body perfect and sownd. The skynne must occupy the place of the hart and yet without deformitie.
God is the begynning of all things: The farthest parte of all things is in the hands of God.

Note

The like shalbe fownd amongst the member of his One most holy name.
The Erth is a fowndation to every thing: and differeth but onely in forme. In the forme of his own application whereunto it is applied.
God is the begynning of all things, but not after one sorte, nor to every one alike.
But it is three manner of works, with his name:

three manner of works with God his Name

The One, in respect of Dignification:
The Second, in respect of Conciliation:
The Third, in respect of an ende and determined Operation.
Now syr, to what ende, wold you use your Character?

△ At our two first dealings to gether, it was answered by a spirituall Creature (whome we toke to be Uriel,) Sigillum hoc in auro sculpendum, ad defensionem corporis omni loco, tempore et occasione, et in pectore gestandum.

IL — But how do I teache?
The Character is an Instrument, applicable onely to Dignification.
But there is no Dignification syr, but that which doth procede, and hath his perfect Composition, Centrally, in the square number of 3 and 4.
The Centre whereof shall be equall to the greatest.

△ We understand not. IL — Hereby you may gather

And so are the other 7 Characters: which you call by the name of Tables, squared out into the forme of Armes: which are propre to every King and Prince according to theyr order.

Now to the last: Δ As concerning the ende and determined Operation

Il — It onely consisteth in the mercy of God, and the Characters of these bokes. For, Behold, As there is nothing that commeth or springeth from God, but it is as God, and hath secret Majesticall, and inexplicable Operation in it: So every letter here bringeth forth the Names of God: But, (in dede), they are but one Name; But according to the Locall and former being, to do comprehend the universall generation corruptible and incorruptible of every thing. NOTE (174)

Δ After that these things were finished, and E K rose up from my table and went to the west windowe, to reade a letter which was even then brought him from his wife: which being done, he toke a little prayer boke* (in english meter made by one William Hunnis which mr Adrian Gilbert had ~~left~~ here: and it lay on the table by us all the while of this last action) and with this boke he went into his bed chamber, intending to pray in it, a certayn prayer, which he liked: and as he opened the boke, his ey espied strange writing in the spare white paper at the bokes ende: and beholding it, iudged it verily to be his own letters, and the thing of his own doing: but being assured that he never saw the like of this Character [for Conciliation], and that other, (noted by the hart or center, skyn and flesh) before this present howre, he became astonied and in great wrath; and behold, suddenly One appeared to him and sayd, Lo, this is as good as that other. meaning that, which we had receyved, and I had before sett down on the former page. With this in wrath cam E K to me, as I was writing down fayre this last Action, and sayd, I have strange matter to impart unto you. Then sayd I, What is that? and at the first (being yet tossed in his mynde with this great iniurie of the subtile supplanter of man, ~~and~~ ambitiously intending him self, to rob god of his glory) he sayd, you shall know. And at length shewed me this little paper here, by, being the one of the white leaves in the ende of the foresayd little prayer boke. And I beholding it, found it to be ment to be the counterfeit of ours; but, with all, imperfect diverse wayes, after the order of our method: though the words, out of which it had sprong had bin good, and sufficient: and then we laughed at, and derided the wicked enemy, for his envy, his ass headed folish ambition, and in dede mere blundering to do any thing well. To conclude, we found, that with an incredible spede this Divilish figure was written down by some wicked spirit, to bring our perfect doings in doubt with us: thereby either to provoke us to utter undue speaches of gods good creatures, or to wavering myndes of the worthynes and goodnes of the same things receyved, and so either to leave of, or with faynthearted wavering to proceede. But I contrary to such inconveniency (was ~~being~~) armed with constancie, and confident good hope, that God wold not suffer me, (putting my trust in his goodnes and mercy, to receyve wisdome from him) to be so unjustly dealt with all or unkindely or unfatherly used at his hands &c. And entended after supper to make my earnest complaynt to the divine Maiestie against this wicked intrusion and temptation of the illuding devill. And so we went to supper.

The Title of the boke was Seven Sobs of a sorrowfull soule for Synne.

1583. Aprilis 29. Monday. after supper. hora 8a.

Δ I went into my oratorie, and made a fervent prayer against the spirituall enemy: specially meaning the wicked one who had so suddenly so subtilly and so lively counterfeted the hand and letters of E K: as is here before declared, and by the thing it self may appere here. Likewise E K (on his knees at the greene chayre standing before my chymney) did pray. after which prayers ended, I yea, rather, before they were ended, on my behalf, E K espyed a spirituall creature come to my table: whome he toke to be L. and so, as I asked, sayd He is here. And thereuppon I cam to my desk, to write as occasion should serve: ~~and [illegible]~~. And before I began to do any thing I rehersed part of my intent, uttred to god by prayer and half turned my speche to L. him self, as the cause did seme to require. Thereuppon that spirituall creature, who, as yet had sayd nothing, suddenly used these words ——— I give place to my better.

Δ prayed

E K prayed

E K. There cometh to me Uriel to be come, and IL to be gone away.

Δ Then began that welcome creature to say thus

Vriel

Most abundant and plentifull are the great mercies of God unto them which truely and unfaynedly feare, honor and beleue him
The Lord hath hard thy prayers, and I am VRIEL, and I haue browght the peace of God, which shall from henceforth visit you

If I had not made this action perfect (sayeth the Lord) and wrowght some perfection in you, to the ende you might performe: yea, if I had not had mercie (sayeth the Lord) over the infinite number and multitude of sowles, which are yet to put on the vilenes and corruption of the flesh, Or if it wer not time to loke down, and behold the sorrow of my temple, Yet wold I, for my promiss sake, and the establishing of my Kingdom, verifie my mercy uppon the sonns of men:
Whereunto I haue chosen three of you, as the mowthes and Instruments of my determined purpose. Therfore (sayeth the Lorde) Be of stowte and courragious mynde in me, for me, and for my truth sake: And Fear not the assalts of temptation For I haue sayd, I am with you. But as mercy is necessary for those that repent, and faithfully forsake theyr offenses, So is Temptation requisite and must ordinarilie follow those, whome it pleaseth him to illuminate with the beams of triumphant Sanctification Yf temptation wer not, how shold the sonnes of men (sayeth the Lord) know me to be mercifull? But I am honored in hell, and worshipped with the blasphemies: Pugna erit, vobis autem victoria: yet, albeit, (thus sayeth my message) I will defend you from the cruelltie of ~~these~~ dayes to come and will make you perfect: that perfectly you may begynne in the works of my perfection. But, what? and dost thow (sathan) think to triumph? Behold (sayeth the God of Justice) I will banish thy servants from this place and region; and will set stumbling bloks before the feete of thy ministers: Therfore, be it unto thee, as thow hast desired: And be it to this people, and holie place, (as it is the will of God; which I do pronownce) light without darkness, Truth without falshode, rightuousnes without the works of wickednes. I haue pronownced it, and it is done.

Sententia contra istum Malignum spiritum qui nobis imponere voluit.

* He spake to E.K.

But thow, o *yongling (but, old synner,) why dost thow suffer thy blyndeness thus to encrease: or why dost thow not yeld thy lymmes to the service and fullfilling of an æternall verity:
Pluck up thy hart: Let it not be hardened. Follow the waye that leadeth to the knowledge of the ende; the open sight of god his word verified, for his kingdoms sake.
You began in Tables, and that of small accident: But be faithfull. for you shalbe written within Tables of perfect and everlasting remembrance. Considering the truth, which is the message of him which is the fowntayne and life of the true, perfect and most glorious life to come,
Follow, Loue, and diligently contemplate the mysteries therein.
He that hath done this evill, hath not onely synned against thee, but against God, and against his truth. Judgment is not of me, and therefore I cannot

I can not pronounce it: But what his judgment is, he knoweth in him self. His name is BELMAGEL: and he is the fyrebrand, which hath followed thy sowle from the begynning; yea seking his destruction. Who can better counterfeat, than he, that in thy wickednes is chief lord and Master of thy spirites: or who hath byn acquaynted with the secrets of many fingers, so much as he [that] hath byn a deceiver? My sayings are no accusations: neyther is it my propertie to be defyled with such profession. But I counsayle you generally; and aduertise you ~~[illegible]~~ through the grace and by the Spirit of unspeakable mercy. This night, yf your prayers had not byn, yea, if they had not perced into the seat of him which sitteth above: Thow, yea (I say) thow hadst byn carryed, and taken awaye, this night, into a wildernesse, so far distant hence Northward, that thy destruction had followed. Therfore lay away thy works of youth; and fly from fleshly vanities: Yf not uppon Joye and pleasure of this presence, yet for the glorie of him that hath chosen you. I say, be strong: Be Humble with obedience: For, All the things, that have byn spoken of, shall come to pass: And there shall not a letter of the boke of this prophesie perish. Finally, God hath blessed you, and will kepe you from temptation and will be mercifull unto you: and perfect you, for the dignitie of your profession sake: Which, world without ende, for ever and ever, with us and all creatures, and in the light of his own countenance, be honored.

Amen Amen Amen.

△ Hereuppon I made most humble prayer with harty thankes to our God; for his help, cumfort, and Judgment against our enemie, in this case (so greatly concerning his glorie). Ur. The forme in every Corner, considereth thy name. Δ you meane there to be a certayn shaddow of Delta. Ur. Well.

Δ Because many things do seme to be taken from under the Table, as out of a store howse, shall there be any shelf framed under our square Table of Practise or handsome stole set in apt place to lay things on?

Ur. These things that were delivered by Him, under an Imagined Table, were the

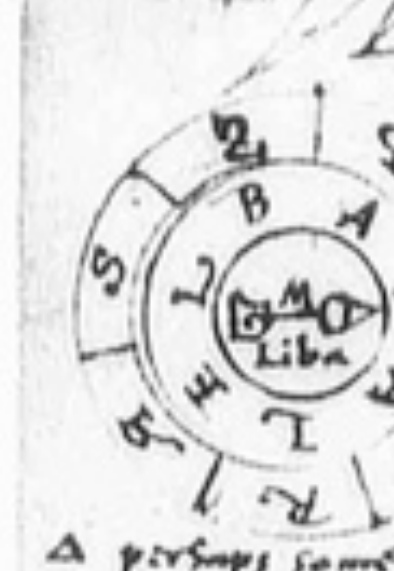
The members of God his secret Providence.

The members of God his ~~providence~~ secret Providence, distributed unto his Kings as the Principals of theyr Offices. But under thy Table is nothing to be set.

Δ What more uses are there of the great Circle or globe, wherein there are Capitall letters under the Kings names and Characters: and allso there are other letters with numbers: of which we have receyved no instruction: and moreover of these letters, some are adversed som converted, &c.

Ur — The letters turned bak to bak, (being ~~the~~ Capitall letters,) are equally to be divided according to theyr numbers, with a Circle cumpassing the name and Character of the King under which they are placed.



Δ perhaps somewhat like this &c.

The other letters, whose greatest number doth not exceede 7, are certayn By-notes of wicked and evill powres; which cannot, any way, but by the [illegible] of truth be decyphred from the good. Whereof Notice shall be given at large, by the boke.

The man in the myddst of the globe or circle

He that standeth in the myddst of the globe, signifieth Nature, Whereuppon, in the first point, is the Use and practise of this work. that is to say, as concerning the first part. For it is sayde before, The Boke conteyneth three kinde of knowledges

Three kinde of knowledges in this boke.

3. 1 The knowledge of GOD, truely
2. 2 The number, and doing of his Angels, perfectly
1. 3 The begynning and ending of Nature, Substantially.

And this hath answered a great dowte.

Δ What is the use of the 7 Tables Lammyns, like armes,) and from what grownde are they framed or derived.?

The 7 ensignes of creation

Uriel — They are the ensignes of the Creation; wherewithall they were Created by God knowen onely by theyr acquayntance, and the manner of theyr doings.

Δ Are they to be made in any metall.

At the tyme of theyr call.

Ur — They are to be made in ~~pure tynne~~ purified tynne: And to be used at the tyme of theyr Call Δ Are the letters there to be altered into the holy ~~Et~~ Alphabet letters or Characters?

Letters to be altred.

Ur — Into theyr proper Characters. Δ May I not use them as they are, unaltered? Ur —

Δ How to be used; hanged or layd.

Ur — To be layd before thee uppon the Table. Or thow mayst place them, if thow wilt, continually at the 7 angles of the Holy Seale: Laying them besides, and against the points or Angles of the Holy Seale: 7 ynches from the utter border of the holy Seale, all at ones: Or els they may be paynted, On the Table.

The 7 ensignes to be paynted on the Table.

Δ What is the ~~use~~ foundation of the first 40 letters, in the principall, or holy Seale Emeth: and what other uses have they, then yet hath byn spoken of: And what is the reason of theyr consequencie, or following each other, seing in our practise we call them out by a peculier order.

Ur — Thow hast nothing there, but what hath byn sufficiently spoken of.

Sup

Δ If 42 letters be 42 names, and 42 persons, how shall distinction be made betwene any two or three, of one name and in one rowe?

Ur — How canst thow distinguish any thing with god?

Δ, Lord I know not.

Ur — Yet, by the boke it shall be perfitly knowen: but by skyll above nature.

Δ Have

---

dayes and theyr

Δ Have I rightly applyed the dayes to the Kings?

Ur — ~~The~~ dayes are rightly applyed to the Kings.

Befafes

Δ How is this phrase: the fifth of the seventh understode, which Befafes speaketh of him self?

Ur — He speaketh so of him self, in respect that he shall be the fifth that shall be used. In consideration of Nature he is the fifth, allthough not consequently in the Order of Operation —

Δ It was promised that we shold be instructed, when the Day (in this practise) is to be accownted to begynne.

Ur — It is not to be enquired, which is sufficiently tawght, it is a thing most easy, and perfectly delivered.

A.G.

Δ Adrian Gilbert how far, or in what points is he to be made privie of our practise? Seing it was sayd, That none shall enter into the knowledge of these mysteries with me, but onely this worker. Truely the man is very comfortable to our societie.

Ur — He may be made privie of some things: such as shall be necessarie for the necessitie of the Necessities whereunto he shall be driven.

The last Ternarie.

Δ The phrase of the last Ternarie, which, Babylon (otherwise nimmed Carmara, or Marmara) used, I understand not.

Ur — He is the ende of the three last corruptible times: whereof, this is the last.

Three times

Δ The one, at Noes flud ended, the second at Christ his first comming and this is the third

Ur — It is so.

Vide supra pagina praecedente.

Δ The Characters and words annexed to the Kings names in the utter circumference of the great Circle or Globe: How are they to be used?

The 7 Characters of the 7 Kings in the former page of Bobel et Liba &c Ur — They are to be paynted uppon swete wood: and so to be held in thy hand, as thow shalt have cause to use them.

Δ For the bringing of the erthes hither from the places of hidden threasor, What is your order and direction?

Ur — After you have eaten, it shall be told you.

Δ We prayed, and so went to supper.

1583 The same Sunday. ~~M~~ May 5. after supper hora 8 1/2

Δ After diverse our eiaculations and pangs of prayer and thanks unto god, this was sayd.

Ur — Be it thus unto you [He prayeth in his own language.]

Expedition

After this holy boke is finished, then is it necessarie with expedition that the foresayd commandement, as concerning the fetching of the earth, be fullfilled and performed. And be it unto you as HE will. And HE sayeth thus

My Angel shall be amongst you, and shall direct his iornay: and will bring his feete, even into the place and places: where that erthly filth and Corruption lieth. Behold I will deale mercifully with him: For, Error shall not decoyve him. Notwithstanding what I will have done with it

How the Tresor is to be used or how it shall be bestowed, is yet to be enquired of.

Secret are the determinations, and unsearchable purposes, wherewith the most mighty dealeth with worldlings; and loketh into the use and necessarie application of worldly things. Many temptations shall assayle him in following this commandement. But it is sayd, I will be with him. God will deale mercifully with you. This is sufficient.

Yet ones more. Yf thow have my doute herein it shall be satisfyed

Δ What if he go first to Nubery, and with the erth being taken thence, to procede to the other places noted in the skroll: and then with the erth of those ten places, the rest of the skroll, the boke therewith found, and the red consolid thing in the hollow stone, to come directly hither: and then the rest of the peculier practise for enioying the premisses, to be lerned. Or how els will you have him order his iornay?

The skroll. The Boke. The red powder.

Vr. As thow wilt herein, so shall it be brought to pas.

Δ As concerning the victorious Capitayn ~~Alaski~~ The Lord Albert Laski the Polake, who so much desyreth my acquayntance, and conference, how shall I use my self, to his best liking, my Contries honor, and my own good credit?

Albertus Laski, Palatinus Siradiensis venit ex Polonia Londinum 1583. Maij initio

Vr — Remember, it is sayde, that the Princes of the earth shall not discredit, much lesse work thy confusion. He that dwelleth in the, is above worldes: and shall give the sufficient discretion worldly, in worldly occasions. For, where the blessings of God are, every thing is perfyted.

My good Angel.

Δ As concerning the Chamber for Practise appointed by me, and the half pace whereon the Table standeth, how is allowed of?

Vr — The place can not sanctifie the Action, but the Action the place. But I answer thee, after the manner of men. It is sufficient.

Hereby, may many other answers be considered

Δ The 4 hollow feete for comprehending the 4 lesser seales, how great ought they to be?

Vr. According to the feete, of the nearest proportion. And so, as the heith of the Table, be as it, now, is.

EK. He semeth now to sit in the ayre: but I perceyve no chayre be under him.

Δ Are all these things of this dayes Action to be Noted with your name, as Vriel?

VRIEL I am VRIEL, which allwayes will answer untill this Action be finished. I teache. Be mercifull, thankfull, and mery in him, and for him, for whose name you shall susteyne muche bodyly sadnes: More then my message, I may not. And it is done.

Multa nobis perpetienda propter Deum nostrum Omnipotentem

Δ As

Δ As concerning the vision which yester night was presented unto, or to the sight of EK as he sat at supper with me, in my hall, I meane the appering of the very sea, and many ships thereon, and the cutting of the hed of a woman, by a tall blak man, What are we to imagin thereof?

104

Vr — The One, did signifie the provision of forrayn powres against the Welfare of this land: which they shall shortly put in practise: The Other, the death of the Quene of Scotts: It is not long unto it.

Note the quene of Scotts to be beheaded. Which was A° 1587 at Fodringam Castell. And allso the same yere a great preparation of shipps against England by the King of Spayn the Pope and other Princes called Catholik.

The Maiestie of his invisible powre, which overcommeth all things be among you, uppon you, and rest with you for ever.

Δ Amen.

EK. At his last words he flung fyre with his hands from him toward us, and it spred it self in the manner of a Crosse.

Δ Gloria sit sempiterna Deo nostro Omnipotenti et Æterno.
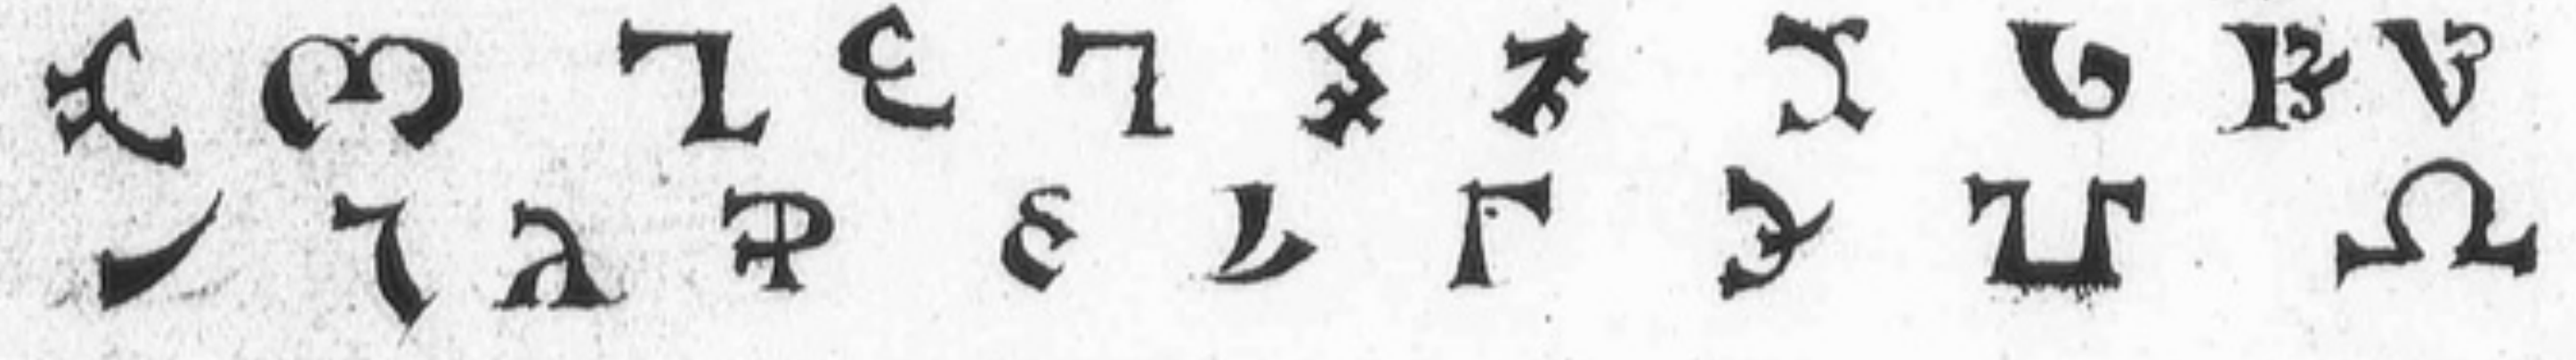
Amen

May 6: Monday, I went to London: and EK remayned ~~writing the Tables~~ attending the accomplishing of the promise, for the tables ending and for the perfect forme of the holy letters wayting: which two points when I cam home that after none, I found done. But it is to be Noted, that, when EK could not aptly imitate the forme of the Characters, or letters, as they were shewed: that then they appered drawn on his paper with a light yelow cullor, which he drew the blak uppon, and so the yelow cullor disapearing there remayned only the shape of the letter in blak. after this manner and in this quantitie and proportion.

Note



May 8. Wensday: After dynner hora circiter 4

the Bishop — Δ Being desyrous to finde all thinges on my part to be performed, and to seke the Company of EK going for the Bishop (before spoken of) and to be away 10 or 12 dayes: and for as much as the boke was to be written in 40 dayes before August next: and vncertayn of those dayes when they shold begynne. and allso for that I wold do all thinges (gladly) by warranty of counsayle of our Instructer, I was

The boke — desyrous to know whether the boke were to be written in paper or parchement: in what cullor the lynes were to be ruled, grene or blew &c. and of dyuerse other doutes, necessary to be dissolued, I was carefull to haue had some aduertisement. After long prayers of vs both, nothing was either seen nor herd. Then it cam in my hed to set furth the Stone.

Note the Stone. — EK. sayd, that assone as he loked into the stone, he saw there the Table, Chayre and three, com into the stone. Vriel sat down in the chayre: the other two, inclined theyr body to him reuerently: and then stode by; one on the one side of the chayre; the other, on the other side.

The shepe vnder the table. — The sydes of the Table cloth were turned vp, and a thing like an yong shepe, bigger then a lamb, appered vnder the table. Then they two did knele before Vriel and sayd Verus et Sanctus et sempiternus.

Δ Then they rose agayn. and they semed to haue talk, or conference together. and thereuppon Vriel sayd Vr — Be it so, bycause powre is given vnto him.

A Temptation permitted by God — EK. The Table, Chayre and all the ~~[illegible]~~ three do disapere: and thereuppon immediately appered in the stone a fayr Pallace: and out of the pallace cam a tall wellfauored man, very richely apparayled with a brave hat and a fether on his hed: and after him folowed a great number, all like courtiers. and this brave man sayd Man — How pitifull a thing is it, when the wise are deluded.

Δ — I smell the smoke; procede Syr, in your purpose.

Man — I come hither, for the desyre I haue to do the good.

Δ — Come you, or are you sent. Tell the truthe I charge the, in the name and by the powre of the æternall Trinitie.

Δ Note: After I perceyued evidently that it was a wicked tempter, who had powre permitted him at this instant, I began with some zeale and earnestnes to rebuke, and to charge him. But he stiffly and stowtely did contemne me a good while, mock me, and at length threaten to destroy me, my wife and children &c.

Δ Thereuppon made my ernest prayers to god agaynst this spirituall enemy: but he in the myddle of my prayers, sayed thus.

Man — As truely as the Lord liueth, all that is done, is lies

Δ That, thy sentence, will I record agaynst the; to be layde to thy charge at the dredfull day.

Δ After this great turmoyle past, was this voyce (folowing) hard of EK.

A voyce — Pereant tenebræ, cum Principe Tenebrarum

Δ All went suddenly out of sight, Prince and pallace and all
And the Chayre and Table and Vriel appeared agayne

Vr: — Arme your selues; for, great shall be the temptations folowing.
Temptations & hinderances — you shall be hindred, in all, that may be.

Δ — Nothing can hinder god his determined purposes.

Vr: — Man may hinder his owne saluation ~~104~~

Fullfill those things that are commanded.

The forme of the boke committed to my discretion — Forme, and write the boke after thyne own Iudgment. 105

God his determination is cast; Therfore putto your hands
More then hath byn sayd, and more plainely, cannot be vttred.
His works are true, for, and to the ende.

Δ Forasmuch as expedition is to be made for the erthes fatching, and divers other things: and we haue made assay to get an horse: But we could get none as we wold: And without somme better provision of mony then we haue, we cannot redress the case. Therfore, if it might pleas god, that of the ten places Noted, we might haue but the possession of the smallest of them, deliuered here, vnto vs, at this present, it might greatly pleasure vs.

Vr — Will these worldlings hold on in theyr iniquitie?

EK They pulle the leggs of the table away, and seme to carry all away in a bundell like a clowde. and so disapered vtterly.

Δ Hereuppon I was exceding sorrowfull: and betoke my self to a lamentable pang of prayer.

Δ After long prayer, appeared in the stone a thing like a Tunge all on fyre thus hanging downward and from it cam this voyce

Tung — Thow hast deliuered thy self into the desires of thy hart, and hast done that which is not Condemned.
Thow hast spoken iniquitie, and therfore dothe the veritie of Gods doings by vs, decay, in your wickedness.

Δ I dowt of the veritie of that tung.

Tung — Man (o God) beleueth him self in his own Imagination.
Therfore wipe our sinnes from the face of the erth
And Iustifie our doings, where we lawde and prayse the.

Δ I became now abashed of my former speche, and perceyued my Error: axed forgiuenes bitterly at the Lord his hand. and at length it was ~~an~~ sayde Tung — Do that, which is commanded, the Lord is just.

Δ O Lord, forgiue me my trespaces, and deale not with me according to Justice: for, then I, and all mankinde shall vtterly perish; vnleast thy mercy be our safegard, destruction is our desert.

Tung — It is forgiuen: but it shall be punished.

EK The Tung mounted vp toward heven, and he saw it in the ayre out and above the stone. above a hand bredth, mounting vpward

Δ — Thy Name be praysed, in æternitie, O God
Amen

Δ Hereuppon

[106.]

Δ. Hereuppon, I was in an exceding great hevines, and sorrow of mynde, and sundry tymes, bewayled my case to God: and promised a greater care hence-forward, of governing my tung: and consenting to no unlawfull or inconvenient desire of my hart: yea, to forbeare to accompany with my own wife, carnally; otherwise then by heavenly leave and permission; or uppon my protestation making in the harding of the contrary, that unles the Lord order and redress my cause, I shall be overcome: That, if I shall, so deliberately call for help, and notwithstanding be entrapped, that then, such trespace shall not be imputed unto me, as gladly, or greedily or willingly committed of me. &c.

May 9. Holy Thursday in the morning.

Δ Being desyrous (before E.K. his going down into the Contrey) to have som comfort and token of free forgivenes at Gods hands I brought furth the stone. Then I went into my Oratorie first requesting the Almighty God to respect the harty sorrowfull paynes which I had endured for my offenses; in to regard the desyres and intent of my better hede taking henceforward: &c. And prayed the 22 Psalm. in the conclusion of the prayer.

E.K. — One, all in white, appeareth in the stone, who sayde a forte Amaël — It is written: It is written: yea, it is written:

Even as the father his compassion is great over his yonglings and Children: So, is the abundance of thy mercy (O Lord) great and unspeakable to the Long offences and Sinnes of thy Servant. For, it is written, The Light of thy eyes have beheld those that feare thee: and those that trust in thy mercy, shall not be confounded.
Be it, what it was: And be you, what you were:
For, the Lord, is even the same, that he was, before:
But be you warned
Behold, my armes ar longer then my body, and I have eyes round abowt me: I am that, which of GOD pronounceth uppon you: Be it as I have sayde.

Misericordia Dei.

Δ Thereuppon he disapeered; and immediately, appeered Uriel, who sayd

URI — Actum est. Δ Then the other two, and the Table and Chayre, and the ancient furniture appeared, agayn restored, and more bewtifull, then in foretyme.

NOTE

URI — Thus, sayeth the Lord: Even as the Tabernacle which I restore, is ten times brighter then it was, So may your worthynes deserve brightnes ten tymes greater then this. The rising of synners doth greatly reioyce us [and] that he hath sayde, Do good unto those that feare me: and defend them, bycause they know my name. For in Justice, they

Justice they shall finde me their God: & in mercy their great Comforter. Therfore we say, In thy name (O thou most highest) fiat. 107 fiat.

Justifie not your self:
Be Humble and diligent:
Continue to the Ende. For great is the reward of them that feare the Lorde stedfastly.

The boke.

Δ Whereas the ordering of the boke is referred to my iudgment: in my mynde it semeth requisite, that as all the writing and reding of that holy Language is from the right hand to the left, So the begynning of the boke must be (as it were, in respect of our most usuall manner of bokes, in all Languages of Latin, greke, english &c) at the ende of the boke: and the ende, at the begynning, as in the hebrew bible. Secondly the first leaf can not be written in such little and equall squares, as ~~the~~ all the rest of the 47 leaves are: bycause, the first leaf, except 9 lines (of the second page) therof: is all of words: some conteyning many letters, and some few, very diversly: Wherfore, I entend to make many lines, so to distinguish the 49 voices of the first leaf: and at the ende of every word to drawe a line of partition, up and down, betwene the two next parallell lines. &c. or as shall come in my mynde then.

Note

URI — He, that sayeth, DO this, directeth thy Judgment.

E.K. Now is there a veale drawen before all: and all things appere far bewtifuller then ever they did.

Δ I rendred thanks to the highest, and became in mynde very ioyfull, that the Lord had pardoned my offenses: whose name be praysed, extolled and magnifyed world without ende. Amen.

Δ I prayed after this the short Psalme Jubilate Deo quotquot in terra versamini &c.

E.K. immediately was to take bote and so to go to London: to buy a saddell, brydle, and bote hose: for he had (here) yesterday, bought a prety dun Mare, of Goodman Pentecost: for iij li, redy mony, [illegible]

Thursday. May 23. Circa 10½ mane. (108)

Δ EK being come home yesterday ~~[illegible]~~ agayne & having the erthes of the seven places before specified: We being desirous to understand the use thereof; and in other matters pertayning to our actions in hand: I made prayer to such intent, both in my oratory & at my desk, rendring thanks for EK his safe returne, and for the benefit receyved of late of the Governor and assistants for the Mines Royall, (which I perceyved, was the extraordinary working of God, that inward perswasion, being of them very unwilling so to let the lease, as I desyred it:) and making somwhat touching Albert Lasky. At length, EK heard a Melody a far of, and the voyce of many, singing, these wordes

The Book of Enoch
revealed to Dr. John Dee
by the Angels.

This writing begining (not at [Arney vahry] but) at Oxar vasmos &c is 2.
the 2d Page of the first Leaf of the famous Book shown in the Stone, wch consists of 49. lines or Rows. ~~&~~ every Row of 49. words or Letters. The first 40. of this Page have a word in every little square. wch could not wel be contained in the little Cells of a square table in this Book — & Therefore they are writ thus at large as you see.

But the 9. last Rows of this Page had but one Letter a piece, & are accordingly set down at the end hereof — pag. 5.

All the other Leaves of that Book had but a single Letter in each little square. & so they are set down, as hereafter follows in this Book — Vide l. 5. MS. pag. 142. 143. &c.

The first Page of that first Leaf is not (as ~~this ought~~ it ought to be) are transcribed here before this 2d Page, save only the 49. or last Row begining (Arney vah. &c) But they may be seen (if thought fit) copied out thence in l. 5to MS. p. 150. 151 &c.

Conciliation

To the Second —— Δ — Conciliation, you meane:
Mi. — The Table is an Instrument of Conciliation. And so are those other 7 Characters, which you call by the Name of Tables: Engraved out in the forme of Armes: which are proper to every King, and Prince, according to their order.

Note to the Last —— Δ — As concerning the ende & Ministeriall Operation — Mi — It onely consisteth in the Mercy of God, & the Characters of those bokes. Thou Set downe the Kings, and their Princes, in a Table, as they followe them: with their letters backwards (excepting their Bes) from the right hand to the left. Let Bobogel be the first, and Bornogo his Prince. Thou Δ — Note, how it may appere that Butmono is Prince to Bynepor, and Blisdon, prince to King Bnaspol.

Δ. Note
Δ — So, in my Character or Lamyne of Dignification: are all the names of the 7 Kings, and of the 7 Princes, perfectly as in the great Table, (called otherwise ~~tab~~ Mensa foederis) the Bes, onely, (being the first letter common to them all) kept back, in memory.

De sigillo Aemeth; alias, vocato Sigillo Dei.

Michael — I will shew thee, in the mighty hand and strength of God, what this Mysteries are: The true Circle of his Aeternitie: comprehending all Vertue: The Whole and Sacred Trinitie: Oh holy be he: Oh Holy be he: Oh holy be he.

Δ — Veri and veri, Amen.

Mich — Now, what wilt thou? —— Δ — I wold fayne procede according to the Matter in hand.

Mich — Divide this Outward Circle into 40 equall partes: whose greatest Numbers are 4. See thou do it presently — Δ I did so. Dividing it first into 4; and then every of them, into 10.

Michael 1582. Martij. 19.

Δ — He called one by name Semiel. One came in, and kneled down: and great fyre, came out of his mouth, Michael sayd, To him are the Mysteries of these Tables knowen. Michael sayd, Semiel (agayne) and he by & by answered, O God thou hast sayde, and thou livest for ever. This Semiel stode up and flaming fyre came out of his mouth, and than he sayde, as followeth.

Semiel — Mighty Lord, what wold thou with the Table?
Michael — It is the will of God, thou fetch them hither.
Sem — I am his Table. Behold, these are his Tables, Lo where they are.
Δ. There came in 40 White Creatures, all in white Silk long robes; And they

they like Children. And all they, falling on their knees, sayde:
Thou onely, art Holy among the Highest: O God, thy Name be blessed for ever.
Δ — Michael stode up out of his Chayre: and by & by, all his body semed to be like two great Pillers of Brasse: his hed as high, as I cold see to Heven. And by and by, his Swords was all on fyre: And he stroke or drew his Swoord over all these 40 their hed. The Earth quaked. And the 40 fell downe. And Michael Semiel with a thundring voyce: and sayde, Declare the Mystery of the living God: our God: of One that liveth for ever.

Sem — I am ready.
Δ — Michael stroke over them with his Swoord: and they all fell downe and Uriel allso on his knees. And commonly at the striking with the Swoorde, flaming fyre, like lightening, did flash with all.
Michael — Note, Here is a Mysterie.
Δ — Then stept furth, One of these 40, from the rest: & opened his brest, which was covered with Sylk, and there appeared a great T all of Gold.
Michael — Note the number —— Δ — over the T, stode the Number of 4 on this fashion $\overset{4}{T}$
Δ — The 40, all, cryed; He liveth, and Multiplieth for ever: Blessed be his Name.
Δ — That Creature did shut up his ~~brest~~ bosome, and vanished away like a fyre.
Michael — Place that, in the first place: It is the Name of God.
Δ — Then there semed a great Clap of thunder to be:

And so forth: And note that the whole Second boke is Nothing els but the Mysteries most Mervaylous of Sigillum Dei: otherwise called Sigillum Aemeth. whereof here I did but lende a litle admonishment.

Note further, Almost all the Third boke, was of the 7 Ensignes of Creation. whereof mention was here before made.

Δ — The Chayre was brought in agayne: and I asked what it ment.
Uriel — This is a Seat of perfection: from which, Things shall be shewed unto thee, which thou hast long desyred.
Δ — Then was a square Table brought into the Stone: and I demanded, what that Table betokened.
Uriel — A Mysterie not yet to be knowen. These two shall remayne in this stone, to the sight of all undefyled Creatures.

The Enochian Cleansing Bath Ritual

Step 1:

Take a hot shower to get the dirt off of your body.

Step 2:

Run a warm bath and add some bath salts or epsom salts and some nicely scented oil or perfume.

Step 3:

Get in the water and soak for a few minutes, making sure you slowly splash water on the upper part of your body. Now, feel all of your problems, worries and negativity going into the water.

Step 4:

Pull the plug and let the water drain "while you stay in the water." As the water slowly drains, you will feel all the negative things which were troubling you go down the drain with the water. "REMAIN IN THE TUB UNTIL ALL THE WATER IS GONE."

Step 5:

Get out of the tub and allow your body to AIR DRY. (If you are pressed for time, you may dry off with a clean, fresh towel. However, "air-drying" is more beneficial.)

Step 6:

While "air-drying" meditate on the upcoming ritual you are going to perform.

Step 7:

When "DRY" wrap your body in a towel or a clean robe and then proceed to the altar area. Since you will performing this ritual alone, immediately discard the towel or robe.

Step 8:

Sit down in the chair and relax for a few moments. Once you feel totally relaxed and comfortable proceed with the Enochian Seven-Fold Breath Ritual.

The Enochian Closing Ritual #1

Step 1:

Stand and face the North. Touch your forehead with your right index finger and say:

ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 2:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 3:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 4:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 5:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID

(Pah-ee-deh).

Step 6:

Pick up the Wand from the Altar with your right hand. Turn to the East, trace the yellow Banishing Pentagram of Air before you with the Wand, and say:

EXARP (Ehtz-ar-peh):

Step 7:

Turn to the South, trace the red Banishing Pentagram of Fire before you with the Wand, and say: BITOM (Bee-toh-meh):

Step 8:

Turn to the West, trace the Blue Banishing Pentagram of Water before you with the Wand, and say: HCOMA (Heh-koh-mah):

Step 9:

Turn to the North, trace the Black Banishing Pentagram of Earth before you with the Wand, and say: NANTA (Nah-en-tah):

Step 10:

Still facing the North, extend your arms outward in the form of a cross, with the Wand pointing straight up in the right hand, and say:

Before me ICZHICAL (Ee-keh-zeh-hee-kah-leh)

Behind me EDLPRNAA (Eh-deh-leh-peh-reh-nah-ah)

On my right BATAIVAH (Bah-tah-ee-vah-heh)

On my left RAAGIOSL (Rah-ah-gee-oh-seh-leh)

Behold the four Flaming Pentagrams

And I alone in the midst.

Step 11:

Replace the Wand on the Altar.

Step 12:

Still facing North, touch your forehead with your right index finger and say:

ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 13:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 14:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 15:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 16:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID

(Pah-ee-deh).

Step 17:

Stand quietly for several minutes to feel the energy you have just put into action.

Step 18:

Stand in the center of the Magick Circle.

Step 19:

Turn to the East. Raise both arms towards the heavens, and say:

"In the Name of ORO-IBAH-AOZPI (Oh-roh Ee-bah-heh Ah-oh-zeh-pee), the Three-Fold Spirit of the Watchtower of the East, let each of you return unto his place; be there peace between me and you, and be you ready to come when you are next called."

Step 20:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the South, and say:

"In the Name of OIP-TEAA-PDOKE (Oh-ee-peh Teh-ah-ah Peh-doh-keh), the Three-Fold Spirit of the Watchtower of the South, let each of you return unto his place; be there peace between me and you, and be you ready to come when you are next called."

Step 21:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the West, and say:

"In the Name of MPH-ARSL-GAIOL (Meh-peh-heh Ah-reh-seh-leh Gah-ee-oh-leh), the Three-Fold Spirit of the Watchtower of the West, let each of you return unto his place; be there peace between me and you, and be you ready to come when you are next called."

Step 22:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the North, and say:

"In the Name of MOR-DIAL-HKTGA (Moh-reh Dee-ah-leh Heh-keh-teh-gah), the Three-Fold Spirit of the Watchtower of the North, let each of you return unto his place; be there peace between me and you, and be you ready to come when you are next called."

Step 23:

Still facing North, with your arms raised towards the heavens, say:

"The Ritual is ended. This Temple is Duly Closed!"

The Enochian Closing Ritual #2

Step 1:

Face your Altar. Pick up your Wand with your right hand. Stand with your feet together, your left arm down at your side and your right arm across your body holding your Wand upright in front of you.

Step 2:

Turn to the East and say: IVITDT (Ee-veh-ee-teh-deh-teh) while tracing a Yellow Banishing Hexagram of Air before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.):

Then say:

"Behold the Burning Flames of Truth
the consume sorrow, sin and death."

Step 3:

Turn to the South and say: ZTZTZT (Zeh-teh-zeh-teh-zeh-teh) while tracing the Red Banishing Hexagram of Fire before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.)

Then say:

"Behold, the Way of Love is to Sacrifice All into the Cup."

Step 4:

Turn to the West and say: IVITDT (Ee-veh-ee-teh-deh-teh) while tracing the Blue Banishing Hexagram of Water before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.)

Then say:

"Behold, the Burning Flames of Truth that consume sorrow, sin and death."

Step 5:

Turn to the North and say: ZTZTZT (Zeh-teh-zeh-teh-zeh-teh) while tracing the Black Banishing Hexagram of Earth before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.).

Then say:

"Behold, the Way of Love is to Sacrifice All into the Cup."

Step 6:

While still facing North, extend your arms outward to your sides to form a cross. The Wand should be pointing straight up in your right hand. Then say:

Step 30:

Still facing North, with your arms raised towards the heavens, say:

"The Ritual is ended. This Temple is Duly Closed!"

The Enochian Invocation Of The Light Ritual

Step 0:

Perform the Enochian Cleansing Bath Ritual; the Enochian Seven-Fold Breath Ritual; and the Enochian Relaxation Ritual.

Step 1:

Stand erect, feet shoulder-width apart. Lift your arms straight above your head. Close your eyes and focus them on the space between your eyebrows. Say the following with all the determination and resolve possible:

I AM CREATED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SUSTAINED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM PROTECTED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SURROUNDED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM ALWAYS GROWING INTO THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

Step 2:

Use your imagination and creative visualization to see yourself standing in a shower of brilliant white light. See the Light pouring down upon you -- into your body through the top of your head -- and filling your entire being.

Step 3:

Lower your arms slowly to the sides of your body. Concentrate on feeling a warm glow of Light suffuse your entire body -- outside as well as inside. Say the following:

"Every atom of this, my physical body, is filled with the Light. Every level of my consciousness is illuminated with the Light. The Light penetrates every single atom of my being, every level of consciousness. I have become a channel of Pure Light. I am One with the Light."

Step 4:

Stand quietly for several minutes and bask in the warmth of the Light. Meditate upon the Light. Be receptive to the Light and accept that your are now a channel of Divine Light. Merge yourself into the source of the Light and become one with the Light.

Step 5:

Stand quietly for several minutes and feel the energy of the Light pulsing throughout your entire body.

Step 6:

Sit down cross-legged in the center of your altar area and meditate quietly on your purpose for conducting this ritual, and the results you are seeking to obtain. When you have this securely in your mind, proceed with the Enochian Tarot Contemplation Ritual.

The Enochian License To Depart #1

Step 1:

Stand in the center of the Magick Circle.

Step 2:

Turn to the East. Raise both arms towards the heavens, and say:

"In the Name of ORO-IBAH-AOZPI (Oh-roh Ee-bah-heh Ah-oh-zeh-pee), the Three-Fold Spirit of the Watchtower of the East, let each of you return unto his place; be there peace between me and you, and be you ready to come when you are next called."

Step 3:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the South, and say:

"In the Name of OIP-TEAA-PDOKE (Oh-ee-peh Teh-ah-ah Peh-doh-keh), the Three-Fold Spirit of the Watchtower of the South, let each of you return unto his place; be there peace between me and you, and be you ready to come when you are next called."

Step 4:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the West, and say:

"In the Name of MPH-ARSL-GAIOL (Meh-peh-heh Ah-reh-seh-leh Gah-ee-oh-leh), the Three-Fold Spirit of the Watchtower of the West, let each of you return unto his place; be there peace between me and you, and be you ready to come when you are next called."

Step 5:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the North, and say:

"In the Name of MOR-DIAL-HKTGA (Moh-reh Dee-ah-leh Heh-keh-teh-gah), the Three-Fold Spirit of the Watchtower of the North, let each of you return unto his place; be there peace between me and you, and be you ready to come when you are next called."

Step 6:

Still facing North, with your arms raised towards the heavens, say:

"The Ritual is ended. This Temple is Duly Closed!"

The Enochian License To Depart #2

Step 0:

Face the Altar and light some fresh incense in the censure.

Step 1:

Move to the center of the Magick Circle.

Step 2:

Turn to the East. Raise both arms towards the heavens, and say:

"By the virtue of the Seven Unpronounceable Names of God, and because you have been obedient, and have obeyed the commandments of the Eternal Creator, feel and inhale this grateful odour, and afterwards depart you unto your abodes and retreats; be there peace between me and you; be you ever ready to come when you shall be cited and called; therefore, you shall be obedient and prompt to come unto me without solemn rites and observances on my part. May the blessings of God be upon you always."

Step 3:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the South, and say:

"By the virtue of the Seven Unpronounceable Names of God, and because you have been obedient, and have obeyed the commandments of the Eternal Creator, feel and inhale this grateful odor, and afterwards depart you unto your abodes and retreats; be there peace between me and you; be you ever ready to come when you shall be cited and called; therefore, you shall be obedient and prompt to come unto me without solemn rites and observances on my part. May the blessings of God be upon you always."

Step 4:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the West, and say:

"By the virtue of the Seven Unpronounceable Names of God, and because you have been obedient, and have obeyed the commandments of the Eternal Creator, feel and inhale this grateful odor, and afterwards depart you unto your abodes and retreats; be there peace between me and you; be you ever ready to come when you shall be cited and called; therefore, you shall be obedient and prompt to come unto me without solemn rites and observances on my part. May the blessings of God be upon you always."

Step 5:

With arms still raised towards the heavens, turn to the North, and say:

"By the virtue of the Seven Unpronounceable Names of God, and because you have been obedient, and have obeyed the commandments of the Eternal Creator, feel and inhale this grateful odor, and afterwards depart you unto your abodes and retreats; be there peace between me and you; be you ever ready to come when you shall be cited and called; therefore, you shall be obedient and prompt to come unto me without solemn rites and observances on my part. May the blessings of God be upon you always."

Step 6:

Still facing North, with your arms raised towards the heavens, say:

"The Ritual is ended. This Temple is Duly Closed!"

The Enochian Opening Ritual # 3

Step 1:

Light the main Altar candles and the incense. Then leave the Temple area and perform the Enochian Cleansing Bath Ritual.

Step 2:

Take a hot shower to get the dirt off of your body.

Step 3:

Run a warm bath and add some bath salts or epsom salts and some nicely scented oil or perfume.

Step 4:

Get in the water and soak for a few minutes, making sure you slowly splash water on the upper part of your body. Now, feel all of your problems, worries and negativity going into the water.

Step 5:

Pull the plug and let the water drain "while you stay in the water." As the water slowly drains, you will feel all the negative things which were troubling you go down the drain with the water. "REMAIN IN THE TUB UNTIL ALL THE WATER IS GONE."

Step 6:

Get out of the tub and allow your body to AIR DRY. (If you are pressed for time, you may dry off with a clean, fresh towel. However, "air-drying" is more beneficial.)

Step 7:

While "air-drying" meditate on the upcoming ritual you are going to perform.

Step 8:

When "DRY" wrap your body in a towel or a clean robe and then proceed to the altar area. Since you will performing this ritual alone, immediately discard the towel or robe.

Step 9:

Sit down in the chair and relax for a few moments. Once you feel totally relaxed and comfortable proceed with the Seven-Fold Breath Ritual.

Step 10:

Sit in the chair in your altar area and place your feet flat on the floor and your hands in your lap.

Step 11:

Empty the lungs and remain thus while counting to 7.

Step 12:

Inhale, counting to 7 so that you feel filled with breath to the throat.

Step 13:

Hold this breath while counting to 7.

Step 14:

Exhale, counting to 7 till the lungs are empty.

Step 15:

Repeat steps 11, 12, 13, and 14 consecutively until done fifteen (15) times.

Step 16:

Once you have completed the above, proceed with the Enochian Relaxation Ritual.

Step 17:

While still sitting in the chair, make sure that your feet are flat on the floor and that your legs are not crossed. Rest your hands, palms down, in your lap. Your eyes should be closed.

Step 18:

Visualize a golden ball of beautiful, warm light surrounding your feet. The ball of golden warm light brings peace and total relaxation. Wherever the ball of light goes, tension departs. Let it go, and as it goes, feel your feet filled with the warm, golden glow of peace and total relaxation.

Step 19:

Now, allow this ball of light to rise up your legs and up your torso. Then allow it to go down your arms to your fingers, and finally up your neck and into your head until you are completely covered with the warm, golden glow of total peace and relaxation, and all tension is gone. If you notice tension anywhere, send the ball of light there and the tension will vanish.

Step 20:

Stay in this state of total peace and deep relaxation for five (5) to ten (10) minutes.

Step 21:

When you are ready to come out of this state of deep relaxation, take seven (7) deep breaths and feel fresh life and energy coming into your body with each breath.

Step 22:

Once you have completed the above, remove the chair from your altar area and proceed with the Enochian Invocation Of The Light Ritual.

Step 23:

Stand erect, feet shoulder-width apart. Lift your arms straight above your head. Close your eyes and focus them on the space between your eyebrows. Say the following with all the determination and resolve possible:

I AM CREATED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SUSTAINED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

Step 28:

Sit down cross-legged in the center of your altar area and meditate quietly on your purpose for conducting this ritual, and the results you are seeking to obtain. When you have this securely in your mind, proceed with the Enochian Banishing Pentagram Ritual.

Step 29:

Stand up and face the North. Touch your forehead with your right index finger and say: ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 30:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 31:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 32:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 33:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

Step 34:

Pick up the Wand from the Altar with your right hand. Turn to the East, trace the yellow Banishing Pentagram of Air before you with the Wand, and say: EXARP (Ehtz-ar-peh):

On my left RAAGIOSL (Rah-ah-gee-oh-seh-leh)

Behold the four Flaming Pentagrams

And I alone in the midst.

Step 39:

Replace the Wand on the Altar.

Step 40:

Still facing North, touch your forehead with your right index finger and say: ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 41:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 42:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 43:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 44:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

Step 45:

Stand quietly for several minutes to feel the energy you have just put into action. Perform the Enochian Banishing Hexagram Ritual.

Step 46:

Face your Altar. Pick up your Wand with your right hand. Stand with your feet together, your left arm down at your side and your right arm across your body holding your Wand upright in front of you.

Step 47:

Turn to the East and say: IVITDT (Ee-veh-ee-teh-deh-teh) while tracing a Yellow Banishing Hexagram of Air before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.):

Then say:

"Behold the Burning Flames of Truth

the consume sorrow, sin and death."

Step 48:

Turn to the South and say: ZTZTZT (Zeh-teh-zeh-teh-zeh-teh) while tracing the Red Banishing Hexagram of Fire before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.)

Then say:

"Behold, the Way of Love is to Sacrifice All into the Cup."

Step 49:

Turn to the West and say: IVITDT (Ee-veh-ee-teh-deh-teh) while tracing the Blue Banishing Hexagram of Water before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.)

Then say:

"Behold, the Burning Flames of Truth

that consume sorrow, sin and death."

Step 50:

Turn to the North and say: ZTZTZT (Zeh-teh-zeh-teh-zeh-teh) while tracing the Black Banishing Hexagram of Earth before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.).

Then say:

"Behold, the Way of Love is to Sacrifice All into the Cup."

Step 51:

While still facing North, extend your arms outward to your sides to form a cross. The Wand should be pointing straight up in your right hand. Then say:

Before Me MOR-DIAL-HKTGA (Moh-reh Dee-ah-leh Heh-keh-teh-gah)

Behind Me OIP-TEAA-PDOKE (Oh-ee-peh The-ah-ah Peh-doh-keh)

On My Right ORO-IBAH-AOZPI (Oh-roh Ee-bah-heh Ah-oh-zeh-pee)

On My Left MPH-ARSL-GAIOL (Meh-peh-heh Ah-reh-seh-leh Gah-ee-oh-leh)

Then say:

"Above me and below me,

My Magickal Universe,

And behold, I alone

in the midst."

Step 52:

While still facing the North, replace the Wand on the Altar. Relax your arms and hold them down to your sides. Stand quietly for several minutes with your eyes closed and feel the energy that you have just put into action.

Step 53:

PERFORM YOUR DESIRED INTENTIONS.

The Enochian Opening Ritual # 5

Step 1:

Light the main Altar candles and the incense. Then leave the Temple area and perform the Enochian Cleansing Bath Ritual.

Step 2:

Take a hot shower to get the dirt off of your body.

Step 3:

Run a warm bath and add some bath salts or epsom salts and some nicely scented oil or perfume.

Step 4:

Get in the water and soak for a few minutes, making sure you slowly splash water on the upper part of your body. Now, feel all of your problems, worries and negativity going into the water.

Step 5:

Pull the plug and let the water drain "while you stay in the water." As the water slowly drains, you will feel all the negative things which were troubling you go down the drain with the water. "REMAIN IN THE TUB UNTIL ALL THE WATER IS GONE."

Step 6:

Get out of the tub and allow your body to AIR DRY. (If you are pressed for time, you may dry off with a clean, fresh towel. However, "air-drying" is more beneficial.)

Step 7:

While "air-drying" meditate on the upcoming ritual you are going to perform.

Step 8:

When "DRY" wrap your body in a towel or a clean robe and then proceed to the altar area. Since you will performing this ritual alone, immediately discard the towel or robe.

Step 9:

Sit down in the chair and relax for a few moments. Once you feel totally relaxed and comfortable proceed with the Seven-Fold Breath Ritual.

Step 10:

Sit in the chair in your altar area and place your feet flat on the floor and your hands in your lap.

Step 11:

Empty the lungs and remain thus while counting to 7.

Step 12:

Inhale, counting to 7 so that you feel filled with breath to the throat.

Step 13:

Hold this breath while counting to 7.

Step 14:

Exhale, counting to 7 till the lungs are empty.

Step 15:

Repeat steps 11, 12, 13, and 14 consecutively until done fifteen (15) times.

Step 16:

Once you have completed the above, proceed with the Enochian Relaxation Ritual.

Step 17:

While still sitting in the chair, make sure that your feet are flat on the floor and that your legs are not crossed. Rest your hands, palms down, in your lap. Your eyes should be closed.

Step 18:

Visualize a golden ball of beautiful, warm light surrounding your feet. The ball of golden warm light brings peace and total relaxation. Wherever the ball of light goes, tension departs. Let it go, and as it goes, feel your feet filled with the warm, golden glow of peace and total relaxation.

Step 19:

Now, allow this ball of light to rise up your legs and up your torso. Then allow it to go down your arms to your fingers, and finally up your neck and into your head until you are completely covered with the warm, golden glow of total peace and relaxation, and all tension is gone. If you notice tension anywhere, send the ball of light there and the tension will vanish.

Step 20:

Stay in this state of total peace and deep relaxation for five (5) to ten (10) minutes.

Step 21:

When you are ready to come out of this state of deep relaxation, take seven (7) deep breaths and feel fresh life and energy coming into your body with each breath.

Step 22:

Once you have completed the above, remove the chair from your altar area and proceed with the Enochian Invocation Of The Light Ritual.

Step 23:

Stand erect, feet shoulder-width apart. Lift your arms straight above your head. Close your eyes and focus them on the space between your eyebrows. Say the following with all the determination and resolve possible:

I AM CREATED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SUSTAINED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM PROTECTED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SURROUNDED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM ALWAYS GROWING INTO THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

Step 24:

Use your imagination and creative visualization to see yourself standing in a shower of brilliant white light. See the Light pouring down upon you -- into your body through the top of your head -- and filling your entire being.

Step 25:

Lower your arms slowly to the sides of your body. Concentrate on feeling a warm glow of Light suffuse your entire body -- outside as well as inside. Say the following:

"Every atom of this, my physical body, is filled with the Light. Every level of my consciousness is illuminated with the Light. The Light penetrates every single atom of my being, every level of consciousness. I have become a channel of Pure Light. I am One with the Light."

Step 26:

Stand quietly for several minutes and bask in the warmth of the Light. Meditate upon the Light. Be receptive to the Light and accept that your are now a channel of Divine Light. Merge yourself into the source of the Light and become one with the Light.

Step 27:

Stand quietly for several minutes and feel the energy of the Light pulsing throughout your entire body.

Step 28:

Sit down cross-legged in the center of your altar area and meditate quietly on your purpose for conducting this ritual, and the results you are seeking to obtain. When you have this securely in your mind, proceed with the Enochian Banishing Pentagram Ritual.

Step 29:

Stand up and face the North. Touch your forehead with your right index finger and say: ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 30:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 31:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 32:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 33:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

Step 34:

Pick up the Wand from the Altar with your right hand. Turn to the East, trace the yellow Banishing Pentagram of Air before you with the Wand, and say: EXARP (Ehtz-ar-peh):

Step 35:

Turn to the South, trace the red Banishing Pentagram of Fire before you with the Wand, and say: BITOM (Bee-toh-meh):

Step 36:

Turn to the West, trace the Blue Banishing Pentagram of Water before you with the Wand, and say: HCOMA (Heh-koh-mah):

Step 37:

Turn to the North, trace the Black Banishing Pentagram of Earth before you with the Wand, and say: NANTA (Nah-en-tah):

Step 38:

Still facing the North, extend your arms outward in the form of a cross, with the Wand pointing straight up in the right hand, and say:

Before me ICZHICAL (Ee-keh-zeh-hee-kah-leh)
Behind me EDLPRNAA (Eh-deh-leh-peh-reh-nah-ah)
On my right BATAIVAH (Bah-tah-ee-vah-heh)
On my left RAAGIOSL (Rah-ah-gee-oh-seh-leh)
Behold the four Flaming Pentagrams
And I alone in the midst.

Step 39:

Replace the Wand on the Altar.

Step 40:

Still facing North, touch your forehead with your right index finger and say: ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 41:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 42:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 43:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 44:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

Step 45:

Stand quietly for several minutes to feel the energy you have just put into action.

Step 46:

Face your Altar. Pick up your Wand with your right hand. Stand with your feet together, your left arm down at your side and your right arm across your body holding your Wand upright in front of you.

Step 47:

Turn to the East and say: IVITDT (Ee-veh-ee-teh-deh-teh) while tracing a Yellow Banishing Hexagram of Air before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.):

Then say:

"Behold the Burning Flames of Truth
the consume sorrow, sin and death."

Step 48:

Turn to the South and say: ZTZTZT (Zeh-teh-zeh-teh-zeh-teh) while tracing the Red Banishing Hexagram of Fire before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.)

Then say:

"Behold, the Way of Love is to Sacrifice All into the Cup."

Step 49:

Turn to the West and say: IVITDT (Ee-veh-ee-teh-deh-teh) while tracing the Blue Banishing Hexagram of Water before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.)

Then say:

"Behold, the Burning Flames of Truth that consume sorrow, sin and death."

Step 50:

Turn to the North and say: ZTZTZT (Zeh-teh-zeh-teh-zeh-teh) while tracing the Black Banishing Hexagram of Earth before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.).

Then say:

"Behold, the Way of Love is to Sacrifice All into the Cup."

Step 51:

While still facing North, extend your arms outward to your sides to form a cross. The Wand should be pointing straight up in your right hand. Then say:

Before Me MOR-DIAL-HKTGA (Moh-reh Dee-ah-leh Heh-keh-teh-gah)

Behind Me OIP-TEAA-PDOKE (Oh-ee-peh The-ah-ah Peh-doh-keh)

On My Right ORO-IBAH-AOZPI (Oh-roh Ee-bah-heh Ah-oh-zeh-pee)

On My Left MPH-ARSL-GAIOL (Meh-peh-heh Ah-reh-seh-leh Gah-ee-oh-leh)

Then say:

"Above me and below me,

My Magickal Universe,

And behold, I alone

in the midst."

Step 52:

While still facing the North, replace the Wand on the Altar. Relax your arms and hold them down to your sides. Stand quietly for several minutes with your eyes closed and feel the energy that you have just put into action. Perform the Enochian Invoking Pentagram Ritual.

Step 53:

While still facing the North. Touch your forehead with your right index finger and say: ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 54:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 55:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 56:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 57:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

Step 58:

Pick up the Wand from the Altar with your right hand. Turn to the East, trace the Yellow Invoking Pentagram of Air before you with the Wand, and say: EXARP (Ehtz-ar-peh):

Step 59:

Turn to the South, trace the Red Invoking Pentagram of Fire before you with the Wand, and say: BITOM (Bee-toh-meh):

Step 60:

Turn to the West, trace the Blue Invoking Pentagram of Water before you with the Wand, and say: HCOMA (Heh-koh-mah):

Step 61:

Behold, the four Flaming Pentagrams
And I alone in the midst.

Step 63:

Replace the Wand on the Altar.

Step 64:

Still facing North, touch your forehead with your right index finger and say: ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 65:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 66:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 67:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 68:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

in the midst."

Step 77:

While still facing the North, replace the Wand on the Altar. Relax your arms and hold them down to your sides. Stand quietly for several minutes with your eyes closed and feel the energy that you have just put into action.

Step 78:

PERFORM YOUR DESIRED INTENTIONS.

Reincarnation Ritual

INTRODUCTION. This operation, if properly conducted, will allow you to experience the general states of consciousness encountered during the transition period between death from one life, and birth into the next life. It includes eight distinct stages of consciousness, four in the direction of the spiritual plane through the four Watchtowers, and four in a return descent back toward the physical plane. The upward ascent is governed by the goddess Alobabn (especially in her aspect of Nephthys, Egyptian goddess of dispersion). The downward descent is governed by Abalobn (especially in her aspect of Isis, the Egyptian goddess of fruitful manifestation). Together, these two goddesses (known in Egypt as the Uraius Goddesses) direct the birth and birth processes under the god Osiris. This magical operation consists of traveling in the Spirit Vision through the four Watchtowers. The first four locations represent the normal transition experienced by consciousness after death of the physical body. The second four locations represent the normal transition experienced by consciousness prior to rebirth in a new physical body.

PREPARATIONS. Initial preparations are left to the student. It is suggested that you sit comfortably facing North. You may want to construct and consecrate a circle to work within. In any case, this operation assumes a high degree in magical attainment, and the ability to travel in the Body of Light is prerequisite.

STEP 1. Enter your Body of Light and travel to the Square L of MSAL in the subquadrant Fire of Earth.

Comment. This Square contains the dangerous Archangel, ALMSA, the deadly Angel LMSA, and the terrible feminine Demon ALM. All of these are dangerous and deadly to physical matter. Their nature, like that of the ruling goddess Alobabn (Nephthys), is to reduce all aggregates into their constituent parts. If you are attached to worldly things, then this Square will bring pain and suffering. The atmosphere pervading this region is one of death and destruction. LMSA is usually seen carrying a huge Sword which he uses to sever the Silver Cord that attaches consciousness to the physical body. You must not allow him to cut your own Silver Cord.

STEP 2. Travel to the Square N of XPKN in the subquadrant Fire of Water.

Comment. This Square continues the theme of death. Here you will confront the mighty Archangel ANXPK, the destructive Angel NXPK, and the powerful Demon ANX. The atmosphere here purges emotions of all kinds. Emotions, especially desires and fears, will be confronted here in great intensity until they finally loose their meaning. The processes within this Square are somewhat similar to those of the Kama-Loka of Theosophy. NXPK usually carries a heavy Sword which he uses to hack the astral body until no emotions are left intact. You must command NXPK to let you pass unharmed.

STEP 3. Travel to the second Square A of AKKA in the subquadrant Fire of Air.

Comment. This Square contains the Archangel PAAKK who binds up those who enter here into isolated shells (a condensation of the outer surface of the aura). The Angel AAKK causes the unfulfilled desires of all who enter here to be seen, reflected in great detail on the inner surface of the auric shell. Together these ruling deities cause a state of intense reflectivity, a reliving of pleasant past experiences. Those who enter here become absorbed in vivid dreams. The Demon PAA will encourage you to pamper your ego as much as possible. This often leads to dreams of being a hero/heroine, possessed of great wealth, and so on, depending on your unfulfilled desires. This processes within this Square are similar to the early stages of the devachan of theosophy. You must command PAAKK and AAKK to let you pass through this region safely.

STEP 4. Travel to the Square E of ADRE in the subquadrant Fire of Fire.

Comment. Here you will confront the Archangel MEADR who sits in final judgement of those who enter here after death. The Angel EADR is his advisor, and his advice is always the result of understanding and wisdom. The feminine Demon MEA will tempt you to regret your past actions and words, and lead you to sorrow and guilt if she can. In this region, the past life is assimilated, and lessons learned are stored in the causal body. It is similar to the latter stages of the devachan of theosophy. You will need to command MEA to stand clear and remain silent until you pass safely through this region.

STEP 5. Transfer within the Watchtower of Fire to the Square R of RGAN in the subquadrant Earth of Fire.

Comment. In this Square you will meet the fiery Archangel ORGAN, the ravaging Angel RGAN, and the perverted Demon ORG. The atmosphere of this Square is charged with determination. One who is here will soon become determined to return to the physical plane, to right past wrongs, and to try to improve himself or herself (consciousness in this Square is not especially sexually oriented). RGAN helps you to see yourself as you really are, without self-deception. ORG often suggests that one make sacrifices that are not really necessary and he will have to be controlled while you pass through this region.

STEP 6. Travel to the Square S of SHAL in the subquadrant Earth of Air.

Comment. Here you will confront RSHAL, the Archangel who must always be obeyed. One who confronts RSHAL is committed to reincarnating. The Angel SHAL will also come before you as an agent of karmic retribution. The Demon RSH will cause you to forget your past lives so that you can give your full concentration to the upcoming one. Although demonic in a sense, forgetting the past, especially past mistakes and sorrows, is a blessing in many ways. You must control all of these deities to pass safely through this region.

STEP 7. Travel to the Square X of XRNH in the subquadrant Earth of Water.

Comment. In this region the Archangel MXRNH demands peace. The entire atmosphere is thick with peace. The Angel XRNH will help you to establish a new sense of identity in preparation for the next life. He does this in accordance with your karma, and with those mental and emotional characteristics that you shed during the first three steps of this yoga. In this way, the new personality will largely share the traits of the past. The Demon MXR will try to confuse you, and will try to negate your resolves. The outcome of passing through this region is that one will have assumed the basic characteristics of a new and as yet undeveloped human personality. To avoid this happening to you at this time, you must be able to control the deities in this region.

STEP 8. Travel to the Square A of AXIR in the subquadrant Earth of Earth.

Comment. Here you will confront the creative Archangel TAXIR, the inventive Angel AXIR (reference his evocation ritual in AN ADVANCED GUIDE TO ENOCHIAN MAGICK) and the shifting Demon TAX. This region is one of formative forces. The atmosphere is charged with creativity. It represents the final stage of consciousness prior to physical birth. It is the fetal stage within the mother's womb. The Demon TAX will suggest birth before the new body is ready, or at an inappropriate time rather than the proper time, which is set karmically to correlate your new personality with prevailing astrological conditions. If that doesn't work, he will often suggest that birth is a fearful and unpleasant experience and advise you to stay within the safety of the womb. These deities must be controlled in order to pass safely through this region.

STEP 9. Return to your physical body.

Comment. An appropriate banishing ritual is not always necessary, but is recommended for the first several times to break the psychic links with death that this operation can establish.

Ritual Of The Abyss

STEP 1. Assume the god-form of TORZOXI, one of the Governors of the 19th Aethyr, POP. He stands tall and thin with a large fire opal in his right hand, charged with the power of life and death. He wears the magical Apron of TORZOXI which provides protection from all outside influences. His body glows with shimmering beams of purple and violet.

STEP 2. Rise up through the Aethyrs beginning with TEX.

TEX. This is the lowest Aethyr. It is located in the lower region of the Watchtower of Earth.

RII. This Aethyr is located in the higher regions of the Watchtower of Earth. It contains the heavens of the world's religions.

BAG. The 28th Aethyr is located in the lowest region of the Watchtower of Water. It is pervaded by a strong sense of conscience.

ZAA. The 27th Aethyr is just above BAG. It is a remote region characterized by a strong sense of loneliness and solitude.

DES. This is the region where logic and reason prevail. It is the home of the scientist and mathematician.

VTI. Here the logic and reason of the human mind give way to intuition. The intuitive senses come into play here.

NIA. The 24th Aethyr is in the highest region of the Watchtower of Water. It is characterized by continual motion and a strong sense of freedom. It is encompassed about by a large Ring-Pass-Not.

TOR. This Aethyr is located in the lowest region of the Watchtower of Air. In the form of TORZOXI, you should be able to pass through the Ring-Pass-Not that divides this Aethyr from NIA. TOR contains a sense of seriousness, and the work ethic is strong here.

LIN. The 22nd Aethyr contains a strong sense of dualism and polarity. The powerful forces of formation and destruction that characterize the Abyss are reflected here.

ASP. This Aethyr is located near the center of the Watchtower of Air. It contains the Reincarnating Ego, that part of your Self which takes on new incarnations on the physical plane.

KHR. The 20th Aethyr contains the Wheel of Life. Cyclic forces are intensified here.

POP. This Aethyr contains the initiation of life and death. The ebb and flow of the duality of life and death are confronted here. It is the home of the Priestess of the Silver Star.

ZEN. The 18th Aethyr is pervaded by a sense of sacrifice. In order to progress through this Aethyr, you must strip yourself of your personal desires and feelings.

TAN. This Aethyr is located in the highest part of the Watchtower of Air. It contains the great Karmic Balance. The sense of equality is strong here.

LEA. The 16th Aethyr is located in the lowest part of the Watchtower of Fire. It is the home of a reflex of the goddess Babalon, who actually resides in the 2nd Aethyr, ARN. Here the duality of the subjective self and the objective universe is strong.

OXO. This Aethyr is pervaded by a sense of joy and happiness. Life is seen here as a game. Nothing is taken seriously in this region.

VTA. The 14th Aethyr is dark and gloomy, the very antithesis of OXO. Everything here is very serious. To enter, you must remove all attachments. It is very peaceful here, entirely devoid of emotion. This region contains the City of the Pyramids.

ZIM. This Aethyr is located near the center of the Watchtower of Fire. It is characterized by a strong sense of duty and responsibility. The great being called NEMO resides here.

LOE. This Aethyr contains the Mystery of Babalon. It is characterized by a strong sense of compassion to mankind. You must have developed a sense of compassion in order to safely enter here.

IKH. The 11th Aethyr contains the Holy City. This is the highest region known to the human mind. It stands on the very brink of the Great Outer Abyss. It is located in the highest part of the Watchtower of Fire. You should be able to feel the presence of the Abyss.

STEP 3. Now, in turn, assume the god-forms of the three Governors of IKH. In all three forms, continue holding the fire opal and wearing the Apron.

Assume the god-form of MOLPAND. Your form should be fierce in countenance, strong but almost feminine in grace and beauty. You should be free of all emotional attachments. In this form, see yourself facing the Abyss.

Assume the god-form of VSNARDA. Your form should be dark and heavy and strongly masculine. In this form you will dare anything, including facing the Abyss.

Assume the god-form of PONODOL. Your form should be strong and beautiful, but entirely devoid of emotions. As PONODOL, you have the ability to create and destroy. See these forces swirling about in the Abyss.

STEP 4. Resume the god-form of TARZOXI and see yourself facing into the dark swirling forces of the Great Outer Abyss.

See the mighty KOMANAN approach and come before you holding the Pantacle of KOMANAN. Hear him say to you, "I am He who knows how to manifest."

See the fierce LEXARPH approach and come before you wielding the Sword of LEXARPH. Hear him say to you, "I am He who is first of the air."

See the fiery TABITOM approach and come before you holding the Wand of TABITOM. Hear him say to you, "I am He who is like fire."

See the black and terrible archdemon KHORONZON approach and come before you holding the Cup of KHORONZON. Hear him say to you, "I am He who is the basis of form."

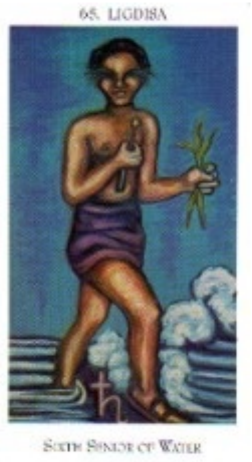
Remain with these four awesome beings, the residents of the Great Outer Abyss, for as long as you can. In order to cross the Abyss, you must first be able to control these four beings.

STEP 5. Return through each of the Aethyrs and re-enter your physical body. It is a good idea to keep a written record of your experiences.

Ritual Of The Body

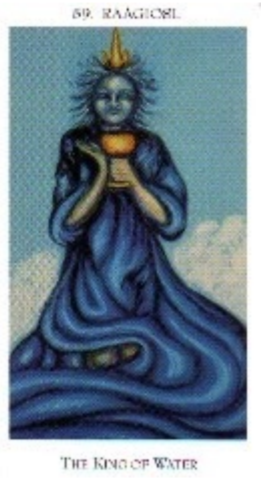
THE PHYSICAL BODY. The first step is to realize that your physical body is illusive and temporary. It is the crystallization of your own karma. Sit before a mirror and observe your reflection. Your reflected image is the way that others see you. Think various thoughts that will make you happy, sad, and so on, and watch your image in the mirror change. Observe the image and know that you are not this physical body. You can control the physical body. Like the mirror, it reflects your thoughts and emotions, but it is not you.

THE SUBTLE BODY. Assume the god-form of the Senior of Water, LIGDISA. Visualize your body having the color of indigo, soft and delicate with a strong feminine aspect. If you are male, see your body as male with feminine characteristics. If you are female, see your body as female with masculine characteristics. Your hair and eyes are dark. Your god-form is very beautiful and sexually attractive. As LIGDISA you hold a Wand in your right hand and a mandrake root in your left hand.



Visualize your subtle body in the form of LIGDISA to be entirely empty. Then visualize each of the six Centers and three Channels. As you inhale, let the vital force enter into the Central Channel at the Root Center.

Let your thoughts cease and concentrate your mind on the image of RAAGIOSL, the King of Water. See him standing before you. His body is blue and he wears a transparent blue robe. His belt is a snake and his sandals are scorpions. He holds a Cup in his right hand and a lotus flower in his left hand. Upon his head is a crown in the shape of a crescent, white like the moon. Let this visualization be clear until it seems that RAAGIOSL is actually standing before you.



Expand the body of RAAGIOSL until it is as large as a house, then a mountain, then the world, and then the entire universe. Shrink the body of RAAGIOSL until it is as small a cat, then a paperclip, then a grain of sand, but keep the details clear and distinct. Continue expanding and contracting this external god-form body until you understand the relativity of size.

THE DREAM BODY. The first objective here is to know when you are dreaming. Most of the time you will not know you are dreaming until you wake up. For this operation, you must be able to recognize that you are in a dream. There are two ways to prepare for this:

(1) Resolution. As you lay down to sleep, exercise your will and make a strong resolve to recognize the dream state when it dawns.

(2) Visualization. As you lay down to sleep, see your body as vacuous. Visualize the six Centers and three Channels. See the magical word AH in your Root Center. let it be radiant in a shinny black color. Know it to be the embodiment of divine substance. See the magical word TRAM in your Navel Center. Let it be radiant in blue color. Know it to be the embodiment of divine joy. See the magical word MUM in your Heart Center. Let it be radiant in vivid yellow color. Know it to be the embodiment of divine love. See the magical word RI in your Throat Center. Let it be a vivid red color and let it vibrate. Know it to be the embodiment of divine speech. See it radiate outward in all directions. Then see the magical word HAM written on a grain of sand in your Brow Center, between your eyes. Know it to be the embodiment of divine consciousness. As you drift off to sleep, know that all forms have the substance of dreams.

The second objective is to control your dream through a conscious act of will. This is called transmuting the dream content and it is a part of lucid dreaming. If anything is about to happen in the dream that is contrary to your will, change the dream content. For example, if you are about to be hurt or to die in some manner, stop the dream and consciously change the direction it is taking. You are like the director of a movie and can easily change the script at any time by an act of will. You should also refuse to do evil. You should refuse to hurt anyone in the dream as well as be hurt by anyone.

The third objective is to remember your dream after waking. This is called preventing the spreading out of the dream content. The best method to assure success is to make a strong resolve before falling asleep that you will remember your dream. It is also a good idea to keep a paper and pencil near your bed and write down everything you can remember about your dream as soon as you wake. With practice, remembering your dreams will become easier, and your notes can be used to determine the degree of progress.

Take note of your body when you are dreaming. You will discover that it is similar to the Body of Light that you assume during your magical operations.

Six Enochian Goddesses

Go to Goddesses

Go to Ritual of Babalon

INTRODUCTION

Probably the main and best-known goddess of Enochian Magic is Babalon. She has six sisters in the anagrams of her name. Five of these, plus Babalon herself, constitute six primary Enochian Goddesses. Each resides in a special region which has its portal in an Aethyr. The six Lands of Babalon are related to the cosmic planes as shown below.

Cosmic Plane	Aethyr	Land	Goddess
Physical Astral
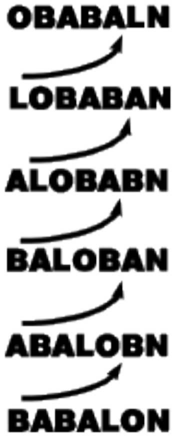
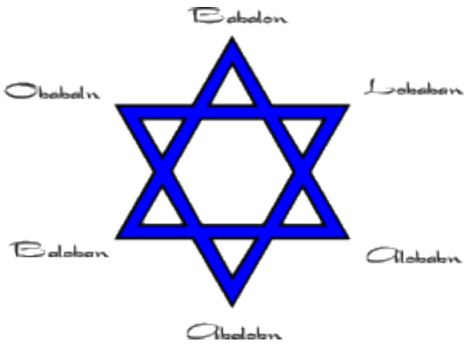
Mental	POP	Londoh Toto, Land of Cycles	Obabaln
Lower Causal	OXO	Londoh Zorge, Land of Love	Lobaban
Upper Causal	LOE	Londoh Baeouib, Land of Righteousness	Alobabn
Lower Spiritual	ZIP	Londoh Kral, Land of Joy	Baloban
Middle Spiritual	DEO	Londoh Quasahi, Land of Delight	Abalobn
Upper Spiritual	ARN	Londoh Mi, Land of Power	Babalon
Divine

The table above gives my names for the six Lands of Babalon as well as the names of the six ruling goddesses. These goddess names are from Enochian Yoga. They are derived from the name of Babalon as shown below.



OBABALN
LOBABAN
ALOBABN
BALOBAN
ABALOBN
BABALON

The first six letters are anagrammed by moving the first letter to the end. Each name retains the final n so that the magic formula, found from the letters of each name, will end in death. The six Enochian goddesses form a hexagram as shown below. Babalon, Baloban, and Alobabn tend to spiritualize; they largely wield spiritual forces. Abalobn, Obabaln, and Lobaban tend to materialize; they largely wield material forces.



Babalon
Obabaln
Lobaban
Baloban
Alobabn
Abalobn

Corresponding Greek goddesses are shown below with corresponding Egyptian goddesses. Exact matching cannot be made for each goddess, and so two Greek and two Egyptian goddesses are given in some cases.

Enochian	Greek	Egyptian	Type	Characteristic
Babalon	Demeter	Nut	mother	bliss
Abalobn	Aphrodite	Isis	lover	love
Baloban	Artemis	Serqet, Bast	maiden, virgin	birth, innocence, natural harmony
Alobabn	Hera	Nephthys	seer	compassion, insight
Lobaban	Athena	Hathor	seductress, joy	sex
Obabaln	Hecate, Persephone	Sekhmet, Maat	crone, witch	death, karma

The goddesses and lands also correspond to the chakras or centers of power within the body (see our Chakras Page).

Most true initiations have three phases: the Call, the Quest, and the Return. In the first phase, we are "called" by an inner voice. Basically, this is the desire to learn, to grow, or to evolve. Usually we are called by an outside or external being through a vision or dream. The Call is not always loud, but it is terribly insistent and cannot be ignored. The Call inspires the Quest itself, which can be considered as the second phase. This is the actual initiation process.

On the Quest, we sometimes undergo ordeals of various kinds. Sometimes we go through a period of doubt and depression that has been called the Dark Night of the Soul. Eventual success, obtaining the goal of the Quest, then leads to the third phase in which we return to our daily lives with the memory and knowledge gained.

The Return phase is one of integration, in which the lessons that we learned are integrated into our life. It is also one of empowerment because the power that is tapped during the questing phase becomes ours to use. Hopefully this power will be used to help others in some way, but regardless, it needs of some kind of manifestation or expression.

G. de Purucker, wrote that "A man, a mind, an understanding, can grasp and see, and thereby know, only those things which the individual entity itself is"(Occult Glossary: A Compendium of Oriental and Theosophical Terms. (1972). Pasadena, CA: Theosophical University Press, 1972, p. 66). In other words, we can experience during an initiation, only what is already within us. Therefore, true initiation involves psychic processes in which we become conscious of what was previously unconscious.

The first phase, the Call, may already have come to you. The Call is associated with your motive for conducting a ritual. In psychological terms, it is your archetypal Self calling your ego (See Jung, C. G., Aion: Researches into the Phenomenology of the Self, 1951, in the Collected Works of C. G. Jung, Vol 9, Part 2. Jung's Collected Works are translated by R. F. C. Hull and are in Bollingen Series XX. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press). In magical terms, the goddess is calling to you from her kingdom in the invisible worlds. The experience can be explained either way. The net effect will be the same.

The Quest phase is one in which the ego turns around, so to speak, and faces into the darkness of the unconscious. During a ritual, you would turn away from the physical world and look deeply within yourself. You would consciously face your repressed fears and desires. If done properly, you would recall past events, face painful experiences from your childhood, and become aware of unresolved developmental issues.

A ritual invoking these goddesses should take you deeper into yourself, and should reveal more and more of what lies in your unconscious. In Jungian terms, you should begin with your personal unconscious and slowly sink into the collective unconscious which is shared by all of us. In rituals invoking the first three goddesses you should expect to encounter a lot of your personal psychological baggage that has, for one reason or another, been forgotten or repressed. Invoking the higher three goddesses, you should expect to encounter those basic archetypes that form the psychic structures of our human mind. There are many of these archetypes and not everyone will experience the same ones, or in the same way. But, you should encounter the child, the lover, and the mother as a minimum. The Swiss psychologist Carl Jung wrote:

What yoga aims at ... is undoubtedly a psychic change in the adept. The ego is an expression of individual existence. The yogin exchanges his ego for Shiva or the Buddha; in this way he induces a shifting of the psychological centre of personality from the personal ego to the impersonal non-ego, which is now experienced as the real "Ground" of the personality. (Concerning Mandala Symbolism, 1973, Collected Works, Vol 9, Part I. p. 74*)*

This is exactly the aim of rituals that invoke these goddesses, because during each of six invocations you should lose your personal ego, and temporarily take on the ego of one of the six goddesses.

How you deal with the Return phase, largely depends on how much time you spend during the Quest phase. If you conduct the invocation properly, you should be able to decrease the natural boundary that exists between your conscious and unconscious. If you are not able to do this sufficiently, then the integration period will be swift and painless. If you fall too deeply into a ritual and gaze too directly into the unconscious realms of the goddess, then integration of those experiences into your world view may be slow and painful.

To invoke any of these six goddesses, you must begin with the will to enter into a Land of Babalon. The strength of your will depends upon how you experience the Call. The quality of your Quest and Return phases, for each invocation, will largely depend upon the momentum that you develop from the amount of willpower that you establish at the very beginning.

Each Quest phase should be structured by specific rituals and yogic visualizations of the goddess and her kingdom. You can enter into her region, explore her kingdom, and visit with her. In each case, you should then be invited to 'become' the goddess herself. This becoming begins by invoking the goddess into yourself, and then by an assumption of her form, followed by an assumption of her characteristics and personality. If successful, you will be empowered by her. The empowerment process in such that by assuming the body and ego of the goddess, you also take on her powers. This is the heart of any true invoking ritual. When properly conducted you should be able to direct those psychic forces that are associated with the goddess as if they were your own.

According to Jung, the personal unconscious contains various complexes, while the collective unconscious contains archetypes. The personal unconscious is the realm of the imagination. The psychic energy or libido in the psyche manifests itself as images, and does so through the creative power of the imagination. The imagination produces images from unconscious contents and provides them to the ego where they become conscious. In this way, the imagination in the personal unconscious serves as a transmitter which converts the chaos of the unconscious contents into orderly pictorialized manifestations or images. The significance or meaning attributed to any image depends upon its value intensity or level of psychic energy or libido.

Jung defines archetypes as structures in the collective unconscious that have both form (feminine, the mother) and energy (masculine, the father). The realm of the archetype "is so entirely one of immediate experience that it cannot be captured by any formula, but can only be hinted at to one who already knows"(Jung, C. G., Psychological Aspects of the Mother Archetype, 1938, Collected Works Vol 9, Part 1). So the inner realm of the archetype is beyond words to describe and must be experienced directly, which is exactly what mystics say about the outer spiritual realms.

When we speak about magical god-forms or goddess-forms, we must remember psychology sees them as mythological psychic images. According to Jung, "The mythological images belong to the structure of the unconscious and are an impersonal possession; in fact, the great majority of men are far more possessed by them than possessing them" (The Psychological Aspects of the Kore, 1941, Collected Works, Vol 9, Part I). To be possessed by such images is one of the dangers of practicing ritual magic. Care must always be taken to conduct proper closing or banishing rituals to sever any psychic connections that have been established.

Jung argued that circles, and especially magic circles, are archetypal symbols of self-protection. They are "intended to stop the difficulties and adversities of the outside world from entering into the inner psychic space. They represent a kind of self-protection" (Concerning Mandala Symbolism, 1973, Collected Works, Vol 9, Part I). This is the psychological rationale for constructing a magical circle. An invocation ritual should include a magic circle as a protective sphere in which to conduct the magical working.

"The projection-making factor is the anima, or rather the unconscious as represented by the anima. Whenever she appears, in dreams, visions, and fantasies, she takes on personified form, thus demonstrating that the factor she embodies possesses all the outstanding characteristics of a feminine being. She is not an invention of the conscious, but a spontaneous product of the unconscious." (Jung, C. G. Aion: Researches Into the Phenomenology of the Self, 1951, Collected Writings, Vol 9, Part II)

In an invocation ritual, the goddess should appear before you as if she were a real external being. If she appears to you by your own conscious attempts to visualize her, then you are apt to be mislead. When she really appears, it will be spontaneous, and without any conscious projection on your part. Whether the goddess is real or just a projection of your anima or animus (Jung's male or female archetype of the unconscious) is immaterial to a successful ritual, so long as she appears spontaneously at the right time.

All of the six Enochian goddesses are aspects of the mother archetype as defined by Jung. "Mythology offers many variations of the mother archetype, as for instance the mother who reappears as the maiden in the myth of Demeter and Kore; or the mother who is also the beloved, as in the Cybele-Attis myth"(Psychological Aspects of the Mother Archetype, 1938, Collected Works Vol 9, Part 1). Even Obabaln, who equates to Hecate, is an aspect of the Great Mother. According to Jung, Hecate was called the Mother of Death and the Goddess of Dogs as well as the moon goddess who sends men lunacy and madness (Symbols of Transformation, 1911-12, Collected Writings, Vol 5.). Not only the goddesses, but the circle in which you will work should have feminine power: "Because of the protection it implies, the magic circle or mandala can be a form of mother archetype" (Jung, C. G., Psychological Aspects of the Mother Archetype, 1938, Collected Works Vol 9, Part 1).

According to Jung, there are several kinds of mother images. "Experience reveals the striking fact that the Urania type of mother-image predominates in masculine psychology, whereas in a woman the chthonic type, or Earth Mother, is the most frequent" (Psychological Aspects of the Mother Archetype, 1938, Collected Works Vol 9, Part 1). This is because the goddess as seen by a man will be viewed through his anima, whereas the goddess seen by a woman will be viewed through her animus. Thus a man and woman will not have exactly the same experiences during these rituals, although the results should be similar.

When the goddess-forms are properly used during the rituals, the anima will project itself into each form, if you are a man, and the animus will project the Self into each form, if you are a woman. In this way, you will be able to assimilate your anima or animus via the process of self-identification. Each return to the ego after the ritual will find a changed ego; one that has been broadened and, hopefully, matured by the experience.

After experiencing each world, you may wonder about the reality of your experiences. Are these Lands of Babalon real? Do the six goddesses really exist? The answer to such questions was given by the Jungian psychologist Robert Johnson who writes that "a symbolic or ceremonial experience is real and affects one as much as an actual event. The psyche is unaware of the different between an outer act and an interior one" (Owning your own shadow: Understanding the dark side of the psyche.

United Kingdom: HarperCollins). Thus modern psychology is in agreement with Aleister Crowley who taught that all deities, angels, gods, goddesses, or other entities encountered in the subtle worlds should be considered to be real. In other words, we must act as if they are real in order to obtain meaningful results. And when we do act as if they are real, they will have real affects on our lives.

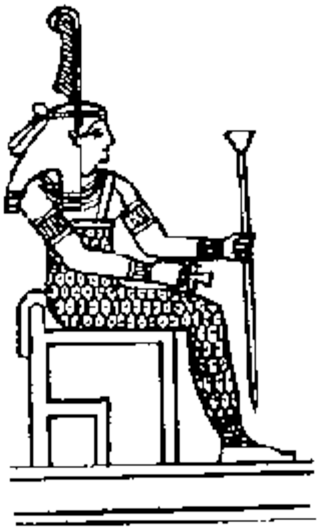
Obabaln

The goddess Obabaln is neither enticing nor alluring in any sexual sense. Rather she appears frightening to most who see her. Perhaps this is because her chief attribute is her control over the forces of karma and reincarnation. None of the six goddesses are simplistic, and the complexity of Obabaln is no exception. She is the governess of both life and death for each of us. She is probably best known as the balancer and judge of one's karma in the after-death state. In the Egyptian system, she equates to the goddess Maat whose magical Word is Truth. But she also equates to the lion-headed goddess, Sekhmet. In the Greek system, she equates to Persephone, the Queen of the Underworld. She also equates to Hecate, the Goddess of Crossroads. Thus Obabaln is the archetype of the crone or witch.

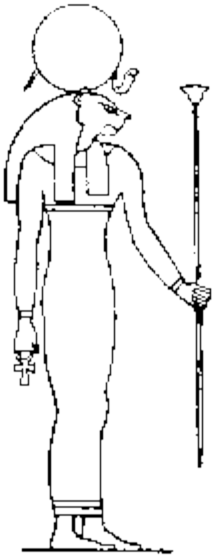
Her male consort is the god, Paam, who represents the magical strength needed to convert the student into an Adept. He aides the devotee of Obabaln by giving them the inner strength to confront her as he does himself.

The Goddesses Maat and Sekhmet

The Egyptian goddess, Maat, was the consort of the ibis-headed Thoth, the God of Wisdom. She is probably best known for her role in the after-death judgment scene where the heart of the deceased is weighed in a huge balance against her symbol, a feather. The feather of Maat is symbolic for truth. In fact, the Egyptian word mat means truth, justice, and law, and it can also be translated as karma. Karma is the law of universal balance as all cosmic forces tend toward equilibrium. Every time we act in a way that is out of balance with nature or natural law, we create new karma that must, one way or another, be allieviated. Maat, in her dualistic form of Maati, the dispenser of justice, governs a special region in the subtle plane (Tuat or Dwat) called the Hall of Maati. Chapter CXXV of the Book of the Dead addresses this region (see our Egyptian Magick, the revised edition of Coming Into the Light, pp 244-258, for a complete translation). According to the rubric, if this ritual is conducted successfully, the deceased will view his future parents and have a healthy rebirth. While various gods and goddesses of the Egyptian pantheon control and direct the many aspects of the reincarnation cycle, it is Maat who sees that the law of karma is fulfilled.



Maat



Sekhmet

The lioness-headed goddess, Sekhmet, or Sekhet, represents the firey power of the maternal instincts. In Chapter XLII of the Book of the Dead, she is said to control the belly and the backbone. Wallis Budge states that her name derives from sekhem which means power or strength (Gods of the Egyptians, Vol I, p 515). As Maat is the consort of Thoth, so Sekhmet is the consort of the god Ptah, the master architect who fashioned the human form. Together, they represent the formative and instinctual forces of the personal unconscious that we carry over from birth to birth - the skandhas of Buddhism.

The Goddesses Persephone and Hecate.

The goddess Persephone, sometimes called Kore, 'the maiden,' was the daughter of Demeter by Zeus. She was abducted by Hades, the god of the underworld, while admiring a beautiful narcissus that was planted for this purpose by Gaia on orders from Zeus. Hades took her to his kingdom beneath the ground. After nine days of worry, Demeter consulted Hecate who suggested that she see Helios, the Sun god. From Helios, Demeter learned that Zeus had allowed Persephone to be taken by Hades. Demeter then began a long series of wanderings, but failed to find her daughter. Finally, in desperation, she caused the Earth to be barren until her daughter's return. Finally, Zeus sent Hermes to command Hades to return Persephone. However, before she left his kingdom, he persuaded Persephone to eat some pomegranite seeds, which were symbols of marriage. After Persephone returned to her mother, Demeter learned about the pomegranites. Zeus then proposed a compromise, shich everyone accepted. Persephone would be allowed to stay with her mother for two-third of the year, but she would have to return to Hades for the other third. In this way, Persephone became the Queen of the Underworld. In a psychological sense, she is one who was taken into the dark recesses of the collective unconscious and then returned to consciousness with the ability to return periodically at will. In essence, she is the prototype of the Adept. Persephone represents that part of the psyche that can face the full depths of the unconscious and return safely to consciousness with full memory of all experiences and images gleaned.

Hecate is the goddess of the moon and of magic. She dwelled in the underworld with Hades, Persephone, Thanatos (god of death), Hypnos (god of sleep), and Morpheus (god of dreams). She was said to have control over the night sky, and was the protectress of witches. She was called the Goddess of the Crossroads and as such her symbol was a cross (a horizontal line crossed at the center by a vertical line of the same length). However, another meaning of the cross is sexual in that the horizontal line was feminine and the vertical line masculine. While the unitiated believed Hecate to assist at crossroads where three choices awaited the traveler, the initiated worshipped Hecate in a more sexual manner. She was also called the Dark Mother and could be seen at graveyards where she worked as a goddess of purification. One of her symbols is the dark moon. As the Dark Goddess, the goddess of moonlit crossroads, and the Sender of Nocturnal Visios, Hecate, like Persephone, represents one who can enter into the unconscious and illuminate what is found there (see Janet & Stewart Farrar, The Witches Goddess, pp 124-126).

Hecate

Obabaln as the Frog Goddess

Obabaln also shares characteristics with the Egyptian goddess Heket or Heqet, who is shown as a human female with the head of a frog, or simply as a frog. According to Wallis Budge, the frog was worshipped as a symbol of generation, birth, and fertility (*The Gods of the Egyptian*s, Vol II, p 378). The Egyptian crone-goddess Hekit was the prototype of the Greek Hecate or Hekate (see Barbara Walker, The Woman's Dictionary of Symbols & Sacred Objects, p 375) who was associated with frogs as symbols of regeneration.

Summary of Correspondences for the Land of Cycles.

Location. The portal to this land is located in the 19th Aethyr, POP (pop), which is on the Mental Plane adjacent to the Watchtower of Air.

Name. LONDOH TOTO (otot hodnol) meaning the Land of Cycles.

Element. Earth.

Goddess. OBABALN (nlababo). She is usually seen wearing a golden robe, carrying a black pentacle inscribed with the word AH in her right hand and a lotus bud ready to bloom in her left hand. She is associated with the Root Center or Muladhara Chakra. Here she is Babalon, naked in the form of the crone, hag, or Black Goddess.

Enochian Letters. PTXZ (ZXTP)

Male Consort. PAAM (maap). The formula of PAAM is the magical strength that turns the disciple into the Master.

Magic Words. XUM (mux) and AH (ha).

Color. Black.

Governors. The three Governors of POP are:

TORZOXI (death)

ABRIOND (sorrow)

OMAGRAP (fear)

Primary Lesson. Meaning of death.

Magic Spell. KIAOFI OBABALN (nlababo ifoaik)- the Terror of Obabaln.

Numerical Notes.

1: The names of the three Governors added together with OBABALN and PAAM (1148+110+111=1369) reduce to 1.

2: OBABALN (110), XUM (560), and KIAOFI OBABALN (569) reduce to 2.

3: PAAM (111), POP (48), and LONDOH TOTO (201) all reduce to 3.

5: The names of the three Governors added together (1148) reduce to 5. Also OBABALN coupled with PAAM reduces to 5 (110+111=221=2+2+1=5).

7: The three Governors combined with OBABALN (1258) reduce to 7, which is the gematria value for AH. Also, POP plus PTXZ (the four letters when under the influence of POP add to 475) reduces to 7.

8: The three Governors combined with POP (48) reduce to 8. OBABALN coupled with PAAM in POP (110+111+48=269) reduce to 8.

The color picture below shows the Portal of Obabaln which leads into her kingdom from POP. She stands before her portal in the shimmering ghost-like form of the Priestess of the Silver Star, and a silver star can be seen over the right side of her silver portal (to the left as you face her). Her arms are folded across her chest to symbolize her non-receptive (and threatening) nature. Before her is a human skull to symbolize her power over mortality and a snake and frog to symbolize her regenerative powers and especially the reincarnation process which she controls. Her control over life and death (symbolized by the living tree and dead tree) give her land its name: the Kingdom of Cycles. The Enochian letter O is seen on the pathway before her, symbol of the forces of karma. The Enochian letter N is on her left side, symbol of the forces of death. Both letters are blood red. A dark moon is in the sky to her left (in the upper right corner of the plate). The Scroll of Obabaln contains the three magic words of her realm in Enochian: PTXZ, XUM and AH, all of which are written backwards.

Obabaln

To conduct the Ritual of Obabaln, assume her goddess-form. First see your body as empty with only a thin skin, like a balloon. Then use the figure below to help you shape the plastic skin of your Body of Light. Visualize yourself in the form of the goddess, Obabaln, and assume her empty goddess-form. Let your Body of Light take on the form of a beautiful woman with wings. Fold your arms across your chest, right arm under left, and place your right foot slightly in front of you while bending the right knee. Turn your head slightly to the right. Your stance should convey a feeling of independence, determination, and divine power over life and death. The figure below shows how you would look standing within your magic circle.

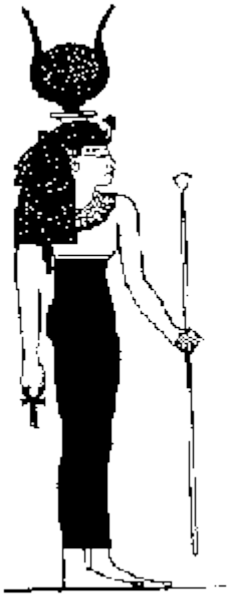
Lobaban

Lobaban is a goddess of love which includes both sexual love and the sincere commitment of a shared relationship. She can grant either sexual ecstasy or agonizing pain depending upon how the devotee confronts her. She is shown in the color plate near the end of this page as alluring and sexually attractive. She rules over music, dancing, and the arts. As a goddess of sexual enchantment, confronting Lobaban is dangerous without proper preparation. Her realm is seductive and captivating, and like a wonderful dream, it is difficult to leave to return to our everyday lives on Earth. She shares characteristics with the Egyptian goddess Hathor and the Greek goddess Hera.

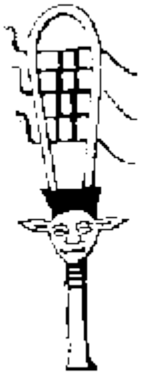
Her consort is the god Rmto who helps devotees of Lobaban to gain the strength to see through her illusions of enchantment. Without his help, it is very easy to forget oneself and become enthralled in her wondrous realm of love forever.

Hathor

Occultism and psychology teaches that sex and death are related in that we can lose our ego in both. The cow-goddess Hathor is the Egyptian goddess of sex, dancing, and music. Her name is literally "the house of Horus." Occult tradition equates Horus (especially his eye) with consciousness, so Hathor is therefore the physical body and its sensations as the "house" of consciousness. She is usually shown with the menat around her neck, a symbol of sexual pleasure as well as fertilty. Sometimes she is shown with both the menat and the flail, indicating her association with both pleasure and pain. Hathor also appears at times holding a sistrum, a rattle that was used in singing and dancing as shown in the accompanying.



Hathor



Sistrum

In the ancient Egyptian Book of the Divine Cow, Hathor, the Beautiful One, is sent out by the sun god Re (or Ra) to kill his human enemies. She not only kills them but enjoys doing it. To prevent her from killing the rest of mankind, Re orders the brewing of 7,000 jars of beer. He orders that the beer be poured over the fields at night in the area where Hathor was expected to slay the rest of humanity. When morning came, Hathor appeared. She saw the innundated fields and drank heavily of the beer, becoming very intoxicated. She became so drunk, that she no longer recognized the human beings that she had planned to kill. She became the Confused One and humanity was saved. To celebrate, Re proclaimed that intoxicating drinks should be served at all of the feasts of the year (i.e., whenever human beings gathered together in large numbers) to prevent Hathor from slaying them. Thus Hathor is exoterically associated with physical intoxication. But esoterically, she is associated with the divine ecstasy that fills every devotee who approaches her.

Hera

Hera was the consort of Zeus and the queen of Olympus. She was the daughter of Cronus and Rhea. She was worshipped by the Romans as Juno, the Goddess of Marriage. Her chief symbols were the cow, the lily, and the peacock whose "eyes" symbolized her watchfulness. The Milky Way was thought to have come into existence from the milk of her breasts.

As the wife of Zeus, Hera was often humiliated and jealous of the other goddesses in his life. Thus she took on a dual aspect in which she could give love as well as hate, pleasure as well as pain. In a psychological sense, she represents the desire for marriage and for the sharing of one's life with another; the need for a relationship of commitment and therefore she personifies faithfulness and loyalty.

Summary of Correspondences for the land of Love

Location. Portal is located in the 15th Aethyr, OXO (oxo), which is on the Causal Plane (lower) adjacent to the Watchtower of Fire.

Name. LONDOH ZORGE (egroz hodnol) meaning the Land of Love.

Element. Water.

Goddess. LOBABAN (nababol). She is usually seen wearing a violet robe, carrying a blue Cup inscribed with the word TRAM in her right hand and a mirror her left hand. She is associated with the Navel Center or Manipura Chakra. Here she is an aspect of Babalon, naked in the form of the vamp or seductress.

Enochian Letters. MNQRV (vrqnm)

Male Consort. RMTO (otmr). The formula of Rmto is the desire for justice that sees through illusion.

Magic Words. QUM (muq) and TRAM (mart).

Color. Blue.

Governors. The three Governors of OXO are:

TAHAMDO (externals)

NOKIABI (internals)

TASTOXO (joy)

Primary Lesson. Meaning and purpose of life.

Magic Spell. OXO LOBABAN (nababol oxo) - the Dance of Lobaban.

Numerical Notes.

1. OXO (460) and LONDO ZORGE (280) both reduce to 1.

2. LOBABAN (110) and QUM (560) each reduce to 2. The union of the three Governors together with LOBABAN and RMTO (1487) reduce to 2.

3. LOBABAN in OXO (570) reduces to 3.

5. The three Governors together (1148) reduce to 5.

6. LOBABAN coupled with RMTO (110+229=339) reduces to 6.

7. The three Governors combined with LOBABAN (1258) reduce to 7. TRAM reduces to 7. RMTO united with LOBABAN in OXO (799) reduced to 7.

8. The letters MNQRV (350) reduce to 8.

1148. The gematria value of the three Governors of OXO (1148) is the same value as that for the three Governors of POP (1148).

The color plate below shows the Portal of Lobaban which leads into her kingdom from OXO. The goddess is light blue and she rests before her portal with her left leg folded beneath her. Before her is a lily, which is the Western equivalent of the lotus in the East. Beside the lily is a rosy cross, the magical symbol of sexual magic. Next to the rosy cross is a peacock. The portal into the Land of Love shows lions along the top, which are sacred to Lobaban. Within the portal is Salome, whose dancing symbolizes the joy of life that pervades this land. The Enochian letter U, symbolic of sexual power, lies in blood red on the path before her portal. The Scroll of Lobaban contains the three magic words of her realm in Enochian; MNQRV, QUM and TRAM, all of which are written backwards.

Lobaban

When you conduct the Ritual of Lobaban, use the figure below to help you visualize yourself in the form of the goddess, Lobaban, and assume her goddess-form. Assume the form of a beautiful woman with wings. Hold your arms down at your sides with your shoulders straight and slightly back, and place your right foot in front of you as though you were walking forward. This stance should convey a feeling of great joy and love mingled with elegance and wisdo

Alobabn

The goddess Alobabn is shown in the color plate near the end of this page. Her skin is light yellow in her role as Goddess of the Air. She is also the Goddess of Relationships and the Goddess of Wisdom. She personifies the intellect as well as the will. Her realm is located just below the Great Outer Abyss and as such she represents the highest aspects of the human mind. There are no emotions in her realm, nor instincts or feelings of any kind. These have all been sacrificed in order to reach this lofty place. Only thoughts and emotionless images are allowed here. However, the air of her realm is permeated with compassion. Her land is where one's karmic burden is weighed to see if one qualifies to cross the Abyss. Alobabn is the decision maker who is charged to determine when the initiate is ready to become the Adept. Her realm emphasizes thought and the will, but the seeds of intuition can be found here as well. The great Ring-Pass-Not of the Abyss is a barrier to the human mind and thus her realm is one of the most spiritual that the human mind is able to conceive. The ego, which can go no higher than the Land of Righeousness without the risk of insanity, must be sacrificed into her Cup. This can be done safely by the attainment of sincere compassion. This frees consciousness from its human constraints allowing one to cross the Abyss in safety. She shares characteristics with the Egyptian goddess Nephthys and the Greek Goddess Athena.

Her consort is the god Oant, whose formula is the desire for the death of all karmic processes. This desire is aimed at the karmaless action of the full Adept, the jivamukta of the East.

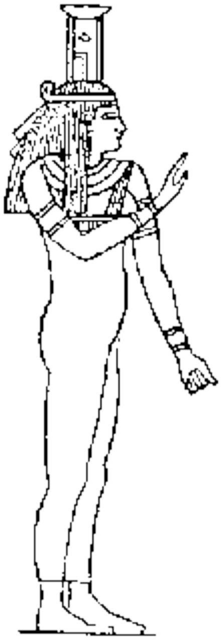
Nephthys

The Egyptian goddess Nephthys was the daughter of Re (or Ra) and the sister of Isis and Osiris. She is always shown wearing her special hat; the hieroglyphic symbols for "lady of the house." She and her sister, Isis, are the two Uraeus Serpents in the form of two cobras. Nephthys was the consort of the god Set, but she was the mother of the jackal-headed Anubis by her brother, Osiris.

She and her sister, Isis, are the two Uraeus Serpents in the form of two cobras. Nephthys was the consort of the god Set, but she was the mother of the jackal-headed Anubis by her brother, Osiris.Nephthys rules over the Fire of Dispersion located in the Subplane of Dispersion. This symbology has to do with the dispersion process of the after-death state wherein the psychic elements of the deceased disperse in the same way as the particles of the physical body. The spirit that survives this process then rests for awhile prior to rebirth (the processes of rebirth are controlled by her sister, Isis). Nephthys is concerned with the spiritualization process, wherein the matter of the physical body is sloughed off, leaving the spiritual body naked and pure. Like the Dakini of Tibetan Buddhism, Nephthys personifies the overpowering spiritual impulse that eventually annihilates material form. Unlike the Dakini who have a terrifying aspect, Nephthys is always shown as a beautiful woman, often naked or semi-nude with a calm demeanor.



Nephthys

Athena

Athena (or Athene) was the Greek warrior goddess who was born fully armed from the head of Zeus. She was called the Goddess of Wisdom and Crafts and known to the Romans as Minerva.

She is sometimes shown with a spear in one hand (as the goddess of battle stragety in wartime) and a bowl in the other (as the goddess of the arts during peacetime). Her special gift to mankind was the olive, which is sacred to her. The owl was sacred to her as the bird of wisdom. In a psychological sense, Athena respresent the triumph of the will and rational thinking over the instincts, of purposeful action and strategic planning.

In mythology, Athena once turned a mortal woman named Arachne into a spider. Arachne was a weaver who challenged Athena to a contest of skill. Both made exquisite tapestries, but the pictorial theme used by Arachne was the many love affairs of Zeus. This enraged Athena, who was the most trusted and loyal of Zeus's children. In anger, she killed Arachne, but later repented and restored her life as a spider condemned to hang by a thread and spin forever.

Summary of Correspondences for the land of Righteousness

Location. Portal is located in the 12th Aethyr, LOE (eol), which is on the Causal Plane (higher) adjacent to the Watchtower of Fire.

Goddess. ALOBABN (nbabola). She is usually seen wearing a white robe, carrying a yellow Dagger inscribed with the word MUM in her right hand and a large topaz shewstone in her left hand. She is associated with the Heart Center or Anahata Chakra. Here she is Babalon in the form of the Seer or Witch.

Enochian Letters. EGHILOS (solihge)

Male Consort. AONT (tnoa). His formula is the desire for the end of all karmic processes.

Magic Words. HUM (muh) and MUM (MUM).

Color. Yellow.

Governors. The three Governors of LOE are:

TAPAMAL (True Self)

GEDOONS (Abyss)

AMBRIOL (Egolessness)

Primary Lesson. Meaning of compassion.

Magic Spell. KIKLE ALOBABN (nbabola elkik) - the Mysteries of Alobabn.

Numerical Notes.

1. Alobabn united with the three Governors in LOE (110+572+48=730) reduce to 1.

2. The magic spell together with the two magic words (788+161+250=1199) reduce to 2. ALOBABN (110) reduces to 2.

3. LOE (48), and LONDOH BAEOUIB (309) both reduce to 3.

5. AONT (95), the three Governors together (572), and KIKLE ALOBABN (788) all reduce to 5.

7. The three magic words in LOE (535+48=583) reduce to 7. MUM (250) and EGHILOS (124) both reduce to 7. Alobabn united with the three Governors (110+572=682) reduce to 7 as does Alobabn when coupled with AONT (110+95=205) and when united to the magic spell (110+788=898).

8. The three Governors in LOE (572+48=620) reduce to 8. HUM (161) reduces to 8.

The color plate below shows the Portal of Alobabn which leads into her kingdom from LOE. The goddess is light yellow and she stands before her portal confronting all who would enter her realm. Before her is a Cup, symbol of the sacrifice that is required to enter her land - you must shed all of your life's blood into her Cup before entering. Beside the Cup is an owl, a bird sacred to Alobabn. The portal into the Land of Righteousness has torches with eternal flames to symbolize the light of rational thought which is active here. Within the portal is a spider spinning a web. Before her portal is the Enochian letter Q, representing the forces of sacrifice. Within the portal is the Enochian letter I representing ability and patience. The Scroll of Alobabn contains the three magic words of her realm in Enochian; EGHILOS, HUM and MUM, all of which are written backwards.

Baloban

The Enochian goddess Baloban is shown in the color plate near the end of this page in her light red form. On the goddess hexagram, shown on my goddess page, she is positioned opposite to Lobaban. As Lobaban expresses sexual attraction, so Baloban expresses virginity and innocence. She is the chaste maiden. But she is highly mystical and has great occult powers. Because she resides above the Abyss, she is shown in a peaceful and harmonious setting. Many who have confronted her there have stated that it is like a wondrous garden.

The consort of Baloban is Xkai whose magical formula is the ability of the student to correctly perceive his or her environment. He can help to assure that you will always know where you are located in the magical universe.

Serqet and Bast

Serqet (or Selkit) is the Egyptian scorpion goddess and is usually shown as a woman with a scorpion on her head. Chapter XLII of the Book of the Dead equates her with the teeth suggesting that she has a warrior nature, and indeed we sometimes see her carrying a spear. She was also identified with a constellation in the northern sky.

Serqet was one of four main protective goddesses of the deceased (the others being Isis, Nephthys, and Neith). On the roof of the second shrine of Tutankhamen, she tells the boy king that "I will be thy protection eternally." (Piankoff, A & Rambova, N (Eds.) The Shrine of Tut-Ankh-Amon, Princeton Univesity Press,p 116).

Bast

The moon goddess Bast, the Lady of the East, was worshipped in Bubastis (literally "the place of Bast") from the earliest dynasties. However, she only became popular during the new kingdom. Sheshonk, the first king of the twenty-second dynasty married the daughter of the priest-king of Tanis and was proclaimed Pharaoh. He made Bubastis his capital and the local cat-headed goddess, Bast, soon became the official ruling deity of Egypt. Unlike Sekhet, who was considered "terrible," Bast was "kindly." She was usually considered as a kind aspect of Isis, a Great Mother goddess. Another of her names is Goddess of the Abyss, probably owing to the fact that cats can see in the dark. Like Isis, she was associated with the Fire of Solidification, a magical fire that resides in the Abyss (see our Egyptian Magick, pp 17-19). In this role, she was often called upon to help with births and was called Goddess of the Birth-Chamber. Her child with Osiris, was called Heru-Hekennu, Horus the god of thoughts.

Artemis

The moon goddess, Artemis, was the daughter of Zeus and Leto and the twin sister of the sun god, Apollo. She was associated with the constellation Ursa Major and bears were sacred to her. She assisted women in childbirth and was the protector of youth, especially girls. She is often shown in a short tunic with bow and arrows, and sometimes with a hound - she is equivalent to the Roman goddess Diana, the Goddess of the Hunt. Artemis has no consort and was a virgin in the sense of being "her own woman" and subject to no male. She was called Artemis the Chaste and Goddess of Wildlife.

Summary of Correspondences for the land of Joy

Location. Portal is located in the 7th Aethyr, ZIP (piz), which is on the Spiritual Plane (lower) adjacent to the Tablet of Union (lower) immediately aove the Great Outer Abyss.

Name. LONDOH KRAL (lark hodnol) meaning the Land of Joy.

Element. Fire.

Goddess. BALOBAN (nabolab). She is usually seen wearing a silver robe, carrying a red Wand in her right hand inscribed with the magic word RI, and a large fire opal shewstone in her left hand. She is associated with the Throat Center or Vishuddha Chakra. Here Baloban is Babalon in the form of the virginal maiden.

Enochian Letters. BFK (kfb)

Male Consort. XKAI (iakx) whose magical formula is the ability of the student to correctly perceive his or her environment.

Magic Words. KUM (muk) and RI (ir).

Color. Red.

Governors. The three Governors of ZIP are:

ODDIORG (Purity)

KRALPIR (Joy)

DOANZIN (Harmony)

Primary Lesson. Meaning of beauty.

Magic Spell. PI-BLIAR BALOBAN (nabolab railb-ip) - the Places of Comfort of Baloban.

Numerical Notes.

1. KUM (460) reduces to 1. The two magic words and the letters together (460+160+308=928) reduce to 1.

2. BALOBAN (110), BFK (308), and the three Governors together (1028) each reduce to 2.

3. BALOBAN coupled with XKAI (110+766=876) reduce to 3.

5. The names of the five deities combined (1028+766+110=1904) reduce to 5.

6. ZIP (78) and LONDOH KRAL (537) both reduce to 6.

7. RI (160), the magic spell (358), and the three magic words together in ZIP (928+78=1006) each reduce to 7.

8. The two magic words combined (460+160=620) reduce to 8. BALOBAN in ZIP (110+78=188) reduce to 8. The three Governors in ZIP (1028+78=1106) reduce to 8.

The color plate below shows the Portal of Baloban which leads into her kingdom from ZIP. The goddess is light red and she lies in the plush Garden of Baloban as though dreaming before her portal of flowers. Before her is a black cat. Behind her is a large bear. The portal into the Land of Joy is guarded by a deadly scorpion. Before the portal is the Enochian letter E which represents virginity. The Scroll of Baloban contains the three magic words of her realm in Enochian; BFK, KUM and RI, all of which are written backwards.

Baloban

When conducting the Ritual of Baloban use the figure below to help you visualize yourself in the form of the virgin goddess, Baloban, and assume her goddess-form. Assume the form of a beautiful woman with wings. Hold your right arm down against your side. Bend your left arm and place your fist against your waist. Keep your legs straight but feet slightly apart. Look slightly upward and to your right. This stance should convey a feeling of potential creative energy, a natural harmony, and a childlike innocence.

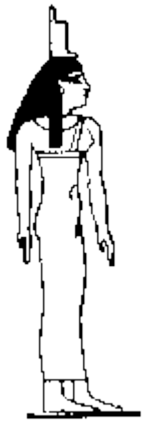
Abalobn

The goddess Abalobn is shown in the color plate at the bottom of this page. She is white and she is shown lying before her portal of roses. Although Abalobn has many names, her chief title is the Goddess of Love. She is called the Great Seductress, the Scarlet Woman, and the Great Harlot because she willingly accepts all who enter her realm. Abalobn imbodies all forms of love, including self-love, the love of another person, and the altruistic universal love of all living beings.

Her consort is the god Ehnb whose formula is the true seeker who faces death with childlike faith. Ehnb reminds all who enter this realm of the magical equality of love and death.

Isis

The goddess Isis is probably the best known deity of ancient Egypt. She is the daughter of the sun god, Re (or Ra) and the sister of Osiris, Nephthys, and Set. She is the mother of Horus by Osiris. Her name means "Goddess of the Throne" and she is usually shown with a throne on her head. Psychologically, the throne, as the seat of power, refers to the ego and Isis is the controlling force of the human ego. Thoth calls her the "beautiful goddess who is responsible for one life to follow another." ("The Magic of Isis", in Egyptian Magick, p 49). She is also called the Great One of Magic. She has the form of a beautiful woman and was said to be adept with words. Isis controls the Fire of Solidification, and she is the complement to her sister, Nephthys. Isis controls the birth processes of the reincarnation cycle.



Isis

Set had no love for his brother, Osiris, and decided to kill him. He had a large chest made, and brought it with him to a party. He promised to give it to the one who fit it best. Everyone laid in the chest unitl Osiris, the last one to try, laid in it. When Osiris laid down in the chest, Set and his conspirators rushed over and quickly placed the lid on it, and nailed it shut. They took the chest to the river which carried it out to sea. When Isis heard of this, she cut off a lock of her hair in mourning. Then she wandered throughout the kingdom seeking the chest. It was during this time that she learned of the treachery of her sister. Nephthys had pretended to be her, and had laid with Osiris. As a results, she gave birth to Anubis. Isis found Anubis and turned him into a guardian. Later, Isis heard that the chest containing Osiris had landed on the coast of Byblos where it lodged in the branches of a bush of tamarisk. The tree had grown up around the chest and encompassed it. Then the king of that country, Melkander, had cut down the tree, using its trunk to support the roof of his own house. Isis went to the king's palace, where she became a nurse to one of his sons. She nursed him through her finger rather than her breast and each night she placed him into a fire while she turned herself into a swallow - a magical process through which she helped to make the child immortal. However, the queen caught her one night and cried out stopping the process before total immortality was won. Isis then showed herself and asked for the tree trunk that supported the roof. She cut the pillar down and cut it open. She took the chest, together with the eldest of the king's sons, with her back to Egypt. When she thought that she was alone, she opened the chest and wept. The young prince, Maneros, crept up behind her and saw the dead body of Osiris, whereupon Isis killed him in a rage. Later, Isis brought the chest to Pe-Tep (Buto) where Horus was being reared and stored it in a remote place.

One night, Set was hunting by the light of the moon and chanced upon the chest. In a rage, he tore the body into fourteen pieces and scattered them in different places up and down the country. When Isis discovered what had happened, she searched the country for the pieces of her husband's body using a papyrus boat. She found all of the pieces except the phallus, which had been thrown into the river and devoured by fish. A shrine to Osiris was built in each city where she found one of the pieces. Then Osiris returned from the underworld and instructed Horus in fighting. When Horus was ready he fought a mighty battle with Set, whom he defeated after three days and three nights. He caused Set to be bound and gave him to Isis as a trophy. Isis unexpectedly released Set and set him free. Horus was so mad at this that he grabbed her and cut off her head. The god Thoth came forward at this and replaced her head with that of a cow. After this, Horus and Set faught twice more, with Horus winning each time. Isis had union with Osiris during this time and conceived Heru-pa-Khrat (Harpokrates, or "Horus the child").

Aphrodite

The goddess Aphrodite is the Goddess of Love and Beauty, whom the Romans called Venus. She was said to be the most beautiful of all the goddesses with a graceful and sensual body (as the famous statue, the Venus de Milo suggests). She was said to be able to create words and was associated with the dove and the rose.

According to Homer, Aphrodite was the daughter of Zeus and a sea nymph named Dione. According to Hesiod, she was born in a magical way: Kronos cut off the genitals of his father Uranus with a sickle and threw them into the sea where the sperm mixed with white foam from which Aphrodite was born, conceived as a fully grown goddess. When she came ashore, she was accompanied by Eros (love) and Himeros (desire) into the assembly of the gods. Many gods wanted to marry her, but she chose Hephaestus, the lame God of Craftsmen (a union of beauty and craft). She had no children with Hephaestus, but she had three children with Ares, the God of War. Her daughter was Harmonia (harmony) and her sons were Deimos (terror) and Phobos (fear). She also coupled with Hermes and gave birth to the bisexual Hermaphroditus and with Poseidon she gave birth to the goddess Rhodos who later married Helios, the Sun. She was also said to give birth to Priapus through Dionysus. One of her symbols was the scallop shell, which is kteis in Greek; and is the word for a woman's genitals.

Governors. The three Governors of DEO are:

OPMAKAS (Wife)

GENADOL (Consort)

ASPIAON (Lover)

Primary Lesson. Meaning of love.

Magic Spell. TOANT-G ABALOBN (nbolaba g-tnaot) - Union with Abalobn.

Numerical Notes.

1. ABALOBN in DEO (110+44=154) reduces to 1. The three magic words (271) reduce to 1. AD (10) reduces to 1.

2. ABALOBN (110) and DUM (164) both reduce to 2. The three Governors in DEO (732+44=776) reduce to 2. The magic spell in DEO (228+44=272) reduce to 2.

3. EHNB (66), the three Governors (732), and the magic spell (228) each reduce to 3.

5. The three Governors together with ABALOBN (732+110=842) reduce to 5. ABALOBN coupled with EHNB (110+66=176) reduce to 5,

7. HAM (97) reduces to 7.

8. DEO (44) and LONDOH QUASAHI (413) both reduce to 8. The union of all the three Governors with god and goddess (732+66+110=908) reduces to 8.

The color plate below shows the Portal of Abalobn which leads into her kingdom from DEO. The goddess is white and she lies before her rose portal in a sexually alluring posture. Before her is a pansy and a sprig of rosemary. Hanging from the portal to the Land of Delight is a red vesica pisces, symbol of femininity, similar to the the Hindu yoni and Greek kteis. A dove is flying downward toward the goddess carrying an olive branch. A blood-red Enochian letter G lies on the ground behind her. The Scroll of Abalobn contains the three magic words of her realm in Enochian; AD, DUM and HAM, all of which are written backwards.

Abalobn

When you conduct the Ritual of Abalobn, use the figure below to help you visualize yourself in the form of the goddess, Abalobn, and assume her goddess-form. Assume the form of a beautiful woman with wings. Stand holding your wand in both hands before you with your arms apart and down. Place your left foot forward and bend your head downward slightly as though looking at your wand. This stance should convey a feeling of universal love and acceptance.

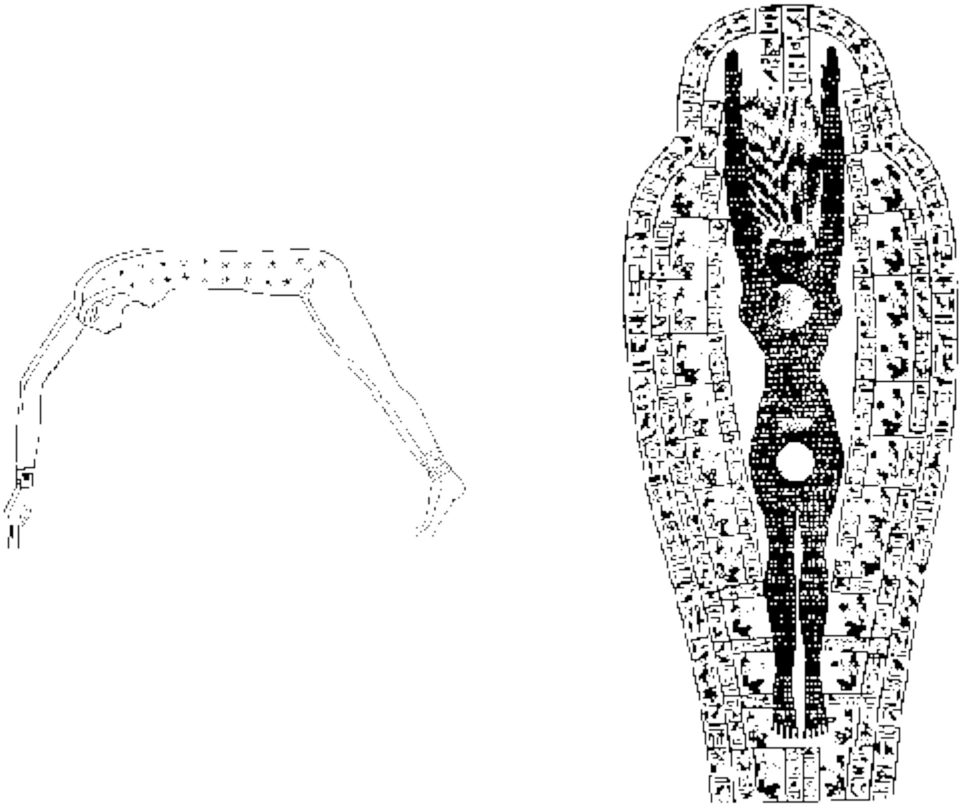
BABALON

The goddess Babalon is the primary goddess of Enochian Magic, where most deites are male. Like the Egyptian goddess Nut, she represents pure objectivity. Define yourself, and Babalon will be everything that is left out of that definition - the Not-Self. She is Infinite Space, the complement of the infinitesimal self (which Crolwey called Hadit). The duality of Babalon and the Beast was one of Crowley's favorite analogies, where Babalon was the Higher Self and the Beast the Lower Self. In a cosmic sense, Babalon is our spacetime continuum while the Beast is matter. In Jungian psychology, Babalon is the collective unconscious while the Beast is the psyche (the ego together with the personal unconscious).

Her consort is the god Om. His formula is the magical mastery of karma. This god helps all who enter here to master their own karma; to become karmaless.

The Goddess Nut

The Egyptian goddess, Nut (spelled Nuit by Aleister Crowley), was the mother of Osiris, Isis, Nephthys, and Set. Nut is the Eternal Mother. The Book of the Dead calls her the Lady of Heaven and the Goddess of the Night Sky. She is usually shown with stars on her body, and sometimes she is shown arching over the world, with her hands on the eastern horizon and her feet on the western horizon, as if her naked body was the sky itself. At the formation of the world, the god Shu separated Nut from the God of the Earth, Geb. One text says that Shu was born from Nut (Egyptian Magick, p 85) which implies that Nut created Shu (Tefnut is his lioness-headed sister) which, in turn, lead to her separation from the Earth. If we consider that every human being has three main components, a body, a mind, and a spirit, then Nut corresponds to the spirit, Shu with the mind, and Geb with the body.



Nut (Nuit)

The Goddess Demeter

Demeter was the Greek Goddess of Grain. Demeter was a beautiful goddess whose hair was said to be golden, like the color of ripe wheat. The word meter means mother, and Demeter ("Earth-Mother") was worshipped as a mother goddess. She was the second child of Rhea and her brother Cronos and was the sister of Zeus, Hades, Poseidon, and Hera. She was raped while in the form of a horse by Poseidon and bore a talking horse named Arion and a daughter named Despoena. After this, she was raped by Zeus in the form of a bull and bore Persephone, her great love. Hades abducted Persephone but she was allowed to return to Demeter for most of the year. After their renewal together, Demeter founded the Eleusinian Mysteries in which her story was re-enacted by her devotees. In a Jungian psychology sense, Demeter is the mother archetype of the collective unconscious. She represents the maternal instinct and was probably the most nurturing of all of the Greek goddesses. Demeter provides us with physical sustenance as the Goddess of Grain and with spiritual sustenance as the provider of the Eleusinian Mysteries.

Summary of Correspondences for the land of Power

Location. Portal is located in the 2nd Aethyr, ARN (nra), which is on the Spiritual Plane (higher) adjacent to the Tablet of Union (higher).

Name. LONDOH MI (im hodnol) meaning the Land of Power.

Element. All.

Goddess. BABALON (nolabab). She is usually seen naked forming the sign of compassion with her right hand. She is associated with the Crown Center or Sahasrara Chakra. Here Babalon is in the form of the Great Mother Goddess.

Enochian Letters. All 22 letters.

Male Consort. PASHS (shsap)

Magic Word. OM (mo). His formula is the magical mastery of karma.

Colors. All 5 colors (black, blue, yellow, red, and white).

Governors. The three Governors of ARN are:

DOAGNIS (Creative power)

PAKASNA (Femininity)

DIAIVOIA (Ecstasy)

Primary Lesson. Meaning of bliss.

Magic Spell. BABALON-T-AAI (iaa-t-nolabab) - Babalon is within you.

Numerical Notes.

1. PASHS together with the letters (30+1339=1369) reduce to 1.

2. BABALON (110) and the magic spell (191) each reduce to 2. ARN is the 2nd Aethyr. The three Governors together with the magic word (845+120=965) reduce to 2.

3. OM (120), ARN (156), PASHS (30), and LONDOH MI (273) each reduce to 3.

5. BABALON coupled with PASHS (110+30=140) reduce to 5. The magic word together with the magic spell (120+191=311) reduce to 5.

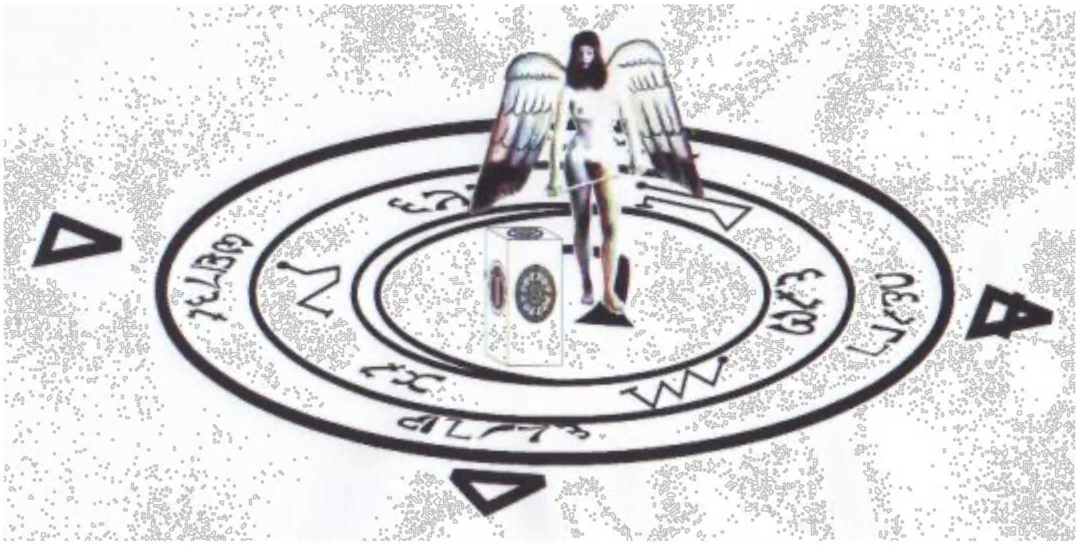
7. All 21 letters add to 1339 which reduces to 7.

8. The three Governors together (845) reduce to 8.

The color plate below shows the Portal of Babalon which leads into her kingdom from ARN. The goddess is multicolored and she sits as a queen on her throne before the two pillars of her portal. Above her head is a solar disk. Before her is a vulture, a symbol of motherhood, and a bee. Above the pillar on her right is a black triangle pointing down (symbol of water). Above the pillar on her left is a vesica pisces that is inverted (for the symbolism of the triangle and inverted vesica pisces, see Crowley's The Vision and the Voice, the 2nd Aethyr). The red rug before her throne is lined with black. The two pillars are blue. The walls around her throne are yellow while those within and immediately below her throne are white. On the wall to her right is the Enochian letter A which represents the substance-principle of Taurus. On the wall to her left is the Enochian letter X which represents the macrocosmic universe. The Scroll of Babalon contains the magic word of her realm in Enochian; OM, written backwards.

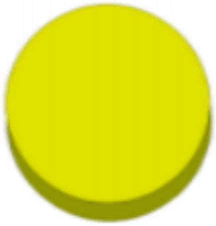
Babalon

When conducting the Ritual of Babalon, use the figure below to help you visualize yourself in the form of the goddess, Babalon, and assume her goddess-form. Assume the form of a beautiful woman with large wings. Stand with your arms at your sides and place your right foot forward. Look straight ahead. This form simulates pure motion and the intent toward action. This goddess-form should convey to you a feeling of creative power and maternal nurturing.



The Pantacles of Babalon

Each of the six goddesses (see our Goddess Page) have a special wooden Pantacle (or Pentacle if you prefer). Each Pantacle consists of a sigil on a sun-moon disk. A typical sun-moon disk is shown below.



Although the figure looks like a three dimensional section of a cylinder, it is meant to be a two-dimensional drawing of a circular sun conjoined at the bottom with a crescent moon. This figure symbolizes the sun (masculinity, consciousness, the Beast, or Crowley’s Hadit) joined with the moon (femininity, space-time, Babalon, or Crowley’s Nuit). The goddess’ sigil is drawn or painted on the sun portion of each Pantacle. Correspondences that can be used to make your own Pantacles are shown in the Table below. The moon portion of each Pantacle should be forest green. As shown in the table, the Pantacle of Obabaln can be made of either cypress or willow. The accompanying figures show each of the 6 goddess Pantacles that you will need to make, one for each ritual.

Goddess	Sun	Sigil	Wood	Day
Babalon	5-Colored	Blue	Beech	Thursday
Abalobn	White	Yellow	Elder	Wednesday
Baloban	Red	Indigo	Poplar	Friday
Alobabn	Yellow	Green	Lilac	Saturday
Lobaban	Blue	Violet	Elm	Monday
Obabaln	Black	Red	Cypress or Willow	Tuesday

If you have trouble finding the type of wood shown in the Table above, as an alternative, you can use birch for any or all of the Pantacles. Each Pantacle should be about one inch in diameter and about one-fourth to one-half-inch thick. In addition to these pantacles, full directions for making associated magical objects are included in the appendices.

Students Aspiring to Adeptship

1. COMMENTS FROM MERLINUS SORTIARIUS:

The idea of putting information of this type into a written diary, when first suggested by my friends and students, did not appeal to me at all. Yet, as these friends and students took notes and taped instructions, it occurred to me that this type of groundwork, put together into a diary, might indeed be helpful.

Scholarly works, and the translations of the Enochian texts are necessary for study, but only after a "foundation" has been laid.

Modern men and women are under tremendous pressures today, perhaps greater than at any other time in history. Whatever the lifestyle, one seems to move too fast to digest the experiences that take place during each day. The pressure felt is not exclusively because of work, although this may be part of it, but because of the enormous amount of material that has to be assimilated by an individual to survive in a very highly competitive environment. The complexity of life has become such that one becomes either "panicky" or "lethargic". In the latter case, the attitude of "It doesn't matter anyway" may act as a "key sentence" in the mind and, through its unconscious repetition, may achieve an almost hypnotic effect. Once settled in the mind, it is kept alive by emotions that can be both desperate and depressive. If anger and violence is not one's nature, resignation to life seems the only way. The natural life rhythm simply cannot absorb the constant impact of news, television, and urban living, combined with the many power struggles which are outside the domain of an individual's control. "Live NOW" becomes the motto. However, this is an unfortunate reaction leading one ever faster down the road to disaster, encouraging self-indulgence and excess on many levels.

Modern technology, despite the numerous and superficially impressive advances, is rather a punishment in disguise, increasing the burden for the average individual. With the massive bombardment of the senses -- which supposedly brings relaxation, relief, and pleasure -- men and women are driven away from their inner being. The true source of power and energy renewal is buried to such a degree that help is needed to rediscover it. There is no point in an individual expecting this help from technology and the manipulators of power. A totally new approach is needed in order for life to have any meaning -- besides the "dollar" and what it stands for.

The sense of the inner self, of that knowing from within, is the only secure foundation on which to build one's life. The need to come back to this inner core is very great, and it is my hope that help will be found to make that return through the material that is found both in the Enochian texts and these diaries.

Within these "Diaries" or "Writings" I will attempt to present as clear an account as possible of what Enochian Magick is, along with information, exercises and rituals which will help interested individuals in their development. This will be done along the lines of "laying the foundation", as it will prepare one to move further along the Path of Enochiana.

For centuries Enochian Magick was veiled in mystery and secrecy because it was only related from the Master to a student who had to prove himself or herself in many ways. Since the invention of mass printing, many previously handwritten manuscripts have been translated and deciphered and have become available to the general public. People with little or no background -- and therefore limited understanding -- in Magick, were attracted to such publications. The mind, ever ready to create new and colourful fabrics, grasps this opportunity to interpret according to its fancy. When this is done with something as powerful as Enochian Energy, it can lead to all sorts of disorders and problems.

Enochian Energy manifests itself in as many ways as the Sun has rays. This Energy is within each and every one of us. But in most people the Energy is latent. Like electricity, it is neutral. The Masters stress the need to gain control of any kind of power. To illustrate this point, one could compare such control to an electric-light dimmer, which, with each turn of the dial, gradually releases more energy and so, increases the light. With any kind of energy -- anger, for example, which can express great power -- control is essential. For those who have "laid the foundation" by learning self-discipline and self-mastery, the Energy of Enochian Magick, when understood, can be controlled at will. The foundation must be built slowly and carefully so that this ability to control can be developed.

My own introduction to Enochian Magick came about through a series of mysterious events over a number of years. The difference between the Enochian teachings and my own background proved often to be perplexing, leading to doubts, confusions and misinterpretations. But my desire to learn and to know was so great that this may have created by itself -- or with external help -- a sensitivity, enabling me to understand what was presented to me, thus helping me to absorb what was given on each occasion that I read the manuscripts. But I must confess, these "seeds" took their own time to germinate.

Even ordinary changes in life are often resisted because of the uncertainty of the unknown. This insecurity is due to the intellect's putting itself on the throne of omniscience and dismissing what it does not know as non-existent. When the unknown is encountered the intellect, together with the emotions, puts up a struggle to eliminate it or explain it away. Because of this human attitude, man knows little about himself and is so timid about finding out, that only a very few courageous persons can free themselves from this limitation. The progress of human life is very slow, and because of this, those who "Dare" to explore man's possible powers tend to keep the secrets to themselves.

We each use our intellect differently: "a person of high intellect is one who can learn from the mistakes of others, without having to repeat them". I tell you now, in truth: "All suffering is self-created because of ignorance. Remove ignorance and there will be no suffering". The Energy of Enochian Magick, when properly handled and controlled, can become a very powerful tool in one's life.

To the uninitiated, this Energy makes its presence felt most of the time accidently or only in a limited way as clairvoyance, clairaudience, or personal magnetism.

Many exercises and Rituals will be given in these writings, some of them in a form that the aspirant may consider "skimpy" or not clearly defined. The reason for the lack of definition is to exert as little influence as possible, so as to allow the aspirant as much freedom and autonomy as possible. It is the task of every Teacher or Master not to take the joy of discovery from the student, and I will continue, within these writings, to follow this tradition.

There is no mystification about the awakening of the Energy of Enochian Magick, yet the process leads to the Mystical Experience.

2. TO THE BEGINNING ASPIRANT:

Self-development in Enochian Magick may, in the initial stages, seem to have much in common with the psychological approaches of the human growth movement. However, the goals are fundamentally different. The person who undertakes human growth therapy works towards self-acceptance, efficient functioning in everyday life, and mature relationships that are not based on emotional needs. But the spiritual/magickal aspirant, man or woman, looks at this motivation from a different perspective.

There is already an innate perception, however vague, that there is more to life than having a family, friends, reasonable financial success -- "the good life". For such a person the goal is liberation from all limitations, realizing all man's potentials, and, finally, the Self merged with the Higher Self.

Anyone entering the Path of Enochian Magick must clarify the reasons and motivations for considering such an undertaking. Any building, be it a storeroom, a tiny house, or a spacious mansion, needs a foundation. The type of foundation reflects the purpose of the building to be constructed. Similarly, the foundation of a Spiritual/Magickal life indicates the perception of the purpose of life, and the way of life chosen will reflect this purpose.

During the time that the foundation is laid, the aspirant will need special tools to help in this development. These tools will be supplied in the form of indepth information, exercises, and rituals. The aspirant will then "hone" these tools to "razor sharpness" through regular daily practice and sincere meditation. Eventually, they will become written upon his heart and engraved in his mind.

The question to be asked is: "What is the purpose of my life. What makes my life worth living?" This is the beginning of self-inquiry, and in the pages that follow it will be frequently asked -- on behalf of the aspirant -- "What do you mean by ...... such words as consciousness, mind, ego? What are their characteristics? Do you use these words synonymously, or is there a difference?" Without such self-inquiry, you are subject to the authority and opinions of others -- parents, friends, spouse, the mass media, and so on. We must investigate all of our concepts and ideas, anything we have accepted blindly, without question. Such unquestioning acceptance of authority or opinion is tantamount to allowing ourselves to be hypnotized, programmed, and conditioned. We must ask, "What is hypnosis" Where (in what areas of my life) am I hypnotized?" You may find that you are indeed being hypnotized and that in your early years you were programmed by the ideas, and in some cases, the misconceptions of the adults around you. Perhaps you were told, "You can't play outside if it's raining because you will catch a cold." Years later, you may still catch a cold on a rainy day.

We condition ourselves with such ideas as, "I only slept for four hours last night so I will be tired by this afternoon." We tell ourselves, "I hate getting up in the mornings", but do we really mean, "I am unwilling to face the daily problems?" The words "hypnosis", "conditioning", and "programming" need to be very carefully investigated in the light of your own experience and understanding. Not what the book says. Not what the hypnotist, teacher or television says. What do YOU mean by them?

In the course of Spiritual/Magickal growth, all of our concepts, ideas, and beliefs have to be investigated and re-evaluated over and over again. What you are thinking now may hold no value in three months or three years. You will have grown, your awareness will have increased, and your level of understanding will have risen. From being a sleepwalker, a hypnotized or conditioned person, you gradually become a person who is aware. The process of waking up from ignorance and delusion, of becoming free from as many limitations as possible, and eventually of reaching the goal of Cosmic Consciousness -- the Higher Self -- is the process of the Path of Enochian Magick.

There are a number of pitfalls against which the aspirant must be on guard. The first is the habit of making assumptions. "I assume" means "I really don't know", and all decisions that are based only on assumption are futile and useless. The assumption that life must always be exciting can lead the aspirant to another pitfall: seeking to develop psychic powers. These powers are not in themselves harmful or a hindrance to further development. It is rather the self-indulgence, the need for continuous excitement that will finally lead to downfall on the Spiritual/Magickal Path, as one loses sight of the goal in the search for entertainment. This attitude will prevent the development of inner peace and harmony and the achievement of depth and quality in human relationships or personal experiences. To live between boredom and excitement is to be caught on a teeter-totter, having little control of your destiny, subject to the vicissitudes of life. The purpose of Enochian Magick is to become aware and to know yourself. This is the Path that leads to freedom -- and the ultimate attainment to your Higher Self.

Another pitfall for the aspirant is to seek a Teacher or Master on the basis of a display of psychic powers. These are in no way evidence of a high level of Spirituality or Wisdom. They may be very useful, and many who have developed these powers have done some very good work with them. But others have developed them to promote their self-importance and personal gain. Psychic ability is no proof of being a great Teacher or Master, or even of being Spiritual or endowed with great Wisdom.

Surrender, humility, sincerity, determination and application are the most important requirements for practicing Enochian Magick. When all the exercises and Rituals have been done and a certain degree of self-mastery, self-discipline, concentration, meditation, contemplation and proficiency has been achieved, you may go in search of your Teacher or Master. "When the student is ready, a Master will come forth". The aspirant may ask, Why not now, at this stage? Most Teachers and Masters take for granted that this foundation of self-discipline has already been laid. No one can be taught to write poetry when the alphabet has not yet been learned. Therefore, learn the ABC's before you go looking for the Z's.

Awareness will come in degrees and at one point in the process of experience and development a Teacher or Master will be necessary. You would not expect to become a qualified doctor solely through studying medicine theoretically. Reading about surgical procedures would not give one the courage to perform an operation. Treatment or surgery on the mind demands a Spiritual/Magickal Teacher or Master, for in both cases the practical guidance is needed. From a philosophical point of view, all we learn in school is only information. Practical knowledge and wisdom is gained from personal experience and reflection.

Many people find it difficult to put their faith in something from which there is no tangible return. The fear of putting years of effort into what could prove to be an illusion is understandable. The proof that this arduous task of self-development and the attainment to the Higher Self is worth all the effort lies in the emergence of self-mastery in your life.

The self-control and discipline achieved by regularly performing the exercises and Rituals is itself a power. Increased concentration, control of emotions, expanded awareness, loss of fear, growing courage, an inner knowledge and wisdom, and self-confidence all pave the road to realization and give proof to the aspirant that the Path of Enochian Magick is indeed real.

So any potential aspirant, after much thought on the subject of Enochian Magick, must ask some pertinent questions: What is really involved? What is this process of learning? What can I gain from it? What are the obstacles to learning? Can they be overcome? How? What does it mean to be an aspirant? What is my motive for interest in the Spiritual/Magickal life?

The practice of Enochian Magick is deeply involving. Mere dabbling is very dangerous; half-knowledge is worse than no knowledge at all. No progress is possible through reading the texts, intellectualizing about their contents and then dismissing them. Many people are victims of their own self-deception, judging themselves to be good people and assuming that they have faith. How the knowledge gained is applied to your life is essentially the determining factor. Sincerity is the key-note.

The process of learning is a continuous one -- as with a concert pianist, practice never stops. "Do I want to learn" is then an important decision which must be supported by the Will -- it is indeed a decision of Will. In contrast to Will, there is self-will, which creates obstacles -- intellectualizations and justifications -- that divert the aspirant from the Path. Self-discipline, enforced by the Will, must be exercised to overcome these obstacles. Each victory makes one stronger.

Where does this leave the aspirant who is married, who may have an earnest yearning toward expanded consciousness and the attainment to the Higher Self? To these aspirants I always suggest that family life is an excellent opportunity to practice selfless service, to develop consideration, love, patience, and understanding, and to expand that kindness to others who are not of one's kin; to consider oneself to be God's caretaker of the family and those in need, and to love without attachment or strings. I would further say to the aspirant, that this is the best preparation for the time when Spiritual/Magickal practice can be pursued with all the intensity of which one is capable. Since one cannot serve two masters, it may be better to accept that limitation while it exists and spent that time in self-development and Ritual Practice -- this also includes learning all the written material that is totally essential to the practice of Enochian Magick.

The aspirant must be prepared to face the problem of "What will other people think?" There may be accusations, "Aren't you being selfish? Isn't this just another ego trip? That's black magic, why are you doing it? What a terrible thing to do to your family!"

Some academic careers may take twelve years' training -- which may not make one a better person, or any wiser as far as personal life is concerned. Yet this "selfish" period, devoted to acquiring academic knowledge and developing skills in a particular field, is never questioned. But, when it comes to Spiritual Attainment and self-development to become a better person, to find meaning in life, the time and effort spent seems to require justification.

People once considered friends, may turn cold. They feel challenged and, not prepared to accept the challenge, they turn away. Suddenly the Path seems very lonely. There is no one to turn to, no shoulder to lean on. The Light that you are following seems less visible. However, at the same time another phase becomes apparent. A sense of freedom from the tyranny of social obligations, from continually struggling to meet other people's expectations, is experienced. This freedom is like a breath of fresh Air!

The aspirant will, every now and then, be assailed by doubt. The question must be asked, "Do I doubt so that I don't have to act, so that I can keep a back door open through which I can escape?" or "Do I doubt because I have an intuitive perception that this doubt could expand my present limited ideas?"

The first kind of doubt is an obstacle created by self-will.

The second is a necessary step in the process of development. Be patient. Any discovery by yourself, however small, becomes a knowing within that provides another stone for a foundation of stability, security and confidence. Observation and awareness develop in an aspirant in proportion to the desire to know oneself, by the courage to accept that which is observed and, finally, by the application of the Will to make the necessary changes.

Worship -- religious, spiritual or magickal -- seems to have lost its place in modern life. Yet there is in every man and woman, coming to the foreground in precious moments, the value, the greatness, and the rightness to worship that which is a great inspiration. Somewhere within everyone there is a knowing of a Greater Power, and it is this inner knowing that generates within us the urge to worship. When we recognize that we are a bridge between two worlds, the mental-physical-material on the one hand and the Spiritual-Magickal on the other, and when we walk over this bridge, there is suddenly a profound humility as we come to realize and confront that great and awesome Power.

The aspirant must decide if he or she is prepared to embark upon this Path of Spiritual Enlightenment; prepared to do the work and make the sacrifices.

Let there be no mistake, the "Pearl of Great Price" exacts its price.

SO LET US BEGIN!

3. SPEECH (LEVEL ONE):

Speech has to be recognized as an integral part in the process of self-development. Each of us uses speech in different ways. The way we use speech is a reflection of "Who" and "What" we are.

The great significance of speech, personalized or deified, can perhaps only be understood if it is borne in mind that the Ancient Teachers and Masters handed down their wisdom by word of mouth. The spoken word, trusted to memory, can float away into the distance of time because of its intangible nature. This points out the incredible power of memory of these Ancient Teachers and Masters, and their students.

Each Letter of the Enochian Alphabet is sacred in nature. This is to signify that every word or sound has power -- The Enochian Texts like many of the Scriptural Texts contain commands or utterances that show a common recognition of the power of the Word. For example, Jesus in Matthew 12:36,37, says: "But I say unto you, that every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned". This quotation refers to cause and effect as it is expressed in the idea of Karma. It points to scrutiny of all actions, including speech, and implies a depth of responsibility that we rarely consider. Similarly, the concept of non-injury means that all actions, speech, and deeds have to be performed without injury to anyone else or to oneself. That is a simple expression of a complex formula and therefore needs to be pursued in depth. This power is not only connected to the emotions and mental activities, but also to a Spirit of the Highest Order. It can, therefore, lift us to heights we ordinarily do not even anticipate. Speech has two aspects -- the audible and the inaudible. Inaudible speech differs from mere talking in one's head; it is an ethereal intuitive perception. It is also called the Language of the Heart.

Each Enochian letter, sound, word, or phrase is a source of virtually unlimited power. Because the Path of Enochian Magick is a path of evolution, it becomes evident that in each letter of the Enochian Alphabet there is an increased perception of Power manifest producing all forthcoming letters.

The mere naming of things has been man's privilege, of which he makes wide use until awareness of the true power of language is realized. Speech has to be refined. One must become aware of one's speech. Coarse language is termed "wrong conduct" for all aspirants of any path. Sensitivity is only gained by refinement and cultivation. As a plant is cultivated, so humans must cultivate themselves to become more sensitive in a positive way. The Ancient Teachers and Masters, being highly developed seers, were the recipients of the Ancient Texts. They perceived "Divine Insight" by an indescribable intuition and power of mind. The power of mind is needed to transmit what has been intuitively perceived into speech. The Masters knew of these powers of mind and sound by experience, and they understood the force inherent in the mind and its desire to create. The purpose of the Master was, by their higher perceptions, to guide mankind. When we speak of powers today, it is often assumed that such powers are meant for the control of others -- nothing could be further from the truth. But the Masters knew that their powers were intended to be used in the service of others.

The powers of the Masters and Teachers of old were achieved by persistent practice. As discipline slowly declined, those living towers of knowledge and goodness seemed to vanish. Their stories appear to have no more relevance, as it is inconceivable to the modern person that anyone could have such an awesome memory and such intense concentration.

Rituals are words of power and include formulations in praise of aspects of the Divine. On a basic level, the Rituals are used as an incantation similar to those of some Christian churches. At a higher level, the Rituals are practiced for single-pointedness of mind. On a still higher level, the Rituals are used to activate and amplify both the latent forces which are within every human being and the Cosmic Forces.

To speak these words or sounds of power is to acquire the power in them and to come in contact with the source of sound and thought, the "root" of the Ritual. The Master or Seer who became the receptacle of the Ritual had achieved that state of mind.

The sincere aspirant seeks the accomplishments of the Master and wishes to become such a receptacle also.

The empty mind (void) is too awesome for the average person to conceive. The mind resists a vacuum and does its best to fill it with its own creations. So it is a constant battle to keep the mind still, in its natural state of calm (pure mind). Finally, when the mental processes have exhausted themselves through the reciting of a Ritual, the mind becomes open to very subtle intuitive perceptions. At a certain point, it would not be an exaggeration to say that some of these perceptions are emanations from a source that is outside the human mind.

Just as on a particular level there can be a meeting of like minds, it is not unreasonable to contemplate that one can come in contact with that vortex of Energy that can only be called "Divine Consciousness". It is also not unreasonable to contemplate that one can come in contact with the Energy that was at some time in a physical body. Both of these forms of energy will help, guide, and sustain the aspirant to be persistent in their study and Ritual practice.

FIRST LEVEL EXERCISES IN SPEECH

Speech is man's most constant expression, his greatest performance, and the barometer of his emotions. Between the cry for help and the cry of joy there is a whole range of sounds expressing minute degrees of emotion. The foremost tool for self-expression is the human voice. Control of speech is a necessity and the practice itself is of great significance because of restlessness and the tendency of most of us to indulge in talking, using words either with or without sense. The urge to talk may originate from the fear of silence or loneliness, or the pride of wanting to show off what one knows, or the need to put in one's "two-cents worth". Even giving advice can be more a case of a desire for self-expression than concern for the one who is seeking help.

An awareness of speech is essential in order to discover these urges.

1. Keep a ring or small coin in your mouth to give just enough time to ask yourself why you need to say something and what it is you want to say, since the coin has to be tucked under the tongue or in the cheek before you can say anything.

Talking can be evidence of the desire to be noticed, or to defend your actions. Fear can be the motivation for the need to talk, perhaps to quiet the still, small voice within. "I don't have to listen if I keep on talking". The manifestation of the human voice can be a curse as well as a blessing. What is behind your urge to keep talking?

1. Self-justification?
2. Killing time?
3. Self-importance?
4. So that you won't have to listen ... to others?
5. So that you won't have to listen to your Inner Self?
6. The desire to talk about yourself?
7. The mistaken belief that you are sharing, when you are really only trying to collect pity from others?

Notice how you use terms connected with speech and the organs of speech:

1. Double-tongued.
2. Tongued-tied.
3. Getting your teeth into something.
4. Being in the grip of the need for self-expression through talking.
5. Opening up lanes of communications.
6. {Add your own terms to the list.}

The tone of voice can express a whole range of emotions -- joy, happiness, laughter, doubt, irony, and arrogance. A quiet, low voice makes everybody listen. (This is a trick used by politicians when they want to be heard).

Difficulties in self-expression may be caused by shyness (Why is one shy? Is it perhaps the reflection of an inverted ego?), or the result of speaking before thinking. (Students often remark, "I don't know what I am going to say until I hear myself saying it". It might be necessary to find out what is behind such a remark.)

It is advisable to practice silence. Mahatma Gandhi set a wonderful example by observing silence for certain hours on a particular day. No one could persuade him to break his silence. The highest dignitaries had to wait to speak to him. Mahatma Gandhi knew the significance of the control of speech for himself and the reflection of this on others.

The aspirant must choose a time when the temptation to talk is greatest. The continuous need to express oneself has no validity in the life of an aspirant. All urges must be under control and all excuses must be dropped. The hours, the length of time, must be determined before hand to enforce discipline and a written record kept of the results.

Refined speech is song, sung in glorification of a Power greater than one's own.

Important Note:

It is important for the aspirant to remember that speech is an expression of creation. When the meaning of the power of speech is comprehended, then the importance of "key words or sentences" in the mind can be understood and used to effect changes. The key sentence is a short command phrase that is used, most of the time without awareness, in a repetitive way: "I can't do this" or "I have never done such a thing" -- thereby undermining willingness to try (and avoiding success). Key sentences or words can be counteracted in a positive manner.

There is room for a great deal of experimentation by the individual aspirant. Key sentences have to be short to be effective. Their formulation should be clear and positive, and can be compared to suggestion.

4. THE SENSE OF SMELL:

In many people the sense of smell is quite undeveloped, while in others it is very keen. There are, of course, various degrees in between.

A person whose sense of smell is little developed has not paid enough attention to its function. Lack of concern can be called inertia or laziness. But, with even a little thought, it is obvious that the sense of smell is very important. For example, it tells when food has become rotten. It also recognizes by the aroma of good food cooking that a delicious meal is about to be served.

Very often the attraction to the opposite sex takes place on the level of physical smell. The eyes may not be satisfied with what they see, or the ears may not be pleased with what they hear, but smell might attract because it has a very strong connection to the powerful sexual instinct. The physical smell of some people (not only from lack of cleanliness) can create difficulties for one sensitive in this area, when it is necessary to share limited space.

The sense of smell affects an individual differently at different times. Therefore, it is absolutely necessary that one learns to control the sense of smell -- in addition to all the other senses.

Padre Pio, a Franciscan monk of Italy, who was one of the few men bearing all five stigmata (marks of Jesus) on his body, had the ability of bilocation (being in two places at once). His presence was recognized by his disciples through the smell of roses and violets. There have been hundreds of such reports from Catholics and non-Catholics alike. In India, devotees of Shiva (Siva) have experienced his presence by a very delicate fragrance of sandalwood. Often a group of people who pray and meditate together can, at the moment of having transcended personality aspects, experience some very beautiful scents -- This can also be experienced by a single person while praying, meditating, or performing the Enochian Rituals. These scents may not seem to belong to any particular flower, but those present will experience, through their sensitivity of smell, an elevated state. To some, there may be a distinct feeling or knowing of Divine Presence.

EXERCISES TO DEVELOP SMELL

Become familiar with the difference in the smell of each fruit, each vegetable. Do not just smell food as being good or bad. Observe how much smell stimulates you in eating or drinking. Does coffee really taste as good as it smells? Can you think of a drink or a food that smells terrible but tastes wonderful, besides ripe cheese? In the reverse, what smells good but tastes terrible?

Check your own body at different times of the day to observe different smells. Discover the difference between the smell of the body and the smell of the breath by breathing into your hands. Also smell your clothes when you take them off. When you use creams, ointments, colognes, or perfumes, find out if they blend with your natural body odour. The body will give off different smells if you change your diet or if you fast. Most people give off a terrible odour when fasting. Your own breath can tell you if there is an oncoming illness. Increase your time for breathing exercises (dealt with in a later section) to help the body deal with and overcome the problem.

Blindfold your eyes and have someone arrange a number of different items for you to identify by smell. The objects must not, of course, be seen, touched or tasted. Record your guesses and observations on a tape recorder and then transfer them into your written diary for future reference in checking your development. With a little practice one is able to name or describe accurately what is smelled.

The higher state of the sense of smell is achieved at a further stage in development when all senses are refined and when the mind has been given the proper discipline.

5. TASTE:

There can be no clear distinction about taste, because all human characteristics are interwoven, but in the course of self-development there is a gradual refinement and escalation of the senses. Therefore, the senses can be compared to the keyboard of a piano. High and low keys are played in skillful harmony. This is the objective.

In regard to food and drink it is the tongue that we taste with, yet in daily language it becomes apparent that taste is also related to other areas besides the liking for certain foods and delicacies. The cultivation of taste in food leads to the ability to really taste a carrot or a pea by itself, without the addition of spices. There is the cultivating of taste in dress and decoration, and in the arts. The word "taste" is also used to indicate discrimination in manners, speech, and behaviour. The display of good taste seems to give an individual a certain charm which opens the doors of friendship and is an advantage in various work situations. The appreciation of art is, in part, cultivation of good taste, to which a sense of beauty also belongs.

The awareness of a particular sense becomes more acute by isolating it and by recognizing the interplay of forces which would not be understood unless attention were directed in this way. When greater awareness of the function of taste is achieved, its constant stimulation by a chain of reactions will be understood, particularly "feeding" the imagination and "feeding" the mind.

There is a saying, "We are what we eat". Let us pause to think about this. Does our choice of food point to certain characteristics of indulgence? What does it indicate about our mental and emotional make-up? Taste for something is created and recreated by memory. The actual need (for food, sex) may not exist, but memory of some pleasant experience creates the desire to re-experience. Other motivations might reinforce this, such as rewarding oneself.

Until the sense of taste is refined to the magickal level we cannot experience the purity, or magickal quality, of food. The energy in food is magickal if there is no influence from taste stimuli. Fasting gives you an opportunity to understand how the stimulations to the sense of taste affect its purity. During a fast observe the effects of the imagination and investigate any problems that arise. Dreams should be watched during fasting. Do they contain food, and which ones? Dreams may indicate that certain foods are not good for us.

Taste has to be seen in a broader sense by understanding the connection between taste and imagination. Indulgence by any one of the senses is like swimming in murky water of unfathomable depth, with no shores in sight, and no hope of reaching firm ground. Once the taste of imagination has been experienced the temptations are difficult to resist.

Many important decisions in life have been made (marriage, business) based on unrealistic expectations -- imagination kindled by desire.

Does this process of investigation exclude spontaneity? Not at all, as long as we discriminate between indulgence and spontaneity. No sense should be killed or dulled, but rather refined to the utmost degree.

EXERCISES TO DEVELOP TASTE

The exercises on taste begin with food. For the average person the sense of taste has been dulled and so spices are used to increase taste, to create more stimulation to the tongue, and thereby promote appetite. In these exercises nothing is used that could mask the taste. They are done blindfolded so there will be no interference from another powerful sense -- SIGHT.

1. Place a piece of food such as finely grated carrot or a single pea on the tongue and experience the sensations. They are quite different from, for example, those of a few grains of sugar, a little bit of milk or chocolate. Notice the urge to bite or chew, and to swallow. It is not easy to resist in the beginning and points to greediness. The exercise should be done on a full stomach; then later, using the same ingredients, on an empty stomach.
2. Food and beverages (including water) allow endless possibilities for investigating the sense of taste and make the aspirant aware of areas that have been given little or no attention. When sufficient exercises have been done blindfolded, they should also be done with the eyes open to recognize how much stimulation comes from sight. Interaction with the sense of smell should not be ignored. Every detail is important in the exercise and should be carefully observed and noted:

a. How does the food or drink smell?
b. Is smell important?

c. Or is taste?

3. The taste of food creates a great stimulation to the emotions and vice versa. The law of thought association brings past images into the mind. Food can mean:

a. Socializing, under the disguise of sharing.
b. Obtaining recognition and acceptance for exquisite cooking and special recipes.
c. Reaction to self-pity by eating.
d. Rewarding oneself.

4. Think about the following:

a. Is one born with a certain sense of taste or is this sense developed?
b. Is taste a source of continuous desires?
c. What part does gratification or emotional satisfaction play?
d. What is the grip that taste has?
e. What compulsions, leading to indulgence, are connected with taste?
f. After the initial experience of taste, does greed take control?

Once an attempt is made to answer these questions on a personal basis, many more questions will come up leading to insights about one's sense of taste. The finer things like wine, caviar, and other delicacies should not be overlooked. This poses a very interesting question -- the refinement of taste of the tongue in comparison to taste on a higher level, disassociated from the tongue.

The following list may help to stimulate your thinking and understanding of the sense of taste:

a. Indulgence, likes -- delight.
b. Aversion, dislikes -- abhorrence.
c. Indifference -- neutral.
d. Hot food and drink.
e. Cold food and drink.
f. Spicy food and drink.
g. Alcohol.

5. Make a list of likes and dislikes. How strong are they? Bringing them into balance makes them less extreme. From strong uncontrolled likes and dislikes arise such characteristics as: aversion, hatred, conceit, envy, jealousy, possessiveness, arrogance, passion, lust, infatuation, dullness, and laziness. Observation of any of these characteristics does not mean condemnation, but rather identification of them and the slow change towards the opposite of each in order to achieve a balance. Any tendency to be judgmental would just add another undesirable quality. The daily diary can be seen as a mirror in which events are recorded and which allows development in the practice of awareness to be observed. This is very encouraging and should be looked on as a reward for effort.

6. Cultivation can begin by developing "taste" for the more beneficial attitudes and actions in life:

a. Having good taste in appearance, clothing and furniture.

b. Having good taste in arts.
c. Handling a delicate situation in good taste.
7. Taste as related and unrelated to the taste buds:
a. The affair that soured.
b. Speech as sweet as honey.
c. A sweet person.
d. The taste of Divine nectar and ambrosia.
8. Make a list and try to explain the reasons:
a. What is tasteful to you?
b. What is distasteful to you?

When these exercises in taste have been done, some should be repeated with the guiding thoughts:

a. What is the act of tasting?
b. What is tasted?
9. Now answer these questions about water and then add others you can think of:
a. How different can water taste?
b. What is the power of water?
c. What is in a drop?
10. Think about the following:
a. Standing in the rain and letting the raindrops fall in your mouth.
b. Tasting the snow or a piece of ice.
c. Tasting the tears of joy or sorrow.
d. Can I drink the ocean? (of Divine Wisdom)
e. Have I a thirst for life?
f. Have I a thirst for the spirit of life?
11. Pay attention to tension in the jaws:
a. Indicating what?
b. Getting one's teeth into something.
c. Being in the grip of criticism.
d. Being in the grip of oneself.
e. Being in the grip of others.
f. Being in the grip of sex.
g. Being in the grip of emotions.
h. Being in the grip of bitterness.
i. Being in the grip of negative experience.
j. Spitting it out (in disgust) ... bitterness or negative experience.

Swallowing insults and still smiling is a characteristic that tells us of the necessity of going beyond praise and blame. Unless taste in a general way is understood and under control, it will not be easy to develop a taste for the Divine Food of the Most High.

6. SIGHT:

When dealing with sight we have to recognize the different manifestations of this sense. Therefore, it is necessary to clarify our thoughts on sight.

What would your life be if you had no sight? Have you taken sight for granted? Is there a difference between "I look" and "I see"? What is sight? Do the eyes record as efficiently as a photographic camera? Watch the process of seeing, then analyze it. When you "look" do you "see"? When does awareness come in? Can sight be cultivated?

In fact, all five senses have to be exercised to bring them to their very best. If seeing is a mental process as well as physical, then the question of "How do I see?" carries more importance. If the eyes register the visual impression and the mind interprets it, then is "clear sight" really possible? When the mind interprets, what is the basis of the interpretation? What prevents clear sight?

The answer might point to the emotions. Mind, the interpreter, is perhaps not as reliable as it is often considered (particularly when logic is claimed as its attribute) because the emotions insert their own filters, different coloured filters for different emotions.

This is evident in the number of different ways an accident can be seen by several witnesses. In each case, the personal emotional filters, formed from the past experience, likes and dislikes, or even the thoughts that were in the mind immediately prior to the event, influence the perception of what has been observed. Clear sight is pure mind, uncoloured perception.

Sight has to be investigated in the same way as the previous senses to understand what it means and how it functions, not so much from the anatomical point of view as to be aware of what is happening when one sees something. For example, food is selected by the eyes for its appearance, its freshness. Immediately one sees appetizing food, the mouth begins to water. The saying that the eyes are bigger than the stomach is well-known. It might be very helpful to know which of the senses is most stimulated toward eating and what part sight plays in this.

A quick glance at surroundings can give information about conditions. They are speedily assessed by the mind as to whether they are favourable or unfavourable. If an object is in the way, seeing it makes one either remove it or walk around it, unless the sight has been diverted, in which case, one will probably trip over it.

If the exercises are done as they are laid out in the following pages, the aspirant will find that the control that is achieved is a power in itself, and that a more intense level of concentration, meditation, contemplation, and proficiency will be reached. The power of concentration is obvious in the lives of the Enochian Masters, but it is present also (to a limited degree) in people who are successful in daily life. With respect to Enochian Magick, history tells of Masters who have developed special powers and were capable of accomplishing phenomenal feats, bordering on the miraculous.

This may be difficult for the beginning aspirant to believe. However, proof will lie not in the witnessing of someone else's extraordinary acts, but rather in one's own achievements. The power of concentration does increase and when, after a few years of practice, a greater level of intense concentration is achieved, it must be realized that one has still not reached the highest limit. The power will continue to increase to a miraculous degree.

Seeing facts as they are helps to build confidence and makes one a stronger person. If one can see what is, instead of what one wants to see, there is much less self-inflicted pain. It may seem cruel to be urged to give up one's illusions, but to insist on seeing what is not there must someday lead to a rude awakening. The result is pain, and this pain is self-created.

Various levels and qualities apply to sight as well as to emotions. Both need to be cultivated. The physical eye which can appreciate high quality craftsmanship will develop creative inner sight which will manifest in due time. Raw and powerful emotions have to be cultivated into refined feelings through this insight and (inner) sight. Sensitivity to one's own emotions, to one's own ego, has to be cultivated until one responds with refined feelings, with understanding , until eventually the cultivated feelings reach the level of compassion -- compassion for others. All self-development must be used in helping others if a higher level of consciousness -- the Goal of Liberation -- and the attainment to the Higher Self are to be achieved.

After examining sight, insight, and the mind's eye, investigation of the sense of sight can be taken one step further, to the third eye (Spiritual Eye), which is indicated as having its location in the space between the eyebrows. No physical eye is involved. We are dealing with the center of sight that is in the brain, in which the power of sight is located.

THE POWER THAT HAS CREATED THE EYE CAN SEE.

This would also apply to all other senses. Intuition is the highly refined expression of a sense, in this case sight, which takes on almost the quality of the third eye. Like the blood that moves through the whole body, the Energy of Enochian Magick moves through all the senses to a greater or lesser degree.

EXERCISES TO DEVELOP SIGHT

You might start this investigation with "Do I see myself? How do I see myself?" When these questions are asked for the first time the answers should be written down. At another time when the questions are posed again, the answers will be significantly different because of the previous "insight".

Continue this investigation with such questions as: "How do others see me -- my husband, wife, son, daughter, co-workers?" "Do I identify with others? How do I see them? Do I see myself in others? What should I identify with? How can I see myself? When do I screen things out? What is it that I don't want to see? Why?"

It is necessary to see where one keeps oneself intentionally blind and to clarify what screens are put up in front of things we do not want to see. Every emotion erects its own screen, preventing clear sight.

1. Try to identify the screens, the emotions, expressed by:

a. I saw red and didn't know what I was doing.

b. I can't see this person or this object going out of my life.

To see something that is not there means one cannot see clearly what is there.

2. Check your habitual way of looking at things. Find out where you are not recording what you have seen -- with the inner eye as well as the physical eye.

In all these investigations there must be the overriding thought "knowing myself will make me free". Therefore, it must be understood that the interplay of the forces of sight and emotions is particularly powerful.

3. Look at an inanimate object such as a piece of wood, a glass of water, piece of cloth, or a sheet of paper, for three (3) minutes and note the intruding thoughts which prevent single-pointedness of sight in regard to the object. Now, for comparison, look at a photograph of a loved one or revered person, or the picture of a child, a bird, or a flower. Afterwards, your notes can be compared and the ability to concentrate established. The exercise could be timed for greater accuracy.

4. Sit comfortably facing another person and look into each other's eyes for a certain period of time, without moving or talking, trying not to blink. Observe the activity of the mind and the emotions and later record these observations in your diary.

5. Create a painting or sculpture in your mind's eye, or use an image from the third exercise. Again observe what happens and check how long you are able to hold your concentration and, which of the objects holds the concentration longest.

6. Sitting quietly and observing the mind is like seeing with the mind's eye, seeing what appears on one's mental screen. Notes should be taken periodically and the material later looked over and dealt with where necessary. There is much to learn about one's mind and about thought association, which in time becomes extremely helpful and revealing. Problem areas which appear over and over have to be dealt with, otherwise they will become a disturbance and an almost insurmountable obstacle to meditation and concentration. The time spent doing this exercise can begin with ten (10) minutes and then be doubled, tripled, and so on.

7. Look at an ordinary stone for not less than three (3) minutes. Then shift to a semi-precious or precious stone, whatever is available, and recognize its symbolic meaning for you.

8. Look at the colours in your room. Fix your eyes for a few minutes on one colour at a time. Clarify what the colours mean to you.

9. In your mind's eye see a flame. Does it consume anything? Or is something emerging from the flame? Now visualize your Heart. Imagine a blue flame on an altar there. Take the flame and place it on the heads of friends or loved ones. Write down what comes to mind during this visualization.

10. Place a coloured dot on a plain piece of white paper. The dot should be one-half to three-quarters of an inch in size. Look at the dot without blinking until the eyes water. Practice must be kept up to lengthen the time. Record your observations in your diary.

Now, look at the dot, breathe in, hold the breath, tense the hands, let the breath out and relax. Again, write down all observations.

Make a comparison of concentration on the dot and looking into a person's eyes (exercise #4). Record the differences in your diary.

11. Sit in a comfortable position and think of the navel. Focus your eyes on the spot between the eyebrows. Form a clear picture of a silver disc (the Moon) on the top of your navel. When the picture is clear, bring in feeling and watch the coolness move in concentric circles, mingling pleasantly with your body heat. If the mind becomes active beyond the concentration on the silver disc and the cool feeling, add some bold letters such as LOVE, PEACE, GOD, or LIGHT.

12. Sit with the spine straight, neck and shoulders relaxed, breathing steady. Make yourself comfortable. Think of the image of a person of your choice. Focus all your attention on this image. Now see the figure sitting on top of your head. Think of your spine continuing into the spine of the figure. Choose the most meaningful image of perfection for you and see it as a human form sitting cross-legged on top of your head. Record all that happens.

13. Gaze into a portrait sized mirror, seeing only your head, neck and shoulders. What do you see? A face of resentment or pain? Is it a face one can trust? Does it look deceitful or does the inner Light show through? What kind of face do you see? Look at your face for two (2) or three (3) minutes, then close your eyes and visualize it. Make brief notes. Double the time for the next period of looking and continue closing the eyes, visualizing, making notes, until you are able to hold the image with closed eyes.

When you can successfully see in your mind's eye the image of yourself that was reflected in the mirror, project your image into the sky.

There is no depth of understanding of the sense of sight unless these exercises are done, and these are only a beginning. With every exercise always remember, "I see, the act of seeing, and what is seen?" Follow this process to understand the sense of sight and its effects.

7. TOUCH:

Air and touch are the particular subjects of this section. The air indicates lightness; it cannot be grasped and held onto. Breathing is vital to the human life. A touch as light as breath is only possible when all self-gratification has been renounced. Grasping is different from touching.

To touch a silken cloth is to feel its softness, but to touch a piece of rock is to feel its roughness. We think of touching the human skin, feeling the softness, warmth, and the pulsating life; or we can think of allowing someone to touch us and responding to what that touch conveys. A touching gesture can be more helpful than words in comforting someone, yet the right words can also touch one inside.

"Touching" and "feeling" are interchanged in everyday language. Should they be? Touch and feelings can be seen as emotions that are being cultivated. Uncultivated touch will be rough, without awareness for the sensitivity of what is touched, be it a person or an object. Touch is often emotionally stimulated and serves as a barometer to find out if "the touch of one's hand is well-received", which conveys to them that they are accepted. So it serves our own emotional needs rather than being of a giving nature. This motivation to touch would be called selfish (based on desire and instinct). The second level of touch would be partly the fulfillment of our needs, but there would also be a willingness and a readiness to meet the needs of the other person. The underlying factor would be our desire to accept and our need to be accepted. The most desirable touch is that which gives without asking anything in return, a spontaneous from-the-heart action.

EXERCISES TO DEVELOP TOUCH

Once the aspirant begins to practice Enochian Magick, he or she finds that small details have to be given great attention. Here, we must investigate the sense of touch with the same zeal as we have the other senses in the previous sections.

It is now time to check out emotional impulses to see how they have changed into refined feelings and how much still has to be done. As the process of awareness goes on, emotions change too, but sometimes more slowly. To become aware of something disturbing that one has been unaware of can trigger feelings of hurt. By the use of discrimination, as part of awareness, you can quickly discard old experiences and the desire to take revenge for them now. There is no point in getting angry now about something that occurred years back. Awareness should be a tool for a more balanced way of living. Revenge is never good, but this type is very unfair.

In a dispute between parents, children should be left out and not used as objects of revenge. If a mother blesses her child by a gentle and loving touch of her hand and touches the child with her eyes, the father can turn that blessing into a curse in subtle ways. Or vice versa, the mother can turn the blessing of the father into a curse.

1. Investigate what touch means to you:

a. When you say that something touches your heart, what do you mean by this?

b. What does it mean to be touched by a smile or a look of understanding?

c. Think of being touched by the sunshine. In what ways?

d. Energy touches every part of your body and moves around within it. What does this mean to you?

e. Is a healing touch necessarily limited to the laying on of hands? Can it be comfort in emotional desperation?

f. Is there ever a time when touching people is an imposition?

g. Do you consider touching an imposition when you are tired, nervous, or wish to "keep your distance" and retain privacy?

h. Does fear of touching or being touched mean a fear of not measuring up?

i. Does your sense of touch have a powerful influence on your moods?

j. Do you like or dislike being touched and stroked by others?

k. Do you use the sense of touch for differentiation and organization?

l. The hands are the part of the body most used for touching. Hands build and hands destroy. Can this be related to touch and feelings?

Think about each question and then write your answers in your diary. Remember, your answers should be straight forward and honest.

The following exercises will be of assistance in learning more about the sense of touch and the details of this perception, which are usually given little or no attention. The exercises are divided into theoretical and actual parts.

Theoretical:

a. What is your present perception of touch?

b. What can you touch and what can you not touch?

c. How do you relate touch to feelings and to emotions?

d. Do you really experience touch, or do you only remember? How big a part of memory and thought association play in the actual experience of touch?

e. Investigate the sense of touch in relation to the other senses. What is the influence of the other senses?

Actual:

a. The first exercise for the actual sense of touch is to hold or touch objects such as a piece of wood; metal objects, one that is smooth and one that is sharp such as a knife; a smooth stone and one that is rough; hot water and cold water; a leaf; the hair, skin, feet, face, and eyes of another person. Observe all your thoughts and reactions and carefully take note of them. Record them in your diary.

b. Take a piece of perfectly clean, white cloth. Rub your hands on the cloth, saying aloud, "Dirt be removed, Dirt be removed", over and over again. The cloth will, of course become dirty. The remembrance that it was perfectly white at one time will lead gradually to insights.

c. Sit comfortably facing another person and touch just the fingertips of your hands together. Observe all impressions, thoughts, and reactions, and write them down afterwards in your diary.

This exercise can also be done with each person holding the hands close to, but not touching, the others hands. Observe the difference and write them down in your diary. Compare these different responses.

d. If you have the opportunity to make observations of persons while they are performing Enochian Rituals, you will be able to feel the vibrations of the words in different parts of your body. Place your hands lightly on the head, the neck, the shoulders, the back, at the end of the first part of the Ritual. Do this again at the mid-point of the Ritual, and again at the end of the Ritual. Note how the vibrations vary in intensity and in the different parts of the body. Record your findings after each is taken. Compare these findings when the Ritual is over.

e. Choose a stone and hold it in your hand when you go to sleep. Try to keep it in your hand until you awake in the morning. Observe your feelings or thoughts in connection with holding the stone and note any dreams that come from this experience. Recall dreams you have had in which the sense of touch was involved. Record these in your diary and compare them.

The insights obtained from these exercises will be more valuable than information given by someone who, through a misguided idea of helping (sentimentality), shares an experience, thereby depriving the aspirant of self-discovery. The much needed personal experience becomes a well of strength and energy to pursue the Path to the attainment to the Higher Self.

8. HEARING:

The sense of hearing is, from the Western point of view, the last of the five senses. In the East, the mind -- the interpreter -- is considered the sixth sense. The element of ether means something very elusive, ethereal, and yet very powerful. The influences on a human being are subtle and yet can bring about great changes in the body and mind. The dictionary definition of ether indicates that it has three (3) aspects: the abstract, the physical, and the chemical.

Ethereal is defined as: light; airy; heavenly; of unearthly delicacy of substance, character, or appearance; something of great subtlety or transparency. To hear the music of the spheres of the Sephiroth would be an ethereal experience. To hear the Celestials speak is the crown of all experiences through the sense of hearing. This indeed may start delicately and subtly, but can become very powerful, lifting the listener into a different ethereal world.

Hearing is a subtle process. It is indeed ethereal because the interfering voices that prevent us from hearing are our own thoughts. Much energy is wasted listening to those thoughts which are based on mental speculation, self-defense, self-justification, so that it becomes impossible to truly hear what another person says. Pain results from this lack of communication and that is why so much attention must be paid to removing the screens that we erect in front of our senses. When the refinement of the sense of hearing permits us to rise above the level of ordinary daily existence and observe from a more subtle level (ether), we see that the clarity and the understanding that we "assumed" we had dissipates into thin air before we can grasp them.

Listening is an art. To hear the true message through all the veils demands a very skillful listener who can extract from the words what the speaker truly says. How much more sensitivity, then, is required to hear the still, small voice within or the golden Celestial voices from without. The acquisition of powers, which may be a hidden desire, depends on the ability to concentrate, the ability to mentally relax and receive, to be in control of the merry-go-round of the mind. Listening ability in present-day life is cut down by a variety of cacophonous noises that are imposed on us by industry, work, and so on. There is little protection outside the home, but the aspirant must become conscious that there are places where control can be exercised. The emphasis on mechanical habits in regard to the sense of hearing is just as important as it was in dealing with the previous senses.

There are many potentials that can be developed in the human being and the ability to be a good listener is one of the most important. In certain professions it is essential to be able to listen with depth of understanding. Many skills can be developed quickly. Listening, however, is only excellent when the listener has also developed the ability of recall. The human mind is an incredible storehouse of memory, but without recall we cannot retrieve what is known. Many psychics have simply learned to draw on this storehouse, which contains our past lives as well as our present. Information about ancient civilizations could be gained if these faculties of recall were employed.

The refinement of the senses that has been emphasized in each previous section applies to the sense of hearing, perhaps even more than the sense of sight. There are many stages -- from the basic state of hearing only the rough, the harsh, the arrogant -- to the level where we can hear the beautiful music of the Spheres of the Sephiroth.

Before it is possible to still the mind and surrender to what is heard, we must start on the physical level with the "Death Pose". The name of the Death Pose itself explains its meaning of no reaction, complete surrender to what is, ending all arguments. The only validity for listening to one's thoughts is when positive key sentences have been put into the mind to replace the old negative ones.

It must be recognized that assertions of self-will, which subdue the message spoken by another person or the Celestials, have no validity outside ourselves. It is an illusion to think that these assertions of self-will can bring good results. For example, a typical reaction when speaking to a person who does not understand the language is to speak louder and louder, in the false belief that this will bring comprehension. The motive for speaking in a low key must be genuine. If it is hiding pushiness or dominance, while giving the appearance of being soft and gentle, it is a lie. In how many ways does one lie? Dominance and pushiness are uncultivated will, and even if speech is sweet and gentle it is an act of deception. Like the other senses, hearing has to be understood on each of its various levels.

The ear that listens is precious, and that preciousness is expressed in wisdom and understanding. Speech is of no relevance if there is no listener.

Aspirants must become aware of the ever-increasing delicacy of the interaction of the energy in the body, in the mind, and in its most exercised expression of speech. This interaction, in most cases, may not be recognized to its full extent due to the lack of awareness of how the control comes from the mind. The mind generates energy which flows along predetermined paths. This energy is a silent manner of speech, and the cells in the body -- each with its own consciousness -- are the listeners. The body is very teachable and can become a very powerful spiritual tool.

The Will says to the aspirant, "Keep going, move on, pursue development". The self-will only says "stand still". At this point, "stand still" can mean a loss of all previous input. The aspirant should listen to the voice of the Will. It is this voice that needs to be heard by the inner ear if self-development is to take place.

Our Will warns us not to be caught again in the stranglehold of uncontrolled emotions or wild imaginations. It also warns us not to become trapped in old habits, preoccupation with self, and turning a deaf ear. The daily diary will help to discover old traps and even recognize traps before they have been completely laid.

The aspirant should liken himself / herself to an Arrow. The Arrow can only be shot in a straight line by direct commitment and by having a clear goal as a target -- by straight thinking and straight action. The target has to be well defined. Problems that still remain have to be tackled head-on. All five senses need to be brought under control by awareness and refinement. The forces of self-defeatism, the fire-wheel of emotions, will make a last attempt here to flare up again with all power and imagination in order to prevent the surrender of self-will. Doubts invade the mind. It is easier to talk oneself out of one's determination than into continuing the pursuit of the Goal. But the fire can be lifted from the purely emotional struggle to the fire of enthusiasm where ignorance is burned in the fire of wisdom.

What then, keeps interfering with the progress and makes all these warnings necessary? It is the lurking of the old personality aspects. The battle-axe must be wielded, but it has to be used skillfully. Ego tries again to raise its head in a last attempt to reassert power. The lower nature will put up a fierce fight in some areas. The sharpening of the battle-axe is done by discrimination and razor-keen awareness. The Sword of discrimination, having two edges, can be used as a symbol which indicates the seriousness of the aspirant's situation. This Sword -- the Will -- can be used to cut away the undesirable characteristics without hurting oneself. However, this process demands great skill, strength, and a clear assessment of what needs to be cut away and what needs to be preserved.

When using the Sword of Will tension has to be expected, and this tension has many different sources. Doubts and strong desires can really be troublesome. Only by withdrawing the power from them will they diminish. Sometimes another source of tension is the influence of so-called friends who do not understand the road to Spiritual/Magickal success and who will, by comparison, only respect such strenuous effort by the aspirant if the goal is monetary, political or social. When the goal is a higher state of consciousness or the attainment to the Higher Self, their negative arguments seem to be logical and reasonable, and this type of friend is very hard to deal with. The Spiritual/Magickal road is indeed lonely until you meet your first spiritual companion. How often we already have such companions but do not recognize them!

The stronger the Will, the further the Arrow will go and the greater the impact on the target.

EXERCISES TO DEVELOP HEARING

Over the years, hearing has been literally taken for granted. Therefore, this often-neglected sense has to be carefully examined to fully understand all of its implications. The study and practice of sections 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 by the aspirant will have proven to be very fruitful. However, this has to be extended.

True listening means the ability to surrender, thereby speech, as well as mental talking, must be controlled in order to hear clearly. At this point it may become clearer why the element of speech has been mentioned in each of the previous sections, and why speech is called man's greatest performance. The almost insatiable need to hear oneself talk feeds one's self-importance almost to the exclusiveness even of those that we profess to love. In the diary reflection there should always be an entry in the diary of whether one has been able to surrender to another and how well one can stop listening to oneself. Our habitual way of hearing has to be changed in order to attain quality in listening. Most people who have authority complexes do not recognize that the ego is really the biggest authority, most of the time preventing the aspirant from doing what he or she wants to do. If the ego listens, what does it listen to? Possible hurts or criticism? Compliments? When it comes to praise, the ego can be a real glutton.

By investigating the process of hearing, the aspirant may become aware that many things are screened out and only those things accepted that one wants to hear. Sometimes what is heard has been so twisted that what one thinks one hears is far from being correct. The questions to ask are, "Am I listening? Is the ego listening? Who is listening?"

It becomes more complicated to control the ego if one thinks in short negative sentences. The influence of these can range from strong to subtle and their effect may be hypnotizing. "I always make this mistake" .... "I have never been able to do this" .... "I would rather die than try that" .... "I could never handle that." These are habitual thought patterns that are verbalized in the mind, listened to, and then acted upon. It is obvious that this is destructive. Yet there is a choice to think positively, to turn to the opposite. "I have never done this before, but if I give it my attention and try, I am sure I can do it". When acted upon, this becomes a small success which can be used as a stepping stone to even bigger ones, which become a good foundation of inner security.

Investigation of all ideas about security on a physical, emotional, and mental level can bring one to new conclusions. Habitual actions and reactions that have been investigated already must also be reviewed and shifted to higher levels. Discrimination has to be refined and self-will needs to be subdued. Speed is not efficiency. It may indicate good intention to say, "I wanted to do it fast to go on to something else", but this will not justify sloppy performance. In order to get self-will under control one must first understand the difference between will and self-will. Self-will is an expression of the ego, and if one can understand that "In the will of the Most High I am free" the distinction is clear.

The power that is given to self-will in daily life keeps individuals apart and relationships become a battlefield for dominance. Instead, we can use the will to pursue a way of life that brings out the best in ourselves and makes us a blessing to others. A good way to understand the power of self-will is to choose someone and submit to the wants or suggestions of this individual for a certain length of time. The chosen person should have no knowledge of such a decision. The choice should be made alone, silently, and in the utmost sincerity of wanting to have a clear understanding of self-will. In this surrender one begins to perceive one's ability or lack of ability to listen to others. The aspirant becomes aware of the power of the background noises of the mind or the talkativeness of the ego that prevents any kind of real listening.

Speech and hearing, while apparently separate, like consciousness and mind, are really one. If the speech is considered the male aspect and the hearing the female, when we accept both on an equal basis we understand the union or the first spiritual marriage within ourselves. If speech and hearing are in the proper balance, the perceptions of each can be heard, truly heard. This can be called listening with the Third Ear.

There is often competition between the sense of hearing and one or more of the other senses. If you find that what is seen interferes with hearing, listen with closed eyes or focus the eyes away from the speaker. Hearing must be through the ears, not through the eyes, and must not be destroyed by what is seen. To understand what is heard it must be "digested". Listen to the pure sound, without interference of the emotions.

1. To help in the clarification of what the sense of hearing means to you, think about each of the following and then add to the list:

a. Sounds of a music box.
b. A running brook or stream.
c. Laughter and sobs.
d. Hearing yourself think.
e. Hearing thought associations.
f. Creating noises in the mind.
g. Garbling the thoughts:
  1. To avoid listening.
  2. Not to be involved.
  3. Not to be confronted.
  4. Not to have to do anything about it.

5. Not to have to make a decision.
6. Not facing up to certain problems, hindrances.

2. Here are some questions that may be of practical help to the aspirant in further investigation of some important areas of hearing:

a. Am I listening?
b. Do I get the message?
c. Do I hear only words?
d. Do I screen things out?
e. What are the reasons for the screening?
f. Do I hear my voice?
g. Do I like my voice?
h. What can a listener gather from my voice? ... warmth, kindness, or arrogance?
i. When I listen, what is it that listens? ... the ego?
j. Can I keep the ego suspended, and finally withdraw its power altogether?
k. Is my self-will behind the ego?
l. Have I conditioned myself with negative key sentences that I have been telling myself for many years?
m. Should I form new key sentences that will be of benefit and open the door to more perception and listening?
n. Is surrender to listening to another a giving of myself?
o. What is my ability to perceive new insights?
p. Are these insights coming from my Higher Self, or from the heart, or an unknown source?
q. Can I discriminate between self-will and surrender?
r. Do I understand the fine dividing line between self-will and Divine Will?
s. Do I keep the Sword of Discrimination truly sharpened to find the balance between reason and emotion, logic and intuition, fear and courage, clumsiness and lightness, strength and softness?
t. Do I have the ability to ask for help when the ego puts up a fierce battle?

A few additional exercises are given below to start the aspirant in the observation of listening and of what is heard. Note the process of screening out what we do not want to hear, or what we claim we have heard. This will bring some surprises. When these exercises are done, we find that the lack of awareness is staggering. With persistence, they will truly lead to liberation from self-centeredness.

Listening to a variety of music, carefully selected, preferably with earphones and in a reclining position, will tell you by your emotional responses to the music where you are. Sound and careful listening can trigger long-forgotten events, be they painful or joyful. Later it is advisable to proceed to listening to nature, the wind, birds in the trees, the sounds of the city in the daytime or at night. Listen to your conversations and how your voice undergoes changes from the beginning and how it shows the release of your emotions.

After doing these exercises you will find that you can really listen to the voice of your loved ones and that what they say is music to your ears.

ADDITIONAL EXERCISES FOR HEARING

1. Listen to yourself:

A. Choose one person and investigate your way of speaking with that person. Try to remember a conversation. What do you observe about your speech? Do you know your own voice? What does it sound like? Do you like it?

B. Tape yourself speaking. Give an assessment of yourself.

C. Choose a partner and tape a ten (10) minute conversation. Challenge the other, try to convince. Note how you sound when emotional. Observe yourself and your partner. Do you hear what the other person says? What do you hear besides the words? List the emotions detected:

1. Joy.
2. Elation.
3. Strength.
4. Anxiety.
5. Pain.
6. Begging.
7. Confusion.
8. Tears.

The words may not convey any of these. Do you hear it in the voice? Note these in your diary.

2. Listening to body noises:

a. Your stomach.
b. Your blood.
c. Your heartbeat.

Listen very carefully and then note them in your diary.

3. Listen to the mental conversations in your head:

a. What do you hear? Describe in your diary.
b. Can you stop these mental talks?
c. If you can, how do you do it? Describe in your diary.
d. If you cannot, would you want to learn how? (It will be necessary to have this mental control if you wish to pursue the Path of Enochian Magick.)

4. With the new insights on listening, recite a small poem of your choice for two (2) hours:

a. Watch the mind carefully.
b. Write observations for fifteen (15) minutes after the first hour of recitation, then after the second.
c. At the end of the two (2) hour period, make more detailed notes in your diary.

5. What's in a name:

A. Say your own name aloud for two (2) hours:
  1. For the first hour look at yourself in a mirror while saying your name.
  2. For the second hour do not use a mirror.
  3. Make notes in your diary for fifteen (15) minutes after each hour of the exercise.
  4. At the end of the two (2) hour period, make more detailed notes in your diary.

B. Say aloud someone else's name for ten (10) minutes:
  1. Choose a name that is symbolic in some way or important to you.
  2. Watch yourself and all your reactions.
  3. Make notes in your diary of all you observe.

6. Listen to music for fifteen (15) minutes:
  1. Choose a piece of music on record or tape.
  2. Listen to the music while:
    a. Sitting.
    b. Lying down.
    c. Lying down and listening through earphones.
  3. Again, record your observations in your diary.

7. Listen to an unpleasant sound:

a. Have someone make an unpleasant sound such as scratching on a piece of glass or chalkboard.
b. Repeat three or four times for just a few seconds.
c. Immediately write down your reactions to this sound in your diary.

8. Listen to the sounds of:

a. Different bells for a period of between five (5) to seven (7) minutes each.
b. Write down the reactions to each in your diary.
c. Note in your diary if listening was done with the eyes open or closed. Also note in your diary if there was a difference.

These exercises will help the aspirant to understand the filters that prevent the hearing of pure sound and that prevent communication. Following instructions, which is necessary on the Path of Enochian Magick -- as in all walks of life -- presupposes the ability to listen.

9. CREATING A LIST:

What is meant by creating a list? As an example of how this should be done, we will look at the word "pain". The making of lists helps in clarification. The lists presented in this material -- and all ensuing material --are only a small beginning to help you get started on your own.

Pain is a great teacher. This is an old saying which bears truth in all ages. But what is pain? How many different kinds of pain can one experience? The Masters claim that all pain is self-created. How can we understand this? As the word "pain" is investigated, its meaning clarified by making a list and jotting down what comes to mind, a sort of brainstorming if you like, many ideas will come to the surface. Sometimes they are conflicting, sometimes unrelated.

Let us make a list for clarification. The following should give you a little help:

a. Pain
b. Physical
c. Emotional
d. Being humiliated
e. Pain in pleasure
f. Painfully low self-image
g. Pain of being a martyr
h. Pain of breaking away
i. Attachment of pain
j. Pain of conflicting emotions
k. Pain of insecurity
l. Pain of guilt
m. Pain of being unforgiving
n. Pain of death
o. Pain of birth

This is only an indication of how to clarify the meaning of words, their use and the ideas attached to them, and to understand their power.

In the case of physical pain, wait before you take a "painkiller" so that you can know the limits of your endurance. Do not enjoy pain; you do not want to become a martyr or masochist -- those deviations have no place on the Spiritual/Magickal Path. In some instances the dividing line is a very fine one.

In the case of emotional pain, try to "enter" the pain, as you would enter delight. Experience the pain as deeply as possible. Then let go!

After having written down everything that comes to mind about pain, we can again consider the statement of the Masters that pain is self-created.

Now keep on asking yourself questions:

a. Did my friend really hurt me?
b. Did my friend want to hurt me?
c. Why do I feel so hurt?
d. What are the repercussions of being let down?
e. Are my plans upset?
f. Do I have a strong attachment to my plans?
g. Do I dislike having to change any type of plans?
h. Maybe I am only "inconvenienced"?
i. Am I "inconvenienced"?
j. If this is the case, where is the hurt?
k. Maybe I am not hurt, but angry about being inconvenienced?
l. Can I hold my emotions back in the future, just long enough to recognize the difference between being really hurt and just being inconvenienced?
m. Can I "learn" from my "mistakes", and let them fade into the past?
n. Will they fade if I keep my emotional response "alive"?
o. Does this mean to discriminate? ... Yes, it does!

How much imagined pain do you carry around with you -- Recall? How much of your energy is locked up in it? Can you forget and forgive if you keep (maybe imagined) hurts alive? That energy could be used more beneficially.

As you can see, lists serve a variety of purposes. The aspirant who truly wants to know himself or herself will create and utilize these lists as a learning tool. As with everything else, these lists should be recorded in your diary where they can be used as a barometer to measure your Spiritual/Magickal growth.

SECTION TWO

10. SPEECH: (Level Two)

Speech symbolizes the first level of self-expression. With each level comes an increased refinement that is coupled with greater awareness. Awareness, when seen as a characteristic of consciousness (rising) expanding to other levels of understanding, makes the idea of hierarchy of these levels more easily comprehensible. In "higher expression" language moves to a level where even the meanings of words are expanded and words are used to express meanings that cannot be defined. The Language of the Gods as contrasted to "ordinary language" has to be penetrated by fortuitous listening -- intuitive listening.

The same degree of intuitive perception has to be developed in listening as in speaking. This means listening within. When one listens, all mental talk has to cease and this is the state reached in true meditation. This is not to be confused with what is termed a state of trance, into which it is possible to slip at a certain stage of intense concentration. In meditation the mind is meant to be absolutely alert, even while it is occupied with something else. It is like a lover sitting on a bench in the park reading a book and understanding what is read, but at the same time having an inner alertness for the arrival of the beloved because the beloved is expected to come. The listening is somehow intuitively tuned in to recognizing the footsteps or the rustling of clothes, something that will announce the presence of the beloved. Immediately after this is heard, the lover who waits is alert and ready to receive the beloved.

In the trance state, however, the alertness is not there and the person in trance does not perceive what the person in the true meditative state does. The lover can be so absorbed in the book that the beloved can stand in front and not be noticed.

When the suggestion is given to recite a Ritual (it can be said that this is cultured speech and a way to cultivate the voice), it is not meant to be a trigger into a state of trance. This little illustration is a method by which the unexplainable can be grasped. It indicates that the meaning of each word is stepped up to a much higher level than that which the word has in "ordinary" speech. It is up to the aspirant to cultivate perception and then to express it in a more refined way. This process should never really stop. As the intuition develops it becomes the source of extraordinary awareness. For instance, in the beginning of musical training we learn the rhythm of a song by counting. Not so on the Path of Enochian Magick. Intuitive listening is necessary to perceive the rhythm and to tune in to the Teachings or to the Master. It is not a blind following, it is a slow perceiving and understanding of the why and how. When it is blind acceptance, development is so slow it is almost imperceptible.

Some aspirants or students have greater limitations than others. But it is only a question of time, patience, and persistence for them to expand beyond their limitations and to become more aware and perceptive. The Path is open to everyone. Only pride, the ego, greediness, and self-importance prevent the aspirant from listening intuitively. Therefore the Will must be applied and a clear decision made to put all else aside so that there is nothing left but full attention, listening with intuition, and surrender. When the interplay of forces between intuition and awareness has developed, listening ability will increase. The aspirant then stands on firm ground. From this direct personal experience, knowledge is gained.

Sound and its resonance are inseparable and occur in ordinary speech or song. They can give birth to powerful emotional responses. The average person misses on the very subtle level the power of sound and its resonance. The gross is not a receptacle of the subtle.

Because of man's habit of naming a thing and thereby assuming that he knows something about it, we find in all cultures that God has uncountable names. Each name has an inherent power because the name was created by the desire to make an immeasurable Energy personal, to make it meaningful. When spoken, these personified names give the aspirant contact on a personal level with the Divine.

SECOND LEVEL EXERCISES IN SPEECH

The conch shell comes from the sea (water). When put to the ear, its sound comes in soft steady waves. Listening to the conch shell is like listening to the still, small voice within. The mind must be still to be able to hear this soft sound/voice. The mental background noises of the mind are produced by the emotional waves arising from uncultivated or selfish imagination. This symbol tells the aspirant what action must be taken in order to hear this soft sound. If you have an opportunity to pick up a conch shell and to listen to it, you will observe many important details in this process:

a. Intent
b. Expectation
c. Hearing something delicate
d. Holding the breath or making a gesture with the hand saying "silence please".

A sentence expresses the meaning of words, or conveys a message. A word by itself is a symbol of one or several ideas. As in Enochian Rituals, a combination of words put together, or a single word, can give a complete message. It is not usually recognized that behind each word there is a range of ideas and that the practitioner has the freedom of choice to pick the most acceptable.

The word is the pronouncing of a thought, thereby making thought audible. Sometimes the thought may be away in the distance and will slowly come into focus by pronouncing it.

1. Ask yourself:

a. Where do thoughts come from?
b. What is that invisible source that provides the power to manifest sound in speech?
c. What happens when the spoken word becomes the written?
d. Record your answers in your diary.

A spoken word can condemn a man to death or save a life.

2. Ask yourself:

a. How is this power used in my own life?
b. What actually happens when a word is spoken?
c. What are the mechanics?
d. What part does breath play?
e. How does different breathing affect the brain?
f. What is the difference in a word spoken audibly from one spoken silently in the mind?
g. Record your answers in your diary.

3. The ability to speak necessitates the action of the tongue. The tongue is also the organ of taste. How do we use the term "tongue" in our everyday language?

a. To be tongue-tied
b. To be double-tongued
c. To have a tongue as sharp as a razor
d. To give a tongue-lashing
e. Tongue-in-cheek
f. To speak with a forked tongue

Consider how they apply to your own self-image and then continue the list in your dairy.

4. Water is symbolic for imagination. The power of imagination, the ability to arrange and rearrange images of an abstract and a concrete nature, is an extraordinary skill. Thinking of how they may apply to the imagination, consider these commonly used sayings about water:

a. Water under the bridge
b. Don't make waves
c. Cross the great water
d. You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make it drink
e. Add your own to the list
f. Record your answers in your diary.

An increased level of speech indicates an increase of expression, not only in words but, even more, in imagination. How, then, is this greater ability of expression used? The aspirant should look at every action, thought or word from the point of view of purity, passion, and inertia in order to further cultivate speech. The best course is to remain cool, calm, and receptive with emotions controlled (not suppressed), since in the heat of emotions expression can be dangerous.

In order for the aspirant to understand and experience how emotions and stress can be controlled, they should do the following practical Ritual. This ritual is done prior to the performing of any and all future Enochian Rituals.

Ritual Cleansing Bath

STEP ONE
Take a hot shower to get the dirt off of your body.
STEP TWO
Run a warm bath and add some bath salts or epsom salts and some nicely scented oil or perfume.
STEP THREE
Get in the water and soak for a few minutes, making sure you slowly splash water on the upper part of your body. Now, feel all of your problems, worries and negativity going into the water.
STEP FOUR
Pull the plug and let the water drain "while you stay in the water." As the water slowly drains, you will feel all the negative things which were troubling you go down the drain with the water. "REMAIN IN THE TUB UNTIL ALL THE WATER IS GONE."
STEP FIVE
Get out of the tub and allow your body to AIR DRY. (If you are pressed for time, you may dry off with a clean, fresh towel. However, "air-drying" is more beneficial.)
STEP SIX
While "air-drying" meditate on the upcoming ritual or exercises you are going to perform.
STEP SEVEN
When "DRY" wrap your body in a towel or a clean robe and then proceed to a quiet area, where you will immediately discard the towel or robe if you are performing this ritual by yourself.
STEP EIGHT
Sit down in a chair and relax for a few minutes. Once you feel totally relaxed and comfortable, meditate on the ritual you have just performed.
STEP NINE
Write down in your diary all that you felt, heard or saw during the Bath and the quiet meditation afterwards. When you have completed this, get dressed and resume your daily activities or studies.

11. SEX: (LEVEL ONE)
The Energy of the Creative Force, when latent, is neutral and therefore mankind has a great responsibility to choose how it will be used. In one of its most powerful forms, this Energy is expressed by sex. Aspirants must clarify in their own minds the meaning of sex and understand on how many levels and in how many ways this most powerful Energy can be expressed in human life. Most of the manifestations of this Energy are expressed on the physical and mental levels, while the Spiritual/Magickal level is almost totally neglected. One must now lay a good foundation in one's life. In order to come to the basics, one has to decide what kind of person one wants to be. Often the Spiritual/Magickal Path is attempted simply for the enchantment of its differences from ordinary life, its mystical aspects, or power to be gained. But in the same way that one does not become a Johann Sebastian Bach without laying a solid foundation in the law of harmony -- in the practice of playing an instrument or in the developing of acute hearing, -- so one cannot become a Master or Teacher without such groundwork.

So what kind of an aspirant does one want to be? There have to be some clear definitions about the physical level. The basic desire is to have a good healthy body -- and regular exercise will contribute to this. Proper food is necessary that will nourish the body instead of being used to indulge the emotions or for compensation. If there is a good foundation, in other words, good discipline and self-restraint, at the more advanced levels the aspirant will not encounter problems.

Because of the over-emphasis on sex in modern life, it is important to give consideration to certain of its aspects. All the questions that one poses to oneself should be expressed in the first person. One must take responsibility for one's viewpoints and standards. Whatever the viewpoints of any individual, there must be no double standards -- one standard for oneself and another for everyone else. ("Do as I say, not as I do".) This is destructive because double standards undermine one's security and result in inner conflicts. It is necessary in the beginning of the Enochian Magickal Path to lay down very carefully the foundation of one's life. Here is a "list" that must be completed with great care. The aspirant should begin a process of questioning about sex.

Is sex a biological function over which you have no control and power, and thereby must simply obey the dark instincts of nature? Is sex meant only for procreation since, in the normal course of events, pregnancy follows? What about birth and death? Because birth is only one side of the pair of opposites, death has to be looked at also. Take time to think about birth and death, which are bound up with each other, and responsibility for the sex act will take on a whole new dimension.

With this in mind, now look at marriage. Is it just a custom, a kind of social institution? What part does sex play in your own marriage? Here, I am not concerned with the views of anybody but the aspirant. Some very soul-searching questions have to be asked. Why did you marry the person you did? What were the reasons? What were your hopes and expectations at the beginning and what are they now? As an illustration, were the reasons for marriage physical attraction, leaving home, feeling important in a new social status, good looks, or money? Did you think of a partner for life, someone you could trust, someone with character who could be truly a companion? All of these viewpoints will be reflected in the sexual relationship. If there is disappointment, sex will be used for punishment and reward. If there is indulgence in self-pity, sex will be used for compensation. If there have been no ideals at the start, there will be no quality in the relationship. Is divorce a solution to problems? Perhaps it is only a delay. Karma will follow you into other lives to come. A lesson not learned in this life will still be waiting in another.

From a Spiritual/Magickal point of view, self-mastery -- control of basic instincts -- is needed to become a fully developed human being. For one seeking higher values in life, a new aspect of love is brought into the relationship between two people. Sex without the love aspect is only following instincts, however pleasurable they may be. The great significance of the exchange of Energy between two persons is seldom understood. A possible new dimension is only grasped by a full investigation of the purpose of sex.

That most precious Energy that is able to bring another human being into this life must not be scattered senselessly and uselessly. Those who defend sex for pleasure do not realize the consequences on different levels. Children born "by accident" or to be a material asset to their parents, and who are not wanted for themselves, grow up without the dignity and love that is the right of every human being. In the same way that one has to know man-made law, so it is man's responsibility to study Divine Law. Ignorance is no protection.

For loving parents, even a few steps on the Path of Enochian Magick will be of benefit, as they will become Teachers for their children. They can know the Divine Law because of their own practice and study.

There is the possibility of a truly spiritual marriage between two people who are highly developed and close to the same Spiritual/Magickal level. In such a spiritual marriage sex would be neither demand or duty, but communication with a true understanding of love.

There are too many people who seem to be in love with "the idea of love". Does this mean that they are capable of truly loving and truly giving? All the good intentions may be there, but, as in any stage of development, it is easy to deceive oneself. Awareness is the vital ingredient for all personal development.

It is quite possible that on a higher level, in a spiritual realm, people could be soul mates. The idea of twin souls appeared early in man's history, but how easily can one be mistaken? Is it perhaps an excuse to do what one wants to do?

To strive for the Most High and yet have a family and all the responsibility that goes with it is, for the average person, almost impossible. Even in other aspects of life, in careers of men and women, it has been shown that it is barely possible to handle both jobs with equal attention and quality. If in a marriage one partner is wholly dedicated to a career and does not pay attention to the family, the marriage suffers from the neglect of that partner. If there are children, then they also suffer. The marriage may even break up. However, some great Masters and Teachers are known to have been married. In such cases, the one partner gladly becomes the "servant" of the other, considering it a blessing to have a companion who pursues the Spiritual/Magickal Path.

Sex being one of the most powerful life energies, a clear understanding of it is essential. Independent of the course or the attitude that an individual takes toward sex, and independent of the level to which the sexual relationship can be elevated, the fact remains that sex is the beginning of birth. Sex is, in its basic function, bonding. The aspirant should consider what it means to take steps to avoid the resulting birth. In spite of efforts to avoid the consequences of sexual involvement, babies are born, unwanted by-products of some pleasure. There is little dignity, self-assurance or self-worth for the individual who comes into the world in this way.

What is born, must die. Therefore, sex, birth, and death are a unit that cannot be separated.

CREATING A LIST ABOUT SEX

Nature maintains itself in two ways. Plants, animals, and humans search for food to survive. They all have sexual impulses to propagate, which keeps the species alive. Both of these powerful driving forces are strongly expressed in human life. Here we deal with sex in a particular way. The making of a list will help the aspirant to clarify his or her own point of view about sex.

A. What does sex mean to me?
1. Is it a biological functioning?
2. Is sex for procreation?
3. In how many forms is sex practiced?:
a. Monogamy
b. Polygamy
c. Bisexuality
d. Homosexuality
4. How do I use sex?:
a. As enjoyment?
b. For pleasure?
c. To have children?
d. As punishment?
e. As a reward?
f. As free sex without any responsibilities?
5. Sex outside marriage -- is it sin?
6. Is sin a cultural thing? Is it my upbringing? Is it a Christian concept? Where does sin come in with regard to sex?
7. If sex is love, why so many conflicts? Why is bad language connected with it? Why the rejecting or barely accepting of the fruit of that love, children? Is love excluded from sex? Can it be included?
8. Is sex an exchange of Energy? Is it psychic power of some sort?
9. Is a marriage spiritual without sex, or can sex be included?
10. Is there such a thing as soul mates? How does one know?

11 What is a mystical marriage? Is it mystical only when sex is excluded?
12. Why do some people think celibacy is important? What do I think about celibacy? Would the human race not die out if all were celibates?
13. Is Cosmic Consciousness or the Attainment to the Higher Self only for celibates?

12. SEX: (LEVEL TWO)

In view of what has been discussed so far, it becomes necessary to have another look at sex. See the compulsion with which it manifests, passionately, with burning fire, in contrast to the spontaneity of feelings which have been refined from strong emotions.

If emotions cause compulsive action, trouble will follow. In contrast to compulsive emotion stands spontaneity. The difference between the two has to be clearly understood because of the possibility of misinterpretation. Spontaneity is empowered to surface suddenly from cultivated feelings of goodness, even selflessness.

Now that you have clarified many of your ideas and thoughts about sex, here are a few more for your consideration:

A. Are sexual impulses generated by themselves or through another?
B. What is creative sexual expression?

Avoid using many words, but truly give your ideas to the following:

A. Sex as a seduction game:
1. By men, resulting in what?
2. By women, resulting in what?
B. The sex game of the conqueror, the hunter, the seducer.
C. What is sex without affection?
D. What is affection without sex?
E. Does sex remove the scars of rejection?
F. Are sex and spirituality different?
G. Are sex and spirituality expressions of the same energy?
H. By yielding to sexual spontaneity is the door kept open to Higher Consciousness or the Attainment to the Higher Self?

The answers that you write in your diary pertaining to both level one and level two of sex are very important, for they will give you a better understanding of yourself and your ideas and opinions about sex. Meditation on this subject is very helpful, and will in many cases, give you an even greater insight into the deeper meanings of sex and sexuality. Once again, it is important to record all of your thoughts and ideas in your diary. As you progress on the Spiritual/Magickal Path, you will see some startling changes in your views and opinions about sex.

13. EGO AND RESPONSIBILITY:

Habitual thinking patterns are interconnected with emotions and are never questioned by the average person. They are symptoms of anxious protection of unproven beliefs and result in questionable word games. One of the traps is exaggeration, which the ego uses as a trick (consciously or unconsciously) to achieve a more favourable position, or to defend its beliefs. The aspirant who has learned to keep his or her emotions under control will observe that wild statements are intended to trick the opponent for the satisfaction of the ego. Irrelevant objections, minor details in discussions, may be the manifestation of a certain type of ego, revealing an aggressive, dishonest trickery, sometimes in an attempt to ridicule, sometimes in a desire to win at all costs. The aspirant is warned not to be caught in word games of this kind, which are deadly games. To admit ignorance is to be strong, while to pretend to know is weakness.

The aspirant, at this point, is also warned that to be convinced for emotional reasons is dangerous. That applies to general life as well as to a Spiritual/Magickal life. The aspirant who is not secure through proper reasoning and personal experience can be too easily manipulated either by someone of magnetic personality, or by one's own inverted ego. There must be control of emotions expressed in speech and thought. Debating points in one's own mind is not wrong necessarily, but it should be watched for dishonesty. Listening to the still, small voice brings clarification quickly and changes old thinking patterns and habitual mental conversations.

Audible sound (the spoken word) and inaudible sound (the spoken word in the mind) are both vibrations which will give rise to creation. What creation comes into being is the responsibility of the originator of that sound.

14. IMAGINATION AND DESIRE:

The Crescent Moon indicates water, which is symbolic of imagination, a functioning of the mind. The ever-so-fleeting image brings a possible pleasant or unpleasant taste (here, imagination is connected with taste). Therefore, it is most important to watch the mind and all its various aspects.

Desire is an aspect of the mind that needs careful investigation. How do desires come about? Where do they come from? They are rooted in that part of the mind that controls imagination. Many impulses pass through the mind unnoticed. When the imagination gets strong impulses, they are picked up by the mind and grow -- by the power of imagination -- into desires. Some are very persistent. Like clay in the potter's hands, while desires are still pliable they can be molded into any shape or form. But once the final shape is accepted (in the form of opinions, beliefs or concepts) and fired in the kiln of the emotions, they harden and take on a certain permanence.

The scheming to fulfill these desires, and form these concepts and beliefs, is a process with many repercussions. Self-righteousness emerges, viewpoints and beliefs are fanatically defended. How does this happen? It happens by the emphasis on their importance. They provide a certain security. But we fail to realize that this is all due to the imagination and emotions working overtime for the wrong reasons. Here is the birthplace of many problems. The insistence on holding this rigid attitude keeps us asleep. Without awareness we lay our own traps.

If this process is recognized it becomes clear that desires have to be very carefully examined by the aspirant. Once the desires (emanating from the emotions) have been given power, it may take a long time, even years, for the manifestation to be recognized. An old desire may suddenly bear fruit at a time when the desire itself is already forgotten. We are often like children longing after a new toy which, when we get it, has little meaning. We have already moved on to wanting something else. We need to realize this process of our development. In this respect, daily reflection and a Spiritual/Magickal diary are very helpful tools, enabling us to take stock of the changes and the progress made.

It may be helpful to recall what desires have been schemed for in the past. By a clear decision the energy can be redirected from the old desires, now unwanted, before they manifest, so that the energy is available for new and better ones that are more in keeping with present insights. There is a universal source of all Energy, to which those unwanted desires can be "returned". In the process of that awareness, other things come up from the past, vague memories of hurts, grudges, or resentments that have been left unattended. Old emotions, like old unwanted desires, can similarly be dissolved into the new insights.

It may come as a surprise to discover that even the unfulfilled desires of childhood exert energy and play on the adult. Those deep-seated desires must now be recognized as obsolete and dismissed. They constitute excess baggage and they hinder the Spiritual/Magickal pursuit of the aspirant. What should one dispose of and what should one keep? Here, careful discrimination must be applied by the aspirant.

The idea of renouncing may have to be considered because of some unreasonable or illogical attachments. The concept of renunciation is often thought of as very unpleasant or even difficult, yet it presents the renunciate with a freedom which, once tasted, demands more. To be free means neither to possess nor to be possessed. The renunciate is thus placed in the middle of the teeter-totter, in a position of balance, free from the emotional swings which come with being at the ends. There will always be some desires in an aspirant's life, but it is wise not to form any attachments to them. Many a desire can also benefit others. That must be taken into consideration when forming new desires. Pain and frustration can be avoided by thinking things through: evaluating, anticipating, and exercising foresight in the execution of one's desires.

While the mind is the battleground of the personality aspects, it is also a playground where daydreaming can create infinite possibilities. Uncultivated imagination can lead to fear, to hallucinations, or to a variety of such unhealthy mental attitudes. But directed imagination leads to creative expression.

Fear has to be examined in a very clear-eyed way to see if imagination is its creator. This indulgence of the imagination in the wrong way breeds insecurity. When these emotions are not dealt with, the ego looks for a scapegoat, and one may go through life forever blaming others and defending oneself. At some point in time the responsibility must be accepted or one will never achieve that much longed-for sense of inner security. Assessment, effort, work, time and energy are necessary to recognize the part played by imagination in our lives and to direct it in a positive, creative way.

IMAGINATION

In the above, there is a reference to the need to cultivate imagination because it is the source of fears. It will be practical now for the aspirant to make a list of all the fears that are experienced. Deep-seated fear is often caused by past mistakes, wrong action, intentional or unintentional, and the attendant fear of discovery. Sometimes they can be due to an over-stimulated imagination, although the majority of fears are caused by an uncultivated imagination. It is up to the aspirant to make the decision to direct imagination in a positive, beneficial way.

Here are a few questions you can ask yourself:

a. Do you get dizzy looking down from a great height?
b. Are you afraid of being in a confined space?
c. Are you afraid of crossing a room in front of people?
d. Have you any fear of being rejected?
e. Have you any fear of being discovered?
f. What about fear of inadequacy? In what areas?

You can extend the list but it is sufficient just to recognize your fears and use your energy to "rebuild" yourself. Most fears, when you look at them, are the result of neglecting to cultivate your imagination. Vivid imagination and powerful emotions can be terrifying and follow you into dreams as nightmares. It is not wise to become involved with too much negativity; time and energy should be applied positively.

Uncultivated imagination may result in thinking of yourself as:

a. An Emperor
b. A Queen
c. A box office idol.
d. What role do you play in your daydreams?

Could uncultivated imagination produce fearful images such as:

a. Avenger
b. Aggressor
c. Hunter
d. Hunted

Think about the qualities that cultivated imagination will produce:

a. Consideration
b. Understanding
c. Honesty
d. Openness
e. Loyalty

Speech can be the result of strong emotions which are fed by imagination. As imagination is cultivated and refined the aspirant's speech will reflect this.

Practice the following Enochian Invocation of the Light daily and reflect on the meaning. It is a powerful exercise giving many benefits.

Enochian Invocation of the Light

STEP ONE:

Stand erect, feet shoulder-width apart. Lift your arms straight above your head. Close your eyes and focus them on the space between your eyebrows. Say the following with all the determination and resolve possible:

I AM CREATED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM SUSTAINED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM PROTECTED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM SURROUNDED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM ALWAYS GROWING INTO THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

STEP TWO:

Use your imagination and creative visualization to see yourself standing in a shower of brilliant white light. See the Light pouring down upon you -- into your body through the top of your head -- and filling your entire being.

STEP THREE:

Lower your arms slowly to the sides of your body. Concentrate on feeling a warm glow of Light suffuse your entire body -- outside as well as inside. Say the following:

"Every atom of this, my physical body, is filled with the Light. Every level of my consciousness is illuminated with the Light. The Light penetrates every single atom of my being, every level of consciousness. I have become a channel of Pure Light. I am One with the Light."

STEP FOUR:

Stand quietly for several minutes and bask in the warmth of the Light. Meditate upon the Light. Be receptive to the Light and accept that your are now a channel of Divine Light. Express gratitude with deep feeling and share this gift with someone whom you wish to help.

STEP FIVE:

Visualize any person, friend or relative. See him or her standing before you. With your arms still by your sides, turn your palms forward. Mentally open the doors of your heart and let the Light stream forth towards the feet of this person. See the Light encircling the body, spiralling upward in a clockwise direction, enveloping the body completely. See the spiral moving high up into the sky, taking his or her image along with it. Finally, see the person merge into the source of the Light and become one with the Light.

STEP SIX:

When the person has passed from your view, relax and silently give thanks for having the opportunity to help someone in need. (Remember, in helping others we are helping ourselves.)

DESIRES

Make a list of desires in order of their importance and priority in your life. Record them in your diary.

Since desires lead to scheming for their fulfillment, decisions should be made with careful discrimination. However, the aspirant should be aware that the emotions can have their grip even on our reasoning. Their impact must be fully understood so that one can withdraw energy from them. Otherwise the energy goes into the fulfillment and manifestation of the desire.

Desires created when one was still in a very immature state have to be dissolved because they become obstacles that hinder one's further development.

Visualization is invoking an image or directing imagination.

Undirected imagination is only daydreaming and has no results.

Directed imagination must now be used to examine images of people and events still held from the past. Do these images influence you now?

Think back over your life and list the things you have wished for in the past. List them in order of priority. How relevant are they to you today? Do they still exert power over you? Here are a few to start:

A. I want to:
1. Become a great pianist
2. Be a success in business
3. Wield power over others

B. Or maybe you wanted to:
1. Be a perfect wife
2. Be a perfect mother
3. Be a perfect husband
4. Be a perfect father

C. What is perfection in:
1. A wife
2. A husband
3. Children

D. What is anyone's view of perfection.

When you have listed desires from the past and noted the influence they have exerted on your life, it is not difficult to see the effect of emotions and imagination, and to understand the need to cultivate and direct both. Remember to record all of these lists in your diary.

With these lists in mind choose an image which embodies a quality you wish to develop. Bring the image of your choice into focus, concentrating on the symbolic meaning, first to cultivate the imagination and, as a next step, to relate to your life the idea for which the symbol stands.

EXERCISES IN IMAGINATION -- VISUALIZATION

In the exercises that follow possible difficulties may arise because of objections to choosing an image of meditation in the first place. This is a typical close-minded attitude. Yet the same individual cares to have pictures of a member of a family, such as his wife or child, on his desk, knowing all along that it is only a piece of paper with the image of a well-known individual on it. So why object to a picture that expresses symbolically an idea of Creation too great for the mind to focus on for prolonged periods of time?

A. Choose an image that is most pleasing to your mind. Let it be a symbol of all that is for you most Perfect, most High, most Beautiful. Remember what this image stands for: the masculine aspect, Cosmic Energy unmanifest.

B. At the spot of the Heart on your image see the female counterpart now representing Cosmic Energy manifest in as much Beauty and Splendour as you can imagine.

The male figure in its symbolic meaning is bigger, because there is so much more Cosmic Energy unmanifest than you can possibly envision.

C. Now invoke a prayerful attitude and let the emotions express themselves in gratitude. To come in contact with the Forces of the Divine should make anyone grateful. In this way the emotions should be included in all Spiritual/Magickal practices, as they thereby become cultivated.

It has already been pointed out how powerful the human mind is and how quickly it can expand in its concentration. Repeat the above exercise, now adding the Enochian Invocation of the Light so that all that has been imagined is "seen" as a mass of White Light. The visualization of the Light will in due time saturate all forms that have been imagined. This process gives the mind enough substance in the beginning to keep it occupied over a long period of time. Through the Enochian Invocation of the Light the aspirant is slowly helped to recognize the Energy that manifests in so many forms.

EXERCISE
(Filling Your Body With Light)

STEP ONE:

Sit in a meditation posture, cross-legged, or with your ankles crossed. Rest your hands, palms up, on you lap. (As an alternate posture, you may stand.)

STEP TWO:

Focus your eyes on the space between the eyebrows.

STEP THREE:

Try to think of yourself without the body or face; in other words, avoid the familiar reflection seen in the mirror.

STEP FOUR:

Visualize your body as empty or hollow like a glass bottle.

STEP FIVE:

See a small stream of White Light (the size of a thread) flowing down the center of this glass form, filling the feet, legs, trunk, neck, and head.

STEP SIX:

Soon you will not be able to distinguish detailed limbs. This form that you call your body is now a mass of Light.

STEP SEVEN:

Hold this image (a mass of Light in the shape of your body) as long as possible.

STEP EIGHT:
Repeat this exercise often until it becomes familiar.

Before continuing check all notes that have been written down after practicing these exercises. Any feelings other than peaceful or harmonious ones are a signal to stop all exercises immediately. The aspirant can only resume these exercises when there is an increased feeling of well-being physically and emotionally. Anything out of the ordinary indicates that personal guidance is definitely needed. (Should you feel the need for such personal guidance, you may contact the author at the address given in this book.)

Do not SKIP any exercises. Learn to be persistent. There is more to learn in each one than meets the eye at first glance. Patience is hardly anybody's natural virtue and hence has to be cultivated.

It becomes quite obvious that great care and time have to be spent on the "laying of the foundation". It is very important to be able to follow instructions. When there are difficulties, the obstacles should be search for in the ego which is asserting its intellectual power and expressing an unfounded pride. The antidote to pride is surrender and humility.

15. SELF-IMAGE AND PERSONALITY ASPECTS:

The aspect of preservation is like the flight of an Eagle and should tell the aspirant that thoughts have wings. Where do you want to fly? Powerful thoughts can carry you to beauty, inspiration, and blessing, or to the destruction of yourself and others. That is your choice. Where does the power for these thoughts come from? We can see the manifestation, but what is the source?

A negative or poor self-image is very common. The reasons for it do not really matter since this knowledge, while it may remove the sting, does not alter the perception one has of oneself. The way to change self-image is by a systematic process which will help in cultivating the imagination. Through this process it will become apparent how great the power of imagination is. The poor self-image can be eradicated by sincere practice of the Enochian Invocation of the Light Ritual which has been explained earlier.

When investigating the power of "self-creation", it is necessary to clearly understand various processes that take place without the aspirant becoming aware of them. Do not allow anyone to reduce you to an image on which you then act. Your awareness must also be clear enough to prevent you from doing this to anyone else. Such a reduction is a great insult to the dignity of a human being. But there is also the dangerous possibility of indulging in a sort of narcissism, where nobody counts but the inflated ego that nourishes a hidden self-pity by such reduction of others.

Making thought associations by images, our habitual reactions because of past experiences, also affect the self-image. This can be a bad habit, so mechanical that it escapes attention.

The images that come up in daydreaming must be examined as they are often the source of fear and insecurity which play a great part in self-image.

Everyone has many different personalities which move like actors into the foreground in various situations. The multitude of personality aspects is, in magickal symbolism, the covering dust of the glorious Self. In psychology it is often referred to as "role playing". The idea is basically the same. The difference lies in the choice of symbolic expression. There are many illustrations showing ritual dancers wearing masks and sometimes exchanging masks. These performances often serve as a kind of entertainment or festival for various seasons and, at the same time, are meant to teach the audience some serious and important truths. They have a subtle influence on the minds and emotions of the audience, and may awaken the individual to refinement of the senses.

All your personalities and their various aspects need to be recognized. The best way is to make a list and decide on their validity. Some should be discarded. They are like tail ends hanging on from former times and only encourage vanity, pride or false modesty. Others have developed as a means of self-preservation or survival.

Ask yourself what survival means. Write this question and your answers down in your diary, because the question will come up again. It will be helpful to compare notes and see your progress.

The list of all these personality aspects will help you to recognize their power and influence on yourself and others. When the power of the personality is joined with the power of rampant emotions, it becomes a destructive force. When this destructive force is connected with self-image, it can be devastating. The ego then seeks to compensate and the situation worsens. Dishonesty, pretense, and other negative aspects are expressed to the extent to which the power of the emotions is allowed to manifest.

As the aspirant becomes aware of the facts and begins to take responsibility and control, changes for the better take place.

The repetition of concepts of oneself can often have an influence bordering on self-hypnosis. It will be hard to escape that trap. But it can be done. Remember, the Enochian Invocation of the Light Ritual -- when practiced regularly -- is a powerful tool for improving self-image.

SELF-IMAGE

What is your self-image now? The need for change has to be recognized, then something can be done about it.

The image you put out to others is the basis of all responses and treatment that you get back. Even long after one has made changes, responses by others may have become so habitual that the difficulties created by the old image are hard to overcome. It takes good will on the part of others to accept and respond to the changes in you. These new responses will encourage you to keep working on overcoming poor images of the self.

To help clarify the image you hold of yourself, here are a few questions to be answered:

A. How do I see myself?
B. Is my self-image valid?
C. Am I changing my self-image as I am changing?
D. Can I take a new look at myself?
E. Are changing goals changing my self-image?
F. Can I see myself in the perspective of my new goals?
G. Are the energy and discipline expended in pursuing the new goal improving my self-image?
H. Am I exercising my Will? (Daily Reflection)
I. What images of daydreams could prove useful if consistently applied?

This list must also be expanded to provide the aspirant with the basis for making the necessary changes. As always, record all of your answers in your diary.

PERSONALITY ASPECTS

Making personality changes by sheer will power or suggestion is almost impossible. The strain would be too great to be sustained for any length of time. But the goal of expanded consciousness and awareness provides a replenishing energy. By practicing identification with the Energy (Self) and by having faith in the practice, change is inevitable. (Even on a much lower level, where men and women are still seeking pleasure, changes take place according to the strength of the desire to achieve happiness.) Finally, the learned experience becomes second nature.

To begin, it is suggested that the aspirant make a list of personality aspects. These should not be limited to the usual ones of:

A. Father
B. Wife
C. Doctor
D. Business man
E. Nurse
F. Include such characteristics as:
1. Manipulator
2. Game player
3. Philanthropist
4. Gossiper
5. Intellectual

These are just a few random ideas. Make your own list.

Clarify yourself to yourself. Avoid all judgment. Remember that there is no personality aspect that is specifically male or female, both have all sorts of characteristics.

Remember also that the Self does not own any of these personalities. Each has its own ego, making your life more miserable than happy. These manifestations have no permanence. they appear and reappear depending on the emotional stimulus involved, to which the imagination makes its immediate contribution.

A little illustration will help to clarify this further. If you need your appendix taken out, and the surgeon identified with your pain, his hand would falter and become destructive instead of helpful. By being completely detached, the necessary help can be given, the action (surgery) well performed. The sympathy that is sought is expressed in the action itself. In the same way, the aspirant must avoid identification with the personality aspects in order to perform the necessary action.

The Enochian Invocation of the Light Ritual, in due time, will help the aspirant to become aware of his or her own inner Divine Self.

The Enochian Invocation of the Light Ritual has to be meaningful -- never allow it to become an automatic routine. When water runs through a rusty pipe, the water comes through, but there is also much more that is unwanted. In the same way that the water running through the rusty pipe will finally clean it out, so through your efforts you will become more spiritual, a purer channel for the Light. As you keep practicing, the channel within you will become more clear.

16. UNDERSTANDING THE VARIOUS ASPECTS OF LIFE:

It is now necessary for the aspirant to give serious consideration to a number of very important topics. These are: Death, Competition, Mechanicalness, Love and Consciousness. The aspirant must determine how these topics manifest themselves in his or her life. These topics must be understood before they can be controlled and refined.

The aspirant should make a list dealing with each of these topics and enter the answers in his or her diary. We will begin with the subject of Death.

DEATH

The great effort to avoid birth is matched by equally strenuous efforts to avoid death. We are afraid to die. Why? What does death mean, our own, our loved ones? The Masters and Teachers recognize sex, birth, and death as one unit. The aspirant needs to clarify these personal thoughts in order to determine the goal for this life.

It is not necessary to spend the nights in a cemetery and to sit on a corpse to ponder the meaning of life and death. But it is very definitely necessary to ponder these great mysteries of human life. How else can ideals, ethics, and standards be established for oneself? The evolutionary process goes on regardless of ignorance. Suffering can be minimized by knowledge first obtained, then put into practice. Practicing what one thinks makes life worth living and gives it new meaning.

The time of one's physical death may be known beforehand, by intuition or through dreams, or as a voice in meditation. If all affairs are in order -- the last will made, harmony with all those left behind -- death has little anxiety. For the Master or Teacher death is but passing into another realm of existence. Consciousness has many expressions and is not entirely dependent on a physical body. But a physical form will be assumed again, so long as there is an intense desire that is still unfulfilled.

The spiritual practice called the Enochian Invocation of the Light -- which is described in this volume -- is one of the spiritual activities that will make a distinct difference at the time of death. The term "passing into the LIGHT" is most descriptive. When an individual has passed on into the Light, there will then be a favourable rebirth.

The sex-birth-death chain of cause and effect can be traced everywhere, and in every aspect of life. To foresee or anticipate the effect is one of the methods used by some Masters and Teachers to practice awareness, and to avoid repeating mistakes. One mistake could be to have an unfavourable rebirth. Strong desires can hasten rebirth and an anxious person will accept "anything", just to get onto the train of life to keep fulfilling those very desires.

Biological ideas about evolution have their place in their own setting. The Master and Teacher sees the individual path of Spiritual/Magickal evolution as a parent would see the child grow into physical and mental maturity. The Master and Teacher does not limit the process of growth, but is intent to develop many potentials and to rise above limitations.

Death has many aspects. It is most important for the aspirant to examine all thoughts on death. To help with making a list it might prove useful to look first outside oneself at what is happening in the world. Everywhere there is food for thought. Consider, for example, the tremendous efforts that medical science is making to preserve life from the baby in the incubator to the old man on his deathbed. Why? In contrast to preserving life, there is the effort to prevent life, of which the "birth control pill" is the common example. What do YOU think about the pill and its ramifications? Any newspaper one picks up today is filled with deaths, some as a result of natural disasters, but many are lives sacrificed to greed and power. How does this fit into YOUR ideas of life and death?

Death, which we are investigating, is not only physical. There are many ways to die and administer death. It might be good to start by looking at the many deadly games that we play. Let us begin with one of the most obvious -- language. Here are a few examples. Add your own to the list:

1. I would die if .....
2. I could kill him/her because .....
3. I could kill myself for having done .....

The think of the deadly emotions expressed by:

1. I hate that colour .....
2. I hate to eat that stuff .....
3. I loathe doing this work .....

Stop being careless with your choice of words. The power of words is such that we are indeed playing deadly games when we casually use such words. Find replacements for these needless exaggerations. Say what you really mean. Instead of "I would rather die than do such-and-such", say, "I would rather not do it". You don't hate that colour, but you do have a preference for another.

Ask yourself: "Do I want to kill that person?" or "Do I want to kill the frustrations I feel because I am unable to deal with a difficult individual?" And if you say: "I could kill myself", look and clarify what it is in you that you really want to kill.

When you control your emotions, do you "kill" love? Or is it only the habitual reactions and possessiveness that are gone? Perhaps, by this very control, love is now really alive?

Do you have a soul? Is your soul/Self alive or dead? Or only undiscovered as yet?

Philosophical ideas of death need to be investigated also and not used as excuses for deadly games. Ideas may be sustained because of a strong emotional investment, powerful enough to bypass the most important point: that one must accept responsibility for the actual consequences when such ideas materialize. The reality of any philosophical idea has to be searched carefully.

Ask yourself: What is Real?

Competition and violence are links in the chain connected to killing physically and non-physically. In competition for power, riots or revolutions may take place, resulting in the killing of innocent people. In competing for a business position, a man may "kill" the reputation of his competitor.

Ask yourself: How many ways can one kill?

1. Body
2. Joy
3. Peace
4. Protest
5. Business
6. Reputation
7. Opposition
8. Expectations
9. Hopes
10. Honesty
11. Ambition
12. Innocence
13. Good-will
14. Laws

What part is played by the power of the mind?

1. Imagination
2. Emotion
3. Personal Will
4. Awareness of Consequences
5. Responsibility
6. Escape
7. Projection of oneself
8. Self-importance
9. Revenge
10. Hate

What is the emotional pitch of a killer?

1. Has the killer reached the culmination of all emotion?
2. What is the emotional state of the victim?

Sacrifice, martyrdom, and suicide have many roots. As mentioned earlier, the choice of language used gives hints of what is in the recesses of the mind. Assassinations often have their roots in a sick kind of self-glorification. A person may begin by indulging in self-pity and be led by stages to become an assassin, believing himself or herself to be striking a blow against injustice or cruelty. Vanity, self-importance, and imagination may also play a part.

Some thoughts are like weeds, running wild in the mind. Some thoughts are flowers, turning to the Light:

1. Which are growing in your mental garden?
2. Which do you want to grow?
3. What roots have to be pulled out?
4. What roots have to be killed?

The garden of the mind has to be cultivated with great care. Undesirable characteristics must be weeded out ruthlessly before the good is lost and another round of birth and life has to start again.

A great talent, a genius, does not appear suddenly, but comes into existence by careful cultivation, training, and discipline through many lifetimes. The same Law of Karma applies to all the negative and destructive characteristics, if these have been allowed to develop in previous incarnations. The choice is the responsibility of each individual.

Why must we spend time looking at this ugly side of life when the Goal is just the opposite? The Masters and Teachers of old thought that there would be no appreciation for the bright sun if the night were not accepted also. By turning away and pretending the ugliness does not exist, there will be very little effort to make the earth a place of peace and harmony. It is also too easy to postpone the work on oneself until tomorrow. "In the next life I will do it. This time let me have fun":

1. What fun?
2. Can you have fun at no cost to anyone?

These are the questions that have to be asked, regardless of one's level of proficiency. Everything has a small beginning but can grow out of all proportion. However, many undesirable characteristics can be nipped in the bud if searching questions are asked.

Finally:

1. How well do you know yourself?
2. What is your regard for life?

COMPETITION

In the practice of Enochian Magick there is no competition. You start where you are, at the beginning.

Ask yourself:

1. What does the word "competition" mean to me?
2. Do I compete?
3. In what areas do I compete?
    a. On the job?
    b. With my husband or wife?
    c. With my father or mother?
    d. With a colleague?
    e. With a co-student or co-worker?
4. For what do I compete?
    a. For love?
    b. Acceptance?
    c. To win?
    d. Because of habit?

e. Because I was trained that way?
f. Because everybody does?
g. Because it is the only way to live?
h. For survival?
i. Recognition?
j. Fame?
k. Self-glorification?
l. Self-importance?

These are serious questions and must be fully examined. To carry competition into the Spiritual/Magickal Path is a disaster. Enochian Magick makes great demands of discipline. Any type of work that is worth doing must be done well, with perseverance and sincerity, and not for the purpose of competing. In following Spiritual/Magickal instructions -- keeping a daily diary and performing the Rituals -- the highest level of performance must be maintained. Dabbling in Spiritual/Magickal practice is a deadly game because it creates karma.

MECHANICALNESS

You may not have discovered how mechanical you are. Maybe in the context of Enochian Magickal practice it does not even make sense. An illustration will help. After you learned to drive a car, you no longer went through the entire process of driving. You could drive "automatically". In daily life there are many examples of this. But all areas in which one is mechanically functioning, whether physically, mentally of emotionally, have to be slowly discovered. One must become aware of them.

Ask yourself:

1. What does the word "mechanical" mean to me?
2. What do I do mechanically?

Go through the routine of the day. Think of actions such as driving, eating at particular times, or sleeping a certain number of hours.

What are my emotional mechanical reactions?

1. I always get angry when .....
2. I always get a headache when .....
3. I'm always afraid in the dark .....
4. I cannot be alone, automatically I am afraid to be in my own company.

What are my mental mechanical reactions?

1. My mind always gets restless if I am not busy .....
2. My mind always drifts off when things get rough or boring .....
3. My mind always drifts off when I am not the center of attention .....
4. My mind is always too tired to concentrate.

LOVE

To investigate love, you begin where you are right now by jotting down your thoughts. If thoughts don't come, ask questions such as:

What is love?

1. Companionship?
2. Being needed?
3. Being accepted?
4. Being married?
5. Having children?
6. Emotions?
7. Responsibility?
8. Self-gratification?
9. Helping someone?
10. Loving nature (trees, flowers, animals)?

The list is endless and you may continue it on your own.
After your list is completed, at least for the moment, ask yourself if you can answer what love is. Perhaps you are in love with the idea of love. This is more common than is generally suspected because of a lack of thinking on a deeper level.
When you say "I love you", what exactly do you mean? I love you because:

1. You accept me
2. You are so friendly or nice
3. You take care of me
4. You are very entertaining and lots of fun
5. You are rich, educated and good looking
6. You offer me security and social status .....

Try to eliminate all the because's. having done so, you may feel more honest, almost relieved, and be more modest in your statement, saying instead, "I like you (very much)". If you like a person for various reasons, you are being truthful and there is nothing wrong with this. But the word "love" has, in many a person's mind, a very clear definition with many expectations attached to it. When these are not fulfilled the result is disappointment and pain. If you really take a good look at love and how you understand it in contrast to its true meaning, your conclusions might be something like "If I love ... I can forgive ... I can forget ... I can refrain from making demands on my loved ones ... I can accept what is ... I can renounce praise and drop expectations ... This love is my sole happiness".
There is one more question left: "Which of my senses experiences love?"

CONSCIOUSNESS (MIND)

If you find it difficult to make a list on the subject of consciousness and mind, try some of the others again. You can, however, begin this one in the same way by just trying to find out how you use these words. When do you speak of "consciousness" and when do you prefer "mind?"

1. How do I use "consciousness"?
2. How do I use "mind"?
3. Do I use these words interchangeably?
4. If I interchange them, when and why?
5. What are the characteristics of the mind?

a. Thinking
b. Memorizing

c. Concentrating
d. Observing
e. Daydreaming
f. Learning
g. Imagining
h. Procrastinating
6. Are there levels of the mind?
7. How many levels are there?
8. What do I mean by each level?
9. What about:
a. Telepathy
b. Clairvoyance
c. Inspiration
d. Intuition
10. Do I credit these to mind or consciousness?
11. Where does mechanicalness come in?
12. Higher Self verses lower self -- What does it mean to me?
13. What do the following mean to me?
a. ESP
b. Hypnosis
c. Self-suggestion
d. Projection
e. Analysis

Once you understand even a little better the mysteries and functions of your mind, you will become aware that it has an awesome power.

Mind is the interpreter of all experiences!

17. OBSERVING THE MIND:

Any path of Enochian Magick has the same goal, liberation from all limitations. You have to decide to begin yourself and you have to do the work by yourself. It cannot be done by anybody else. An important part of this work is watching the mind to learn how it functions.

Concentration means to keep one object in the mind without any other intruding thoughts. The length of time that you can do this is an excellent way to find out more about your mind and its ability to concentrate. This practice is done side by side with the practice of creative visualization, and the reciting of various Enochian Rituals or Calls a certain number of times without any interfering thoughts. Various images are used to enlarge one's power of concentration. Once you have learned to sit and concentrate for long periods of time, you can watch your mind and begin to understand the process of thinking. What kind of images appear? The mind is very quick, thus an effort has to be made to slow it down. Are the images that appear in your mind concrete or abstract? Neither is right nor wrong, but these findings allow you to decide on the kind of image that is best suited to you for concentration.

It will soon become obvious to the aspirant how many acrobatics the mind will perform in order to relate one thing to another.

The mind will link the object of concentration to many other things which are associated with it. It will be difficult to bring the mind back to think only about the object being concentrated on. It is important to become aware of the tendency of the mind ever to weave new fabrics. The cultivated imagination can create a genius, but without control it produces the fragmentation that keeps the mind from relating to the object or subject of concentration at hand.

EXERCISES FOR OBSERVING THE MIND

1. Select a number of different objects. Concentrate on each one for three (3) minutes. It will take practice to achieve unbroken concentration for this length of time. The objects must vary in kind. For example, a piece of wood, a glass or bowl of water, a picture of a known person and of an unknown person, a likeable and an ugly picture, a picture of a bird, an insect, a fierce animal, or a sweet little kitten or puppy.
2. Sit still for ten (10) minutes watching the mind, then note all that is observed:
   a. The emerging images
   b. The thought associations
   c. Distinguishing between concrete and abstract information
   d. The influence of either concrete or abstract images (basic to concentration or meditation).

Then increase the time by five (5) minutes -- expand to a half hour and finally to an hour. (This can be done in two ways -- first, at the start, every ten (10) minutes until an hour is complete, watch and take notes. However, the exercise must finally lead into watching the mind for an unbroken half or full hour, with notes to follow.) All notes from watching the mind should be compared. If certain aspects repeat, indicating a possible problem, it should be dealt with by continuous questioning.

These exercises will, in time, show how the mind works on all sorts of stimuli presented to it and how the mind is being stimulated apparently from nowhere. Watch what happens if, by old habit, you let the stimuli manifest or, by the new discipline of the mind, you "weed" them out as soon as they appear as thoughts. It is like a million seeds so small they are barely visible, all "sprouting" at once. This process occurs so fast that the earnest aspirant can barely distinguish them. But when control has been achieved, those thoughts die quickly and energy can be diverted towards only the desirable ones. This practice takes care of the innate restlessness which prevents focusing on a single thought or object. The mind can now become a container, open and receptive.

Keeping notes makes it possible to practice recall and to check the accuracy of what you recall. The result of this exercise is a strengthening of memory and, more important, the acquiring of a well-honed sense of discrimination.

Having learned to concentrate, to recall, and to empty the mind, meditation can be attempted because the mind is now like a vessel, able to receive thoughts of a Divine nature. In the beginning there may be insights of great significance, but as soon as intuition begins to unfold, the perceptions are of a different quality, which can be designated as Divine. These perceptions flow into the mind and are often preceded by waves of brilliant hues of blue colour. The aspirant is enveloped in an all-encompassing feeling of peace and harmony. This by itself will become an important stimulus to keep up a regular practice. Soon it will be more than a stimulus, a deep longing will be created within the heart. Instead of colour, a sense of peace may come.

To sum up, when desires are diminished and the scheming for their fulfillment ceases, concentration and meditation is possible without much effort. The Masters and Teachers call this acquiring a Pure Mind.

SPECIAL EXERCISE

Water can be used as a symbol for the mind, which can flow uncontrolled and destructive, or be directed and beneficial. The Enochian Cup, which is a container implies, among other things, the control of water and thus the control of the mind. Therefore, it is advised to watch the mind, looking at the thoughts and images that appear, then reflecting on both the results of the exercises and the day's events. Reasoning must be used to follow one thought to a completion and to take action on whatever one has become aware of. There is no room for indulgence in emotions. This requires maturity.

Ask yourself: What is the meaning of water? What part does it play in my life?

1. Water cleans and washes.
2. Water quenches thirst and fire.
3. Water is used for cooking.
4. Water has various tastes according to its source and flow.
5. Water can give pleasure, joy, and excitement.
6. Water is refreshing on a hot day.
7. Water is important to life, to growth and survival.
8. Water carries boats and ships.
9. Water can take many shapes and forms, filling spaces.
10. Water is soft and gentle in small quantities.
11. Water's large waves can destroy valleys and towns.
12. Water unchecked is dangerous.
13. Water's flow can be directed.
14. Water is unpredictable.
15. Water responds to the slightest breath.
16. Water wears down the hardest stone by steady drops.
17. Water can emerge from below.
18. Water can come from above as rain, hail or snow.
19. Water reflects the sky.
20. Water receives, unresisting, my projections.

What other impressions on water would you have? What thought associations come to your mind, now that you have watched your mind and seen its play, its creativity?

1. Is your mind like the water?
2. Does a slight stimulation create ripples of endless thoughts?
3. Are the waters of your mind murky?
4. Is a lot of debris floating around?
5. Can you direct your mind, or is it like unchecked waters, just gushing forth?

The steady dropping of water wears down the hardest rock.

1. Can you apply this to yourself in regard to Spiritual practice?
2. Would you want to?

Still water reflects the sky.

1. Can you keep your mind still to reflect Divine thoughts?

The mind is useful in many aspects, but not in all.
Sometimes it assumes a rulership without proper authority. Who gives this authority? As water can emerge from below, so many suppressed thoughts emerge from the depths within yourself. Let all that debris come to the surface so that you know what is there. Remove what you don't want. Keep and deal with what you want.

Can you stay above WATER?

By now it must have become obvious to the aspirant that there will be no "definite" directions, only pointers to stimulate thinking into new avenues. All depends on YOU.
Remember to keep up with your daily diary. It will become your treasure chest.

18. BEGINNING YOUR ENOCHIAN RITUALS:

As every child must crawl before it can walk, so every aspirant must begin with the basics. The following Rituals will teach the aspirant the value of regular daily practice. A daily routine will also help the aspirant to set an established pattern for their Spiritual/Magickal practices and will also prepare you for the more difficult rituals you will be learning in the future.

It is now time for you, the aspirant, to begin your journey on the Spiritual/Magickal Path of Enochian Magick. So let us go forth into the Light!

Ritual Cleansing Bath

STEP ONE

Take a hot shower to get the dirt off of your body.

STEP TWO

Run a warm bath and add some bath salts or epsom salts and some nicely scented oil or perfume.

STEP THREE

Get in the water and soak for a few minutes, making sure you slowly splash water on the upper part of your body. Now, feel all of your problems, worries and negativity going into the water.

STEP FOUR
Pull the plug and let the water drain "while you stay in the water." As the water slowly drains, you will feel all the negative things which were troubling you go down the drain with the water. "REMAIN IN THE TUB UNTIL ALL THE WATER IS GONE."

STEP FIVE
Get out of the tub and allow your body to AIR DRY. (If you are pressed for time, you may dry off with a clean, fresh towel. However, "air-drying" is more beneficial.)

STEP SIX
While "air-drying" meditate on the upcoming ritual or rituals you are going to perform.

STEP SEVEN
When "DRY" wrap your body in a towel or a clean robe and then proceed to a quite area, where you will immediately discard the towel or robe if you are performing the ritual by yourself.

STEP EIGHT
Sit down in the chair and relax for a few moments. Once you feel totally relaxed and comfortable proceed with the Seven-Fold Breath Ritual.

Seven-Fold Breath Ritual

STEP ONE
Sit in the chair in your quiet area and place your feet flat on the floor and your hands in your lap.

STEP TWO
Empty the lungs and remain thus while counting to 7.

STEP THREE
Inhale, counting to 7 so that you feel filled with breath to the throat.

STEP FOUR
Hold this breath while counting to 7.

STEP FIVE
Exhale, counting to 7 till the lungs are empty.

STEP SIX
Repeat steps One, Two, Three, Four and Five, consecutively until done fifteen (15) times.

STEP SEVEN
Proceed to the Relaxation Ritual.

The Relaxation Ritual

STEP ONE
While still sitting in the chair, make sure that your feet are flat on the floor and that your legs are not crossed. Rest your hands, palms down, in your lap. Your eyes should be closed.

STEP TWO
Visualize a golden ball of beautiful, warm light surrounding your feet. The ball of golden warm light brings peace and total relaxation. Wherever the ball of light goes, tension departs. Let it go, and as it goes, feel your feet filled with the warm, golden glow of peace and total relaxation.

STEP THREE

Now, allow this ball of light to rise up your legs and up your torso. Then allow it to go down your arms to your fingers, and finally up your neck and into your head until you are completely covered with the warm, golden glow of total peace and relaxation, and all tension is gone. If you notice tension anywhere, send the ball of light there and the tension will vanish.

STEP FOUR

Stay in this state of total peace and deep relaxation for ten (10) to fifteen (15) minutes.

STEP FIVE

When you are ready to come out of this state of deep relaxation, take three (3) deep breaths and feel fresh life and energy coming into your body with each breath.

STEP SIX

Proceed to the Enochian invocation of the Light Ritual.

Enochian Invocation of the Light

STEP ONE:

Stand erect, feet shoulder-width apart. Lift your arms straight above your head. Close your eyes and focus them on the space between your eyebrows. Say the following with all the determination and resolve possible:

I AM CREATED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM SUSTAINED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM PROTECTED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM SURROUNDED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM ALWAYS GROWING INTO THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

STEP TWO:

Use your imagination and creative visualization to see yourself standing in a shower of brilliant white light. See the Light pouring down upon you -- into your body through the top of your head -- and filling your entire being.

STEP THREE:

Lower your arms slowly to the sides of your body. Concentrate on feeling a warm glow of Light suffuse your entire body -- outside as well as inside. Say the following:

"Every atom of this, my physical body, is filled with the Light. Every level of my consciousness is illuminated with the Light. The Light penetrates every single atom of my being, every level of consciousness. I have become a channel of Pure Light.

I am One with the Light."

STEP FOUR:

Stand quietly for several minutes and bask in the warmth of the Light. Meditate upon the Light. Be receptive to the Light and accept that your are now a channel of Divine Light. Express gratitude with deep feeling and share this gift with someone whom you wish to help.

STEP FIVE:

Visualize any person, friend or relative. See him or her standing before you. With your arms still by your sides, turn your palms forward. Mentally open the doors of your heart and let the Light stream forth towards the feet of this person. See the Light encircling the body, spiralling upward in a clockwise direction, enveloping the body completely. See the spiral moving high up into the sky, taking his or her image along with it. Finally, see the person merge into the source of the Light and become one with the Light.

STEP SIX:

When the person has passed from your view, relax and silently give thanks for having the opportunity to help someone in need. (Remember, in helping others we are helping ourselves.)

You have just completed performing the first four (4) Basic Enochian Rituals. The first thing you should now do is record these rituals in your diary. Record everything that you felt, saw or heard. Make your entries as detailed as possible. The entries you make now will be very helpful to you in the future.

SECTION THREE

19. Speech (Level Three)

The power of speech that has been given in the previous two sections can now, in this section, be focused on compulsive talking, compulsive criticism, and the compulsive gratification of what are termed "needs". It must be realized that man goes through five stages of development: (1) Mineral-Man, (2) Vegetable-Man, (3) Animal-Man, (4) Man-Man, and (5) God-Man. While it is right for man to fulfill needs in the first three groups, Man-Man, now in search of the Spiritual/Magickal Path by a decision of his own, must look at these needs and reduce them down to the very essentials. Giving in to such needs that should be discarded could exact a very high price.

Language is born of the unconscious. The drive to express oneself comes from the unconscious. Behind many a word lies a whole range of ideas allowing numerous interpretations. For example, the words "time" and "space" spring from very different ideas when used by a housewife, an architect, a scientist, a social worker, or a psychiatrist. Each profession has its particular language for specific communication with those of like mind.

Energy wasted in useless chatter is easily recognized when we are ill. We are then aware that energy is quickly depleted. There is a reluctance to conform to the social conventions that mandate one must always make conversation, however small or worthless. What is the difference in the useless drain of energy in talk or in sex? If greater awareness of its preciousness does not show a purpose for the energy, then it is spilled down the drain. Observing the mind has to be carried out as an exercise to find out how it functions and to obtain greater awareness. Changes in oneself are frequently unnoticed. They come to the foreground, however, when attention is given to the use of words and language. In each stage of life speech increases. Higher levels of consciousness are approached as awareness expands. Exaggerations, superlatives, and coarse language have to be left behind as one evolves; after some time these simply fade away and disappear. The voice becomes a magnet that attracts others; the magnetism of personality comes into effect.

The ancient Teachers and Masters say that speech is feminine. The reason for assigning feminine aspects to speech was brought about because letters of the alphabet give birth to words, and finally, to language. They are sound symbols.

Just as complicated mathematical formulas are unintelligible to the untrained mind, so are higher aspects of the meanings of words used in Enochian Rituals. A magnetic/electric field is created by the reciting of Enochian Rituals. The benefits are evident in-and-to those who practice Enochian Magick on a daily basis. Sound has an effect on the human body in general and, in very specific ways, the mind.

First there is the sound or word, second the sense, and last the manifestation. This is ENOCHIAN MAGICK. The summary of all these ideas is expressed in the "Vibrations". A Ritual is, therefore, not limited to the letters themselves but is in their audible pronunciation (vibration).

THIRD LEVEL EXERCISE IN SPEECH

In this section, we will investigate the power of the spoken word and realize that in certain respects the power of language is not different from the power of thought.

To begin this investigation think of the following:

1. What is speech?
2. How do I speak?
   a. Clearly?
   b. Mumbling"
3. Do I want to be heard?
4. Am I afraid to be heard?
5. Is there clarity of thought?

After having asked these questions and added many more of your own, the brief answers that you may supply in the first moment of response have to be further clarified:

1. Do I see the light of the day?
2. If I do, what is it that is seen?
   a. Daylight
   b. Sunlight
   c. The Moonlight

You will note that each of these have the word "light" attached to them. Do you find this to be a significant point?

Many expressions which are commonly used in everyday language show the reflection of sight in speech:

1. In my eyes . . . (in my estimation)
2. To cast an eye . . .(to look over, evaluate)
3. An eye for an eye . . . (equal revenge)
4. Have an eye for . . . (to desire, to assess)
5. Keep an eye on . . . (watch)
6. Keep your eyes open . . . (stay alert)
7. The eye is the mirror of the soul . . . (honest reflection of thoughts).

Sight is also reflected in such expressions as:

1. Foresighted decisions
2. Shortsighted decisions
3. Eye witness . . . (someone who is present)
4. An eyesore . . . (untidy place).

Add as many of your own expressions to this list as you can.
Another step towards the cultivation of speech is the emphasis on reciting rituals. The power of sound, the power of vibration, can only be achieved if you are very careful not to allow the ritual practice to deteriorate into mechanicalness. In the same way that somebody will say, "I love you", so in ritual work the voice (speech) and emotions must work together.
The emotions expressed can be hope, longing, determination, or desire to achieve the power of the Ritual, to experience the power of sound working in others as well as oneself. Prolonged Ritual work, which means several hours a day for many, many months will bring the effect of focusing and directing the speech, emotions and vibrations. However, you must also renounce a very common need these days, the demand for immediate results. This need for immediate results may seem necessary in the beginning to make you feel secure in the knowledge that you are on the right track. In the same way, while it is all right to be aware of these needs, you must guard against a dependency on them. The importance of the practice of Enochian Rituals can be summed up by saying that the eventual goal of Ritual Consciousness is obtained when the power of the rituals manifest themselves in your life, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, for the rest of your life. I should also inform you that Ritual Consciousness will also manifest itself during sleep. When this happens, you will awake not with a dream, but with a "vision".

1. Recite the following for one (1) hour, paying attention to the breath. This links emotions with sound and is a good way to hear the emotion in your voice. This is an outlet for the restlessness caused by the emotions. Make sure that you recite the following from the heart. Do not let your recitation become mechanical!

"I AM CREATED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM SUSTAINED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM PROTECTED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM SURROUNDED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.
I AM ALWAYS GROWING INTO THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE."

2. Hold an imaginary conversation for ten (10) minutes, allowing the play of emotions to take place. Repeat this exercise, but this time controlling the emotions. Make sure that you use a tape recorder so that you can play back both conversations and listen to the emotions in your voice.

Hearing yourself speak can bring attention to several things:
1. Is the voice soft because of fear of saying the wrong thing?
2. Is it soft because of a poor self-image?
3. Is the voice strong and powerful?
4. Is there determination to be heard, to override others?
5. Is the voice strong and clear because the mind is clear?
6. Is the voice strong and clear because the emotions are clear?

These again are only a few focal points to pay attention to. Each aspirant will have to discover the various differences and possibilities in these random lists. You must think of the meaning of the expressions that are used. Once you have done this, add and clarify any other personal ones. Again, you are reminded that this is a small selection, so your lists could be a great deal larger.

20. IMAGINATION, MIND, AND ENERGY

In each section of these writings you, the aspirant, are reminded of the fact that Enochian Energy is originally formless and shapeless, and that the contribution made by the imagination to its manifestation is the responsibility of the user.
Imagination and strong emotions, interacting with the sense of sight, welds this Energy into desires. The images welling up are like clay, with a form yet soft, able to change shape. But once they are put into the kiln of the emotions they are hardened by the self-will and, if left there, can in the course of time, become as hard as rock, difficult to destroy when you, the aspirant, finally becomes aware that this must be done.
Passions are not limited to sex. One can be passionate about forms and shapes, and also about ideas and concepts.
Concepts that have been formed on this level can be compared to the clay images, put into the emotional kiln and burned with passion. We all love our concepts, and allow them to occupy a large place in our lives. Such concepts acquire, in due time, an almost hypnotic power. Sometimes it seems impossible to act contrary to them even when reason indicates that we should.
Also, our emotions cause intentional blindness. From earlier times of development there seem to be some appendages, old habits that constantly cause difficulties, such as procrastination, self-pity, and the desire to compensate.
By the time you, the aspirant, decides to undertake the practice Enochian Magick, many habits have been established: habitual thinking, habitual feeling, habitual defenses to things one does not want to hear, actions and reactions, compulsions, and the teeter-totter of the pairs of opposites. A very important pair of opposites is the power of positive thinking and the power of negative thinking. Negative thinking exerts such a strong power because of the pushing up of the emotions, which are controlled by the ego. The power of positive thinking needs to get its push from repeated (cultivated) visualizations of ideal responses to situations in the mind's eye. This point will become clearer through watching the mind.

Gradually you, the aspirant, will become aware that the mind interprets everything we experience in reference to ourselves. This awareness comes through the refinement and cultivation of the of the senses, which are the doors and windows to the world. Such refinement brings us into more sensitive touch with those around us because, as the saying goes, "no man is an island". The single cell of the body functions in conjunction with all the other cells and its very existence depends on the cooperation of all the other cells. Similarly, each individual could be compared to a cell in this great Cosmic body that we name in various ways. Self-importance makes for a separation that will only lead to isolation.

Because of imagination, the images in dreams "need" to be observed. To know them, their influence and even control, is very important when exploring the already-known powers of the mind. It is important to know what the mind manufacturers when the consciousness is dimmed in sleep. It takes a great deal of courage to accept the messages which often tell the dreamer an unpleasant truth that ought to be known. A combination of humility, prayer, and courage will help the dreams to become very clear, and very much to the point.

There are many schools of dream interpretation, but it is wise, particularly in the case of the beginner, not to mix schools of thought.

EXERCISES IN IMAGINATION, MIND, AND ENERGY

How do you create your world? Are you happy with it? If not, can you destroy it and create a new one?

Habitual looking at things and people, groups or individuals, belongs to the pattern of mechanicalness which indicates blindness. At this point, it will be helpful to make a list to see the habitual pattern of mechanicalness in regard to sight, illusion, and perhaps even cherished beliefs.

See your beliefs:

1. Where do they come from?
2. What is the foundation?
3. How much is wishful thinking?
4. How much is truly knowing?
5. What happens when you assume an opposite position from your beliefs?
6. Does this become disturbing?

If you can follow through with this process of looking at facts clearly, there will be no flaring emotions if someone else opposes your beliefs, because you have already done it yourself.

That investigative process will have moved you from one end of the teeter-totter closer to the center. Functioning closer to the center and the benefits of such functioning will now bring new insights.

In making a list of mechanicalness and habits, it may be helpful to divide the list. Go through the day in your mind and think of all the things that you do habitually. Do you always:

1. Eat certain foods at certain times of the day?
2. Eat certain foods on certain days of the week?
3. Limit some activities to definite times?
4. Allow too little time for activities, resulting in being rushed?
5. Perform routine tasks with little awareness of doing them?

In making this list, think of your actions and reactions:

1. Do you become defensive when criticized?
2. Do some mannerisms make you feel hostile?
3. Are you intimidated by certain people?
4. Does a person's appearance cause you to react favourably or unfavourably?
5. Do you have an emotional response to witnessing certain situations?

Both of these lists can be expanded greatly and will help you in understanding yourself and increasing your awareness, by allowing you to awaken from your "sleepwalking" state.

The work of laying a foundation is very important because any imagined short-comings, are just that, -- Imagined. It is not a fact. The intense examination of the use of the senses up to this point -- smell, taste, and sight -- with emotions and imagination shows the immensity of the work that has been done by an aspirant who has achieved even a small degree of realization. Each step may seem to be cruel and one will attempt to resist fact while attempting to hold on to imaginary conditions or circumstances, or to desires and hopes. Any dreams in daily life are only illusions and the awakening from those dreams is sometimes much more cruel than the demands of the Spiritual/Magickal Path. To see facts as they are helps to build confidence and makes a person stronger. If one can see what is, instead of what one wants to see, there is much less self-created pain.

Straight-forward thinking implies straight-forward living. This means meeting situations head-on instead of imagining that things are different and covering them up by foggy thinking, or just doing nothing and hoping that the problems, worries, and decisions will go away.

Sight (inner sight) is strongly linked with concentration. The ability of intense concentration is the "key" to success in all walks of life and also in the cultivation and the development to greater depths of all physical, mental, and emotional tools that are available to everyone.

Concentration can be roughly described as seeing in the mind's eye at will, for a specific length of time, a chosen object. You, the aspirant, must find out how long the span of your concentration is, and learn which objects hold your attention for the longest time, and which, for a shorter period. An understanding of whether you, the aspirant, can visualize an image of an abstract or a concrete nature is important when the choice is made for concentration. {For example, can you think of yourself without holding on to your physical appearance? Can you see yourself as a mass of Light? Can you see yourself as a body of Light without density?} The daily diary reporting the happenings, the exercises, and the emerging thoughts about them, as well as dreams and their importance, becomes a kind of gold mine in one's own backyard and makes clear which way your, the aspirant's, mind works. Careful study will show how, step by step, one gets in touch with the innermost being, which becomes the guiding force to further development. It also becomes a source of energy which one can draw on for the necessary enthusiasm and drive needed to carry on this formidable task of continued self-development.

Put the spotlight of attention on:

1. Where are my dark clouds?
2. How do these dark clouds develop?
3. Can I detect them when they emerge?
4. Which are the areas where I act under compulsion of the emotions?
5. Do I value "emotional investments" higher than reason?
6. What would be a good "key sentence" if I want to make changes? (Example: FIRST THINK, THEN ACT).
7. How would this compare with using another person as a sounding board or brainstorming?
8. Can I detach myself sufficiently to be clear in my own mind which of the processes (sounding board, brainstorming or key sentence reminder) will be most effective for me in a specific situation?

A few more focal points would be:

1. Delay tactics of the mind -- emotions.
2. Traps laid out by the mind -- emotions.
3. Habits of criticism and judgment -- emotions.

Now, take a look at the delay tactics and traps:

1. Do the job tomorrow.
2. Deposit in the past, or postpone until the future, matters which should be dealt with in the present.
3. Remain intentionally blind to avoid taking action or making decisions.
4. Pretend unawareness.

Where do I use delay tactics?

1. In my job?
2. In studying?
3. In work?
4. In cleaning up?

Ways to practice awareness:

1. Paying attention.
2. Recording observations, dreams, etc., in my diary.
3. Physical exercise.
4. Mental and emotional exercises.

a. Watching the mind.
b. Concentrating on one object.
c. Reflecting on daily events.
d. Reflecting on the meaning of words and ideas.

Please remember that making a list for one's own clarification must not lead to the habit of looking for loopholes. A wide area of choices for development must be recognized and evaluated, but the greater responsibility that goes with the new awareness can be more easily accepted through clearer thinking, by whatever process you choose. It is impossible to cover the innumerable possibilities of which the mind and emotions of each individual are capable. Again, it is suggested that you, the aspirant, expand the process of clarification as your studies and knowledge progress.

21. EMOTIONS, MIND, AND ENERGY

For a long time in the aspirant's life it seems that emotions are always upsetting the balance, and so observation is clouded by vanity, pride and false modesty. A critical attitude towards oneself and others and the resulting emotions are responsible for the drive of competition. In the life of an aspirant there can be no competition. The aspirant is like a flower in the field. It grows and it does not measure itself against other flowers of the same kind or of other kinds.

Reflection is mirroring the events of the day and trying to assess one's performance on all levels. Without reflection one would not know when pain is unavoidable or when it is self-created. By our own attitude, we can take situations as helpful or harmful. Often one is simply inconvenienced, not hurt. If there is an accident, such as cutting one's finger, when one is physically hurt, that may be due to lack of observation and, therefore, also self-created. Pain has to be recognized as a great teacher. There might be painful experiences of past lives which, not dealt with at the time, show up again in the present life.

The average person may never encounter a process of developing latent potentials, but, as in man-made law, so in Divine law, ignorance is no excuse. For the ignorant person, life often appears to be merciless, making that person feel like a leaf in the wind, blown here and there, helpless. The possibility of self-mastery on the physical and on the mental-emotional levels seems to be hidden from such persons. The ancient Teachers and Masters defined a secret as that which is not known. The average human being assumes that what is not known does not exist.

Emotions are a very powerful influence in the aspirant's life, therefore, they need to be carefully studied and understood. You, the aspirant, are probably already aware of the hypnotic effect of your own negative emotions. By applying positive thinking in concrete images, this power can be used constructively. Emotions can be of different kinds, like fire and water. When one "sees red", the emotions are so powerful that they prevent clear sight. Later, upon reflection, one can observe what has happened and by a process of reasoning, balance can be re-established.

As a means of increasing your control over such disturbing emotions, do an exercise of three (3) minutes concentrating on "Water". A drop of water is like a drop of emotions: small, it can be wiped off easily. A bucket of water, if it spills, is much more work to clean up. Think of a lake as symbolizing emotions -- what is the depth? Murky water prevents clear sight to the bottom. Water takes on a shape and form of its own if it is not controlled and regulated.

Let's imagine that the eyes wander to the sky. There are some clouds screening out the sunlight. "Can I see things only in reference to myself? Then what about the clouds of my mind? What are they made of. . . . Emotions? If emotions can interfere with clear sight, then I must `look' at the emotions to keep myself from `blindness'". When blindness is physical, other senses take over and become more acute. But when the blindness is emotional, it means that one does not want to see. How many times do you say, "I don't want to know". In order to see more clearly it helps to say to yourself, "Let me look at some of my emotions like jealousy, attachment, self-pity, and the old habits of procrastination and self-justification, to name only a few.

EXERCISES IN EMOTIONS, MIND, AND ENERGY

The image of God in the mind serves the following purposes: (1) to focus attention for a longer period of concentration, (2) to refine or even develop through acts of worship (ritual practice) certain emotions such as gratitude, empathy and loyalty, and (3) to break the monotony of spiritual practice so that it goes beyond one's "time limit" (the limit of one's inclination). This means that there is at the beginning a length of time of concentration and enthusiasm, but when this is exhausted the aspirant, needs to be inspired either to make a new start or to be encouraged to continue to reach for higher and higher goals of concentration and refinement of emotions.

The next step in the cultivation of the emotions is brought about by placing in the mind the concrete image of a Deity with the Light. This is much more difficult and demands greater awareness, discrimination, and a deep sense of gratitude.

For every emotion that you experience, there is an opposite one. Think now of as many emotions as you can and find their opposites. Try to think of ways in which you can change negative emotions into positive emotions, using the following examples:

1. Gloom -- Cheerfulness
2. Anger -- Love
3. Harshness -- Mercy
4. Condemnation -- Compassion
5. Jealousy -- Trust
6. Hatred -- Charity
7. Vileness -- Purity
8. Criticism -- Acceptance

Continue the list yourself to act as reminders.

Dependencies are numerous. List them. Then realize that the process of thinking is dependent on the brain. "I" (as a personality) depend on the ability to think. Without thinking "I" do not exist, there is no awareness. "I" (as a personality) depend on discrimination to recognize illusions.

Now that you have finished the above exercise, repeat it, but this time put the emphasis on "feeling".

ADDITIONAL EXERCISES

1. Walk around a room making a circle with both arms, moving them out from the chest, extending them full length, then bringing them back about level with the navel, and then raising them up to chest height. Say aloud and listen to your own voice reinforcing, "I am functioning from my center". The reinforcement of hearing this repeated aloud is very effective. Doing this exercise ten (10) times, each and every day, will be a good reminder on other occasions when you, the aspirant, may be off-center, that it is possible to return to the center at any time it is so decided or needed.
2. See in the mind's eye some aesthetically unpleasant, or even violent, scene that may have been witnessed on television, or one involving a strong emotion such as revenge or resentment towards some individual. Imagine what you would do if you had the courage to do it. Observe the rising emotions. Repeat this exercise several times and observe any other emotions such as satisfaction at having done it, even though only in the imagination. Observe the destructiveness of the emotions of which one is capable and realize that they are not, and cannot be, justified. Consider that such emotions could be directed against yourself, and think of how you would feel if they were.
3. From the above exercise you will be able to recognize the source within yourself of forces that manifest harmfully. Now, for a proper balance and understanding, it will be necessary to create and imagine an ideal situation that is elevating, happy, and joyful. Of course, in the same way that there was a receiver of the negative, now there will be a receiver of the positive. So choose your ideal companion and observe the emotions involved in this situation.

The objective of the exercise, now that both parts have been done and the emotions have been observed, is to balance these opposites and to tone down the malevolent, as well as the benevolent emotions. To achieve this balance, the emphasis on the daily diary has to be intensified. The reflection has to result in accepting the facts as they are, with as little emotional colouring as possible.

The exercises given here can be replaced with actual people who are known to you, actual situations from the past or anticipated situations in the future.

You, the aspirant, have to take full responsibility for the cultivation of the emotions. Even one's own Higher Self is only going to cooperate if there is evidence of (1) Effort, (2) Will, and (3) Desire to achieve a higher state, beyond the ordinary.

It is necessary to develop a feeling of gratitude, so that it becomes natural and emerges on its own account. It would be wise to make a list of all the things in life that you have reason to be grateful for.

Also list the actions you have done for other people that you feel they should be grateful for, in order to examine your own need to receive gratitude from others. The renouncement of the fulfillment of your needs has to be properly understood. It is not repressing needs, it is rather controlling the fulfillment of those needs. Clarification can reduce the compelling pressures from needs. It is important not to fall into the trap of our times which advocates the fulfillment of needs. If we felt this to be essential, we would have to allow our children to have everything they wanted. What counts for the baby on the human level also counts for the spiritual body. Discrimination and self-control must be exercised. Discipline has to be accepted.

22. DREAMS

In dreams we are sometimes able to make contact with our Higher Self. The understanding of one's own dreams, and the discipline that comes with it, has extremely useful results which you, the aspirant, will discover from your Spiritual/Magickal practices. These are: (1) independence from the criticism of others, (2) independence from habitual self-assessment, and (3) the awareness of a new dimension that becomes more and more available.

As an aid in recalling your dreams, keep some paper, a pencil, and a light of some kind by your bedside. Just before going to sleep repeat to yourself, "I will remember my dream and write it down". If this is said with conviction and repeated at least ten (10) times, you will find that you will remember your dreams. Write down whatever you remember, even if it is not complete, as even fragments can carry a message. Dreams should be written down immediately after awakening. If no dream is recalled, then the first thoughts you have should be written down. A brief interpretation, even if incomplete or partial, should be noted in a separate paragraph. Another commentary that is useful to add is the events that took place, or the mental preoccupation that was present, before the dream occurred.

The daily diary can in this way be used in conjunction with the record of your dreams. The two go together like one hand washing the other.

Pay attention to how the mind functions during the sleep state, how it changes perception of time and space and the way it can shift very quickly. It is useful to ponder the meaning of time and space and the shifting of events, because, in our mind, we do the same thing in daily life. In our thoughts we move from one thing to another without being aware of doing so.

You will find it useful to incorporate the symbols that appear in your dreams into a dictionary of your own. It is wise not to consult any dream symbol books, nor to follow any particular school of dream interpretation, but to discover how that part of the mind expresses ideas over and over again in symbols that are very personal to the dreamer. With practice it becomes obvious that dreams, too, take on various levels and become more clear, more easily understood, and direct.

23. CONSCIOUSNESS, GOD, AND ENERGY

If God or an image of God is the creation of the mind, then mind should also be investigated. What is mind? And it may be practical to find out if there is a difference in meaning between mind and consciousness, or if these two terms are used interchangeably. Whatever the concept of an individual, let us agree on a starting point: Consciousness is Energy.

How can Energy be known? Its presence is recognized in its manifestations. The ancient Teachers and Masters stated that Energy and its manifestations are inseparable. Some Teachers and Masters refer to that Energy as Light, some use the term "Great Mother" as a symbol to represent Energy because, a "Mother" gives birth to the child. Energy gives birth to various creations.

This is a simple way to explain what cannot be said in the words that are used in daily communication. This is a poetic expression and poetry is the language of inspiration.

The Spiritual/Magickal Path is the pursuit of liberation from all limitations. And as I have stated before, We have to begin where we are. It has to be recognized that man's drive and inner restlessness are there, but by courageously changing the viewpoint from old established positions, something different can happen. New avenues of thought can come into focus. At first these may not be too clear and therefore they cannot be accurately defined, yet that very unclear, foggy notion puts man onto the search for the higher values in life. Maybe there is a purpose in all that happens, be it pleasant or unpleasant. In any event, it is well worth finding out.

Could it be that the Energy is one underlying force pervading all things manifest? Maybe all the effort to separate things for classifying, organizing, and recording is, if necessary at all, only a self-gratification, a need for self-importance.

AT THIS POINT, TAKE A DEEP BREATH AND DECIDE TO BEGIN THE SEARCH. Take only one step at a time to explore the new territory safely. It is like emigrating to a new country. One collects facts, as many as possible, plans wisely, and avoids undue haste. The old habit of separating, organizing, and recording is very useful in this new territory, but now it is done for the purpose of clarification of all concepts and ideas.

In this pursuit, arrogance and blindness, coupled with insensitivity to finer forces within and without, can be changed.

The Path of Enochian Magick is precise in its minute development; it is a good and safe guide to the attainment of the higher Self.

If, at this point, the aspirant cannot say what Enochian Magick is, he or she can anticipate results from following certain instructions. By recording thoughts, dreams, daily events, and, most important, the outcome of those instructions (all of which mirror what you are), you can anticipate the next step, nourished and encouraged to pursue the Spiritual/Magickal Path.

In this way, the aspirant comes to personal conclusions and learns to accept that these, too, are constantly changing as the process goes on. This would mean limiting what is Unlimited. Enochian Magick includes all aspects and characteristics of the human being. There is Divinity in all of us, the difference lies only in the degree of that awareness. To achieve greater awareness is what Enochian Magick is all about.

What about the unhappiness, confusion, and tragedy in the world? We must understand that all human drama, joyful or tragic, is but a means to the expansion of consciousness -- to realize the imperishable Divine SELF.

If one has learned to read and write, one has power over those who do not. Any position of power can lead to abuse. If one has money, one has power over the poor. If one has awareness, one has power over the sleepwalker. All powers are a temptation. If there is a latent weakness in the personal makeup of an individual, power will lead to corruption, whatever the power is. We know about the balance of power in world affairs -- if the balance is tipped, wars result. In our own lives, the balance of our positive and negative characteristics and ambitions is important, and the constant interplay of forces between the senses and the levels of consciousness must be controlled if the power is to be used wisely, in our own development and in the service of others.

The warnings about the practice of Enochian Magick, particularly without careful and dedicated study, are well founded. Carelessness will exact its price. When one cleans a gun and does not remove the bullets, somebody may be killed. Disregarding traffic signals may cause several cars to crash. Not listening to instructions, so that one can follow them precisely, will lead to problems on any spiritual path. There is no need to be fearful about the Path of Enochian Magick when it is practiced carefully and with scrupulous attention being paid to following each and every instruction precisely.

The Absolute will remain in the far distance as long as one struggles with concepts about the different aspects of Enochian Magick or God. It is like seeing a huge mountain in the distance, the snow-capped peak instills an awesome feeling and a desire to get there. Yet, as one begins to climb, sight of the peak is quickly obscured. The emotional reaction that one might be lost can turn to fear. One must have faith that the Path will lead to the top. Even the experienced mountaineer will occasionally encounter a feeling of fear. Courage does not drop into one's lap. Courage is gathered by overcoming fear. Faith is not gained unless one is willing to accept the darkness.

If one can know Enochian Magick only by experience, then what kind of experiences are they? As has already been pointed out, these experiences are individual and words are inadequate to describe them. But they can inspire the readers or listeners to experience their own.

An important practice such as the Enochian Invocation of the Light, which is given among the instructions in Section Two of these writings, will bring about a unique experience. Careful observation will show that the first "groves" of the old mental record have to be changed so that the nervous system can get used to a different rate of vibration, in the same way that one has to learn to sing in a higher octave. The voice does not jump there, but has to be trained and become flexible to expand its present limitation to reach the higher notes.

The question, What is Enochian Magick, what is this Cosmic Force, does have an answer. But the answer goes on expanding according to the level of understanding from which the question is posed. The answer comes also in that particular language that is unique to the questioner, in the same way that for one person God is a Supreme Being, for another God is the Energy in the atom, and to yet another, God is the Light which shines forth from an Incorruptible Flame.

24. POWERS OF THE MIND

Now that the beginnings of a foundation have been laid, some development will take its own course and bring about new experiences. Development takes place all the time, usually without the awareness and understanding of the individual. It is circumstances which force this process, which is long and slow in the ordinary course of life. You, the aspirant, must aim at conscious cooperation, which is like cleaning out the cupboards of the mind, taking down from the shelves old accumulated concepts that have collected dust over the years without yielding any benefits. This process makes "space" for extraordinary experiences which may be psychic or spiritual.

When the Enochian Invocation of the Light Ritual is performed, with the utmost attention, it will bring indescribable results. For instance, you may experience the body as a mass of Light, or the sudden expansion of the head or the whole body. When this happens for the first time some discomfort or even anxiety may follow, since this is something of which you have had no previous personal experience. Psychic happenings are intriquing and you can easily get caught up in them. At this point, you are probably asking yourself, "How do they come about?"

Everyone functions primarily through one of the five senses and it thereby becomes dominant, by choice or by circumstance. Therefore, it is through this sense, which has become trained and heightened in perception, that a psychic manifestation comes about. However, the experiences themselves are not a source of the continuous flow of energy needed to pursue further personal development. A psychic experience is seldom a strong enough inspiration to bring about continuing self-development, greater awareness, expanded consciousness, or the attainment to the Higher Self. The terms "clairvoyance" and "clairaudience" mean clear sight and clear hearing, not necessarily character development.

At this point in your training, both psychic and spiritual experiences can take place, which makes an understanding of the difference between the two a necessity. The spiritual experience is unforgettable. It cannot be repeated at will, and becomes the source of energy to further one's development in becoming truly a Master of Self. The spiritual experience is a sustaining energy that keeps flowing throughout the course of one's life. This is not the case with any type of manifestation of psychic energy. Psychic experiences have no particular after-effects, except a stimulation as from anything enjoyable that one can repeat.

Explicit recall (memory) is a practice that takes time and effort, yet it is a necessity to develop this, not only to recall dreams as precisely as possible, including all details and feelings while dreaming, but also to recall events. Recall and observation go hand in hand. You, the aspirant, should concentrate on recalling important events, particularly in regard to personal development, feelings, hunches, and insights in order to have an increase of those experiences that are valuable for understanding the mind in its various activities. To illustrate this point, if a muscle is exercised, its strength increases. If insights are acted upon, more insights (often of increasing importance) will come. Hunches and insights are evidence of increased sensitivity and when pursued will lead to a higher degree of perception, by which other mental processes can also be understood and expanded.

Memory increases when you are interested in the subject. Memory does not diminish with age, but age leads to differentiation of what is important to remember and what is not.

Recall and observation are very important because of thought association, which is recall of the past. Together with observation in the present you, the aspirant, can gain a clear understanding of your reactions. For instance, a certain person's facial expression, colour of hair or eyes, type of clothes, or mannerisms, may bring back the memory of someone else and perhaps a situation connected with an entirely different person. Sometimes these thought associations are very clear and sometimes they are barely recognizable, only making their presence known by a mood that may leave the individual puzzled.

An illustration of a small incident which everyone experiences will help with the understanding of certain powers of the mind. Two people in the same room may voice the same thing at the same time, because they had the same thought. However, most people are unfortunately only temporarily amused and do not consider the very extensive influence of the interplay of the mental forces of and by those around us. An example of this is when one finds that a friend or neighbour comes repeatedly into the mind. It should not then be a surprise to be contacted by that individual. If observation has been practiced, many such things will already have emerged. These qualities of mind are present in everyone. One can become aware of these abilities, increase them, and finally exercise them in a conscious way.

The Spiritual/Magickal practices leading to awareness and control of the mind, keeping the mind single-pointed, receptive, and on the Higher Self, lead to such mental powers as clairaudience and clairvoyance. Telepathic communication between some practitioners of Enochian Magick is not at all unusual.

Only when we do not pay attention to what happens do we think that some people are gifted with phenomenal powers in these areas, which from a Magickal point of view are quite common. We do not see anything phenomenal in such contact between a mother and child, or a husband and wife.

What makes the manifestation of these mental powers so unusual is that the carrousel of the conversations in the mind has been stopped. The energy that keeps the carrousel going is easily traced back to self-justification, self-glorification, and self-gratification. This kind of wrong preoccupation with self is a great stumbling block. The still, small voice is drowned out by the carrousel of the mind. Flashes of awareness, flashes of insight, moments of inspiration, are brief because the space in the mind is already filled to capacity.

Let's ask some questions, and listen to the answers from within:

1. Do the cells of the body have a consciousness of their own?
2. What triggers in the mind a memory of pain?
3. What triggers in the mind a memory of a need?
4. Is the mind the manager, assuming authority by suggestion?
5. Is the mind the manager, assuming authority by determination?
6. Is the mind the manager, assuming authority by self-hypnosis?
7. What makes up the many details and events of our lives?
8. What else would be responsible for the interplay of these forces?

In technological inventions man has recreated his own abilities with greater accuracy and a wider range of functioning than he has discovered in himself. It is doubtful that man could invent anything that is not in some way already existing in himself. He could only invent the camera because of the example of his own eyes. Television could not have been developed if the mind had not shown it was possible. The greatest obstacle to self-discovery is lack of mental discipline. The concentration exercises aimed at single-pointedness of mind should have a superior position in the daily schedule. The ability to surrender opinions, preconceived ideas, means being able to relax the mind. To achieve a state of mind that is truly relaxed one has to begin on the physical level. The body and mind will relax simultaneously in steps when supported by breathing exercises, which create the necessary conditions for complete relaxation. this state of relaxation and receptivity of the mind is a necessary prerequisite for obtaining the awareness of spiritual inspiration which will provide the spring to nourish continued development.

DOUBT

Doubts, like clouds, sail on the mental horizon occasionally. They can be dark and heavy, or small and wispy. Sometimes they disappear, but often return unnoticed because of an influx of new experiences. The mind, often not able to deal with experiences of psychic or spiritual content, is tempted to premature assessment which contributes to doubt. It is wise to suspend all judgment and wait things out.

A record should now be kept, giving as many details as possible of any unusual experiences. Spiritual/Magickal practice is a positive way to clear doubts. Then limitations created by doubt will be only temporary, not binding, if we do not insist on drawing conclusions from incomplete observations.

Doubt can be either healthy or destructive, depending on the attitude of the aspirant. If doubt is destructive it can result in a depressive mood; it can open the back door to allow escape from the previously assumed responsibility and commitment. Impatience and restlessness create doubt, but be warned that both can prevent certain spiritual powers from developing. Remember that impatience is an expression of arrogance of some sort which, if allowed to linger, will undermine faith, hope, and will, and only strengthen the moods of depression. Arrogance is of the ego and is therefore destructive.

Healthy doubt stimulates questioning which allows expansion of awareness and a widening of horizons on which the Light of spiritual life will continue to burn.

Every now and then the wind of imagination creates waves on the surface of the waters of the mind and the boat is rocked by doubt. But persistence to follow the set course will give strength to weather the storm. Each victory then becomes a new source of strength from which one can draw when another storm arises. but one also learns to keep more and more control on emotions and imagination, thus the waves lose their power in due time. Faith thereby becomes a self-generating energy that is at one's disposal when needed. Faith practiced becomes strengthened.

OBSERVATION

There is power in knowledge, one's personal knowing, which is inner wisdom. The process of attaining that wisdom is a long one on the Spiritual/Magickal Path of Enochian Magick. Concentration on ideals, keeping the mind fixed on these qualities, together with daily meditation, practice, and straight-forward thinking, will lead to that wisdom. It is necessary to be able to break away from the crowd, free oneself of the conditioning of upbringing, and stand alone on one's two feet, responsible only to the inner authority. The practice of straight-forward thinking, getting straight to the point, while reflecting on the events of the day, then using the spiritual diary to record these observations, helps in the process of becoming self-reliant.

Man's unexplainable desire to believe in the occult, religion or mysticism may stem from an inner knowing that there is a Power greater than man. This knowing then starts creating the tantalizing questions -- where did I come from? -- who am I?

During sleep, sensations are perceived on a different level of consciousness. They seem to emanate from a plane of finer forces. All Spiritual/Magickal practice aims at sensitizing our gross senses so that we can become aware of these finer forces. We must not be in a hurry to allow the gross mind to translate the perception into something understandable just for the sake of mental security.

One way to increase that perception is to use the imagination and bring Light into the Heart. Once the Light reaches the Heart, it will then be possible to reach a level of intuitive perception when, by first invoking and then projecting the inner Light, the personality will disappear. When this happens, the listener perceives only what comes through the Light.

As a result of the sensitizing and refinement of the senses and the practice of control of the energies thus revealed, an energy field around the body can be produced which is strong enough to prevent the passerby from seeing the physical presence. In other words, "A" can produce an energy field strong enough to become invisible to "B". It is like jamming a radio station with an interfering overlay of sound. The body of "A" does not actually disappear, but the state of mind of "B" is being affected like a person in shock who cannot clearly see or think. The senses are temporarily out of order.

The creation, use, and control of the energy in the energy field and its increase become understood during periods of Spiritual/Magickal practice.

As an aspirant, on the Spiritual/Magickal Path, there is one thing that you must fully understand and accept with absolutely no doubts: "The Mind is a Miniature Universe, therefore, the Universe is an Expansion of the Mind".

Control of the mind means control of your thoughts.

1. Can you change the pattern of your thoughts?
2. Do you have thoughts that are self-destructive?
3. If so, can you subdue them?
4. By what means?

Thoughts are reproductive, like seeds.

1. What kind of thoughts do you want to plant in your mind?

Become aware when you and another person have the same thoughts. Try to find out how this came about and observe if these influences can be brought about at will. Watch how you do it.

Your mind has a drawing power.

1. Where does your mind draw you?
2. Does it draw you to something desirable and uplifting?
3. Does it take you beyond the physical/emotional level?
4. Does it draw you to the SELF?

Think about recall of different states of mind:

1. When do I have these states of mind?
2. At what time?
3. What are the cycles of my mind?
4. Have I had any hunches?
5. What is the difference between hunches and intuitive perception?

Think about promises:

1. What are the promises I have made to other people?

2. Have I fulfilled them?
3. What are the promises I have made to myself?

Watch any aspects of today, the past or the future in your dreams. Write down what you recall of dreams you had three months or six months ago and compare them with your original notes.

1. Now watch yourself falling asleep.
2. Can you take an active part in this?
3. Can you redirect your dreams or stop an unpleasant dream?
4. Watch how you do this.

Now consider your moods:

1. Watch your moods three (3) times a day and record them in your diary.
2. Assess your moods -- 10 to the lowest, 100 to the highest.
3. See what your cycles are.
4. Compare surrendering to a mood with resisting one.
5. Observe moods, thoughts, and habits.
6. Recognize the difference between habitual and spontaneous responses connected with the mood.
7. Recall how this happens.
8. Spontaneous responses have to be watched like the habitual ones, three (3) times a day.

Observe the stimulations of the moment.

1. Separate ordinary events from inspirations (of a Divine nature).

The mind has to be controlled in order to free it from its own inherent doubts. They create the need for security. Over-simplification and reluctance to reach beyond the ordinary have put reason and logic on the throne from generation to generation. this emphasis has become a self-perpetuating indulgence to meet the demands for security. It has kept people comfortable and so it has prevented the expansion of old limits and thereby the discovery of new territory and new possibilities.

25. THE MIND AND HEALING

The power of healing attracts many aspirants to the Spiritual/Magickal Path of Enochian Magick. When the aspirant has gained control over the emotions and cultivated them into finer feelings, compassion will be allowed, in due time, to find true expression. When you desire to help because help is needed, rather than for rewards of any kind or for sentimental reasons, then your desire has the right basis. It is far more likely that a healing will take place when motivated by noble feelings such as compassion. However, many more aspects come into both success and failure in healing.

If you have become aware of the power of the Enochian Invocation of the Light, then you will recognize the interplay of forces.

This contributes a great deal to understanding the functioning of the processes which are needed to gain conscious control of various energies. Opinions, concepts, beliefs are all loosened up through the daily practice of the Enochian Invocation of the Light, gradually becoming ethereal as the firmness dissolves into Light. This is much more than increased flexibility. Do not miss the subtlety that is expressed by the word "Light". Meanings of words will become more and more elusive. This is inevitable when more subtle regions are reached.

When one desires healing for oneself or others, a few questions come up about the energies involved:

1. Does healing have anything to do with the mind?
2. Does healing have anything to do with the heart?
3. What is it that heals?
4. Is another person needed to assist in healing?
5. Does one have healing power within oneself?

By asking numerous questions and trying to find the answers, we grow in understanding and knowledge.

When healing is being considered, the healer must find out how the illness came about. If there has been a continuous violation of some physical principles which has led to the breakdown of health, spiritual healing might be successful only once, if at all. In this case, the person should be properly instructed in taking care of the body and observing the laws under which it will stay healthy. If these are neglected, trust in spiritual healing will be weakened both in the healer and in the one who is ill. It is rare that illness is sudden. It is more likely that preoccupation of the mind with other concerns has been more intense, so that early signs of breakdown in the body have gone unnoticed. Pain is a great teacher, and illness is often the only way to become truly grateful for health and to see the healthy body as a precious instrument that should be well taken care of.

The attitude of the sick person might be a reason why spiritual healing could not take place. It could fail if there were no will to live, no purpose to life which would give the motivation, or if the purpose had not been grasped, or if the person believed that he or she was to great a "sinner" to deserve to be healed. Add to this all the psychological advantages of love and attention that go with being ill, and it become obvious that there could be little or nothing to promote healing.

So, as you can see, the mental and emotional preparation of ill persons is very important. This means that there has to be real concern, not sentiment, to help them to help themselves and to understand some aspects of their predicament. There has to be the cooperation of the desire to be well and the will to live a purposeful life. The healer has to inspire and reinforce these positive thoughts. Emotions, play a very important part in the healer and in the ill person. There have to be cultivated emotions, feelings of deep gratitude (whether to a God, or a Higher Power) on the part of the person being healed for regained health and on the part of the healer for the privilege of being a channel which accomplishes the healing. Gratitude, being one of the finest of human feelings, plays an important part in the practice and the results.

Is healing a power of the mind? Or is healing accomplished by Divine Grace?

Looking at the various powers of the mind, it becomes obvious that there is no simple and direct answer to these questions. Illness is a combination or, to use a now familiar term, an interplay of forces. The genuine concern of the healer can be a subtle suggestion, or, if there is a powerful personality involved, it can be a powerful suggestion, which will lift the self-image and infuse hew hope into a purposeless life. This regenerates the healing forces that are uniquely individual in everyone. Confidence, trust, hope, the will to live, and the view of a goal or purpose are some of the basic principles involved. As a plant requires certain conditions to grow, so the human "plant", when its basic requirements are met, will grow into a normal healthy human being.

It is now necessary to see that there is another factor in healing that we will call "spiritual". The process of life itself, be it a plant, an animal or a human being, is still an unanswered mystery. A healer is a person who has an awareness and perception of those forces that promote healing or correct what is detrimental to health. This awareness makes its possible for the healer to let this Energy flow through and direct it to the person who is in need of additional Energy that will correct the weakness in the body.

The Enochian Invocation of the Light Ritual has the proper combination of all that is necessary to bring about a healing, either spontaneously or by repetition. In the practice of the Enochian Invocation of the Light, there has to be a true feeling of compassion and total involvement on the part of the healer, which communicates itself to the sick person. Sometimes psychological problems have to be removed first. There has to be a healing in the mind before a healing can take place in the body. It is essential that the healer refrain from determining how the healing should take place in order for the forces invoked by the Enochian Invocation of the Light to flow and set in motion what is necessary for a particular individual. Geographical distance need not be a barrier to healing. The ill person may be 10,000 miles away, but our old space/time concept should not prevent us from attempting to help.

At the moment when the needy person is deeply relaxed and in a state of surrender (perhaps because of weakness) he or she becomes receptive and thereby allows the Energy to flow and do its work. The healer must observe and understand the state of surrender and deep relaxation. If such a state cannot be achieved while awake, it will naturally take place when the individual falls asleep. In the following three hours, after the person is asleep, when there is a dropping from the conscious level to the unconscious, the body is extremely receptive to repeated suggestions of healing directed toward its own resources. This, in itself, may lead to a healing in some cases. The efforts described may have to be repeated over a period of from one to three months. It must be realized that in some circumstances healing may not be best for the whole person. The forces of the Enochian Invocation of the Light cannot be told what to do, but immeasurable benefits will be derived whatever the visible results.

The power of faith and hope should not be underestimated. They are also forms of energy which can be increased with concern and involvement brought about by the dedicated and daily practice of the Enochian Invocation of the Light Ritual.

26. HUMILITY AND GRATITUDE

Humility and gratitude go hand in hand. The feeling of gratitude is an interaction between the mind and the body. Both will benefit from it. Awareness increases so that we become grateful for everything we are given. We have to learn, literally learn, to be grateful for what we receive day by day, simply to balance the criticism that, day by day, we voice because of powerful emotions. When the question of initiation comes up for some aspirants, it may not be considered because they are not grateful for what they have already received, therefore they should have no more.

In ancient Buddhist tradition the disciple gave 100,000 prostrations to develop humility -- a virtue that was thus expressed appropriately through the body. Today, some people will say, "But I feel I have gratitude and humility, so what is wrong?" You may think and feel you have gratitude, but if you never express it, does it have any meaning?

When you have helped a friend over and over again, but no gratitude has ever been expressed, you may wonder what you are doing and if you are wasting your time and energy. But perhaps you are unable to recognize your friend's love and gratitude because they are not expressed according to your expectations -- because your friend's spontaneous expression of those feelings is not an echo of your own. A good sense of discrimination is necessary to see through all the games and tricks our mind and emotions play.

What else can one do to cultivate gratitude and humility? The East Indians use the worship of the Guru, which appeals only to some people. But this "act" of worship has very good psychology behind it. People have an inborn desire to admire and worship. They look for an example after which they can mold themselves. False gods such as success, food, sex, possessions, unproven beliefs, and personal convictions are often worshipped until there is an awakening to their emptiness.

Another way to develop gratitude is to truly look at yourself, so that you can see the marvel of this human body and the intricacy of the sensitive organs. Be grateful to have the full use of your senses through which you perceive all that is around you, the world and the beauty of nature. Appreciate the strong body and the state of good health that you enjoy.

What has been said so far only scratches the surface. It is meant to stimulate your mind into the kind of thinking from which you will benefit. The mind is always so active scheming to fulfill selfish desires that those shy and modest thoughts of gratitude and humility get pushed into the background. We allow the mind to be stimulated by all sorts of things that often prove to be useless, even detrimental, to our mental and emotional well-being. Thoughtlessly we establish bad habits and allow those to remain, then cry when we experience the pain of our own carelessness. We even interpret this as an unfair destiny, entirely missing the point that we have laid our own traps and we have to take responsibility for those acts. In the course of life there are many little "miracles" but our hearts are so hardened that we don't pay any attention, instead we take things for granted. Yet we never allow anyone to take us for granted. When this happens, we protest loudly.

The lengthy prayers, invocation, evocations, and rituals used in Enochian Magick fulfill this function -- the cultivation of the finer feelings and the acknowledgement of those Spiritual/Magickal Beings and Forces who are helping us to gain insights and to travel the narrow Path with faith and endurance, in humility and gratitude.

27. SYNOPSIS OF EXERCISES

Up to this point you, the aspirant, have been given many details and carefully outlined steps for exercises to guide you along your chosen Path. Hopefully, all of these details and exercises have been helpful in giving you direction. But now, these varied details and exercises are beginning to change their levels of meaning.

You, the aspirant, have arrived at a crossroad. A large portion of the work has been done and the changes in you may have resulted in attracting different people, people of like mind who offer support. At this point it will be necessary to review your ideals to discover if some require refining and escalating from what was originally established. Others may need more intensive application. This can be accomplished with the help of a review of your daily diary which has become a valuable chart of your progress and development. This process of evaluation will provide the base for mapping out the next step on your Spiritual/Magickal Path. Special care must now be taken in applying your new awareness to daily life. You will notice changes that have taken place in your self-image and thus recognize your ability to develop in the directions you have decided upon. This recognition can provide the enthusiasm needed for your continued development.

A question that may be appropriate for you to ask yourself at this particular stage of your development is "What is a true friend?" What would be the characteristics of a person that a seeker on the Spiritual/Magickal Path can call "my best friend"? As a starting point, you can ask "What were the characteristics of my best friend up to this point?"

1. Somebody to do things with?
2. Someone with whom little favours were exchanged?
3. Someone to talk about the job or business with?
4. Someone in whom comfort or sympathy could be found?

At this crossroad it may now appear that those characteristics of friendship are no longer sufficient, and perhaps the friend of the past is in fact no more than a very good acquaintance. So, the list of characteristics of one's friend would look quite different now.

What qualities do you now need in a friend?

1. Acceptance?
2. Discussion?
3. Support of:
   a. Ideas that specifically come up in the Spiritual/ Magickal life?
   b. Times of uncertainty and doubt?
   c. Temporary instability?
   d. Continuous questioning and searching?

These things require a friend with depth of character, understanding, and someone who will, in the moment of doubt, not drag you away from the Goal, but rather give support to your commitment and help you to bring out the best in yourself.

It takes sensitivity and awareness to bring out the best in someone else, to be a best friend. The choice of friends and the extent to which one criticizes others are reflections of self-image. Improved self-image, and a beneficial kind of self-perception, comes from seeking out and releasing the "Inner Divinity" within your heart.

The Enochian Invocation of the Light makes the greatest contribution to the change of self-image because of the aspirants identification of, and joining with, the "Divinity" within the Light.

Enochian Rituals are an ever-living embodiment of Power and Truth. They are another important tool in changing self-image. It doesn't matter whether the voice is strong or feeble. What is important, however, is the underlying "emotion-desire-longing" which, when given expression through the reciting of Enochian Rituals, becomes a magnet attracting a Higher Force. This Higher Force will someday spark a "flame" deep within you , and that "inner flame" will ultimately develop into a self-generating force.

By using these tools with attention and concentration you can affect the images of the mind.

1. The mind is ever creating -- what?
2. That which is created -- what happens to it?
3. The mind creates beautiful images (manifesting them or not).
4. The mind creates ugly images (manifesting them or not).

Now that you have examined the characteristics of a best friend and your own self-image, it is time to investigate if you have the qualities yourself to become someone else's best friend. Character building in oneself is what attracts or makes one worthy of another person who is also building character. From the review of the ideals and the diary, it should now be clear what you need to cultivate. Personality changes take place according to the strength of the desire to achieve the Goal.

Here you should once more go over the exercises on negative qualities and their positive opposites, bringing in your newly developed awareness. Listing such qualities and feelings makes clear the subtlety of the obstacles one encounters.

When emotions arise, catch them, look at them, take the power out of them, and then withdraw your identification from them. This practice takes time, but it may be better than to struggle with them. It is harmful, even destructive, to suppress your emotions or to deny their existence. Transform them into refined feelings. If the emotions have erupted before your awareness could catch them, replay the situation and take the position of an onlooker. This will help you to become detached.

Emotions are attached to certain personality aspects -- the "Self" is always only the Witness.

Desires arise from the memories of experiences of the past. They are also projections into the future. Selfish desires are outgrowths from competition and comparisons. Whatever the root of these desires, cut them off before it is too late.

Discrimination serves very well as a tool of selective elimination, because not all desires are detrimental to one's growth. A desire to grow in character and spirituality is necessary for growth to take place.

Desires have to carefully evaluated. What can one do about old desires manifesting when one has progressed beyond that point? Pray. Ask that the desires that accompanied a lesser state of development will not be fulfilled. With a greater awareness of needs there is a greater attempt to simplify life in order to remove all possible distractions from the chosen Path.

Renunciation of desires can be achieved without pain and frustration if the contents or the fulfillment of them is well reasoned out. Leaving them to the emotions means that the attachment is still there, that one really wants this or that, but is denying oneself. It is important to make a list of desires, to look at each, and to evaluate with discrimination.

Negative thoughts, if left unattended, depleted of energy, will die by themselves, like a plant without nourishment. However, the control of thoughts has to be preceded by control of the body and the speech. Here are a few methods to help with the control and cultivation of speech.

1. Choose subjects carefully.
2. Avoid stimulating talk about sex.
3. Avoid stimulating talk about money.
4. Avoid stimulating talk about various pleasures.

Realize that you lay your own traps by indulging in careless conversation. It is this carelessness that is the beginning of temptation.

Another investigation to be made at this time concerns the core of beliefs of which you may or may not have been aware. Part of the process of clarification that is now necessary is to discover beliefs and where they come from. Beware of mindless conformity.

The Spiritual/Magickal Path of Enochian Magick means personal responsibility. Clarification of such words as "Sympathy", "Kindness", "Compassion", and "Understanding", leads to acceptance of others and then to an inner union in oneself.

Pay attention to what people really think and whether they say what they think, or if they make you guess. Do you get a message that is different from the words? Do you say what you think, or do you imply and insinuate? How does this go with straightforward thinking?

You must fully comprehend the important words you use. Make a list of them, clarify their meaning, and note the way you use them. The following list is by no means complete. A minimum of five (5) minutes should be given to each single word, first thinking about and then writing down the meaning. Do not use books written by others. You must take responsibility for what is meant.

1. Perspective
2. Thought
3. Concentration
4. Memory
5. Observation
6. Imagination
7. Learning
8. Humor
9. Discrimination
10. Awakened State
11. Sleeping State
12. Trance
13. Telepathy
14. Clairvoyance
15. Clairaudience
16. Hypnosis
17. Humility
18. Gratitude
19. Jealousy
20. Criticism
21. Acceptance
22. Purity (of Heart)
23. Purity (of Mind)
24. Compassion
25. Mercy
26. Forgiveness
27. Truth (in Self)
28. Truth (in Others)
29. Truth (Divine)
30. Love (for Self)
31. Love (for Others)
32. Love (Divine)
33. Hate
34. Trust (in Self)
35. Trust (in Others)
36. Trust (Divine)
37. Charitableness
38. Uncharitableness
39. Cheerfulness
40. Despondency
41. Emptiness
42. Fullness
43. Knowledge (Earthly)

44. Knowledge (Spiritual)
45. Visions (Earthly)
46. Visions (Spiritual)

At a later point in your development and practice of Enochian Magick, this exercise should be repeated and notes compared to ascertain that your horizon has expanded. By repetition of this exercise understanding grows in depth and becomes refined. All perceptions go through a process of refinement. Each, and every, aspirant should extend this list of words to include those that are frequently used, in order to gain the maximum benefit.

Continue this process of clarification with questions such as:

1. How is pain experienced?
2. What is my concept of Energy in general?
3. What is my concept of Energy in the body?
4. What is my concept of Energy in the brain (because it records all sensations like pain)?
5. What is my concept of Divine Energy?
6. Do I consider Light as a by-product of Energy? or
7. Do I consider Energy as a by-product of Light?
8. What is my concept of consciousness?
9. How does consciousness function in the brain?

Phrases like the following are common in everyday speech. Think what they mean to you and then add to the list yourself:

1. Touch and go.
2. A finishing touch.
3. A touching scene.
4. A touching person.
5. A touching tone of voice.
6. A soft touch.
7. Touch with the eyes.
8. Touch my heart.
9. As soft as butter.
10. As hard as nails.
11. See how it feels.

Such expressions are very revealing in their use.

In these three sections you, the aspirant, have become aware that attitude is extremely important. The preparation for the practice of Enochian Magick is control of the mind. The right attitude and motives result in the clear conscience that is necessary to receive intuitive and spiritual wisdom. The heightened perception of the five senses on which this depends is only possible through proper and continued practice. In all Spiritual/Magickal practice, surrender has to be stressed. One has to learn to accept criticism and must forego self-justification.

The Spiritual/Magickal Path of Enochian Magick requires a more discriminating and deeper understanding of yourself and the world around you. It is only through this deeper understanding that you will continue to grow with greater sensitivity. An example of this follows:

> "Know your SELF, then and only then, Be your SELF" > Examine your SELF and understand who you are,

how you live,
and what will become of you.
For whosoever does not know SELF does not know anything, but whosoever knows SELF already has acquired knowledge about the depth of the universe.

The time has arrived for you, the aspirant, to be formally introduced to the world of Enochian Magick. Therefore, I recommend that you read the following books, in the order that they are given:

The Eighteen Angelic Keys As Used By

Aleister Crowley

This page is from Crowley's Liber LXXXIX Vel Chanokh as annotated by Merlius Sortiarius.

The first 18 calls are in reality 19; that is, 19 in the Celestial Orders; but with us the first table hath no call, and can have no call, seeing that it is of the Godhead. Thus, then, with us hath it the number of 0, though with them that of 1. (Even as the first key of the ROTA hath the number 0.)

Here after follow the 18 Angelic Keys

THE FIRST KEY (ENGLISH)

I reign over ye, saith the God of Justice, in power exalted above the Firmament of Wrath, in whose hands the Sun is as a sword, and the Moon as a through thrusting Fire: who measureth your Garments in the midsts of my Vestures, and trussed you together as the palms of my hands. Whose seats I garnish with the Fire of Gathering, and beautified your garments with admiration. To whom I made a law to govern the Holy Ones, and delivered ye a Rod, with the Ark of Knowledge. Moreover you lifted up your voices and sware obedience and faith to Him that liveth and triumpheth: whose beginning is not, nor end cannot be: which shineth as a flame in the midst of your palaces, and reigneth amongst you as the balance of righteousness and truth!

Move therefore, and shew yourselves! Open the mysteries of your creation! Be friendly unto me, for I am the Servant of the same your God: the true worshipper of the Highest!

Behold! saith your God! I am a circle on whose hands stands Twelve Kingdoms. Six are the seats of living breath: the rest are as sharp Sickles, or the Horns of Death. Wherein the creatures of Earth are and are not, except (in) mine own hands; which sleep and shall rise!

In the First I made ye stewards, and placed ye in twelve seats of government: giving unto every one of you power successively over the 456 true ages of time: to the intent that from the highest vessels and the corners of your governments you might work my Power, pouring down the fires of life and increase continually on the earth. Thus you are become the skirts of Justice and Truth.

In the name of the same your God, lift up, I say, yourselves!

Behold! His mercies flourish, and (His) Name is become mighty among us. In whom we say: Move! Descend! and apply yourselves unto us as unto the partakers of His Secret Wisdom in your Creation.

THE FOURTH KEY (ENGLISH)

I have set my feet in the South, and have looked about me, saying: are not the thunders of increase numbered 33, which reign in the second Angle?

Under whom I have placed 9639: whom none hath yet numbered, but One; in whom the Second Beginning of Things are and wax strong, which also successively are the Numbers of Time: and their powers are as the first 456.

Arise! you sons of Pleasure! and visit the earth: for I am the Lord your God; which is and liveth (for ever)! In the name of the Creator, move! and shew yourselves as pleasant deliverers, that you may praise Him among the sons of men!

THE FIFTH KEY (ENGLISH)

The mighty sounds have entered into the third angle, and are become as olives in the Olive Mount; looking with gladness upon the earth, and dwelling in the brightness of the Heavens as Continual Comforters.

Unto whom I fastened 19 Pillars of Gladness, and gave them vessels to water the earth with her creatures; and they are the brothers of the First and Second, and the beginning of their own seats, which are garnished with 69,636 ever-burning lamps: whose numbers are as the First, the Ends, and the Contents of Time.

Therefore come ye and obey your creation: visit us in peace and comfort: conclude us receivers of your mysteries: for why? Our Lord and Master is the All-One!

The Spirits of the fourth angle are Nine Mighty in the Firmament of Waters: whom the First hath planted, a torment to the wicked and a garland to the righteous: giving unto them fiery darts to vanne the earth, and 7699 continual workmen, whose courses visit with comfort the earth; and are in government and continuance as the Second and the Third --

Therefore hearken unto my voice! I have talked of you, and I move you in power and presence, whose works shall be a song of honour, and the praise of your God in your Creation!

The East is a house of Virgins singing praises among the flames of first glory wherein the Lord hath opened His mouth; and they are become 28 living dwellings in whom the strength of man rejoiceth; and they are apparelled with ornaments of brightness, such as work wonders on all creatures. Whose kingdoms and continuance are as the Third and Fourth, strong towers and places of comfort, the Seats of Mercy and Continuance. O ye Servants of Mercy, Move! Appear! Sing praises unto the Creator; and be mighty amongst us. For that to this remembrance is given power, and our strength waxeth strong in our Comforter!

How many are there which remain in the Glory of the Earth, which are, and shall not see Death until the House fall and the Dragon sink? Come away! for the Thunders (of increase) have spoken. A mighty guard of Fire with two-edged swords flaming (which have eight Vials of wrath for two times and a half, whose wings are of wormwood and of the marrow of salt), have set their feet in the West, and are measured with their 9996 ministers. These gather up the moss of the Earth as the rich man doth his Treasure. Cursed are they whose iniquities they are! In their eyes are mill-stones greater than the earth, and from their mouths run seas of blood. Their heads are covered with diamonds, and upon their heads are marble stones. Happy is he on whom they frown not. For why? The Lord of Righteousness rejoiceth in them! Come away, and not your Vials: for that the time is such as requireth Comfort.

The Thunders of Judgment and Wrath are numbered and are harboured in the North, in the likeness of an Oak whose branches are 22 nests of lamentation and weeping laid up for the earth: which burn night and day, and vomit out the heads of scorpions and live Sulphur mingled with poison. These be the thunders that, 5678 times in the twenty-fourth part of a moment, roar with a hundred mighty earthquakes and a thousand times as many surges, which rest not, neither know any time here. One rock bringeth forth a thousand, even as the heart of man doth his thoughts. Woe! Woe! Woe! Woe! Woe! Woe! Yea, Woe! be to the Earth, for her iniquity is, was, and shall be great. THE CALL OF THE THIRTY AETHYRS (ENGLISH)

O ye Heavens which dwell in the " first Aire ", ye are mighty in the parts of the Earth, and execute Judgment of the Highest! Unto you it is said: Behold the Face of your God, the beginning of Comfort, whose eyes are the brightness of the Heavens, which provided you for the Government of the Earth, and her unspeakable variety, furnishing you with a power of understanding to dispose all things according to the Providence of " Him that sitteth on the Holy Throne ", and rose up in the Beginning, saying: The Earth, let her be governed by her parts, and let there be Division in her, that the glory of her may be always drunken, and vexed in itself. Her course, let it run with the Heavens; and as an handmaid let her serve them. One season, let it confound another, and let there be no creature upon or within her the same. All her members, let them differ in their qualities, and let there be no one Creature equal to another. The reasonable Creatures of the Earth, and Men, let them vex and weed out one another; and their dwelling-places, let them forget their Names. The work of man and his pomp, let them be defaced. His buildings, let them become Caves for the beasts of the Field! Confound her understanding with darkness! For why? it repenteth me that I have made Man. One while let her be known, and another while a stranger: because she is the bed of an Harlot, and the dwelling-place of him that is fallen.

O ye Heavens, arise! The lower heavens beneath you, let them serve you! Govern those that govern! Cast down such as fall. Bring forth with those that increase, and destroy the rotten. No place let it remain in one number. Add and diminish until the stars be numbered. Arise! Move! and appear before the Covenant of His mouth, which He hath sworn unto us in His Justice. Open the Mysteries of your Creation, and make us partakers of THE UNDEFILED KNOWLEDGE.

INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO USE THE CALLS OF THE THIRTY AETHYRS

The Enochian Banishing Ritual of The Hexagram

Step 1:
Face your Altar. Pick up your Wand with your right hand. Stand with your feet together, your left arm down at your side and your right arm across your body holding your Wand upright in front of you.

Step 2:
Turn to the East and say: IVITDT (Ee-veh-ee-teh-deh-teh) while tracing a Yellow Banishing Hexagram of Air before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.):

Then say:

"Behold the Burning Flames of Truth the consume sorrow, sin and death."

Step 3:
Turn to the South and say: ZTZTZT (Zeh-teh-zeh-teh-zeh-teh) while tracing the Red Banishing Hexagram of Fire before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.)

Then say:

"Behold, the Way of Love is to Sacrifice All into the Cup."

Step 4:
Turn to the West and say: IVITDT (Ee-veh-ee-teh-deh-teh) while tracing the Blue Banishing Hexagram of Water before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.)

Then say:

"Behold, the Burning Flames of Truth that consume sorrow, sin and death."

Step 5:
Turn to the North and say: ZTZTZT (Zeh-teh-zeh-teh-zeh-teh) while tracing the Black Banishing Hexagram of Earth before you. (Vibrate one letter of this six-lettered formula as you trace a corresponding side of the Hexagram.).

Then say:

"Behold, the Way of Love is to Sacrifice All into the Cup."

Step 6:
While still facing North, extend your arms outward to your sides to form a cross. The Wand should be pointing straight up in your right hand. Then say:

Before Me MOR-DIAL-HKTGA
(Moh-reh Dee-ah-leh Heh-keh-teh-gah)

Behind Me OIP-TEAA-PDOKE
(Oh-ee-peh The-ah-ah Peh-doh-keh)

On My Right ORO-IBAH-AOZPI
(Oh-roh Ee-bah-heh Ah-oh-zeh-pee)

On My Left MPH-ARSL-GAIOL
(Meh-peh-heh Ah-reh-seh-leh Gah-ee-oh-leh)

"Above me and below me,
My Magickal Universe,
And behold, I alone
in the midst."

Step 7:
While still facing the North, replace the Wand on the Altar. Relax your arms and hold them down to your sides. Stand quietly for several minutes with your eyes closed and feel the energy that you have just put into action.

The Enochian Opening Ritual # 1

Step 1:

Light the main Altar candles and the incense. Then leave the Temple area and perform the Enochian Cleansing Bath Ritual.

Step 2:

Take a hot shower to get the dirt off of your body.

Step 3:

Run a warm bath and add some bath salts or epsom salts and some nicely scented oil or perfume.

Step 4:

Get in the water and soak for a few minutes, making sure you slowly splash water on the upper part of your body. Now, feel all of your problems, worries and negativity going into the water.

Step 5:

Pull the plug and let the water drain "while you stay in the water." As the water slowly drains, you will feel all the negative things which were troubling you go down the drain with the water. "REMAIN IN THE TUB UNTIL ALL THE WATER IS GONE."

Step 6:

Get out of the tub and allow your body to AIR DRY. (If you are pressed for time, you may dry off with a clean, fresh towel. However, "air-drying" is more beneficial.)

Step 7:

While "air-drying" meditate on the upcoming ritual you are going to perform.

Step 8:

When "DRY" wrap your body in a towel or a clean robe and then proceed to the altar area. Since you will performing this ritual alone, immediately discard the towel or robe.

Step 9:

Sit down in the chair and relax for a few moments. Once you feel totally relaxed and comfortable proceed with the Seven-Fold Breath Ritual.

Step 10:

Sit in the chair in your altar area and place your feet flat on the floor and your hands in your lap.

Step 11:

Empty the lungs and remain thus while counting to 7.

Step 12:

Inhale, counting to 7 so that you feel filled with breath to the throat.

Step 13:

Hold this breath while counting to 7.

Step 14:

Exhale, counting to 7 till the lungs are empty.

Step 15:

Repeat steps 11, 12, 13, and 14 consecutively until done fifteen (15) times.

Step 16:

Once you have completed the above, proceed with the Enochian Relaxation Ritual.

Step 17:

While still sitting in the chair, make sure that your feet are flat on the floor and that your legs are not crossed. Rest your hands, palms down, in your lap. Your eyes should be closed.

Step 18:

Visualize a golden ball of beautiful, warm light surrounding your feet. The ball of golden warm light brings peace and total relaxation. Wherever the ball of light goes, tension departs. Let it go, and as it goes, feel your feet filled with the warm, golden glow of peace and total relaxation.

Step 19:

Now, allow this ball of light to rise up your legs and up your torso. Then allow it to go down your arms to your fingers, and finally up your neck and into your head until you are completely covered with the warm, golden glow of total peace and relaxation, and all tension is gone. If you notice tension anywhere, send the ball of light there and the tension will vanish.

Step 20:

Stay in this state of total peace and deep relaxation for five (5) to ten (10) minutes.

Step 21:

When you are ready to come out of this state of deep relaxation, take seven (7) deep breaths and feel fresh life and energy coming into your body with each breath.

Step 22:

Once you have completed the above, remove the chair from your altar area and proceed with the Enochian Invocation Of The Light Ritual.

Step 23:

Stand erect, feet shoulder-width apart. Lift your arms straight above your head. Close your eyes and focus them on the space between your eyebrows. Say the following with all the determination and resolve possible:

I AM CREATED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SUSTAINED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM PROTECTED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SURROUNDED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM ALWAYS GROWING INTO THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

Step 24:

Use your imagination and creative visualization to see yourself standing in a shower of brilliant white light. See the Light pouring down upon you -- into your body through the top of your head -- and filling your entire being.

Step 25:

Lower your arms slowly to the sides of your body. Concentrate on feeling a warm glow of Light suffuse your entire body -- outside as well as inside. Say the following:

"Every atom of this, my physical body, is filled with the Light. Every level of my consciousness is illuminated with the Light. The Light penetrates every single atom of my being, every level of consciousness. I have become a channel of Pure Light. I am One with the Light."

Step 26:

Stand quietly for several minutes and bask in the warmth of the Light. Meditate upon the Light. Be receptive to the Light and accept that your are now a channel of Divine Light. Merge yourself into the source of the Light and become one with the Light.

Step 27:

Stand quietly for several minutes and feel the energy of the Light pulsing throughout your entire body.

Step 28:

Sit down cross-legged in the center of your altar area and meditate quietly on your purpose for conducting this ritual, and the results you are seeking to obtain. When you have this securely in your mind, proceed with the Enochian Banishing Pentagram Ritual.

Step 29:

Stand up and face the North. Touch your forehead with your right index finger and say: ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 30:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 31:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 32:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 33:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

Step 34:

Pick up the Wand from the Altar with your right hand. Turn to the East, trace the yellow Banishing Pentagram of Air before you with the Wand, and say:

EXARP (Ehtz-ar-peh):

Step 35:

Turn to the South, trace the red Banishing Pentagram of Fire before you with the Wand, and say: BITOM (Bee-toh-meh):

Step 36:

Turn to the West, trace the Blue Banishing Pentagram of Water before you with the Wand, and say: HCOMA (Heh-koh-mah):

Step 37:

Turn to the North, trace the Black Banishing Pentagram of Earth before you with the Wand, and say: NANTA (Nah-en-tah):

Step 38:

Still facing the North, extend your arms outward in the form of a cross, with the Wand pointing straight up in the right hand, and say:

Before me ICZHICAL (Ee-keh-zeh-hee-kah-leh)

Behind me EDLPRNAA (Eh-deh-leh-peh-reh-nah-ah)

On my right BATAIVAH (Bah-tah-ee-vah-heh)

On my left RAAGIOSL (Rah-ah-gee-oh-seh-leh)

Behold the four Flaming Pentagrams

And I alone in the midst.

Step 39:

Replace the Wand on the Altar.

Step 40:

Still facing North, touch your forehead with your right index finger and say:

ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 41:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 42:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 43:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 44:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

Step 45:

Stand quietly for several minutes to feel the energy you have just put into action.

Step 46:

PERFORM YOUR DESIRED INTENTIONS

Then allow it to go down your arms to your fingers, and finally up your neck and into your head until you are completely covered with the warm, golden glow of total peace and relaxation, and all tension is gone. If you notice tension anywhere, send the ball of light there and the tension will vanish.

Step 20:

Stay in this state of total peace and deep relaxation for five (5) to ten (10) minutes.

Step 21:

When you are ready to come out of this state of deep relaxation, take seven (7) deep breaths and feel fresh life and energy coming into your body with each breath.

Step 22:

Once you have completed the above, remove the chair from your altar area and proceed with the Enochian Invocation Of The Light Ritual.

Step 23:

Stand erect, feet shoulder-width apart. Lift your arms straight above your head. Close your eyes and focus them on the space between your eyebrows. Say the following with all the determination and resolve possible:

I AM CREATED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SUSTAINED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM PROTECTED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM SURROUNDED BY THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

I AM ALWAYS GROWING INTO THE LIGHT OF THE DIVINE.

Step 24:

Use your imagination and creative visualization to see yourself standing in a shower of brilliant white light. See the Light pouring down upon you -- into your body through the top of your head -- and filling your entire being.

Step 25:

Lower your arms slowly to the sides of your body. Concentrate on feeling a warm glow of Light suffuse your entire body -- outside as well as inside. Say the following:

"Every atom of this, my physical body, is filled with the Light. Every level of my consciousness is illuminated with the Light. The Light penetrates every single atom of my being, every level of consciousness. I have become a channel of Pure Light. I am One with the Light."

Step 26:

Stand quietly for several minutes and bask in the warmth of the Light. Meditate upon the Light. Be receptive to the Light and accept that your are now a channel of Divine Light. Merge yourself into the source of the Light and become one with the Light.

Step 27:

Stand quietly for several minutes and feel the energy of the Light pulsing throughout your entire body.

Step 28:

Sit down cross-legged in the center of your altar area and meditate quietly on your purpose for conducting this ritual, and the results you are seeking to obtain. When you have this securely in your mind, proceed with the Enochian Banishing Pentagram Ritual.

Step 29:

Stand up and face the North. Touch your forehead with your right index finger and say:

ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 30:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 31:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 32:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 33:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID

(Pah-ee-deh).

Step 34:

Pick up the Wand from the Altar with your right hand. Turn to the East, trace the yellow Banishing Pentagram of Air before you with the Wand, and say:

EXARP (Ehtz-ar-peh):

Step 35:

Turn to the South, trace the red Banishing Pentagram of Fire before you with the Wand, and say: BITOM (Bee-toh-meh):

Step 36:

Turn to the West, trace the Blue Banishing Pentagram of Water before you with the Wand, and say: HCOMA (Heh-koh-mah):

Step 37:

Turn to the North, trace the Black Banishing Pentagram of Earth before you with the Wand, and say: NANTA (Nah-en-tah):

Step 38:

Still facing the North, extend your arms outward in the form of a cross, with the Wand pointing straight up in the right hand, and say:

Before me ICZHICAL (Ee-keh-zeh-hee-kah-leh)
Behind me EDLPRNAA (Eh-deh-leh-peh-reh-nah-ah)
On my right BATAIVAH (Bah-tah-ee-vah-heh)
On my left RAAGIOSL (Rah-ah-gee-oh-seh-leh)
Behold the four Flaming Pentagrams
And I alone in the midst.

Step 39:

Replace the Wand on the Altar.

Step 40:

Still facing North, touch your forehead with your right index finger and say:

ZAH (Zod-ah).

Step 41:

Touch your left breast and say: ONDOH (Oh-en-doh).

Step 42:

Touch your right shoulder and say: MIH (Mee-heh).

Step 43:

Touch your left shoulder and say: BUZD (Bueh-zeh-deh).

Step 44:

Touch both hands together on your right breast and say: PAID (Pah-ee-deh).

Step 45:

Stand quietly for several minutes to feel the energy you have just put into action.

Step 46:

PREPARE AND CONSTRUCT THE VARIOUS MATERIALS FOR YOUR DESIRED INTENTIONS.

Step 47:

Perform the Enochian Invoking Pentagram Ritual.

Step 48:

Pick up the Wand from the Altar with your right hand. Turn to the East, trace the Yellow Invoking Pentagram of Air before you with the Wand, and say: EXARP (Ehtz-ar-peh):

Step 49:

Turn to the South, trace the Red Invoking Pentagram of Fire before you with the Wand, and say: BITOM (Bee-toh-meh):

Step 50:

Turn to the West, trace the Blue Invoking Pentagram of Water before you with the Wand, and say: HCOMA (Heh-koh-mah):

Step 51:

Turn to the North, trace the Black Invoking Pentagram of Earth before you with the Wand, and say: NANTA (Nah-en-tah):

Step 52:

Still facing North, extend your arms outward in the form of a cross, with the Wand pointing straight up in your right hand, and say:

Before me ICZHICAL (Ee-keh-zeh-hee-kah-leh)
Behind me EDLPRNAA (Eh-deh-leh-peh-reh-nah-ah)
On my right BATAIVAH (Bah-tah-ee-vah-heh)
On my left RAAGIOSL (Rah-ah-gee-oh-seh-leh)
Behold, the four Flaming Pentagrams
And I alone in the midst.

Step 53:

Replace the Wand on the Altar.

Step 54:

PERFORM YOUR DESIRED INTENTIONS.

The Enochian Relaxation Ritual

Take a Cleansing Ritual Bath

Step 1:

Sit in a chair in your Temple. Make sure that your feet are flat on the floor and that your legs are not crossed. Rest your hands, palms down, in your lap. Your eyes should be closed.

Step 2:

Visualize a golden ball of beautiful, warm light surrounding your feet. The ball of golden warm light brings peace and total relaxation. Wherever the ball of light goes, tension departs. Let it go, and as it goes, feel your feet filled with the warm, golden glow of peace and total relaxation.

Step 3:

Now, allow this ball of light to rise up your legs and up your torso. Then allow it to go down your arms to your fingers, and finally up your neck and into your head until you are completely covered with the warm, golden glow of total peace and relaxation, and all tension is gone. If you notice tension anywhere, send the ball of light there and the tension will vanish.

Step 4:

Stay in this state of total peace and deep relaxation for five (5) to ten (10) minutes.

Step 5:

When you are ready to come out of this state of deep relaxation, take seven (7) deep breaths and feel fresh life and energy coming into your body with each breath.

Step 6:

Perform Enochian Invocation Of The Light Ritual.

The Enochian Purification Rite

Step 1:

Take a hot shower to get the dirt off of your body.

Step 2:

Run a warm bath and add some bath salts or epsom salts and some nicely scented oil or perfume.

Step 3:

Get in the water and soak for a few minutes, making sure you slowly splash water on the upper part of your body. Now, feel all of your problems, worries and negativity going into the water.

Step 4:

Pull the plug and let the water drain "while you stay in the water." As the water slowly drains, you will feel all the negative things which were troubling you go down the drain with the water. "REMAIN IN THE TUB UNTIL ALL THE WATER IS GONE."

Step 5:

Get out of the tub and allow your body to AIR DRY. (If you are pressed for time, you may dry off with a clean, fresh towel. However, "air-drying" is more beneficial.)

Step 6:

While "air-drying" meditate on the upcoming ritual you are going to perform.

Step 7:

When "DRY" wrap your body in a towel or a clean robe and then proceed to the altar area. Since you will performing this ritual alone, immediately discard the towel or robe.

Step 8:

Sit down in the chair and relax for a few moments. Once you feel totally relaxed and comfortable proceed with the Enochian Seven-Fold Breath Ritual.

The Enochian Seven-Fold Breath Ritual

Step 0:

Perform the Enochian Cleansing Bath Ritual.

Step 1:

Sit in the chair in your altar area and place your feet flat on the floor and your hands in your lap.

Step 2:

Empty the lungs and remain thus while counting to 7.

Step 3:

Inhale, counting to 7 so that you feel filled with breath to the throat.

Step 4:

Hold this breath while counting to 7.

Step 5:

Exhale, counting to 7 till the lungs are empty.

Step 6:

Repeat steps 2, 3, 4, and 5 consecutively until done fifteen (15) times.

Step 7:

Once you have completed the above, proceed with the Enochian Relaxation Ritual.

Enochian Tarot Ritual

THE ENOCHIAN TAROT CONTEMPLATION RITUAL

STEP 1:

Face the North. Pick up the 30 Major Arcana cards from the Enochian Tarot Deck on the Altar. Move to the center of the Magick Circle and sit down on the floor. Mix the cards up (shuffle them) in any manner you desire until you feel that it is time to stop. {If you are doing a specific ritual, select the appropriate Tarot Card from the Entire Tarot Deck, and use that card for the Contemplation Ritual.}

STEP 2:

Select any one (1) card from the pile and look at the picture on it for no more than twenty (20) minutes.

STEP 3:

Return the card to the deck. Take seven (7) deep breaths and the Enochian Tarot Contemplation Ritual is completed.

STEP 4:

Relax for several minutes and meditate on what you have just learned.

ENOCHIAN DICTIONARY

Compiled by Benjamin Rowe, 1982-1998

----

1. Location/Source codes used in this list:

Numerical -- From the Enochian Calls, as listed in Geoffrey James' The Enochian Evocation of Dr. John Dee. Numbers to the left of the decimal represent the Call in which the word is found. Numbers to the right of the decimal represent the word's position within the Call. All occurrences of a word in the Calls are listed.

TF, TW, TA, TE -- the four Elemental Tablets
AE -- Liber Scientiae
T49 -- Tablet of the 49 Good Angels
HEPT -- Heptarchic Kings, Princes, and ministers of the hours
T12 -- The 3-by-4 table in the center of the Holy Table of Practice
SA - Sigil of Ameth
ZK -- Zodiacal Kings from Liber Scientiae
VV -- Crowley's Vision and the Voice
LAYCOCK -- Words listed in Donald Laycock's Complete Enochian Dictionary which are not found in the above sources. Crowley's "phonetic" spellings of the Enochian words were specifically excluded.
GT -- A few questionably Enochian words derived from Gerald Schueler's "translation" of the letters around the Holy Table of Practice.

2. Letter values used in gematria calculations

T	300	448	300	9

The column labeled "Octal" is my own idea, reflecting comments by the angels that the Enochian letters were divided into three groups of seven. This suggested to me that base-8 numbering, which uses only the digits from 0 to 7, might reveal something interesting.

3. Where angels of the Elemental Tablets are identified by their planet or sub-elemental attributes, the Golden Dawn system of attributes is used. Words identified by "VAR" are variants not generally used in practice, but listed by Dee in his book of supplications.

How To Rise Through The Watchtowers

1. Consecrate a circle.

2. Enter Body of Light.

3. Assume the god-form of a deity from the Watchtower of Earth.

4. Assume the god-form of a deity from the Watchtower of Water.

5. Assume the god-form of a deity from the Watchtower of Air.

6. Assume the god-form of a deity from the Watchtower of Fire.

7. Return by reversing the assumption of god-forms back down through the Watchtowers.

This method works best if the deities are all from the same subquadrants. The following example uses Archangels from the Fire subquadrant:

STEP 1. Draw a psychic circle around yourself and consecrate the area within it.

STEP 2. Enter your Body of Light by shifting your sense of identity from the physical to the etheric. You should be able to feel your "body" as an egg-shaped swirling mist slightly larger than your physical body. Now imagine this Body of Light to be completely empty.

STEP 3. Imagine four Archangels in serial order above your head, each directly above the other. Rise up in your Body of Light into the first of these Archangels and assume his body as your own.

STEP 4. Assume the god-form of the Archangel NIAOM in Fire of Earth. He is masculine with dark hair and small wings. His body is thin and has the color of blue pearl grey. He wears a grey robe. He carries a Wand in his right hand and a Pantacle in his left. His numbers are eleven and two. He is called the Knower of Truth and as such can be used as a means to convert ideas into distinct forms.

STEP 5. Rise up into the body of the next Archangel, HNLRX in Fire of Water, and assume his god-form. He is masculine with a face so beautiful that is appears almost feminine. His stomach is large in comparison to his thin arms and legs, and small feet. The color of his body is grey. He wears a purple robe and has a diamond-studded crown upon his head. His numbers are nineteen and one. He is called the Mighty Sacrifice and can be used for all forms of sacrifice.

STEP 6. Rise up into the body of the next Archangel, EXGZD in Fire of Air, and assume her god-form. EXGZD is female with a thin but beautiful body. Her face has a fierce aspect and her hair is an eternal flame. A fire opal is embedded upon her brow. Her body is orange and she wears a yellow brown robe. Her number is eight. She is called the Mistress of Illusion and can be used to cast spells of confusion as well as to see through all manner of illusions.

STEP 7. Rise up into the body of the last Archangel, BZIZA in Fire of Fire, and assume his god-form. BZIZA is masculine but his body is very thin and delicate. His feet are winged with flames. His is red and wears an orange robe. He carries a large fire opal that can be used as a shewstone. His numbers are seventeen and eight. He is called the Destroyer and can be used to obtain prophecy and also to destroy the lower or gross aspects of your human personality. As BZIZA you can easily silence your human body, and thus advance in meditation.

STEP 8. After remaining in the god-form of BZIZA for as long as you can, let yourself drop back down into the form of EXGZD, then into the form of HNLRX, and finally into the form of NIAOM. Then drop back into your own Body of Light and assume your own form again.

STEP 9. Return to your physical body. Perform a suitable banishing exercise such as the Enochian Banishing Pentagram Ritual.

The following is a second example of this same technique. This example uses Kerubic Angels in the four subquadrants of Air.

STEP 1. Draw a psychic circle around yourself and consecrate the area within it.

STEP 2. Enter your Body of Light by shifting your sense of identity from the physical to the etheric. You should be able to feel your "body" as an egg-shaped swirling mist slightly larger than your physical body. Now imagine this Body of Light to be completely empty.

STEP 3. Imagine four Kerubic Angels in serial order above your head, each directly above the other. Rise up in your Body of Light into the first of these Kerubic Angels and assume his body as your own.

STEP 4. Assume the god-form of BOZA in Air of Earth. He is masculine. His body is thin and very active. His feet are winged. His body is bright scarlet and he wears a red robe. He carries a Sword in his right hand and a Pantacle in his left. His numbers are fifty and five. BOZA opposes sorrow and his presence ends all manner of sorrow, pain, and suffering.

STEP 5. Rise up into the body of the next Kerubic Angel, TAAD in Air of Water. This Angel is masculine with large wings and a fierce expression. His color is green and he wears a yellow robe. He carries an arrow in his right hand and a Cup in his left. His numbers are 25 and 7. TAAD quickens transmutations of all kinds.

STEP 6. Rise up into the body of the next Kerubic Angel, RZLA in Air of Air. This Angel is masculine yet very graceful in his movements. His feet are winged. His color is salmon and he wears a golden robe. He carries a Rosy Cross in his right hand and a Dagger in his left. His number is six. RZLA seeks to balance the forces of sorrow and joy, pleasure and pain. His presence quickens equality.

STEP 7. Rise up into the body of the last Kerubic Angel, DOPA in Air of Fire. This Angel is both masculine and feminine. His countenance is fierce but contains an attractive beauty to it. His feet are winged. His body is pale blue and he wears a silver robe with a quiver of arrows over his shoulder. He carries a bow in his right hand and a Wand in his left. His numbers are thirteen and four. His presence assures a safe birth.

STEP 8. After remaining in the god-form of DOPA for as long as you can, let yourself drop back down into the form of RZLA, then into the form of TAAD, and finally into the form of BOZA. Then drop back into your own Body of Light and assume your own form again.

STEP 9. Return to your physical body. Perform a suitable banishing exercise such as the Enochian Banishing Pentagram Ritual.

Invoking The Seniors of the Watchtower

Each of the twenty-four Seniors of the Watchtowers can be invoked by The Magus. If performed properly, during your invocations, a Senior will actually enter into your body. You will temporarily become the Senior. You will act as he acts, and you will assume his characteristics and powers for yourself. The following is a general outline for such an invocation:

STEP 1. Face the appropriate Watchtower:

a. Earth in the North

b. Water in the West

c. Air in the East

d. Fire in the South

STEP 2. Trace the appropriate invoking hexagram.

STEP 3. Vibrate the appropriate Names of Power:

a. Great Holy Name

b. King

c. Senior

STEP 4. Enter your Body of Light.

STEP 5. Assume the god-form of the Senior.

STEP 6. Recite the appropriate invocation.

STEP 7. Assume the characteristics of the Senior.

STEP 8. Enter the appropriate Watchtower.

STEP 9. Perform your desired magical operation.

STEP 10. Trace the appropriate banishing hexagram.

STEP 11. Release the god-form.

STEP 12. Return to your physical body.

EXAMPLES OF INVOKING SENIORS

EXAMPLE 1. INVOCATION OF LAIDROM

STEP 1. Face North.

STEP 2. Create a protective circle.

STEP 3. Enter your Body of Light.

STEP 4. Trace the invoking hexagram for Mars.

STEP 5. Vibrate the names:

MORDIALHKTGA (Moh-ar Dee-ah-leh Heh-keh-teh-gah)

IKZHIKAL (Ee-keh-zoad-hee-kal)

LAIDROM (El-ahee-dar-oh-em)

STEP 6. Assume the god-form of LAIDROM. Let your Body of Light take on the appearance of this Senior. Although all Seniors are male, LAIDROM is rather feminine. His body is well-proportioned and beautiful to look upon. He is graceful and rather delicate with a slightly protruding stomach. He has a small pair of wings. He wears a transparent robe of light green. In his right hand he carries a Pantacle in the shape and color of a sunflower.

STEP 7. Recite an invocation:

O LAIDROM, Senior of Earth,

Come to me and assist me.

Help me to know

The secrets of truth.

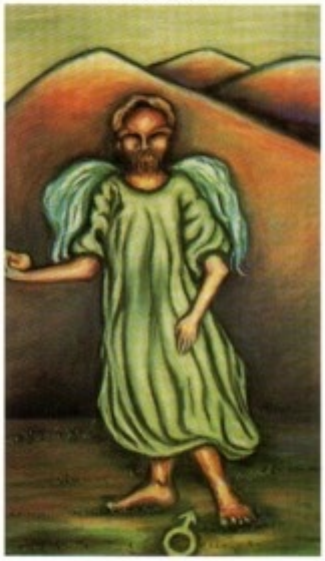
Grant me your great boon

Of Occult Knowledge.

Assist me in my meditation

And calm my restless mind.

74. LAIDROM



FIRST SENIOR OF EARTH

STEP 8. Assume the character of LAIDROM. This Senior bestows occult knowledge. He has the energy of Mars and yet is passive like the mind in meditation. His presence calms the animalistic impulses and desires.

STEP 9. Enter the Watchtower of Earth in the form of LAIDROM and perform magical operations according to your will.

STEP 10. Trace the banishing hexagram of Mars.

STEP 11. Return to your own form. Conduct any additional banishing that you feel necessary such as the Enochian Hexagram Ritual. Return to your physical body.

EXAMPLE 2. INVOCATION OF LSRAHPM

STEP 1. Face West.

STEP 2. Create a protective circle.

STEP 3. Enter your Body of Light.

STEP 4. Trace the invoking hexagram for Mars.

STEP 5. Vibrate the names:

MPHARSLGAIOL (Em-peh-heh Ar-ess-el Gah-ee-oh-leh)

RAAGIOSL (Rah-ah-gee-oh-sel)

LSRAHPM (Less-rah-pem)

STEP 6. Assume the god-form of LSRAHPM. Let your Body of Light take on the appearance of this Senior. Although all Seniors are male, LSRAHPM is rather feminine. His body is well-proportioned and graceful but the lower half shimmers as though indistinct. He has a small pair of wings. He wears an orange robe. In his right hand he carries an oak spear and in his left hand is a lighting bolt. His overall impression is one of fierce determination.

STEP 7. Recite an invocation:

O LSRAHPM, Senior of Water,

Come to me and assist me.

Help me to slay

All that opposes my progress.

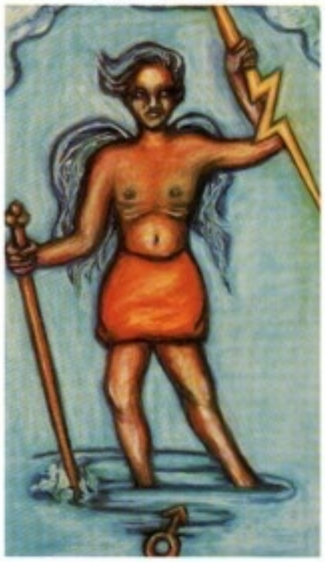
Grant me your great boon

Of Occult Powers.

Assist me in my Magical Will

And tear asunder my enemies.

60. LSRAHPM



FIRST SENIOR OF WATER

STEP 8. Assume the character of LSRAHPM. This Senior bestows occult powers. He has the energy of Mars and his spear and lighting bolt can destroy the enemies of truth. His presence stirs the desire to control one's life and to attain all manner of magical powers (Siddhas).

STEP 9. Enter the Watchtower of Water in the form of LSRAHPM and perform magical operations according to your will.

STEP 10. Trace the banishing hexagram of Mars.

STEP 11. Return to your own form. Conduct any additional banishing that you feel necessary such as the Enochian Hexagram Ritual. Return to your physical body.

EXAMPLE 3. INVOCATION OF AAOZAIF

STEP 1. Face East.

STEP 2. Create a protective circle.

STEP 3. Enter your Body of Light.

STEP 4. Trace the invoking hexagram for Jupiter.

STEP 5. Vibrate the names:

OROIBAHAOZPI (Oh-roh Ee-beh Ah-oh-zoad-pee)

BATAIVAH (Bah-tah-ee-vah-heh)

AAOZAIF (Ah-ah-oh-zoadah-ee-feh)

STEP 6. Assume the god-form of AAOZAIF. Let your Body of Light take on the appearance of this Senior. This Senior is thin but definitely masculine. He has a pair of very large wings. He wears a crimson robe. In his right hand he carries a dagger and his left hand is raised with palm outward in a gesture of granting boons. His overall impression is one who is seeking something.

STEP 7. Recite an invocation:

O AAOZAIF, Senior of Air,

Come to me and assist me.

Help me to find

The knowledge that becomes wisdom.

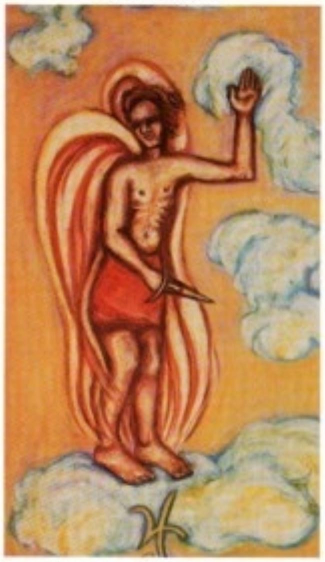
Grant me your great boon

Of instant mobility.

Help me to tread the path

Whereon I might find myself.

47. AAOZAIF



SECOND SENIOR OF AIR

STEP 8. Assume the character of AAOZAIF. This Senior bestows the ability to instantly appear anywhere in space. He has the generosity of Jupiter and he is always moving about in an endless search for knowledge. His presence stirs the desire to find oneself and to learn what life is all about.

STEP 9. Enter the Watchtower of Air in the form of AAOZAIF and perform magical operations according to your will.

STEP 10. Trace the banishing hexagram of Jupiter.

STEP 11. Return to your own form. Conduct any additional banishing that you feel necessary such as the Enochian Hexagram Ritual. Return to your physical body.

EXAMPLE 4. INVOCATION OF ARINNAP

STEP 1. Face South.

STEP 2. Create a protective circle.

STEP 3. Enter your Body of Light.

STEP 4. Trace the invoking hexagram for Saturn.

STEP 5. Vibrate the names:

OIPTEAAPDOKE (Oh-ee-peh Teh-ah-ah Peh-doh-keh)

EDLPRNAA (Eh-del-par-nah-ah)

ARINNAP (Ah-ree-neh-nah-peh)

STEP 6. Assume the god-form of ARINNAP. Let your Body of Light take on the appearance of this Senior. This Senior is very muscular, with dark hair and eyes. He has a pair of very large wings. He wears a pale yellow robe. In his right hand he carries a short sword with a topaz studded hilt. In his left hand is a sprig of peppermint. His overall impression is one who is protective.

STEP 7. Recite an invocation:

O ARINNAP, Senior of Fire,

Come to me and assist me.

Help me to find security

And protection from my enemies.

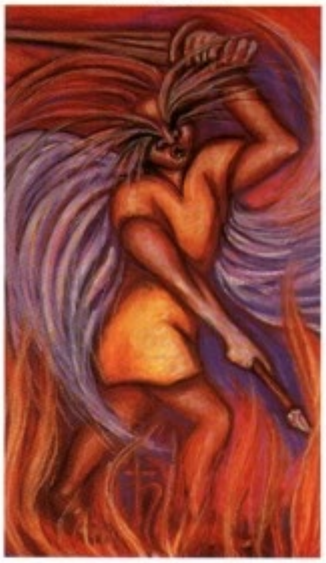
Grant me your great boon

Of divination.

Help me to see right action

And keep the foe from my path.

37. ARINNAP



SIXTH SENIOR OF FIRE

STEP 8. Assume the character of ARINNAP. This Senior bestows the ability to perform divination. He has the self-preservation of Saturn and he is a powerful protector. His presence eliminates fear.

STEP 9. Enter the Watchtower of Fire in the form of ARINNAP and perform magical operations according to your will.

STEP 10. Trace the banishing hexagram of Saturn.

STEP 11. Return to your own form. Conduct any additional banishing that you feel necessary such as the Enochian Hexagram Ritual given in Section 2. Return to your physical body.

Liber Stellæ Rubeæ

sub figurâ LXVI

A Secret Ritual of Apep, the Heart of IAO-OAI, Delivered unto V.V.V.V.V. for His Use in a Certain Matter of Liber Legis,and Written Down under the Figure LXVI

A∴ A∴ Publication in Class A

1. Apep deifieth Asar.
2. Let excellent virgins evoke rejoicing, son of Night!
3. This is the book of the most secret cult of the Ruby Star. It shall be given to none, save to the shameless in deed as in word.
4. No man shall understand this writing— it is too subtle for the sons of men.
5. If the Ruby Star have shed its blood upon thee; if in the season of the moon thou hast invoked by the Iod and the Pe, then mayest thou partake of this most secret sacrament.
6. One shall instruct another, with no care for the matters of men’s thought.
7. There shall be a fair altar in the midst, extended upon a black stone.
8. At the head of the altar gold, and twin images in green of the Master.
9. In the midst a cup of green wine.
10. At the foot the Star of Ruby.
11. The altar shall be entirely bare.
12. First, the ritual of the Flaming Star.
13. Next, the ritual of the Seal.
14. Next, the infernal adorations of OAI.

Mu pa telai,
Tu wa melai
ā, ā, ā.
Tu fu tulu!
Tu fu tulu
Pa, Sa, Ga.

Qwi Mu telai
Ya Pu melai;
ū, ū, ū.
’Se gu malai;
Pe fu telai,
Fu tu lu.

O chi balae
Wa pa malae:—
Ūt! Ūt! Ūt!

Ti— Ti— Ti!
Wa la pelai
Tu fu latai
Wi, Ni, Bi.

15. Also thou shalt excite the wheels with the five wounds and the five wounds.

16. Then thou shalt excite the wheels with the two and the third in the midst; even ⍰ and ⍰ , ⍰ and ⍰ , ⍰ and ⍰ , and ⍰ .

17. Then the five— and the sixth.

18. Also the altar shall fume before the master with incense that hath no smoke.

19. That which is to be denied shall be denied; that which is to be trampled shall be trampled; that which is to be spat upon shall be spat upon.

20. These things shall be burnt in the outer fire.

21. Then again the master shall speak as he will soft words, and with music and what else he will bring forward the Victim.

22. Also he shall slay a young child upon the altar, and the blood shall cover the altar with perfume as of roses.

23. Then shall the master appear as He should appear— in His glory.

24. He shall stretch himself upon the altar, and awake it into life, and into death.

25. (For so we conceal that life which is beyond.)

26. The temple shall be darkened, save for the fire and the lamp of the altar.

27. There shall he kindle a great fire and a devouring.

28. Also he shall smite the altar with his scourge, and blood shall flow therefrom.

29. Also he shall have made roses bloom thereon.

30. In the end he shall offer up the Vast Sacrifice, at the moment when the God licks up the flame upon the altar.

31. All these things shalt thou perform strictly, observing the time.

32. And the Beloved shall abide with Thee.

33. Thou shalt not disclose the interior world of this rite unto any one: therefore have I written it in symbols that cannot be understood.

34. I who reveal the ritual am IAO and OAI; the Right and the Averse.

35. These are alike unto me.

36. Now the Veil of this operation is called Shame, and the Glory abideth within.

37. Thou shalt comfort the heart of the secret stone with the warm blood. Thou shalt make a subtle decoction of delight, and the Watchers shall drink thereof.

38. I, Apep the Serpent, am the heart of IAO. Isis shall await Asar, and I in the midst.

39. Also the Priestess shall seek another altar, and perform my ceremonies thereon.

40. There shall be no hymn nor dithyramb in my praise and the praise of the rite, seeing that it is utterly beyond.

41. Thou shalt assure thyself of the stability of the altar.

42. In this rite thou shalt be alone.

43. I will give thee another ceremony whereby many shall rejoice.

44. Before all let the Oath be taken firmly as thou raisest up the altar from the black earth.

45. In the words that Thou knowest.

46. For I also swear unto thee by my body and soul that shall never be parted in sunder that I dwell within thee coiled and ready to spring.

47. I will give thee the kingdoms of the earth, O thou Who hast mastered the kingdoms of the East and of the West.

48. I am Apep, O thou slain One. Thou shalt slay thyself upon mine altar: I will have thy blood to drink.

49. For I am a mighty vampire, and my children shall suck up the wine of the earth which is blood.

50. Thou shalt replenish thy veins from the chalice of heaven.

51. Thou shalt be secret, a fear to the world.

52. Thou shalt be exalted, and none shall see thee; exalted, and none shall suspect thee.

53. For there are two glories diverse, and thou who hast won the first shalt enjoy the second.

54. I leap with joy within thee; my head is arisen to strike.

55. O the lust, the sheer rapture, of the life of the snake in the spine!

56. Mightier than God or man, I am in them, and pervade them.

57. Follow out these my words.

58. Fear nothing.
    Fear nothing.
    Fear nothing.

59. For I am nothing, and me thou shalt fear, O my virgin, my prophet within whose bowels I rejoice.

60. Thou shalt fear with the fear of love: I will overcome thee.

61. Thou shalt be very nigh to death.

62. But I will overcome thee; the New Life shall illumine thee with the Light that is beyond the Stars.

63. Thinkest thou? I, the force that have created all, am not to be despised.

64. And I will slay thee in my lust.

65. Thou shalt scream with the joy and the pain and the fear and the love— so that the ΛΟΓΟΣ of a new God leaps out among the Stars.

66. There shall be no sound heard but this thy lion-roar of rapture; yea, this thy lion-roar of rapture.

Pronunciation

of the

Enochian Language

Since the Enochian texts consist of a series of "Calls", or invocations of supernatural beings, it is clearly necessary to understand how the words should be uttered or spoken. In most magical systems, a slight error in the text of a spell or invocation is regarded as potentially dangerous and will lead to disastrous consequences. Accordingly, John Dee was in the habit of writing the pronunciation of the Enochian words alongside the text.

To make these observations on pronunciation, Dee had to use the ordinary English alphabet, since he had no system of phonetic notation. However, his intention is usually quite clear. He writes dg when he means "soft g" (as in gem); and s for "soft c"; and he indicates in some places the ch is to be pronounced as k. He marks the stressed vowels in most words. Sometimes -- but not often -- he indicates that a letter is to be given its pronunciation in the alphabet -- thus ds is to be pronounced "dee-ess", and z in a few instances is given the pronunciation "zod." (The letter z has not always been called "zed" or "zee", it has had many names, among them being "izzard", and, at the end of the sixteenth century, "ezod." "Zod" is nothing but a variant of this last name.) In more difficult cases, Dee gives examples from English, thus zorge is said to be pronounced to rhyme with "George", and ul to be said "with such sound to U as we pronounce "yew", whereof bows are made" -- that is, ul is pronounced like "Yule."

With all of these instructions, one can get a fairly good idea of how the Enochian language sounded.

The resulting pronunciation of Enochian makes it sound much more like English than it looks at first sight. The following table of letters and combinations gives a general overview of how the spelling system of Enochian works:

LETTER PRONUNCIATION

A -- long (stressed), as in lah-di-dah

-- short (unstressed), as in French patte

B -- usually as English b, but silent between m and another consonant, or after m finally

C -- as k before a, o, u (with some exceptions)

-- as s before i, e (with many exceptions), and in clusters of consonants (noncf = nonsf)

CH -- as k in most positions, but as ch finally

D -- as d in all positions

E -- when stressed, as in French fee

-- when unstressed, as in bed

F -- as f in all positions

G -- as (hard) g before a, o, u

-- as j before i, e, in final position, after d, and in clusters of consonants

H -- as h in most position (except in combinations ch, ph, sh, th); silent after a vowel, but the vowel is lengthened

I -- when stressed, as in French machine

-- when unstressed, as in bit

-- in combinations: ai as in fly; ei as in eight; oi as in boil

-- as y in word-initial position before a vowel (Iad = Yad)

K -- as k in all positions

L -- as l in all positions

M -- as m in all positions

N -- as n in all positions

O -- when stressed, as in French mot

-- when unstressed, as in not

-- in combinations: oi as in boil; ou as in bout; oo as in fool

P -- as p except in combination with ph

PH -- as f

Q -- the word q is pronounced kwa

QU -- as kw (qu as in quick)

R -- as r in right (but may be rolled)

S -- usually as s in sit

-- sometimes z, in places where this is more natural in English (lrasd = elrazd)

SH -- as sh in ship

T -- as t except in combination th

TH -- as th in thank

U -- as oo in boot, or u in put

-- in initial position as yew

-- as v or w before another vowel, and in word-final position

X -- as x in fox

Y -- as y in word-initial position before a vowel

-- as the letter I before a consonant, and in word-final position

Z -- as z in zoo; in a very few words, as zod

It should be further noted that the Enochian characters themselves total only 21, not the 24 characters listed above. C and K are expressed by a single letter, as are I and Y, and Uand V. The 21 letters of Enochian are, oddly enough, almost exactly the minimum required to write English without any ambiguity.

Using the pronunciation guide above, we can transcribe the beginning of the Call of the First Aethyr "LIL" into an appropriate phonetic representation used during the sixteenth century.

"Mádriaks di-es praf LIL kis miká-olz sánir ka-ózgo od física balzízras yaida. Nonsa gohúlim: míkma adóyan mad, yá-od bliórb, soba o-áona kis lusíftias pirípsol, di-es abrása nonsf netá-ib ka-ozji, od tilb adfát dámploz ..."

Like everything else, the Enochian language has undergone some minor changes during the last 400 years. The pronunciation of the words has become modernized to allow easier use by today's practitioner. The following table of letters gives a general overview of how the modernized Enochian works:

LETTER PRONUNCIATION

A -- usually as a in ah

B -- usually as b in beh

C -- usually as k in keh

D -- usually as d in deh

E -- usually as e in eh

F -- usually as f in feh

-- sometimes as f in eff

G -- usually as g in geh or ge

-- sometimes as g in egg

H -- usually as h in heh

I -- usually as E in Ee

J -- usually as j in jeh

K -- usually as k in keh

L -- usually as l in leh

-- sometimes as l in el

M -- usually as m in meh

-- sometimes as m in em

N -- usually as n in neh

-- sometimes as n in en, noo, or nu

O -- usually as o in oh

P -- usually as p in peh

Q -- usually as q in qeh

-- sometimes as q in queh or quah

-- in rare instances as k in koh

R -- usually as r in reh or rah

-- sometimes as r in ar

S -- usually as s in seh

-- sometimes as s in ess

T -- usually as t in teh

U -- usually as u in ueh

-- sometimes as u in u

V -- usually as v in veh

W -- usually as w in weh (very seldom used)

X -- usually as Tz as in Tzaddi, or as Ts as in Cents

-- sometimes as s in Samekh, or as s as in sah

Y -- usually as y in yeh

-- sometimes as E as in Ee

Z -- usually as z in zeh

-- sometimes as z as in zod

-- in rare instances as z as in zoad

Once again it should be noted that the Enochian characters themselves total only 21, not the 26 characters listed above. C and K are expressed by a single letter, as are I, J and Y, as are U, V, and W.

Using the modernized pronunciation guide above, we can transcribe the beginning of the Call of the First Aethyr "LIL" into an appropriate phonetic representation that is used today:

"Mah-deh-ree-ahtz Deh-seh Peh-rah-feh Lee-el Keh-hee-seh Mee-kah-oh-leh-zeh Sah-ah-nee-reh Kah-oh-seh-goh Oh-deh Fee-see-ess Bah-leh-zee-zeh-rah-seh Ee-ah-ee-dah Noh-en-kah Goh-hueh-lee-meh Mee-keh-mah Ah-doh-ee-ah-neh Mah-deh Ee-ah-oh-deh Beh-lee-oh-reh-beh Soh-bah Oh-oh-ah-oh-nah Keh-hee-seh Lueh-kee-feh-tee-ah-seh Pee-ree-peh-soh-leh Deh-seh Ah-beh-rah-ah-seh-sah Noh-en-keh-feh Neh-tah-ah-ee-beh Kah-oh-seh-goh Oh-deh Tee-leh-beh Ah-deh-peh-hah-heh-teh Dah-meh-peh-loh-zeh ..."

As can be seen from the above transcription, the Enochian language has indeed acquired a very different pronunciation when it came to be used in twentieth-century magical operations and rituals. It should be noted however, that both versions are absolutely correct -- and both versions work equally well in all magical operations and rituals. The choice of which version to use is therefore left up to the individual.

RANDOM NOTES ON LIBER AL

BY BENJAMIN ROWE

Copyright 1986, 1992 by Benjamin Rowe

This article presents correspondences relating to several verses of Liber AL vel Legis. They are presented with varying degrees of certainty. Some are fairly obvious, and without doubt have been rediscovered many times by magicians. The present treatment of these will, I hope, add some depth to the generally-known interpretations by offering supporting gematraic correspondences. Others are purely speculative, and may raise as many questions as they resolve. Where the attribution of the paths to the Tree of Life is important to the interpretation, the system of Frater Achad is used.

These interpretations are not to be considered in any way authoritative. They are entirely the product of my own intuition and creative imagination. I have never been connected with any of the contending groups that claim to be the "legitimate" inheritors of Crowley's or Achad's mantle, nor do I make any such claims for myself.

I present these correspondences in the spirit of an adventurer offering a few landmarks in unknown territory to other interested explorers. May they be taken in the same spirit.

1. Hadit says in chapter 2, v. 7: "I am the magician and the exorcist. I am the axle of the wheel, and the cube in the circle."

Both these sentences could relate to Jupiter and Saturn. The wheel is of course The Wheel of Fortune, attributed to Jupiter, and the cube in the circle could be The Universe, Saturn. The magician is a creative force, bringing things into manifestation, and Jupiter has these qualities in astrological systems. Saturn as the cause of cessation takes things out of manifestation again.

Jupiter = Kaph = 20
Saturn = Tau = 400
400 + 20 = 420 = HADITh

In Achad's Tree, the paths of these two planets descend from Kether, a sephira that shares some of Hadit's qualities.

Also, by Tarot, Jupiter and Saturn are cards numbered 10 and 21 respectively. 10 + 21 = 31, the "key" to Liber AL.

2. In the previous verse: "I am the flame that burns in every heart of man, and in the core of every star."

The word LBH (with varying vowel points) means "flame", "core" and "heart". Since the words are spelled the same, the things referred to are all the same thing, as the line says.
"I am" = AHIH, Eheieh, god of Kether

"the flame" = fire = Shin, the path connecting Kether and Tiphereth.

"heart of man" = Sun = Tiphereth. Hadit resides in Kether and in Tiphereth, and in the path between. He is in the sun both in its lowest point (as Kephra, in Tiphereth) and in its highest point (as Ahatoor, the noon sun of Kether).

In this verse, he shows where he resides. In another place, verse 49, he will show where he is not.

To continue the verse:

"I am Life, and the giver of Life..."
life = ChIH = 23
giver of life = NVThN ChIH = 529 = 23 squared = HVVR-PA-KRAAT

"I am Life" = AHIH ChIH = 44
44 = DM, blood, the carrier of life.

3. In ch. 2, v. 23, Hadit says: "I am alone". This phrase = AHIH IChID, a combination of two titles of Kether.

AHIH IChID = 53 = ABN, the Father (Kether) coalesced with the Son, Tiphereth, again repeating the bilocation indicated in note 2.

4. Chapter 2, v. 49: "I am unique & conqueror. I am not of the slaves that perish. Be they damned & dead! Amen. (This is of the 4: there is a fifth who is invisible, & therein I am as a babe in an egg.)"

"Unique & conqueror" = IChID + MNTzCh = 220
220 = BChIR, one of the Elect.
(Also, the number of verses in Liber AL)

Alternatively, adding the "and" = IChID V-MNTzCh = 226
226 = TzPVN, "hidden", an attribute of Hadit.

"I am not of the slaves that perish. Be they damned & dead!"

not = LA, nothing.
slaves = OBDIM = 128
perish = NBL = 82
128 + 82 = 210, the reduction of all dyads to zero.

Hadit is the zero ("not") of 210. That is, he is to be found by eliminating all perceptible qualities (2), and the perceiver himself (1). He encourages us to this end - "Be they damned & dead!"

damned = NAR = 251
dead = MTh = 440
251 + 440 = 691.

691 is a prime number, but I have not yet found a gematraic significance for it. The number itself suggests that the "slaves that perish" put the individual soul (6) and the emotional nature (9) ahead of the spirit in their lives, thus denying the spirit. I am not sure of this.

"Amen. (This is of the 4: there is a fifth who is invisible, & therein I am as a babe in an egg.)"

AMN = 741 (using Nun final)
741 = ShMATh, the letter of the four elements.

Hadit says he is not to be found in the mundane world, but only in the spirit. There also seems to be an identification of Hadit with Harpocrates. This identification is repeated several other places in the text.

5. Chapter 2, v. 66: "Write, & find ecstasy in writing! Work, & be our bed in working!" Spoken to the Beast, Tiphereth, by Hadit.

According to Crowley, writing is a function of Mem, water, descending from Tiphereth to Yesod. The sum of the paths that descend from Tiphereth = Z + M + T = 56.

56 = NU, Nuit, who gives ecstasy. (see chapter 1, v. 58)

"Work", the Great Work of uniting the personal soul with the universal, raising oneself from Tiphereth to the Supernals. The sum of the paths leading from Tiphereth to the Supernals = 570 = ORSh, a bed.

These verses are a presentation of the functions of Tiphereth, the Beast, in relation first to the lower worlds, and then to the higher worlds. In relation to the lower worlds, Tiphereth is positive, enlightening, and expository in nature. Its function is to shed light in the darkness. For the man who has achieved Tiphereth through his work, this would mean that he has a responsibility to those who have not achieved, which he must fulfill by giving to them his understanding of the nature of existence. This should not be an arduous task, but an ecstatic one, as the verse suggests.

At the same time that he is positive in relation to the lower worlds, the man in Tiphereth is receptive to those forces that are "above" or still unrevealed at his present point in evolution. He is their "bed" in the sense that Tiphereth is the lowest point that any of the paths from the Supernals can reach directly, so that they could be said to rest upon Tiphereth. Tiphereth is a relay, receiving and giving out again simultaneously. He transmits light from above, stepping down its frequency to the point where it can have some meaning for those still caught in the lower worlds.

6. Chapter 3, v. 72: "I am the Lord of the Double Wand of Power; the wand of the force of Coph Nia..."
KP NIA = 161, the sum of the paths of triangles 4-6-7 and 5-6-8.

Since Horus in the Son or Sun, it is appropriate that his power centers on Tiphereth in this way. The fact that there are two triangles may relate to the "Double Wand" phrase. As was shown in point 5 above, Tiphereth itself is of a two-in-one nature. Note that the sum of the paths connecting sephiroth 4-5-8-7, plus the paths connecting these sephiroth with Tiphereth = 217 = HVVR, Horus, strengthening the identification.

In getting from Coph Nia to Hoor, we added two paths to the group being considered. These were the paths of Nun and Vav. N + V = 56 = NV, Nuit. 161 is also equivalent to APP, Apep, the serpent-god. Since Hadit identifies himself with the Serpent several places in Liber AL, we have Nuit and Hadit uniting to form Hoor in these paths around Tiphereth.

There may also be an identification of the Double Wand with Adam, since 161 = ADM OILAH, the primordial man (or, literally, "causative man"). This primordial man is neither male nor female, but contains both within himself. Thus the Double Wand of Power relates to the dual powers of the primordial man, positive and negative, male and female. In sex magick, the union of the male and the female produces a magickal "son" of some sort, often symbolized by Horus as the Child.

Verse 72 continues: "..- but my left hand is empty, for I have crushed an Universe, & nought remains."

"my left hand is empty.." Hoor dwells in Tiphereth by choice, not necessity, since there is nothing in his left hand, the hand of negative or earth-trending forces.

"..for I have crushed an Universe.." Concentrated in Kether, samadhi, he has destroyed his attachments to the earth.

"and nought remains." (1) Nothing can bind him to the earth, nothing of earth remains in him. (2) the technical result of samadhi, destruction of the perceived universe and the perceiving self, leaving nought (= LA = 31) but God (= AL = 31).

So here we have the 210 formula again. Note that the words "double wand", "I", "nought" in this verse repeat the 210 formula in another form.

The paths we have associated with Horus take up the center portion of the Tree, so that any power coming from above must pass through him to get to the lower worlds. Thus it is reasonable for him to say in chap. 3, v. 70: "... my nemyss shrouds the night-blue sky." The night-blue sky is either Nuit (whose symbol it is) or Ahatoor, the sky-goddess associated with the Supernal triangle.
Another form of Horus used the Liber AL, Heru-Ra-Ha, seems to associate Horus with the same paths that we said were related to Hadit in point 2 above:

Heru = Horus, fire, Shin, the path connecting Kether and Tiphereth. Ra = the Sun, Tiphereth Ha = Hadit, Kether.

I am not entirely certain of the reason for this intermixing of symbols between the two gods. Of course, there is always at least a partial identification between son and father, but this seems too explicit to be just that. Perhaps Horus represents Man in the process of passing up the Tree, where Hadit represents the ideal case. Or they could be the two ends of the 210 formula, which we have seen is also associated with both of them. Hadit was shown to be the zero or "nought" of the 210 formula, while Horus in various places has been shown to be dual in nature, and therefore associated with the 2 of 210.

The initials of Heru-Ra-Ha repeat this identification with 210, since H + R + H = 210.

7. Chapter 3, v. 38:
"By Bes-Na-Maut my breast I beat.
"By wise Ta-Nech I weave my spell.
"Show thy star-splendor, O Nuit!
"Bid me within thine House to dwell,
"O winged snake of light, Hadit!
"Abide with me, Ra-Hoor-Khuit!"

We can take Bes-Na-Maut as BISh-N-MAVT.

BISh = 312
N = 50
MAVT = 56
312 + 50 + 56 = 418

Why ABRAHADABRA (418) should be cause for breast-beating is beyond me.

Alternatively, it could be:

Bes = BISh = "shame"
Na = 51 = NA = "failure"
Maut = MAVT = 56 = AIMH = "dread"

This certainly fits better with the rest of the line, but I like the 418 correspondence better.

Bes is the Egyptian equivalent of Dionysius, Sol. Since he is a dwarf-god, he is clearly related to Hadit as well. Maut, the Vulture goddess, is Saturnian, or at least related to Binah. Literally interpreted, this phrase means something like "Bes in Maut". Astrologically, the Sun is the center of the system, and Saturn represents its periphery. This could be a reference in alternate terms to Hadit as the invisible center and Nuit as the circumference, in chapter 2, verse 3. Again, this does not seem to be a cause for breast-beating, unless the beats are really magickal "knocks" intended to call the attention of the gods. There might also be a reference here to some form of sex magick.

(BUT we could take Bes to represent the Holy Guardian Angel, or Genius, or merely the soul. Maut as Saturn/Earth would be the body. If this is the case, the phrase repeats the "Khabs is in the Khu" idea of Ch. 1, verse 8, and adds another aspect to the ideas behind 418 generally. The breast is where the heart [= Tiphereth = Sol] lies in the human body. The breast-beating might really be heartbeats.)

To continue with the verse:
"By wise Ta-Nech I weave my spell."

Spelling in the magickal sense is a function of Chokmah, the sphere of Thoth, who is the origin of all spells in the Egyptian mythos.

Ta-Nech = ThA-NICh = 401 + 68
401 = ATh, essence
68 = ChKM, wise. This word is the root of ChKMH, Chokmah.

Thus Ta-Nech is the essence of wisdom, or of Chokmah. Also, 401 + 68 = 469 = ChShVQIHM = ring of the zodiac, also related to Chokmah.

"Bid me within thine House to dwell, O winged snake of light, Hadit!"

Since "Ha" is a commonly used form of Hadit's name in Egyptian works, it seems reasonable to me that "House of Hadit" might be translated as BITh HA, which = 418. Crowley translates phrase as "house of He'", with He' being the pentagram. (Note: 418 = Cheth, Cancer, astrologically, representing a shell containing living substance, as a house is a shell for living beings. Hadit identifies himself with life, so it is appropriate for his house to relate to this number.)

8. Here are a few about 418:

"God" = AL = 31
"to behold" = ShZP = 387
"To behold God" = ShZP AL = 418

"Secret light" = RZI AR = 418

"a universal enchantment" = KLL LChSh = 418

65 = ADNI, Adonai, the Holy Guardian Angel
353 = HGShMH, manifestation
65 + 353 = 418, the manifestation of the H.G.A.

65 = DVMIH, silence, and = HS, keeping silence
353 = ShMChH, joy

65 + 353 = 418

ChIIM, life, livingness = 68
OPR, Ophir, earth = 350
68 + 350 = 418
(Shows 418 as union of Life, spirit, with Matter.)

"to trust in strange gods" = ChSH ALHIM AChRIM = 418

"to trust in God Almighty" = ChSH AL ShDI = 418

9. The Great Voice, Macroprosopus = DBVR = 212
The Lesser Voice, speech, Microprosopus = DBR = 206
Macroprosopus united with Microprosopus = 212 + 206 = 418
Vav = 6 = Tiphereth is what separates the lesser voice from the greater. Tiphereth is the sphere in which their union, 418, occurs.

10. Chapter 1, v. 30: "This is the creation of the world, that the pain of division is as nothing, and the joy of dissolution all."

nothing = LA = 31
all = AL = 31

"division" = the dyad = 2
"is as" is equivalent to an equals sign
"nothing" = LA = "not" = 0

This phrase literally expresses the 0=2 formula. ("Is as" expresses an identity between things, that is, a singularity, and therefore = 1. The phrase as a whole also expresses the 210 formula.)

And:

"the joy of dissolution" = ChDVH HHMSH = 138
all = AL = 31
138 + 31 = 169.

169 represents the middle pillar from Kether to the Foundation, where a creation (such as the world) becomes fully established. Also 169 = 13 squared = unity in full manifestation.

"the pain of division" = AN HChLVQ = 200

Totalling the entire phrase:
"the pain of division" = 200
"nothing" = 31

"the joy of dissolution" = 138
"all" = 31
TOTAL = 400 = Tau, the tarot card The Universe, aka The World, that which is created.

The internal reverberations in this verse are remarkably complex. It shows the creation of the world in several different ways as a cyclic process. First, in the literal interpretation of the words, division (that is, manifestation) is shown to be equivalent to dissolution, the return to an undifferentiated state. Possibly this connects with the idea of entropy in some way.

The gematria of the equivalent Hebrew phrases repeats it in numerical symbolism by showing the 0=2 formula. The sum of the gematraic numbers produces Tau, Saturn, which governs cyclic events. The "joy of dissolution" phrase shows the mystic way of return, up the middle pillar of the Tree, and at the same time shows unity(AChD = 13) in multiplicity by being the square of unity (169). Also, the "pain of division" phrase equals 200, Resh, the Sun, whose glyph shows this division as a point (Hadit) in a circle (Nuit).

And we are not yet done with this phrase! Since "not" is shown to be equal to "all", we might have added just one of them into the sum shown above:

"pain of division"	200
"joy of dissolution"	138
"all" or "not"	31
TOTAL:	369

369 = OVLM HBRIAH = the Creative World. Again gematria repeats the outer meaning of the phrase.

369 shows the trinity (the Supernals) evolving first into the Hexagram, and then into full creation. 369 is the sum of the numbers from one to (nine times nine), divided by nine, therefor is a number of Luna and Yesod, the foundation. In this manner the verse shows the process of manifestation. (Remember that Malkuth is considered to be a byproduct of the activity of the higher sephiroth, and does not participate in the process of creation.)

369 is one less than 370, OSh, "creation". The current that has produced manifestation must return to its source, (Kether = 1) for the results to be stable. The exposition of the creative process is shown again. Alternately, the 1 could be Aleph, the path connecting Yesod with Malkuth, thereby bringing the creation down into full manifestation.

Let us now look at the beginning phrase of the verse:

"This is the creation of the World..."
"creation of the world" = OSh HOLVM = 521 (a prime number, incidentally). 521 = ASh IVRD = "fire descending", the lightning flash of creation. 521 = MChShVP HLBN = "naked brilliance", the color of Kether in the King scale, showing the source or first manifestation of creation.

In Achad's system, the sum of all the paths of the Tree that descend vertically is also 521. The middle pillar sums to 341. 341 = ShMA, the Word, the manifest qualities of perception at the three main levels of awareness.

The side pillars combined total 180. 180 = PNIM, the Countenance, the Face of God. So 521 could be the Word emanating from the face of God.

11. Chapter 1, v. 57.: "Invoke me under my stars! Love is the law, love under will. Nor let the fools mistake love; for there are love and love. There is the dove, and there is the serpent. Choose ye well! He, my prophet, hath chosen, knowing the law of the fortress, and the great mystery of the House of God."
"All these old letters of my book are aright; but Tzaddi is not the Star. This also is secret: my prophet shall reveal it to the wise."

Before dealing with the first paragraph of this verse, I should say that I do not accept Crowley's explanation of the second paragraph, as described in The Book of Thoth, and in his Commentary on The Book of the Law. He states that Tzaddi should be attributed to the Tarot card "The Emperor" and that Heh should be attributed to "The Star", in order to match the rotation of the cards "Strength" and "Justice" around Virgo at the other end of the zodiac. His argument is specious because the latter rotation only involves a change in the serial numeration of the Trumps, and not a change in symbolic attribution. Other interpretations of this paragraph are extant among Achad's "Maatian" followers.

The first paragraph seems to me to resonate strongly with the symbolism of the three horizontal paths of the Tree, as they are used in Achad's system. The highest of these paths, Tzaddi, connects Chokmah and Binah. The next, Nun, connects Chesed and Geburah. The last, Vav, connects Netzach and Hod.

In one of the previous points, it was shown that Hadit and Heru-Ra-Ha both relate in one aspect to Tiphereth. Here, we see Nuit connecting herself with the stars, and the highest reciprocal path, Tzaddi, The Star, 90, immediately comes to mind. The card actually shows eight stars, one large and the rest smaller, with the ibis of Thoth to the right side of the card, in the position of Chokmah, and a sea, Binah, on the left, thus confirming its position between these sephiroth.

The two side pillars of the Tree also sum to 90, so they could be said to relate to Nuit as well if we accept this correspondence. Together, the side pillars and the path of Tzaddi form an arch in the Tree.

Hadit identifies himself with the Snake, Scorpio, in several verses of Liber AL. We can make the equivalent correspondence to the path of Nun in the Tree. And Taurus = Vav = 6 = Sol = Ra-Hoor-Khuit.

The arch of Nuit bends over and touches both ends of the paths of Nun and Vav, enclosing both. Thus the Tree itself reflects the image on the Stele of Revealing, in which Nuit arches over all, with Hadit as the winged sun below her, and Ra-Hoor-Khuit wearing the solar crown below Hadit.

"... Love is the law, love under will."

Since it is Nuit who is speaking in this verse, it may be that the numeration of this arch in the Tree relates to this sentence.
3 times 90 = 270, the total of Tzaddi and the side pillars.
270 = 15 times 18
15 = ChBH, love
18 = ChI, life, will
In this view, Nuit herself embodies the law that she states.

"...love under will." Astrologically, love is Venus, and Will is Mars. Note that Venus rules Taurus, the lowest of the reciprocal paths, and Mars rules Scorpio, the next highest reciprocal path. Thus, in Achad's system, love is literally "under" will.

Nuit is described in Liber AL as being the "circumference" or outer limit of existence. Since these two paths are the only two that connect the outer limits of her arch, their action could be said to be universal within the manifest worlds, and therefore they are truly "the law" within those worlds.

"... Nor let the fools mistake love; for there are love and love. There is the dove, and there is the serpent." In Achad's Tree, those who have passed through the path of Aleph, The Fool, are the equivalent of zelators in the G.D. system. "Love" (= Venus = Netzach) reaches them through the path of Cancer. Cancer is the individual emotional nature, astrologically. And this love is conceptualized in the path of Taurus, ruled by Venus. For someone at this level of consciousness, love is perceived as being a relation between the person and an external object. The person maintains his individuality, and his love is perceived as an absorbtion of the object into himself.

The sephira Yesod is the natural focus of consciousness for most of the human race at this time, according to Alice Bailey. The dominant influence of emotional appeals in forming public opinion demonstrates this well. Neither appeals to greed (Malkuth) nor reason (Hod) nor ego (Netzach) are anywhere near as effective. So it's all right to consider most people fools - they've earned it!

For the adepts, on the other hand, the "love" of the path of Scorpio is (or should be) controlling. The nature of Taurus is objectification. Conversely, the nature of Scorpio is penetration and complete identification of the self with the object, causing both to disappear. The adept invokes a god by exhalting his consciousness to the point where it merges completely into the nature of the god. He temporarily abandons his individuality, and is rewarded by its expansion to include the nature of the god invoked.

"... Choose ye well! He, my prophet, hath chosen, knowing the law of the fortress, and the great mystery of the House of God." This phrase repeats and emphasizes the distinction between the two types of love. It may also have a broader meaning than the interpretation above. It seems to embody a warning that by choosing the obvious, mundane view of love, the person embarks on the path of the "Black Brothers", while choosing the higher type (disguised by the intense nature of Mars and Scorpio) leads on the path of the "White Adepts".

In The Vision and the Voice, the Black Brothers are said to have "shut themselves up in fortresses of love". And by doing so, they put themselves into a condition where the impact of divine force causes them to destroy themselves.

"fortress" = MBTzR = 332
"House of God" = BITh AL = 443

When the force of the divine, represented by Kether, 1, is added to each of these, we get:

332 + 1 = 333, ChVRVNZVN = Dispersion, the devil of the Abyss.
443 + 1 = 444, RA-HVVR-KV, the crowned and conquering child.

Depending on which one chooses, the paths lead either to destruction or to achievement of the goal of initiation.

Going back to the number 270 again, I would like to point out that there is another set of symbols it connects with that are just as significant in the consideration of Achad's Tree. 270 is the number of the I.N.R.I. formula, also known as the IAO formula.

Since this arch of paths totalling 270 connects all three of the Tree's triads it must therefore control the relations between them. The triads are related to the three major grades of initiation spoken of in Liber AL: the Man of the Earth, the Lover, and the Hermit. The grades correspond respectively to the lowest triad, the middle, and the highest. Man's passage through these triads is the process of initiation. This arch of Nuit, or of I.N.R.I. therefore controls the process of initiation.

In this formula, the initiation is seen as beginning with a natural object (1st I of INRI), which is then destroyed (N), and then recreated in a higher form (R). Lastly, the process begins again with the new form taking the place of the original natural object (2nd I of INRI).

The formula of I.N.R.I. or IAO is universal. It describes a process that occurs at all levels of initiation, in all systems of initiation. As Arnold Toynbee and James Joyce have both shown, it is also universally applicable in the evolution of human cultures. Therefore it should have a important place in any system of occult symbolism. Achad's system is no exception.

The first I of I.N.R.I. relates to the path of Taurus. Taurus is an earthy sign, and is specifically attributed to activities of a bucolic nature, unlike the other two earthy signs. It relates to nature in the form of Isis through Venus, which rules the sign, and through Luna, which is exhalted therein.

As I described in Achad's Cabala: The Lower Paths, Taurus is connected both with the person's intellectual conception of the world (Hod), and with his perception of himself, his ego-image (Netzach). It represents the person's individual creed or explanation of the universe. In the process of initiation, this conception has to be destroyed before the person can advance to the level of adepthood.

The N of I.N.R.I. is of course Nun, Scorpio, Death, the next highest reciprocal path. The A of IAO is Apophis, the destroyer (literally "the nay-sayer", or "the negator" in Greek), also related to Scorpio. The task of the adept is to complete the destruction of his natural, uninitiated personality, and to begin the building of a "body of light" to replace it. He does this by the repeated exposure of the personality to spiritual forces through invocation. Each exposure causes the destruction of part of the mundane personality, and its replacement with its spiritual equivalent.

In the Osirian religions, this destruction is often equated with the idea of sacrifice, of giving up something valuable for a cause that originates outside the self. No doubt this was designed to keep the populace in a condition where they could be used as willing cannon-fodder. In actual practice, this conception is entirely false. While the process may be painful, absolutely nothing of any value is lost.

The process is more like the way a snake sheds its skin, or a crab its shell, in order to grow. The parts that are lost are all dead, used up, and their usefulness become a hindrance. The parts that remain are free to adapt to the changed conditions. While these remaining parts may seem at first to be disconnected beyond recovery, they have a natural tendency to group together. A short while after a period of destruction the person finds himself back in one piece, stronger and with a greater breadth of perception than before. Even the Osirian legend shows it: Isis, nature, gathers the pieces of the dead Osiris, reassembles them, and brings him back to life.

Eventually, this process of destruction and replacement is complete. At this point, the adept has to come to full comprehension and control of his "body of light". This body is in fact the Ruach, taken as whole and fully integrated. A parallel integration of his understanding of the universe also takes place. As an Exempt Adept, he expresses this integration through the publication of a thesis setting forth his world-view, according to Crowley.

As his final act of destruction, the adept abandons himself and his understanding by leaping into the Abyss. If he succeeds fully in this task, he emerges from the other side into Binah and the path of Tzaddi, becoming a star in the body of Nuit. Literally so, since the path of Tzaddi is part of the Arch of Nuit referred to above. As a star, he does nothing but shed his light on the lower worlds, and grow slowly in brightness as he perfects his understanding. He thus comes into the part of the process represented by the R of I.N.R.I. and the O of IAO.

Eventually, as an Ipsissimus, the being must confront the problem of removing himself from the Tree altogether, and passing into whatever lies beyond. The star that he is becomes the foundation for the next cycle of destruction, as the mundane personality had to be destroyed in the previous cycle. Thus the result of the first cycle, represented by the R of I.N.R.I. becomes the natural object that is the basis of the next cycle. This transformation is represented by the final I of I.N.R.I.

So we have, in the Arch and the three horizontal paths of the Tree, a completely accurate reflection of the IAO and I.N.R.I. formulas, and these formulas have been connected directly with the symbolism of Nuit, and with the law of "love under will".

12. Chapter 2, verse 21 seems to support the idea that death in the I.N.R.I. formula is not equal to sacrifice: "....Think not, o king, upon that lie: That Thou Must Die: verily thou shalt not die, but live. Now let it be understood: If the body of the King dissolve, he shall remain in pure ecstasy for ever. Nuit! Hadit! Ra-Hoor-Khuit! The Sun, Strength & Sight, Light; these are for the servants of the Star & the Snake."

The first sentence quoted is clear enough. The king, the true self, is not destroyed, but only the "outcast and the unfit" portions of his being.

"... if the body of the King dissolve, he shall remain in pure ecstasy for ever." The body of the king is of course the Ruach, with Tiphereth (whose image is a king) in the center. When this body is dissolved in the crossing of the Abyss, then his self will enter the path of Tzaddi, first path above the Ruach. In the symbolism of the Arch of Nuit, a being in this path is literally in the body of Nuit.

"Nuit! Hadit! Ra-Hoor-Khuit! The Sun, Strength & Sight, Light; These are for the servants of the Star & the Snake." In Achad's Cabala: The Upper Paths, I talked about the upper part of the Tree as symbolizing the four quarters of the Sun. There are four isosceles triangles in the hexagonal part of the Tree. The attributions of these triangles were:

Triangle 4-5-6 = Kephra = the soul, the manifest sun, light in darkness. Triangle 3-5-6 = Ra = energy & action
" 2-4-6 = Tum = comprehension & integration
" 1-2-3 = Ahatoor = the full light of noon

Thus the last sentence of the verse can correspond to these triangles: "The Sun" = Kephra, the midnight sun
"Strength" = Ra and also = the path of Mars, in that triangle.
"Sight" = vision = Tum and also = the path of Sagittarius, in Tum's triangle. "Light" = Ahatoor, the sky-goddess and also = Tzaddi, The Star, in Ahatoor's triangle.

Thus the "servants of the Star & the Snake" have all the powers of the Hexagram at their disposal. They necessarily have to cross the Abyss to do so fully. Through two of the paths mentioned, they bridge the Abyss, living in both worlds at once.

Alternately, to include all three of the Grades:
"The Sun" = 6 = Vav = Taurus
"Strength & Sight" = Geburah & Chesed, connected by Scorpio.
"Light" = Aquarius = Tzaddi = The Star

13. Chapter 1, v. 1: "Had! The manifestation of Nuit."
There are two Hebrew words for "manifestation":
PRSVM = 386

HPGNH = 143

NVIT = 75

75 + 386 = 461
4 + 6 + 1 = 11, a number specifically attributed to both Hadit and Nuit in Liber AL. (See ch. 1, v. 60; ch. 2, v. 16)
461 = ADNVTh, authority, lordship. Nuit calls Hadit her "lord" (v. 21). Also possibly a reference to Hadit as the Holy Guardian Angel?

143 + 75 = 218
218 = BRIAH, Briah, the creative world, which was shown in point 11 to be related to Nuit.
218 = RBVI, extension, a characteristic of Nuit.

Alternately, "manifestion of Nuit" = PRSVM HNVIT = 466
466 = OVLM HITzIRH = Yetzirah, the world of formation.

14. Chapter 1, v. 2: "The unveiling of the company of heaven."

unveiling = GLVI = 49 company of heaven = TzBA HShMIM = 488
49 + 488 = 537 = ATzILvTh, Atziluth, the archetypal world.

So in these first two verses of Liber AL, there is represented the Atziluthic, Briatic, and Yetziratic worlds, Fire, Water, and Air. We might take this as an indication that the book can be interpreted on all three of these levels. It could also connect with the "Hermit, and the Lover, and the man of Earth" in verse 40.

15. Chapter 3, v. 1: "Abrahadabra: the reward of Ra Hoor Khut."
RA HVVR KVT = 453 = NPSh ChIH, the animal soul in its fullness, i.e. including the ego. Therefore = the pentagram. Abrahadabra, union with the macrocosm, is the "reward" of man, the pentagram.

Chapter 3, v. 2: "Raise the spell of Ra Hoor Khuit."
The yod of spirit is added to the spelling of R.H.K.'s name in the previous verse. RA HVVR KVIT = 463 = MTH HShQD, a Rod of Almond. Almond is attributed to Kether, spirit, represented by the added yod. There could also be a reference here to Aaron's rod, which god made to flower as a sign of his fitness to be priest. In any case, the two verses show that man is raised to godhead through ABRAHADABRA.

The gematraic points shown here support Crowley's interpretation of these two verses, as shown in his New Commentary.

16. Chapter 2, v. 1: "Nu! the hiding of Hadit."

"hiding" = HChBAH = 21

HADITh = 420
420 + 21 = 441 = 21 times 21

Also, 21 = AHIH, god of Kether, the point.
441 = AMTh, truth.

17. Chapter 2, v. 9: "Remember all ye that existence is pure joy;..."

"existence" = MHVTh, being = 451
"pure joy" = TzCh ShMChH = 451

"existence" = OVLM, the world = 146
"pure joy" = TzCh GILH = 146

This one may be stretching things:
ShMChH, joy = 353
HGShMH, materialization = 353

18. Here is another 0=2 correspondence:

APSVTh, nothingness = 547
MTzIAVTh, existence = 547

SET / HORUS

BY BENJAMIN ROWE

Copyright year, 1992 by Benjamin Rowe

My article titled Enochian Temples contains several "channelings" that reveal the fundamental relationships existing between the Enochian Tablets, the path of initiation, and Frater Achad's version of the Tree of Life. My own comments elsewhere in that work show in consid-erable detail that the lives of Crowley and Achad and the relations between them are in fact an enactment of the mythos of Horus and Set. My purpose in this current paper is to briefly look at manifestations of these same factors in other parts of the Earth Tablet working, the magickal work of which Enochian Temples is a part, and in some other mythological systems, notably that of Arthurian Romance.

The Terrible Twins

Horus and Set were originally expressions of the primal duality, the two aspects of Heaven, the day-sky and night-sky. As the Egyptian mythology was elaborated towards its final chaotic state, their symbolism drifted away from these absolute poles into the middle ground, first becoming solar, and finally taking on a variety of solar/martial and zodiacal characteristics. Yet their final form can still be expressed in a concise symbology, that of the astrological signs of Aries and Scorpio. Taken whole, their symbolism is that of the primal duality manifesting in its male aspects.

A brief list of some of the characteristics associated with the gods shows their positions as opposite poles of a duality. These characteristics are extracted from myths quoted in Budge's Gods of the Egyptians.

Horus	Set
Day	Night
Life	Death
Fire	Water
Slayer	Slain
Bursting-forth of life	Withdrawal of life and its reappearance later.
Openly active	Secretive
Conqueror & King	Victim & Rebel
Hawk, Lion, & Ram	Serpent, Antelope, Hippo
Rises into the sky	Descends into the Earth
Steals Set's virility	Throws filth in face of Horus

Aries is a fire sign, representing fresh, outrushing energy and the first explosion of life in the spring. Mars rules the sign and the Sun is exalted therein. Venus is in its detriment here, and Saturn falls. The planets detail the sign's character: Mars makes Aries energetic, impulsive, and combative. Sol provides the sign with leadership ability and a strong tendency to dominate others, to exalt the self. The detrimental relationship of Venus indicates that it lacks in compassion, and Saturn's fall provides a definite lack of restraint. One need only compare these characteristics with those of Horus listed above, and those listed in Liber AL to confirm the identity of the god and the sign.

In its most general form, Aries is represented by the myth-pattern I call the Man-Who-Lives, which appears in many different myth-systems essentially unchanged. He is the warrior who by right of conquest becomes the King, and rules until he is overcome by Death. Cabalistically speaking, he represents the transformation of the martial sexual power into a solar child, or the transformation of fire-by-friction into solar fire.

Scorpio is a watery sign, representing the withdrawal of life from the plant kingdom at the end of the growing season, and its concentration into the seed, which is buried in the Earth to await a new life. Extension of this principle into the animal kingdom accounts for its connection with the sex act. Mars also rules this sign, demonstrating its basic connection with Aries. But in place of Sol we have Uranus exalted. Venus remains in its detriment here, but Luna falls instead of Saturn. Scorpio shares the energy and combativeness of Aries, and the lack of lovingness, but the watery nature of the sign makes those characteristics reflect back on itself. Where the goal of Aries is exaltation of the self, Scorpio's Uranian influence directs it towards the disassembly and destruction of the self, particularly its Tiphereth aspect.

Horus can not maintain a state of ascendancy without a self-interested and emotionally passive populace to rule. He requires the peasant mentality of Taurus (Venus ruling and Luna exalted), which is content to be ruled so long as it is comfortable and undisturbed in its own pursuits. His opponent Set/Scorpio seeks to break out of the emotional passivity, creating disturbances and breaking the patterns of normal life so that new conditions might be created.

The myth-pattern of Set is that of the Man-Who-Dies. In one aspect, he is the victim of Horus, the one who is slain so that Horus's reputation can be enhanced. Except for his slaying of Osiris, there are very few instances in Egyptian mythology where Set engages in active violence. In contrast, the myths of Horus are filled with detailed accounts of slaughter. Set traditionally acts the part of the perpetual victim. Horus slays him over and over, and always he reappears in another form to be slain again. [1]
In another aspect he is the rebel, the man who does not submit to conquest and goes "underground", opposing the conqueror secretly because he lacks the power to oppose him openly. His is also the pattern of the martyr, who submits to death rather than abandon his principles. Or speaking more generally, the Eagle aspect of Scorpio represents adherence to the ideal at the expense of the mundane. This becomes important in considering the Grail myths, as we will later. [2]

[1] The most common human manifestation of Set's slaying-and-reappearance pattern is in cases of sexual repression, where the life-force, deprived of its normal expression by the conscious self (=Sol), finds outlet in bizarre, compulsive, or neurotic behaviors.

[2] The last line in the list of characteristics describes the way in which each of the gods fights the other, in the earliest myths of their battles. It shows the primal roots of the symbolism of these two gods, since these two actions are methods of expressing dominance and denying dominance that humans share with most of the higher

There is also at least a partial correspondence between Scorpio and the self-immolating Phoenix, which destroys itself in order to reproduce.

Cabalistically speaking Set represents the transmutation of fire-by-friction (Mars ruling Scorpio) through a dark solar stage into electric fire, the fire of the divine will (Uranus, exalted in Scorpio). He is the Wandering Son, the Everyman who breaks away from his home life and community, passes through strange ordeals and trials, and returns home a demi-god to save the community from destruction and oppression by the conqueror.

Both are heroes; both necessary to the accomplishment of the hero's task. Their fundamental natures embody the same energies but with dissimilar emphasis. While related to Aries and Scorpio in their individual manifestations, together they are the twins of Gemini. Thus they at times appear to be in conflict, as in the Horus-Set, Cain/ Abel, and Romulus/Remus myths, and at other times they cooperate, as in the Arthurian Romances and the myth of Castor and Pollux. [3]

This mythology of the two heroes has appeared in nearly every human culture. The myth is so pervasive that it would be impossible to examine a significant portion of its manifestations in this brief study. The examples above are merely a few of the more familiar past expressions.

primates. In our western culture these behaviors have been sublimated but still appear with full force. In other cultures they frequently appear in their original form.

Horus stealing the virility of Set means that as conqueror he forces his victim to assume the female role in a homosexual act, either oral or anal. Most of the legends of their battles contain references to Horus running his spear (a traditional symbol for the penis) through Set's body from bottom to top, or alternatively running his spear through Set's head, and displaying the body to his followers. Forced public submission to a homosexual act is a common expression of dominance among primates. A similar pattern is shown in Hispanic cultures, where only the man assuming the female role is considered homosexual. For the man taking the male role, the act is considered evidence of exceptional virility. American culture generally substitutes a symbolic act of submission for the sexual act, but follows the same pattern.

Set throwing filth in the face of Horus shows the classical method of humiliating a dominant male and lowering his status. In many human cultures actual fecal matter is used. Americans generally substitute rotten vegetables or cream pies. It can be said with more than a little truth that all the other symbolism of these two gods is elaboration and enhancement of these basic acts.

[3] In practice, these two heroes never manifest without their Venusian counterparts, the Woman-Who-Holds-Life (Isis, Taurus, with Venus ruling and Luna exalted.) and the Woman-Who-Judges (Maat or Nepthys, Libra, Venus ruling and Saturn exalted.). Thus the manifestation of the Horus current in 1904 produced the manifestation of the balancing Maat current. The current of Isis, balancing that of Set, has never left manifestation. It is an expression of the fundamental energies of the planet Earth.

The Epic of Gilgamesh, one of the earliest human works recorded, contains the all the essential aspects of the mythos. Gilgamesh himself is the Arian man-who-lives, growing to manhood in a foreign court, returning as a hero to take the place of his father as king, dying only after a long life of rulership. His friend Enkidu is his Scorpian counterpart, born and raised in the wastelands, tempted into human society by the pleasure of sex, dying after attempting to visit the underworld while in the flesh.

In each astrological age these two reverse their roles. In the age of Gemini, Arian Gilgamesh survives and Scorpian Enkidu dies. In Taurus the earliest cults of Set appear in Egypt, and the Cancerian/Taurean goddess and Capricornian/Scorpian Horned God of the Old Religion experience a resurgence in Europe. Places reverse again in the next age, with Arian gods such as Perseus, Theseus, and Mithras slaying various Taurean bulls and Scorpian monsters. In Pisces, the Arian Jesus dies in the scapegoat ritual, betrayed by Scorpian Judas.[4] Later Paul of Tarsus performs a similar betrayal of the teachings themselves, distorting them by emphasis of the death and repression-oriented aspects at the expense of the triumphal aspect.

All these reversals would tend to indicate that in the current Aquarian astrological period Horus or some other Arian god would again become dominant. But the planet Uranus rules Aquarius, and Uranus is exalted in Set's sign. Mercury, Thoth, is exalted in Aquarius, and one of Thoth's roles in Egyptian mythology was to ensure that neither Horus or Set ever came to complete victory over the other. So this may be a time in which both gods manifest in a more-or-less equal fashion, uniting them in friendship as they were in the previous Airy sign.

Shortly after the first inflows of Aquarian energy, an example of such mythological cooperation appeared in the form of two historical figures, John Dee and Edward Kelly, earlier incarnations of Jones and Crowley. The name of Dee's birthplace and home, Morlake, suggests the death-waters of Scorpio, as does his obsessive concern with magick (governed by Mars in Scorpio) and astrology and "radical truths" (governed by Uranus and Pluto). Kelly's knighthood makes him, nominally at least, an Arian warrior. His death in a fall from a tower clearly relates to the Tarot card for Mars, and his own lifelong obsession with the Philosopher's Stone is Solar, thus confirming his place as the Arian member of the pair. The cooperation between these two brought about the first purely magickal manifestation of the Aquarian energies, the Enochian magickal system.

The evidence seems to indicate that a similar cooperation was intended for the incarnations of these two as Jones and Crowley. Astrological considerations confirm the cooperative-antagonistic nature of their interaction: Their suns, indicating their individual characters, are in opposition. Their moons are conjunct, indicating similar pasts. Their ascendants and midheavens, indicating current environment and goals, have both beneficent and antagonistic aspects. Liber AL prophesies such a condition. But the partnership was sundered before it could become productive, and their interaction went into its competitive mode.

[4] Transliterating from Greek to Hebrew, Judas is spelled iod, vav, daleth, aleph, samek, summing to 81, the mystic number of Luna, confirming his connection with the Taurus-Scorpio axis of the zodiac, as does the lunar silver he took from the Romans.

Romantic myths and the two Trees

The first inflow of Aquarian energy occurred in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, sparking the Renaissance. Thus it should not be surprising that the mythological systems that reached their perfection at that time contain elements of both the Arian and Scorpian modes of initiation. Examining those myths, we find that some have a near-perfect correlation with the traditional version of the Tree of Life, while others correspond closely to the paths of Jones' version of the Tree, which embodies the Scorpian mode.
